James Gifford of Ennismore, chairman of the Ontario Cream Producers' Marketing Board, said a special committee on quality improvement will work toward that end.

Addressing the group's annual meeting, Mr. Gifford said he believed the industry's gratatest asset in the face of substitutes "is the largest amount we can produce of the very highest quality."

"We may state further that on a special committee on dairying, presently being announced by the Minister of Agriculture, to deal with quality, markets, as well as other features pertaining to the industry, our cream producers have been given representation," he said.

He said the producers did not want to prevent "those of our consumers from having a spread for their bread which otherwise might not be available."

"We have felt strongly, however, that margarine should not have been allowed on our market without as much as being subject to similar regulations applying to butter. To offset this injustice we have carried on as energetic a campaign as possible . . ."

Children Travel 60 Miles Daily To Attend School

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16 (ENS)—F. L. Erskine, chairman of Lakefield and District High School Board, addressed the Home and School Association on Monday, reviewing Lakefield High School since the first board meeting was held Dec. 5, 1923.

At that time the High School Board was composed of J. W. Ridpath, Dr. S. J. Gibson, Mrs. Wm. Graham, D. H. Charlton, Dr. J. C. Smith, and C. S. Tanner with Mr. Mauling as clerk.

Mr. Ridpath, who had previously been on the public and continuation school boards, was chairman of the High School Board from 1923 until 1946.

Last January the first meeting of the present board was held and the area formed, the council of each township appointing a representative.

Mr. Erskine outlined the school area on a map. Douro and Dummer were not at present in the area, but may decide to come in next year, he said, when they find out the actual cost of educating their students.

Transport A Problem

The biggest difficulty confronting the school board was that of getting the children in from outlying points. Three bus lines were operated to bring the pupils to school.

Roy Brown brought 42 pupils from Apsley, a distance of approximately 30 miles every day at a cost of 55 cents a pupil a day. The round trip was 60 miles. Mr. Pearson ran the Buckhorn bus line with two feeder lines bringing in 40 pupils costing 60 cents a pupil a day. The Nepheline Mine bus, operated by Frank Coyle brought in eight pupils costing $1.86 a pupil a day.

Speaking of the proposed new school Mr. Erskine said a site had not yet been chosen. Eight acres of land were required, either on a river bank nor on a highway, and there must be an adequate supply of water.

This summer two new temporary rooms were built and opened in October to accommodate two grade nine forms.

A two room school was also being built in Apsley to accommodate grade nine and 10 pupils there.

Interlude of Music

Mrs. Ray Jackman contributed a song, accompanied by Mrs. E. Rath.

Reeve W. C. Grant spoke briefly on the relations between the Municipal Council and the school board, which he said was like the relationship between a husband and wife. The wife asks for money and the husband gives it to her. The school board asks for money and the council gives it to it.

Mr. Jack Arnott, citizenship convener, who had arranged the meeting, thanked Mr. Erskine and Mr. Grant.

A sing-song was enjoyed with Mrs. Rath at the piano.

Prize for having the most parents present was won by Mrs. Black's room.

Lunch was served by the mothers from Mrs. Martin's room, with Mrs. H. Duth as convener, assisted by Mrs. H. D. Wilford, Mrs. C. King, Mrs. S. Richardson and Mrs. Reg. Doubt.

Pair On Honeymoon Among 12 Injured

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y., Nov. 16.—(AP).—Twelve persons, including a Canadian couple on a honeymoon, were injured when a bus and a trailer-truck collided late Tuesday about 10 miles west of here.

The Canadians were Arnold Imeson, 31, and Mrs. Imeson, 24, of Perth, Ont., who were married last Wednesday and were on their honeymoon. Their injuries did not require hospital treatment.

Police said the truck driver, Clarence Cecil Dehner, 45, of Indianapolis, told them the left front wheels of his heavy vehicle jammed and it went out of control. He was in hospital with a possible skull fracture.

The others injured were passengers on the Buffalo to Albany Greyhound bus.

State Trooper A. B. Jackson said the westbound truck twerved into the path of the eastbound bus, crushing the right front of it. Passengers got out through the emergency door.

AND NOBODY HURT—Parts of splintered boxcars, twisted coal cars and scattered freight litter the heart of Plain City, O., after a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train was wrecked. Despite the fact that some cars crashed into houses along the tracks, no one was injured.

Urges Canadians To Support Their Armed Forces

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (CP) — Canadians were urged Tuesday night by a high RCAF officer to take an interest in and support as much as possible the policies and undertakings of the armed forces.

Speaking at the eighth annual dinner of the Quebec provincial committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada, Air Vice-Marshal C. R. Slemon, air officer commanding the RCAF's training command at Trenton, said it was wishful thinking at the end of the Second World War which left Canadiens to believe they were in for a long period of peace. That attitude, he said, resulted in rapid demobilization of the RCAF.

The demobilization pattern was more rapid than that of any other air force in the allied nations, he added.

"My duty is to help organize, plan, experiment and train RCAF in a fighting machine. Your responsibility is to take an intelligent interest, find out what we are doing and see to it and insist that we do it properly."

Air Battle First

"If war comes, the air battle will occur first. If we win that, we give ourselves the required time factor and opportunity to expand and build up all three services.

"If we lose the air battle, we don't allow ourselves or the other two forces that all-important time lapse."

A. Ross Grafton, Montreal, was elected chairman of the Quebec division, succeeding Lawrence S Marsh who held the office for the last three years.

Highlight of the dinner meeting was presentation of wings by Air Vice-Marshal Slemon to 12 young cadets who completed their flying training during 1949.

They were J. G. Trembly, P. P Houle, R. Cormier and J. C Bleau of Montreal, K. Park, Verdun, C. B. Comrie and G. L. Kilger of Ottawa, B. Masse, Hawkesbury, Ont., K. E. Jodoin, R W Johnson, J. Payette and D. Simpson, all of Cornwall.

Different Blood Saves Babies

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16 — (AP)—Accidental discovery of a mysterious difference between the blood of men and women—a finding which appears destined to save the lives of thousands of babies—was reported Tuesday to American child specialists.

The discovery is that the blood of women contains some potent factor which gives infants a new degree of protection against jaundice of the new-born, and that the blood of men does not contain it.

This was disclosed to the American Academy of Pediatrics by Dr. Fred H. Allen, Jr., and Dr. Louis K. Diamond of Harvard Medical School, the Boston's Children's Medical Centre and Boston lying-in hospital.

The disease is due to the RH factor in blood. Women whose blood contains no protective substance against this factor may give birth to babies marked for death unless treated quickly and effectively. The child develops jaundice, anaemia and has a form of immature red blood cells.

Transfusions of blood which does not react to the RH factor may save some babies.

Seeking all possible clues to the reason for these deaths, Dr. Allen and Dr. Diamond checked on 179 babies. They found that 137 of the babies received blood from male donors. Twenty-seven of those babies died. Forty-two of the babies received blood from women donors. None of the infants died.

Polish Purge Aimed At Underground Army

WARSAW, Nov. 16 (AP) — President Boleslaw Bierut has disclosed the arrest of spies, saboteurs and terrorists in a drive to wipe out an "entire underground army" in Communist-led Poland.

The report on widespread opposition to the Red government was made in a speech last week to the central committee of the ruling Communist party and published in detail Tuesday in the country's press.

Observers believed unprecedented revelations indicate a big series of treason trials soon.

Bierut told the committee the number of persons engaged in espionage, sabotage, conspiracy, terror and all similar activities is greater in Poland than in any other country.

Hunter Shot In N.S.

SPRINGHILL, N. S., Nov. 16—(CP)—Gerald Cole, 39, of Amherst, N. S., died in hospital here Tuesday after being accidentally shot by a hunting companion. It was Nova Scotia's fourth hunting fatality this season. Police said Cole was shot in the left hip by Frank Cook of Amherst who mistook Cole for a deer.

Mexican Police Hunt Slayer

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16 (AP) —Mexican police today helped search for the sadistic slayer of six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft as an autopsy disclosed the vicious brutality of the attack.

The mutilated blanket-wrapped body of the little girl was found Tuesday buried under rubbish in the backyard of a neighbor's house where she was last seen alive. In that house lived Fred Stroble, 66, retired baker, at large in another child molestation case. Stroble, a police broadcast said, "is believed to have murdered" Linda Joyce.

A bus driver told police he drove a man resembling Stroble across the Mexican border.

The child had been strangled by a man's tie and her body hacked with an axe and stabbed by an ice pick or similar instrument.

Dr. Frederick D. Newbarr, county autopsy surgeon said death was caused by asphyxia from strangulation. He found three stab wounds two of which penetrated the lungs.

Twelve slashes in her head presumably were made by a bloody axe found at the scene.

Problems Dot Ottawa Path In Payment Plan

By HAROLD MORRISON.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP) — A jungle of problems appear to be besetting the government's path as it prepares to initiate the much-heralded payments-in-lieu-of-taxation plan.

So entangled are some of them that a government official says they may take "years" to eliminate.

"This cannot be helped," he adds. "The government stepped into the payments picture raw. It had nothing to go on."

Even if it takes a few "years" to clarify the payments scheme, this was only a small period considering that the plan possibly would run "for 100 years."

Professional municipal-tax experts will be employed by the finance department to bolster a proposed assessment unit which will weigh the problems.

They run from questions of what constitutes assessable "Federal property" to what is "new property" for which tapering off grants over a period of years will be provided.

Has People In Mind

The official indicates that the government already has in mind the persons who will compose the troubleshooting assessment unit.

"Considering the heavy task in front of it, the unit will have to be large, but it will not be overburdened with staff," the official says.

Members will move about the country frequently, consulting with municipalities, answering appeals for assessment increases and making final decisions on what constitutes "federal property."

The unit's decision will be final. The municipalities will have no appeal.

Meanwhile, steps have been taken to bring the scheme into operation next Jan. 1, with some part of the payments to go out shortly afterwards. Eventually about 100 municipalities will get them, averaging an annual payment of $50,000 each.

Accident Victims Are Progressing Favorably

LINDSAY, Nov. 16. — Miss Florence McCausland and Miss Giselle Sabourin, both seriously injured Friday night in a traffic accident, are "considerably improving" Ross Memorial Hospital reports. It has been said that Miss McCausland may be taken to Toronto for further treatment and surgery.

The three other victims, Miss Sabourin's father, J. G. Sabourin, Mrs. Augustine Coates and Miss Lois Gillogly, are also said to be progressing favorably.

Miss Betty Spratt, 10 York St., least seriously innjured, was discharged from hospital over the week-end and was working as usual Monday.

Hunter Shoots 500-Pound Bear

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16—(ENS)—After stalking deer north of Havelock Tuesday morning, Frank Little, Wesley Anderson, Ed Rutherford, W. Chambers and Albert Stephens settled down to enjoy their mid-day meal when a bear leisurely ambled into camp.

A well-placed bullet fired by Frank Little, claimed the intruder, which tipped the scales at 500 pounds.

Some Ontario City Lore

The Annual Report of the Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs is a mine of information which most people do not care to dig into. We have been surveying the latest, the 1948 Report and, without much digging, came upon some interesting items on population. For instance, Ontario now has 29 cities, one more than last year. The newcomer is Waterloo, assessed population 10,680, which was incorporated last January. We read, too, that Niagara Falls, North Bay and Sudbury have "emerged from or avoided default by New Borrowings."

• • •

Some items about the growth of cities emerge from this and the 1947 Annual Report, which, compared with the 1941 census, are enlightening. We have tabulated below in order of present size the first fifteen cities in Ontario. The population figures for 1948 and 1947 are provisional and from assessment rolls. The 1941 figures are from the Dominion Census. Peterborough shows the largest percentage growth since 1941 of the first fifteen cities. Generally there has been only a small expansion in all the cities during the last year. A few have dropped behind slightly—Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston and Brantford. The most significant change has been in the cities of northern Ontario. Sudbury is now Ontario's sixth largest, nosing out Kitchener. Timmins is not included in our list, for it is only a town; our biggest town, with a population of 27,367.

Toronto	680,000	695,302	667,457
Hamilton	181,623	179,565	166,637
Ottawa	161,455	164,266	154,951
Windsor	118,703	118,533	105,311
London	91,021	87,319	78,264
Sudbury	41,206	37,640	32,206
Kitchener	40,640	39,722	35,657
Brantford	35,807	35,815	31,948
St. Catharines	35,436	35,436	30,275
Peterborough	34,948	33,296	25,856
Ft. William	33,220	33,152	30,585
Kingston	31,375	31,396	30,126
Sault Ste. Marie	29,662	29,944	25,784
Port Arthur	29,165	27,679	24,426
Oshawa	28,037	27,224	26,813

• • •

The list does not cite the population according to the inclusive adjective "Greater". Greater Toronto, Ottawa, Windsor and Kitchener may be displeased not having their greatness so pointed out; but if we indulge in that kind of listing, goodness knows what sort of inequalities would develop. Peterborough, in the listing above, is Ontario's tenth largest city, with a population in 1948 of 34,048. But Greater Peterborough is tremendously bigger, if we add in Lakefield, Chemong, Warsaw, and the other villages from which workers and shoppers commute to Peterborough. And if we included Lindsay—but we shall not dare—even Greater Kitchener-Waterloo might get it on the nose.

Are You Short Of Words?

In the columns of the New York Times the other day we noticed some complimentary remarks about the late Rt. Hon. John R. Clynes, who was called "the intellectual lamplighter of British labour"; it is said that when Clynes was a boy he bought a sixpenny dictionary and copied it out by hand, page by page, until he knew all the words in it. The splendid vocabulary which he acquired in this way was of great use to him when he became a compelling Parliamentary speaker. This, said the Times, should be a lesson to us all; if we had fuller vocabularies we would no doubt be better thinkers and speakers.

With a deep bow to the august Times we beg leave to doubt this. It was a splendid thing that John R. Clynes knew so many words because he had so many important things to say. But if a man has nothing of any particular consequence to say, it does not matter whether his vocabulary is great or small. Indeed, it may be a mercy if his store of words is limited; his capacity to bore his fellow men will thus to some degree be controlled.

From time to time we see advertisements of the self-help variety which offer to extend any man's vocabulary. But before taking advantage of such an offer we feel that every man should say to himself: "Do I really need to know any more words? Have I not a vocabulary equal to my intellectual processes?" For to have more words than thoughts is to be impressive for a day, ridiculous for a week, and a bore for the rest of your life.

Rain In November

Did you hear rain on the roof the other evening at midnight? If you did, perhaps you shared our feeling of astonishment, wonder and secret relief. The beneficent drops fell for only a moment or two, but they bespoke a kindly temperature, a momentary surcease from winter's foreboding, and a quiet recollection of April showers, midsummer squalls, and gentle autumn. We in this northern climate have no right to expect rain in November. We have justly fortified our homes with storm-windows, and steeled our flesh in the sure expectancy of sleet, hail and snow. The surprise of gentle rain at this time is more than our heart bargained for. We are grateful.

The Canadian winter is bracing, bright and bountiful. No true Canadian would be without it, if he had choice. But there is a certain ineffable satisfaction when it is delayed and shortened. Canada cannot truly be said to be self-governing until it has sufficient control to decree that the first snow shall not fall before December 15th; that it shall be good and solid until February 15th, and then quickly melt away to reveal the daffodils of spring. A spasmodic winter extending from mid-November to mid-April is not to be prized, even by the most ardent skier.

Peanuts In Politics

Three years ago the British Government went into the peanut business. It looked like a very good business, for peanuts can be made to produce many valuable substances, including an oil which makes excellent margarine. So the Government decided to have two millions of acres of ground cleared in the British East African colony of Tanganyika, and planted with peanuts—which the English call groundnuts. It looked like a good scheme.

Nothing appears to have gone smoothly with the groundnut plan, however. First of all, the land was much harder to clear than anyone had foreseen, and even after two years the first year's clearing work was still short by 100,000 acres. Nor was the business management as careful as it should have been, and now, after three years, the books are in such bad shape that it is impossible to tell whether there has been dishonesty or simply incompetent management.

Let us look at the figures briefly. In three years $64,000,000 has been spent on the scheme, and nothing whatever has been produced for consumption. During the first year a Unilever subsidiary was authorized to do the work and spend $20,000,000. It did so badly that the Government took over the work, through a specially formed Overseas Food Corporation, and in two years spent another $47,000,000. Still nothing has been produced, the scheme is not completed, and the books are in a mess.

Nobody suggests that the Labour Government's part in this fiasco was a dishonest one, but it certainly looks as though it were very innocent in all matters relating to peanuts. $67,000,000 is a lot for any country to spend without any return. Undoubtedly the Tories will remember the great Peanut Plan at the next general election, and will have plenty to say about it. They will undoubtedly roast the socialists, and they may salt them, as well.

Horse Show

Once again the Royal Winter Fair is in session at Toronto. It is better timed than Fall Fairs and even the C.N.E. to attract rural visitors, for it comes in the off-season on the farm not at the height of the harvest. Notwithstanding the special rural and agricultural features and the hosts of county people who take the Royal Winter as their reason for a lusty holiday in the big city, the Fair attracts urban people as well, and one of the chief attractions is the horse show. The lady in the prancing phaeton, the rider poised on his mount preparing for the jump, and the driver skilfully demonstrating his horse's style have a theatrical quality appealing even to the tyro in horse flesh. The famed musical ride of the R.C.M.P., fresh from display in New York's National Horse Show, is a spectacle of rhythm and precision which never fails to delight.

In conformity with the modern practice of anticipating dates (Christmas season begins in the shops at the end of October; spring fashions appear in winter; 1950 cars in 1949) so the Royal Winter Fair is held a month before winter officially begins. We do not anticipate, however, that its name will be changed to Royal Fall Fair.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Iran, we read, is going to return to its former name of Persia. So far as we were concerned the disguise was never really complete.

Four boys at Blyth upset 20 privies on Hallowe'en. The police are now making them set up the damaged edifices. This is a form of Entertainment Tax of which we thoroughly approve.

From The Critic's Notebook

THE RIVER LINE by Charles Morgan (Macmillan).

AN American who had been a flier during the war and had had to bail out over enemy-occupied territory returns to England in 1947 to visit an Englishman and his French wife. The Englishman had been in Naval [illegible] service, and had known the [illegible] girl's home where she was an important link in the escape-route which Allied airmen used to get back to [illegible] particular route was called "The River Line".

No one familiar with the novels, essays and the play 'The Flashing Stream' of Charles Morgan would pick up this book expecting to read merely a war story. This distinguished English man of letters is a philosopher rather than story-teller, an enquirer into mental and moral responses rather than a painter of people and places.

The novel does have a plot, and the plot is the hinge of the author's exploration of the responsibility for action which is thrust on a peace-loving person in an era of violence. The war is considered an intrusion into privacy which converts "ordinary domestic life into an insanity of subterfuge, of lying and hiding". These are the words put into the head of the American who, when he returns to England and his two war-time friends, then finds that "wars did precisely this and in doing so, they gave a new edge to all experience, not to warlike experience only; they gave a new edge to the life of peace, and to the peaceable appearances of mankind, so that nothing was to be taken for granted".

The bones of the story are gradually laid bare in a characteristic Morgan blend of extreme sensitivity, metaphysical wonderment and calm, taut statement.

The three survivors of an episode along the escape-route meet in an English country house after the war. Their thought and guarded talk is of one, an Englishman of superior nature and with a command of German, who was with them and did not escape. The reason he did not reach freedom was that the three of them in one flashing moment became convinced that he was a German spy masquerading as an Englishman. At the moment of final escape they killed him. There is another important thread to the plot which it would be unfair to prospective readers to reveal.

Mr. Morgan attempts to use ordinary good prose, to interpret extra-sensory moments of human experience; a prose style which writers like Hemingway and Joyce have discarded as being ineffective. He succeeds, but narrowly and aridly. The blood and tissue are too attenuated to give a full emotional impact. Unlike Joyce, the book is not difficult to read; the story carries the theme which may be said to be 'responsibility within our destiny', and the necessity of acknowledging both the responsibility and the destiny. Hardy's phrase, even, is used: 'The President of the Immortals.... has ended his sport with Tess'.

Charles Morgan is more honoured and read in Europe than in America. The reason may be that this continent understands action better than the fruits of action. It is the latter that the writer seeks to expound. "The River Line" is interesting as a novel and as a study of the contemplation of action. T.J.A.

HUNTER'S HORN by Harriette Arnow (Macmillan).

THIS is "Tobacco Road" without the humour. If you can stand five hundred pages of sordidness, amateur midwifery and Kentucky dialect, here it is. The only relief from the misery of the more or less human characters is the story of the huntin' dogs who are fed well, while children starve. The only character with any dignity to speak of is King Devil, a red fox. If you like hounds better than people you might like this. H.T.K.

KING LEAR, A TRAGIC READING OF LIFE by John M. Lothian (Clarke, Irwin).

PROFESSOR Lothian of the University of Saskatchewan gives in this little volume five lectures or 'papers' on Shakespeare's Lear. Insofar as a book can be comprehensive and authoritative on King Lear in a hundred pages, this book is. No standard scholarly facet of interpretation seems to have gone unconsidered. It should prove a useful auxiliary handbook to students in classrooms and to those others who think about Lear for refreshment and enlargement of their horizons.

It is rather out of fashion to consider Shakespeare a study apart from the stage, but I am more inclined to side with Lamb and Bradley than Granville-Barker about Lear, for the reasons that a Canadian, an Englishman or a Hottentot can have Lear to read, but seldom can see it staged; and because the mind's eye is stronger than the seeing eye, and often the metaphysical sensitivity to poetry is stronger than the ear's awareness of it. And so such studies as Professor Lothian's are good to have.

I confess to some disappointment in the volume. When a critic and interpreter is limiting himself to a few chapters and pages, one might expect a felicitous exploration of new avenues of thought and a fresh critical appraisal. Yet, as instance, I find little fresh, stimulating or imaginatively bold in the author's discussion of the Fool. His is a tale long told. What of the Fool as Lear's alter ego? "It is the Fool's wisdom", says the author, "that provides the nearest approach to a rational answer, 'Lear's shadow', says he, and our minds respond to the suggestiveness of the phrase". But Professor Lothian does not linger on the response.

Every reader of Lear has his own insight and theories; it is not fair to criticize Professor Lothian if he does not emphasize this reviewer's interpretation. T.J.A.

A Tip For Santa

A farmer in Norway has discovered an easy way to keep his potato patch free from weeds. He keeps reindeer in his field. These animals follow the rows and nibble away the weeds. Apparently they don't like the potato plants and leave them alone.

Now that the secret is out, Santa Claus had better keep an eye on Blitzen and the others this Christmas.

(In The Christian Science Monitor)

MODERN industrialism has ruined American bread. Pick up a loaf in its waxed paper. It's so soft and spongy you can contract it with your hands, mould it any shape you've a mind to. Take off the wrapper and eat a slice. The soft, fluffy centre is like a mouthful of powder puff. The more you eat the hungrier you get. This is what America's staff of life has come to. It's a pretty soft staff. The Russians are leaning on something more substantial.

It wasn't always so. In 1900, 95 per cent. of America's bread was baked at home, and that bread was good, honest bread, not the aerated boudoir bread of today. Now 85 per cent of America's bread is baked in bakeries.

The bread of our ancestors was good bread, too. The corn bread the Indians taught the early Americans to make was tasty, nutritious, and filling. Our foremothers pounded corn in a mortar or ground it in an improvised home mill. Then they mixed the resultant meal with water to make corn bread, corndodgers, corn pone, hoecake, and johnnycake.

They made this bread in two forms: the raised variety baked in a pan, like the corn bread of today; the unleavened variety baked in hot ashes or on a griddle or in a skillet, called ash cake and corn pone. Many a plainsman has made many a dinner on corndodger baked in the ashes and salt pork broiled on the end of a stick.

That is the stalwart traditional bread of America, of which this puffed-up variety of today is a soft and decadent descendant.

In the large cities, where America's foreign-born congregate, one can get the good bread of Europe which our immigrants brought over with their folklore. From Westphalia the Germans of 1848 brought their pleasant pumpernickel.

The Jews brought us the delicious Jewish rye and the popular baigel. The French, the long ballbat loaves; the Italians, their round, solid loaves with a respectable deep crust. From Vienna came the light, well-seasoned Hungarian loaf, known as Vienna bread. From Finland, Limppu, baked in the shape of an oversize doughnut made of mixed wheat and rye flour. From Sweden, the flat, crisp unleavened bread, which goes so well with cheese.

TAKE a loaf of the dark pumpernickel. Its rye hasn't been bleached or "enriched." Its rye hasn't even been bolted.

Cut off a couple of thin slices and put them into your toaster. Press down the rod which sends the bread to the bottom of the toaster. When the pieces of pumpernickel pop up, press them down again for a second toasting. This is he-man bread: it can take it a second, yea, even a third toasting. Butter the toasted bread; place it in the oven.

When you next go out in the woods for a steak roast, take a loaf of French bread, cut it vertically into slices about six inches long, then cut these slices again horizontally in half, and butter them. Cut the broiled steak into slices to fit the bread; put the steak between the slices and press the resultant sandwich firmly. The juice of the steak will soak into the bread. That's bread and that's meat, and the combination is good.

Or if you haven't got a steak, just a loaf of French bread, take the loaf and cut it in half vertically. Now you have two pieces, each about a foot in length. Cut these two pieces into slices about two inches or so thick, but be careful not to cut the bread all the way through. Now you have about a dozen small slices, six in each half.

Take a third of a pound of butter and melt it in a measuring cup or small saucepan. Cut up a slice of garlic and put it into the melted butter. Allow the mixture to simmer a while. Then pour the butter over the bread lengthwise. Some of the butter will run into the incisions; some will remain on the top of the bread.

Now put the two halves into a hot oven. After they have become hot, take them out and eat. There is still another proverb which runs like this: "Whose bread I eat, his song I sing." After you have eaten this hot buttered French bread, don't be surprised if you find yourself humming.

Another favourite bread is made of water-ground flour and it is even more solid than most homemade bread. The water-ground flour is important. Water power grinds slowly enough to allow the flour to retain much of the soil of the grain. In the large mills, today, the flour is bleached. It's a wonder they don't powder and rouge it.

Mass production can't leave good food alone. It must try to improve on nature. It homogenizes it, vitaminizes it, victimizes it. It adds potatoes, honey, bananas, currants, dates—even sunshine. It slices it, wraps it. Then it embarks on a $1,000,000 advertising campaign, assaulting both eye and ear.

Industrial America has glorified bread the way Hollywood has glorified the American girl. Man does not live by bread alone, but it is the foundation of our diet, and our sliced loaves of cotton batting are a weak foundation for anything.

What America needs is bread with crust to exercise the teeth and stick to the ribs, bread to strengthen the heart for the tasks which lie ahead.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye shall be holy: for I the Lord your God am holy. (Lev. 19: 1, 2.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And I will set my tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people. (Lev. 26: 11, 12.)

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things....

For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. (Acts 17: 24, 25, 28.)

Wolf Cub Stands His Ground

The press report of the incident said that it caused "a merry ripple of laughter" during a solemn investiture at Government House in Ottawa the other day. But actually it wasn't very funny. On the contrary, the central figure in the matter, a nine-year-old Wolf Cub from Truro, N.S., merits sober and serious respect for his adherence to Boy Scout traditions and his obedience to the training he has received.

The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, was decorating the youngster (Wayne Crowell) with the Scout Silver Cross for bravery, awarded for rescue of another boy from drowning. When His Excellency extended his right hand in customary congratulations, the Cub firmly put out his left hand in conformity with the Boy Scout code. And he kept it out until the Governor-General corrected his faux-pas and switched hands.

The boy deserves a pat on the back for standing his ground with such sturdy independence, in the face of the "merry ripple of laughter" and the possible displeasure of His Excellency. After all, Viscount Alexander should have known better: he is the Chief Scout for Canada.—Montreal Gazette.

Ontario Teachers Seek Voice In Shaping New Curriculum

Ontario can best solve the problems of curriculum created by the recently announced changes in provincial education if teachers are given an opportunity to assist in the planning, says Miss Blanche Snell, chairman of the educational research committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, which met in Toronto last week-end. She points out that in England and elsewhere, teachers are sometimes relieved of their normal duties to do curriculum research.

Miss Snell's committee, comprised of some 50 teachers from all parts of the province, has been giving intensive study to secondary school curriculum for many months. Their work has been given new significance by the announcement of the Porter programme.

Study Porter Plan

Special research groups in each of the 14 districts will be set up under the direction of the central committee to study all the aspects of the Porter plan, according to Miss Snell. The Federation's findings will be made available to the Department of Education in planning the proposed modifications.

Special study will be given to the proposed grouping of school grades into four divisions, with emphasis on possible problems which may arise at the Junior High School level (Grades 7, 8, 9 and 10). The purpose of the division between Junior and Senior High will receive close attention, as well as the programme of study for each division and the certification of teachers for Junior High Schools. An attempt will be made to formulate an accepted philosophy of education at the secondary school level.

The committee meeting considered some of the implications of the Minister's statement that a degree of jurisdiction over curriculum will be given to local authorities. "Local authorities" was interpreted as including teachers, and the committee expressed the conviction that best results would be achieved by close co-operation between citizen groups, teachers, administrators and students.

5 Farm Boy Pranksters Penalized

Hallowe'en pranks cost five Smith township farm boys ranging in age from 16 to 18, $9.70 each when they were found guilty of wilful damage and ordered to pay $7.20 restitution and $2.50 court costs each by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court Tuesday.

The boys, Ward Trotter, William Wheeler, Harold Sage, Ralph Davis and Alan Patten, were all placed on suspended sentences.

They were found guilty of breaking eight windows and damaging two chimneys in a vacant house in Smith owned by Elmer Milburn.

Three had pleaded guilty, but Trotter and Wheeler said they were not guilty because, although they had been present, they personally had not done any of the damage.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said they were accomplices and therefore equally guilty. He declared on their own evidence, Trotter and Wheeler did not try to stop the damage nor did they leave the party until all were going home.

LOW HEELS: When a bride is the same height as the groom if she wears low heels, what type of heel should she wear with her wedding gown?
Answer: A white satin sandal with a low heel would make this bride just about the right height. They're dressy and comfortable. Queen Mary always wore low heels when standing beside the late King George for exactly the same reason.

WEDDING M.C.: My husband has been chosen Master of Ceremonies for a wedding of our friends. What duties will he have to perform?
Answer: Your husband sits at the Bride's Table, calls the reception to order when time for the toasts has arrived. He names the people who will propose and respond to the toasts. It would be easier for him if someone else would propose the toast to the bride. The Minister usually performs this pleasant duty.

WEDDING CHEQUES: Where parents give bride and groom a wedding cheque should it be displayed with the other gifts?
Answer: All wedding etiquette books say—cheques should be talked about but not displayed with the gifts. It makes a wedding look a bit commercial, they claim.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

It comes about that our old hockey sparring mates from Bella Villa are in town tonight to do battle with the Petes. At 8.30 in the arena, an exhibiion senior "B" joust. The Goyers, Meaghers, Williams, et al—plus some new stuff—are quite cocky after yanking out a win last week in the Belleville arena, but the Foley flock may reverse proceedings on the local cushion. Led by Murray Fife, the fast-skating senior "A" addition, the Petes are looking right promising as they shake down into shape, and it ought to be a typical old-time Quinte-Petes' bruiser this e'en.

* * * * * *

Industrial Puck Loop is ready for action, too, opening with a twin bill tomorrow night at nine in the arena when De Laval mixes with Nashua Paper Co., followed an hour later by Quakers against the Electrics. Next action is Nov. 24 like this: Keene vs. Westclox, and Brintons vs. Ventilating Shades. Some tilts later at Keene. We hear every squad in the circuit is stronger than ever and competition no doubt will be keen as the cutting edge of a newly-honed razor. The pick of the puckists who aren't in OHA are recruited in the shops of the Industrial League, and they play for keeps. Drop around and give them the once-over.

See The PMHA-ers Go

Nor should puck fans pass up the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association double-headers thrice weekly in Civic Arena. They go tonight at six with the bantam Optimists meeting Trojans, and at seven with midget Southenders taking on Optimists. The Thursday dish is: Keene bantams vs. St. Peter's, and Keene midgets 'gainst the SPS squad, first fray at six. The opening struggles saw Marine midgets edge Trojans 4-3, whilst Clapper's and Oddfellows tied 2-2 in a roughish juvenile go. Future OHA junior aces are in the making in this loop, which is affiliated with the OMHA, so there's never a dull moment.

Interest mounts in Collegiate football circles here as the week rolls along. On account of COSSA finals come up this week-end for both local teams. Junior PCI-ers are off to Port Colborne for their do-or-die struggle as defending COSSA champs in the junior division and they have a good chance of taking this, playing a lighter squad. St. Catharines meet PCVS seniors at 2.15 in the Oval Saturday and the Garnet and Gray gridders may have a tough time of it retaining their COSSA crown. The St. Kitts' team is reported plenty good—mopping up on Orillia 68-0 in the semi-final for a record—so this will be a sizzler, undoubtedly.

Scouting The Enemy

Despite their one-sided win o'er Orillia, the St. Catharines senior school gridders made plenty of mistakes that tilt, according to the St. Kitts scribe. He adds: 'Coach Bev Goulding of Peterborough, the defending COSSA champs, was there and saw it. Also likely had his backfield and quarter along with him, for 'twas they who asked him if he saw the glaring mistakes of Tricolors. He shushed his boys down, warning them of no more tipoff errors that Petes would capitalize on Saturday in the Liftlock City. Better smarten up, Saints, you're not in yet." The club will arrive here about 10 a.m. Saturday by train with one or more extra coaches of fans along.

* * * * * *

And an item from the same city Tuesday said: "Top scorer in the junior OHA, George (Red) Sullivan, worked out as usual yesterday afternoon with St. Catharines Teepees, had a shower and left, carrying his skates. It was two hours later before his club knew he was gone for good. Sullivan had signed a contract Monday morning with Boston Bruins and will play his first NHL game against Rangers Wednesday, replacing injured Eddie Sandford. Playing his last season as a junior, Sullivan was the flashy red-headed centre who was the backbone of the team." The club is peeved at Bruins for taking Red at the last moment. The newspaper there never did give him the credit which was his due.

Four Title Events To Be Staged At YMCA Meet

Four provincial swimming championships will be at stake Saturlay night as members of swimming clubs compete in the Peterborough YMCA's Ontario Championships meet in the YMCA pool.

Clubs who have already signified their intention to enter the meet are London, Woodstock, Hamilton YMCA, Hamilton Aquatic Club, New Toronto Lakeshore Swimming Club, Toronto Granite Club, Toronto west End YMCA Toronto Central YMCA, and Toronto Broadview YMCA.

Four of the 13 events planned are Ontario Championship events while the nine others are open events. The young men's 100-yard breast stroke, the boys under 14, 100-yard breast stroke, boys under 14 years, 160-yard free style relay, and the boys under 12 years 100-yard free style championships will be open to all challengers.

Peterborough YMCA Swimming Club will have Bill Watson entered in the young men's breast stroke event with Jim Heffernan and Bob Malby entered in the boys 14 and under 100 yards breast stroke event.

Jack Boorman, Jim Heffernan, Scott Pearton, Elwood Palmateer will make up the club's relay team. This quartet were edged from the championship event in Hamilton recently by the Toronto West End YMCA team and are favorites to take the event. Elwood Palmateer is a Bancroft boy who is a member of the local club. Most of his swimming takes place in the summer season around Bancroft.

The feature of the championship events is the boys under 12 100-yard free style. Coach Gord Minty has entered Alec Baptie Terry Reid, Ross Dobbin and Lorne Hale. Baptie is a strong favorite of take this event as he holds several YMCA championships but never an Ontario honor. In Hamilton he lost his first chance at the honors for Ontario in this event by three inches. This will be his last chance for the championship in this event for he will be 12 years old on Tuesday.

As an added attraction Saturday night Professional World Champion Clifford Lumsden of New Toronto will put on a demonstration. Lumsden won the championship at the Canadian National Exhibition this year winning the 15-mile marathon. He in only 18 years old.

Fans Howling At Price Jump In Football Final

MONTREAL, Nov. 16—(CP)—A pre-season gamble and an unpopular price boost today has local football fandom in a tizzy as excitement boils for the Eastern Canada final here next Sunday between Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tigers.

Second-guessers are having a field day wondering whether Alouette Coach Lew Hayman should have decided last Sept. 1 that backfielder Bronco Reese and end Chuck Anderson would not play in the Eastern final if the Als reached it.

Meanwhile, fans seeking lower-priced seats are aroused by the Canadian Rugby Union's announcement Tuesday that admission prices would be hiked up considerably for the playoff.

Hayman's Sept. 1 decision on Reese and Anderson—announced only Monday—came because of a CRU ruling that only five United States imports can be used in the Eastern championship game between the Big Four and Ontario Rugby Football Union titlists. The Big Four permits seven imports.

Difficult Decision

Hayman's difficult decision had to be made before the season opened and since then Reese has become one of the most powerful line plungers in the Big Four while Anderson has been an effective blocker and pass receiver.

The fans were most vocal about the increase in prices, especially because the boost hits the lower-priced tickets hard but doesn't affect box seats and the choicer sections.

A block of 2,500 bleacher seats in Montreal's baseball stadium were jumped from 25 to 50 cents —a 100 per cent increase.

Reserved seats, running from $1.25 to $1.75, were hiked to a flat $2—an increase ranging from 60 to 14 per cent.

MINOR HOCKEY

Two action-packed jousts opened the PMHA schedule at Civic Arena with the midget Marines edging the Trojans 4-2 and the juvenile Clapper's and Oddfellows going to a 2-all deadlock. Quite a few fans saw this rough second scrap with 12 minor penalties handed out, eight to the Oddfellows. The latter were heavier but play was quite even and the goalies were good. Robinson scored in the second period for IOOF on Shearer's pass. Heffernan evened it in the third, aided by Woods. Pammett counted another for Oddfellows from Ferguson, but Saunders got the equalizer later.

Marines were faster than Trojans and had more shots, but Trojans had more finish in their sniping. Lockie went well on defence for them. Patterson and Dunn had a goal and an assist each for the winners, with Foster and Doris also tallying. Kearns, Turner and Frizzelle scored for the losers in the lively go. Leggett and Romhanyi refereed.

Mercurys Smack Marlies As Hawks Edge Gens 5-4

By The Canadian Press.

Two of the best teams in the Ontario Hockey Association — both bouncing the opposition almost at will—were rocked back on their heels last night.

Toronto's Senior Meriboros, who had won nine games in 12 starts, were handed a 4-3 setback by the second-place Owen Sound Mercurys, while their junior counterparts, riding on the crest of 10 victories in 12 games, suffered a 6-5 defeat at the hands of Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

The teams remained in first place in their respective leagues, however. The Seniors have a five-point margin over the Mercurys while the Juniors have a three-point lead over the second-place St. Catharines Teepees.

In other games last night, Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen strengthened their hold on third place in the senior race by defeating the last-place Hamilton Tigers 5-2 at Hamilton.

Trounce Generals

In the junior league, the Teepees trounced Stratford Kroehlers 8-2 and Galt Black Hawks gained a 5-4 victory over Oshawa Generals.

At Owen Sound, the Dukes staged a desperate rally in the last few minutes of play but Bobby Gillson in the Owen Sound nets wouldn't yield.

The Dukes moved into a 2-1 lead in the first period but the Mercurys drove back in the second to count two unanswered markers. They split two goals in the last session.

At Toronto, it took until the midway mark of the third period for the Majors to score the clinching goal when Jerry Ingoldsby rapped in the last of his three markers. The Majors held a 2-1 advantage at the end of the first period and a 5-4 lead at the end of the second.

Other St. Michael's scorers were Bill Marshall with two and Paul Alain with a single. George Armstrong turned in a three-goal performance for the Dukes in the losing cause. Danny Lewicki got the other two.

Have Little Trouble

The Dutchmen had little trouble as they overpowered the hapless Tigers throughout the game. Butch Martin gave the Dutchmen a one-goal lead early in the first period and Harvey Jacklin made it 2-0 minutes later.

Tom Smelle got one back for the Tigers but Art Herchenratter, Johnny Blute and Bill Walsh scored in the final frame to put the game on ice. The Tigers scored one goal in the last session—that by veteran Clare Shillington.

The Teepees rolled to their ninth victory in 12 starts as they drove into a 3-0 margin in the first period, and held an 8-2 edge at the end of the second before fighting through a scoreless third session.

Pace Teepees

Con Switzer, Gord Byers and Jack McIntyre paced the Teepees with two goals apiece while singles went to Bill Altoft and Wayne Brown got one apiece. The two Stratford goals were tallied by Jim French and Doug Williams.

At Galt, the Black Hawks, showing surprising power, built up a three-goal lead in the first period that gave them the edge over the Generals. The Generals outscored them 4-2 in the second session. The third period went scoreless.

George Ford led the Black Hawks with two goals. Others went to John Lumley, Norm Prest and Bronco Horvath. Louie Jankowski, Gord Myles, Ed O'Connor and Doug Chapman tallied for the Generals.

Smedmore and Leo Copp are in the finals of the consolation against H. Mathias and J. Dormer.

Remember When—

The four-year reign of Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom as light-heavyweight boxing champion of the world came to an end 15 years ago tonight when he was outpointed by Bob Olin in 15 lacklustre rounds in New York. Rosenbloom, a comedian in and out of the ring, later appeared in a number of motion pictures.

Hockey Officials Meet In Belleville

MARMORA, Nov. 16 (ENS).—T. Cousins, P. J. Gray, and W. Simmons of Deloro attended the hockey referees' forum at Kiwanis headquarters in Belleville on Monday evening. This was a meeting to which referees, managers and coaches were specially invited. The speaker was Bill Morrison, National Hockey League referee, who covered the general rules of hockey in his talk.

Teepees Protest Player-Raiding

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP) — The powerful St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Tuesday issued a protest against what they termed "player-raiding" by the parent Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

A delegation from the St. Catharines club informed George Panter, assistant secretary of the OHA, that in addition to signing George Sullivan to a professional contract this week, overtures had been made to three other Teepees —Gord Byers, Ellard O'Brien and Frank Martin.

Art Ross, general manager of the Bruins, termed the charge ridiculous. "We felt badly," said Ross, "that we had to take Sullivan. We'd have taken two or three of them if we had wanted to wreck their team."

Samara Says He Will Use Different Tactics

"Goon" Henry

Now that he knows what to expect, things will be a lot different, according to Seelie Samara, when he hooks up with Sky-Hi Lee in the feature wrestling bout at Summer Gardens Thursday night. Samara is furious at being disqualified in last week's collision with Lee and insists, along with the majority of fans, that it was Lee who was the actual disturber. This time Seelie says he'll look after Lee in his own fashion—he's encountered these ruffians before in his mat travels.

In the other two all-star bouts, Wladek Kowalski will meet Jim "Goon" Henry and Al Krusher Korman will take on Bill Stack.

Sullivan Leads Scoring In Junior Race

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP) — Toronto Marlboros continued to stay out in front of the pack in both games won and individual scoring honors in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A race.

Figures released Tuesday by the OHA—that include games of Saturday, Nov. 12—show Scotty Mair of the Dukes heading his nearest rival in the scoring race by eight points, with a total of 13 goals and seven assists for 20 points. Linemate Johnny McCormack holds down second place with five goals and 14 assists.

Three players are tied for third place, with 14 points. They are Clare Shillington and Johnny Conick, both of Hamilton Tigers, and Al Buchanan of the Marlies.

Bruce Dale, standout Hamilton net minder, with two shutouts and an average of 2.86 goals a game, heads the list of senior goalkeepers.

In the OHA junior race, Red Sullivan of St. Catharines Teepees continued as top man with 12 goals and 15 assists. Bob Reibel of Windsor Spitfires and George Armstrong of Toronto Marlboros were tied for second place with 26 points. Reibel has 10 goals and 16 assists while Armstrong has 14 goals and 12 assists.

In the junior netminding race, the Marlies' Don Lockhart leads the pack. The wily goalie has three shutouts to his credit and an average of 1.75 goals a game.

Duncan Re-elected Trent League Prexy

TRENTON, Nov. 16—Art Duncan of Batawa, was returned for the fourth consecutive year to the presidency of the Trent Valley Hockey League. Other officers elected at the league's annual meeting in Campbellford were, J. Stevenson of Hastings, first vice-president; D. McArthur of Campbellford; second vice-president; William Regan of Marmora, third vice-president; and Herb Rankin of Frankford, secretary-treasurer.

The five-man executive has been given new powers and will have complete authority to handle the affairs of the league. Previously each club had a member on the executive.

Campbellford, Hastings, the league champions, Marmora Millionaires, and a new entry, Warsaw, appear definite starters while Madoc, Tweed Stirling, Norwood Lakefield and Frankford or Bata are others that will likely field clubs.

The trophy, donated in 1907 by a Hamilton fan in honor of his son, Red Dixon, a star backfielder of those days, had been thought lost. J. P. McCaffrey, Ottawa manager, found it in his cellar. It was polished up and stuffed with chrysanthemums for this ceremony.

Chicago Judge Takes Stigma Off Hockey Stick

By JACK MITCHELL, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

To the relief of armored knights of the ice-lanes everywhere, a Chicago judge has taken the stigma off the hockey stick.

Judge Joseph Herms ruled in effect at Chicago Tuesday that hockey sticks are not deadly weapons when he exonerated Leo Gravelle and Ken Reardon of Montreal Canadiens on charges of assault with a deadly weapon (said hockey sticks). The charges dated back to the National Hockey League game at Chicago Nov. 2 when the two Canadiens decided the customer isn't always right.

The charge against Gravelle was dismissed. That against Reardon was nolle prossed by the judge when the plaintiffs admitted they intended to sign a complaint only against his team-mate.

The judge even agreed with the players that the customer is not always right. In fact, he found, in this case the fans involved in the player-spectator fracas had overstepped the rights that went along with the price of admission.

Turns Tables

"It is the prerogative of the American fan to boost his team and heckle opponents," Judge Hermes found. "But from the testimony presented here it is evident that the complainants were the aggressors."

Judge Hermes made his ruling after 1½ hours of testimony. Three of the four fans involved were there—John and Anthony Scornavacco and Pete Zarillo. The famed George Grbich, object of Reardon's affections, wasn't. The court was told he had sold up in Chicago and moved to Wisconsin.

It was Grbich whose forehead was slashed for seven stitches by Reardon's stick. Maybe he found life wasn't worth living in Chicago after coming out on the losing end against a Canadien.

Gravelle told his part in the affray that followed the nogging-knocking. "I did not strike any of the spectators. Everybody was standing up and leaning across the barrier so I hit the top of the barrier with my stick a couple of times to keep them from coming over."

Reardon's Story

Reardon previously described how a fan reached over the boards and grabbed his sweater.

"I spun around and thought that my stick hit the screen and then I saw that a man was bleeding. The man (Grbich) yelled at me that he was o.k. Just then another man climbed over the barrier and came at me as though he wanted to fight. I dropped my stick and gloves but the officials ordered the man off the ice before he got to me."

Reardon and Gravelle who remained over since Sunday, left after the trial to join Canadiens at Toronto for tonight's game with the Maple Leafs.

In tonight's other two games, the league-leading Red Wings take on the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit and Boston Bruins try to break their cellar deadlock with the Rangers at New York.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Solly Cantor of Toronto was held to an eight-round draw on Tuesday night by Kid Dussart, European lightweight boxing champion, in an eight-round fight at London's Harringay Arena.

Cantor, a leading contender for Arthur King's empire championship, weighed 135. Dussart, a Belgian, scaled 137 1-2.

About 12,000 fans in the fog-filled Arena watched the former Canadian newsboy stretch his unbeaten string in British rings to seven.

As in previous appearances in these parts, Cantor's chief weapon was a stabbing straight left which pecked constantly about the Belgian's head. Dussart countered by boring inside with hard right and left hooks to the body.

The crowd booed the decision, some apparently thinking Cantor's classic left had won again. The Canadian Press score card agreed with referee Teddy Waltham's decision, giving three rounds to each with two even.

Donald Knowles of Sarnia, has been chosen as the player most valuable to his team, the most gentlemanly and the most sportsmanlike in Ontario Rugby Football Union senior competition during the 1949 season, it was announced at Toronto Tuesday.

The speedy Sarnia Imperials' back is to receive a trophy awarded annually by an oil company (Imperial Oil).

Knowles' tricky running was credited with helping his team finish second in final league standing. Knowles is the first Sarnia player to win the trophy since Nick Pathouski won it in 1940. Last year's winner was Frank Filchock, then with Hamilton Tigers. Filchock now is with Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four.

Johnny Stroppa of Winnipeg Blue Bombers is one of those rare first-year men in football who came up without any rave notices and took over a full-time backfield job like a veteran. It won him the rookie award in the west's big-time.

Playing practically 60 minutes of each contest with Bombers in the Western Interprovincial Union this year, the 23-year-old Stroppa proved one of the few leading lights on the last-place Winnipeg club.

Sports writers picked him as the rookie most valuable to his team during the 1949 WIFU schedule.

Eddie Vann, young British fighter, scored the fastest heavyweight knockout in boxing history Tuesday night at London when he finished George Stern in 12 seconds.

Vann came out of his corner at the start of the scheduled six-round bout and landed a right to Stern's jaw. The latter went down and was counted out. Including the 10-round count, the fight lasted exactly 12 seconds.

It was not the fastest knockout on record, however. Al Foreman, a Canadian lightweight, knocked out Ruby Levine of Lewiston, Me., in 11.5 seconds, including the count, in a fight at Montreal in 1928.

Record books list lightweight Tony Canzoneri's 1:05 knockout of Al Singer in 1930 as the quickest title bout in history.

At Philadelphia, owner Bob Carpenter of the National Baseball League's Philadelphia Phillies said Tuesday he'll have nothing to do with what he calls the Brooklyn Dodgers' attempt to "sell minor-league players for exorbitant major-league prices."

Carpenter said he was approached by the Dodgers' Branch Rickey at the world series and offered a flock of players. He did buy outfielder Dick Whitman but Carpenter said he is to be delivered to the Phils' International League farm club, Toronto Maple Leafs.

"I could have bought Paul Minner, Marv Rackley or Preston Ward," Carpenter said, "but I wouldn't pay his prices for players to send to the minors."

Shoots Old Negro

CHARLESTON, S.C., Nov. 16—(AP)—Police said Tuesday that a young white, odd-jobs man had admitted shooting down and robbing and aged negro cotton farmer Saturday night. Police said Leroy Parker, 22, contended he fired in self-defence as 69-year-old Michael Rice advanced upon him. Earlier, Henry Davis, 14-year-old negro companion and helper of Rice, told officers that the old man was shot down in his home without provocation.

Docusen Winner

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16 (AP)—Maxie Docusen won the California State lightweight championship Tuesday night by a split decision over Enrique Bolanos of Mexico City in a blistering 12-round scrap at the Olympic Auditorium. The decision was heavily booed by a crowd of 10,000 who contributed to a gross gate of $47,700.

National Film Council Endorses Big Expansion Program

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP)—Endorsement of the National Film Board's projected expansion program was made today in a brief presented the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences by the 65-member Ontario Association of Film Councils Incorporated.

The prepared brief, one of six studied during the day's opening session, upheld the value of documentary films distributed by the NFB in furthering all aspects of adult education, cultural development and recreational needs of all age groups.

"We believe," the brief said, "if the potential of the documentary film is to be approached in this country . . . we must be prepared to support . . . a forthright program of expansion and progressive development of this agency of government."

The OAFC noted that showing of documentary films booked by community groups throughout Ontario for the year ending March 31, 1949, totalled 31,947 and persons who viewed the films totalled 2,698,461.

Comes Under Fire

Tuesday the NFB came under fire of the Commercial and Press Photographers' Association of Canada and the Ontario Society of Photographers whose submissions asked curtailment of NFB's activities and the slashing of its operating budget. Both organizations opposed NFB operations on the grounds they encroached on the professional photographer's means of livelihood.

Physical fitness education and sports came before the Commission today in a submission by the sports College Association which described as "frighteningly low" the general level of fitness for both youth and adult groups in Canada.

"Generally speaking, sport in Canada is loosely organized, inexpertly directed, and in many cases operated for the gain of promoters and not for the benefit and welfare of players," the brief said. "From a cultural viewpoint, our attitude . . . is far from healthy as indicated in frequent reports of rowdyism, both by players and spectators . . . there is meek acceptance of a hypercritical atttitude toward amateurism."

The Truth of the Situation

British woollens bought with today's "devalued" pounds cannot reach Canadian ports for many months.

On arrival they must be warehoused, cleared through customs, shipped by rail and delivered. Then they must be examined, cut and made up. The suits must be tailored, packed and shipped. All this takes time.

It is safe to say that the new woollens will not appear on the Canadian market in the form of suits until some time late in 1950.

Group Meets In London To Hear Voices Of Ghosts

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP)—A score of middle-aged men meet in London periodically to hear the voices of ghosts. In a quiet, dim-lit room over an ancient tavern they listen to voices that have been stilled for half a century or more. The men with their ears in the past are members of the city of London Phonograph and Gramophone Society, who have been collecting records from the days of the 1890's when the Edison Bell Company first startled the world by recording human voices on wax.

At their last meeting the society listened to famous singers of two generations ago whose names now are hardly remembered. They played the records of Bonci—the Gigli of the early 1900's—Selma Kurts, famous contralto in Edwardian days, and George Formby, father of the George Formby who now plays in British music halls.

Better known artists, such as Caruso, the Italian Opera singer, Kubelik, the violinist, and Rachmaninoff, the Russian pianist and composer, are usually given a concert to themselves.

Find Real Beauty

"We find a real beauty in the records of a bygone age," said R. H Clarke, the club's secretary. "Most of our members are middle-aged folk who are not so much lovers of music as lovers of old things.

"Using modern electrical amplifiers and pick-ups, we find that we can get almost as good a tone from the old cylindrical records as from the latest electrical recordings.

"There is a real thrill in listening to men and women who have been dead for a score of years or more, or who have since lost the great musical gifts they once possessed."

Members of the club spend their leisure time going round the junk stores looking for old records.

"Sometimes we pick up 50 old records for a few shillings," Clarke said. "At others, bidding against rival collectors, we are driven to spending several pounds on one cylinder.

When a record of particular value is found, it is re-recorded on a master disc so that it can be preserved forever.

To Resume Talks

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP) — Talks aimed at settlement of a strike of 850 lithographers in Ontario and Quebec will resume today. Representatives of the Canadian Lithographers Association and of the Amalagmated Lithographers of America (CIO) conferred Tuesday on the strike, which started five months ago. Issues in dispute include the length of the work week, rates of pay and security benefits.

John D. Mills Dies

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP) — John Daniel Mills, 78, founder and for the last 10 years editor and secretary-treasurer of the Argus, official organ of Ontario Public School Trustees, died on Tuesday. Born in Prescott, he taught for several years in Ontario and Manitoba schools, then joined the staff of the Brandon Sun.

Ground To Bits

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 16 — (AP). — James Brewer, 30, was ground to bits Tuesday when he was caught in a machine for crushing and cleaning coal. Only fragments of the body were found. Brewer was a tipple dust cleaner at the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Company's mine near here.

THIS WAS AN HISTORIC . . . and proud . . . moment for the Nash and Cockerton families in Montreal and Springfield Park. For it marked the staging of a "five generation" photograph. Holding her great great grandchild (Diane Margaret Cockerton, three weeks old) is Mrs. Agnes Nash, 90. Behind her, left to right, are her son, Howard C. Cockerton, 69, of Springfield Park; grandson, William H. Cockerton, 48, of Montreal; and great grandson Ronald H. Cockerton, 26, Montreal. Mrs. Nash's first husband, a marine engineer, died at sea some 36 years ago. The Cockertons are war veterans, Howard C., World War I; William H., World War I and II; and Ronald, World War II.

Finding British Informer Returns To Political Stage

LONDON, Nov. 16 (CP) — A casual parliamentary reply has brought that slippery character, the informer, skulking back to the centre of the British political stage.

His reappearance has caused a lot of thought about activities of the informer in civilized communities. Some independent critics asked a pointed question:

Is British Socialism, by encouraging informers, taking the first step down the sinister slope to a "sneak" state?

Those who answered yes to that question went back 300 years for a parallel. They compared modern informers with Titus Oates, a 17th century English conspirator who devoted most of his lifetime to concocting elaborate anti-Catholic plots during the reign of Charles II.

The question of informers arose in a written answer to a parliamentary question. The government said that "in suitable cases" it will pay people who will give information leading to convictions under currency control regulations.

Britons Jolted

The announcement jolted Britons who pride themselves on love of liberty. They grumbled that it's bad enough to have to count your pennies every time you go abroad; why pay people to spy on you and make sure you're not taking more than you show?

It was noted that large-scale chisellers of currency are not the only ones liable to conviction. Women who take their jewelry to other countries and schoolboys who send their stamp collections to the continent may also take a rap.

The independent weekly Economist was horrified. It suggested that political parties should revive a bill introduced two years ago to preserve "rights of the subject."

Government Calm

The government took it all calmly. When one of its backbenchers asked in the House of Commons what payments had been made to currency informers the government replied in two words: "None, sir."

Later the Commons was told the practice of paying informers dates back 60 years in some fields. For instance a total of £438 ($1,358) had been paid since 1945 to people who had informed the treasury about income-tax evasions.

Henry Strauss, a stern-faced Conservative member, asked whether the Cabinet planned to pay children for informing against their parents.

Some Socialists insisted that it was the Conservatives who started the system of paying people for information leading to arrests.

Critics refused to be mollified by this defence. The Independent Sunuday Observer said Labor, which usually complains about the bad old days of alleged Tory misrule, seemed to be finding an excuse for perpetuating the evil.

"Is sneaking now deemed an industry fit to be nationalized?" the Observer asked.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN CANADA UNLIMITED

Football's First!

North American Football owes its life to a visiting Canadian University!

Canada's East-West final for the Dominion Football Championship and the Grey Cup began in 1921 . . . Toronto Argonauts defeating Edmonton Eskimos 23—0.

It was 1874 . . . McGill University were guest opponents of Harvard in Boston. During the warm-up period, the Harvard team noticed to their amazement that McGill were kicking and carrying the ball.

The two captains got together and discovered they were playing different games. McGill had come to play rugger, Harvard was ready for a soccer match. But the Harvard captain, with true Bostonian courtesy, offered to play McGill's game. The result was the first "football" game ever played in the United States . . . ending in a scoreless tie.

Good sportsmanship has won many world friends for Canada . . . just as the spirit of working together has made us one of the world's great nations. These two—sportsmanship and team spirit—keep your opportunities for work and play in Canada . . . unlimited.

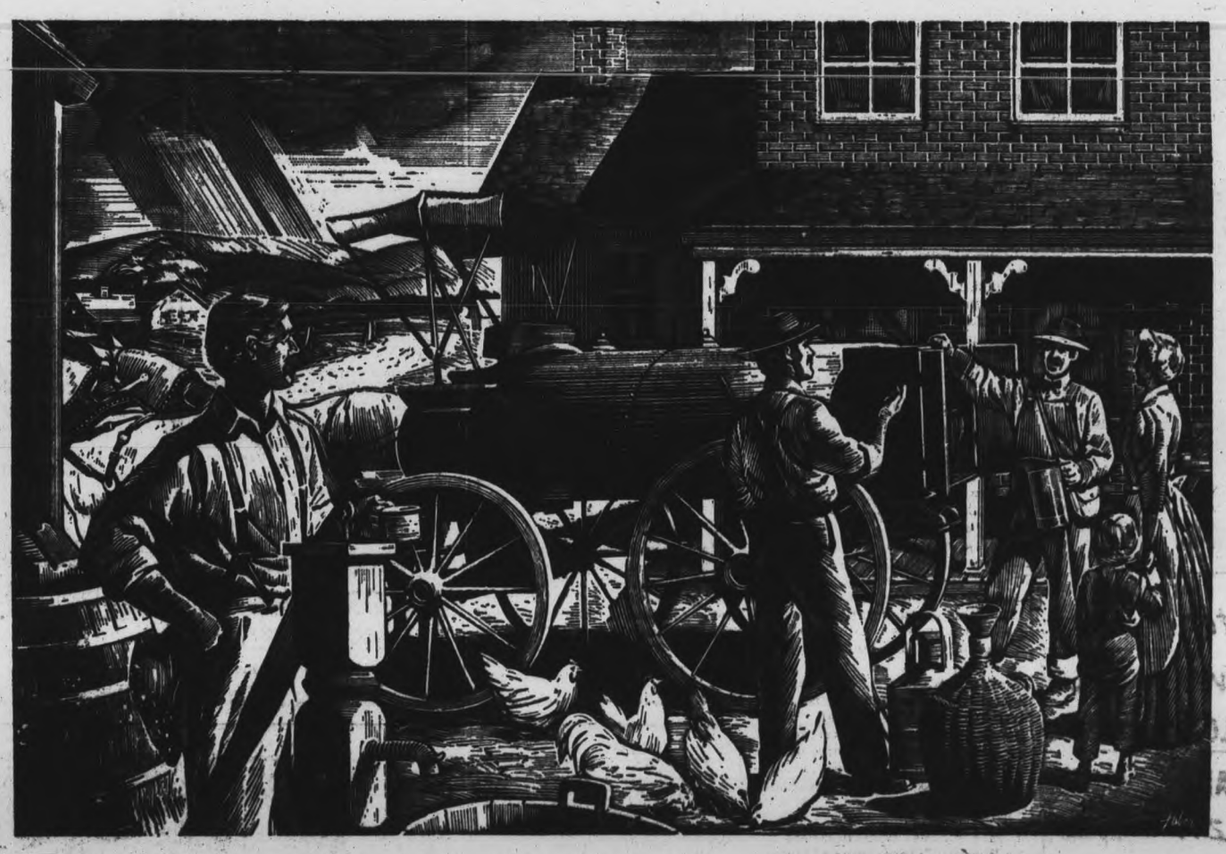
60 YEARS OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

1889 1949

Lamp oil or kerosene, the most valued product derived from petroleum in 1889, was often peddled from door to door in horse-drawn tank wagons. Gasoline, a dangerous by-product, was a drug on the market for many years. Today the search for new oil deposits and the search for still greater efficiency in refining petroleum into hundreds of useful products have become the objectives of a vast petroleum industry. Nickel steels, because of their exceptional strength and toughness, are practically indispensable in the machinery which drills deep into the earth. In the refineries, Nickel alloys have solved numerous problems because they resist acid corrosion and stand up under terrific heat and sub-zero temperatures.



Canadian Nickel sold Abroad brings in U.S. Dollars

Since more than ninety per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is sold to the United States and other countries, it brings a constant flow of dollars back to Canada. In fact, Canada's Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars so essential at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products not produced in this country.

These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees, and help provide the dollars which make it possible to pay millions in freight to Canadian railways, buy timber, steel, coal, machinery and supplies amounting to many millions each year.

These millions, flowing into all industries through the length and breadth of Canada, help create jobs for Canadians.

The Romance of Nickel" a 48-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

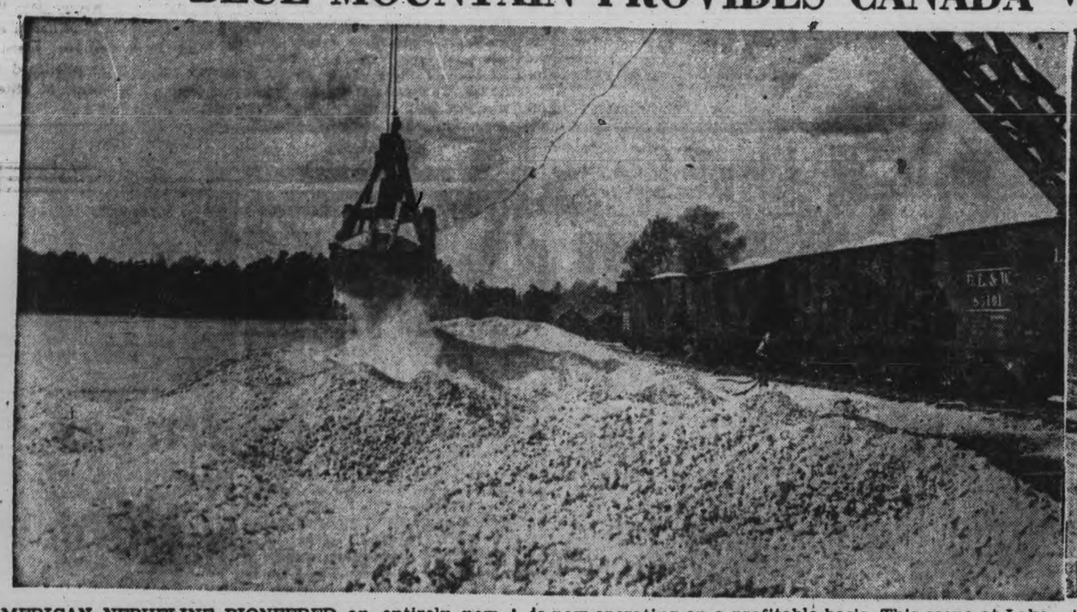
BLUE MOUNTAIN PROVIDES CANADA WITH A DOLLAR-PRODUCING INDUSTRY



AMERICAN NEPHELINE PIONEERED an entirely new product and, under the guiding direction of Ventures Ltd., is now operating on a profitable basis. This scene at Lakefield shows unloading operations from scow to railway cars.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS AND YEARS OF RESEARCH have gone into this Blue Mountain plant. The raw materials produced are used in glass, pottery, china, enamels for steel finishers as well as in the sanitation industries.

Nepheline Mining Industry Captures World Markets

In the backwoods of Peterborough county, Ventures-controlled American Nepheline is laboriously slicing down Blue Mountain to meet steadily expanding nepheline syenite requirements of the world's glass and pottery manufacturers. Conceived by the mine-making visions of Thayer Lindsley, Ventures Ltd. and associates, American Nepheline has gone about the task of transforming the solidified mass of Blue Mountain into a new and important dollar producing Canadian industry. Growth from the pioneering to the profitable stage has resulted in the company contributing directly to the well-being of the area's inhabitants and to the country's economy.

Much Research

Years of research and development and thousands of Canadian dollars have been expended in this remote sector of Methuen Township to provide glass and pottery manufacturers with an assured and permanent commercial source of raw materials. The accelerated volume of sales now being enjoyed is the final testimony of the deposists quality.

Best month in the history of American Nepheline was October. Production sales and profits reach all-time peaks and operating costs were pared to the lowest level since the mine and mill entered production.

At first American Nepheline, like most pioneering projects, experienced initial operating problems and losses. But with the plant now on a sound and increasingly profitable basis, it is becoming more and more apparent that the company has turned the corner.

To John S. Dickson, president goes a good deal of credit for the company's achievements. Under his supervision former losses are being replaced by profits. Net profits this year are expected to be substantially above the $2,754 realized in 1948.

Maintain Supply

Earlier this year American Nepheline inaugurated a $150,000 program designed to expand mine output, increase production of glass and pottery sands and to establish a reserve of finished material at Lakefield to assure customers of an uninterrupted supply.

Progress so far has permitted roughly a 25 percent increase in monthly output from the operation in Lakefield. On completion of the program next June, overall production will be stepped up from 6,000 to 8,000 tons monthly.

The company has mined at Blue Mountain and produced sand for both the glass and pottery trades as well as shipping three-quarter inch rock to its wholly-owned subsidiary plant at Rochester, where it is ground into glass and pottery sand.

Stoppage of the ferry service between Cobourg and Rochester, however, will necessitate some change in plans and the grinding and packaging equipment will probably be removed to the mine at Lakefield.

New grinding equipment at Lakefield has permitted an increase of from 50 to 100 tons daily of pottery sand and the installation of conveying equipment in the company's storage bins will provide storage for 2,500 tons of pottery sand and 7,000 tons of glass sand.

Nepheline syenite has entered a field long held by the producers of feldspar. In a comparatively short time American Nepheline has expanded the sale and use of its products to the point where it is now regarded as the essential material for the leading glass manufacturers of the U. S. and Canada.

Many Uses

Nepheline syenite is used in the manufacture of bottles, plate glass, construction glass, all types of pottery, fine china, whiteware and sanitation industries, dentures, fibre glass, enamels for the steel finishers etc.

An overseas markets has been growing steadily and trade is aided in some instances by Marshall Aid dollars. Shipments are now made regularly or at periodic intervals to Panama, Porto Rico, Cuba, Holland, Italy, Switzerland, France, England, Israel, the U. S. and is used in the domestic field.

At Blue Mountain, American Nepheline conducts an operation similar to any mining property where there is a heavy concentration of mineral. Mining on the bench principal has been adopted to handle the extensive tonnage of ore that make up the mountain. The only waste encountered is the rock lying along the contact of the three bands of Nepheline syenite ore.

Two benches are providing a steady flow of ore for the 350-ton daily capacity mill, but the next summer the company will be in a position to step up development to five benches.

Rock is hauled a comparatively short distance from the benches to storage stopes raised from underground workings, deep in the bowels of the mountain, to the modern crusher and mill where the material is processed into glass and pottery sands.

Mine manager and executive vice president Ernie Craig, who is responsible for the improvement in mining and milling operations, estimates broken reserves in storage stopes at approximately 24,000 tons. These underground stopes have storages capacity for 50,000 tons and afford the company the opportunity of operating a full year without working the benches under severe winter condition.

The company has been able to finance expenditures from current income and at the same time, built up working capital to the highest level since the start of production. At the end of October working capital was over $50,000 greater than the $142,000 position of December, 1948.

STATUE UNVEILED—Police took Robert Roussil's family group, carved from a single piece of wood, to the station in a paddy wagon when a garbage collector found the sculptor's handiwork on the street outside an east-end Montreal art gallery. No one was able to explain how the totem-like statuary got there but neighbours objected it was indecent. Police carefully draped the statue's nakedness with a diaper before allowing newspaper photographers to take this photo.

Costs Parents $120 To Bring Youths Back

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Two suburban Port Credit youths said Tuesday it cost their parents $120 to get them back from Calgary after they went west in an automobile convoy.

Harvey Thomas, 17, and Kenneth Flowers, 18, told an interviewer that car dealers here are sending convoys of automobiles to western Canada in charge of youths. There they sell for higher prices than obtainable in Toronto.

The youths said they were drivers on one of these trips, receiving expenses and $10 each when they reached Calgary. They said that when they took the job they were warned they'd have to find their own way home.

Put Northern Ontario On New Power Quota

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP) — Steps to put northeastern Ontario municipalities on a power delivery quota are being taken by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission as a result of a water shortage in the north.

Robert Saunders, commission chairman, said in a statement Tuesday night that the move will not affect southern Ontario.

Officials of municipalities in the Sudbury area have been asked to attend a meeting there Thursday night when the situation will be outlined to them by P. R. McAdam, Sudbury district Hydro manager. In 1947 and 1948 a cut of 15 per cent in normal deliveries was instituted in Sudbury from November until March.

IRENE HOPKINS AND PUPIL—She has to teach them to read Navajo so they'll be able to read English.

Her "Parish" For Navajos Covers 16 Million Acres

By NEA Service

FORT DEFIANCE, Ariz. — (NEA)—A Navajo girl, away at a school in Phoenix, was coming home for a visit. She wrote her mother a letter, telling her the good news. But when she arrived home her mother wasn't there.

The older woman couldn't read. She'd gone on a journey for several days, looking for someone to read the letter to her. And because she couldn't read she missed her daughter's visit.

That story is typical of life on the Navajo reservation, where 80 per cent—some 52,000—of the Indians are illiterate. There are schools for only a third of the Navajo children. It's that condition that Irene Hoskins, Iowa-born Quaker missionary, and others are trying to correct.

Taught School

For more than two years, Miss Hoskins has driven her truck and trailer over some 16,000,000 acres of desert in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah, bringing the ability to read to the people. Her job is sponsored by the interdenominational Home Missions Council of North America.

Before she set out on the road, to bring education and the church to the Navajo's bee-hive shaped "hogans," she had taught in reservation schools.

Since two-thirds of the Navajos speak no English, she feels that the first step in teaching them to read English is to teach them to read Navajo. She is still learning the difficult Navajo tongue, and keeps up her own lessons while teaching others.

Her "parish" is an immense stretch of desert, dotted with tiny settlements. Roads are poor, making her work all the more difficult.

During one day's "classes," Miss Hoskins and her Navajo intermediary and translator, Mrs Edna Maloney, may visit four or five "hogans," covering 12 miles.

She finds that most of the Navajos, who have several names, want to first learn to write their English names. Some of them don't even know the correct pronunciation of their English names, having had them written out by missionaries and preserving the paper carefully for many years.

Hospitable Race

Miss Hoskins find the Navajos, despite their poverty, a very hospitable race. In the tiniest, crudest "hogans," she and her assistant will be honored guests. The family brings blankets to stretch on the floor for the visitors' comfort.

The children fetch ears of brightly colored corn, and throw them on the fire. They take their best — and only — tin cups and scrub them with sand and water. And, after a short while, the youngsters hand plates of mutton and corn and cups of hot coffee to the guests.

Besides being a teacher, Miss Hoskins often finds herself pressed into service on the reservation doing other things for the natives. Once she stopped her truck at the desperate hail of a Navajo grandmother. There was a sick baby that needed help. Miss Hoskins turned her truck into an ambulance and drove the child to the nearest hospital, 40 miles away.

"I have often wondered," Miss Hoskins says, "what would have happened if the grandmother had stopped someone who knew no Navajo."

Movie Stars Need Advice For New York

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16 (AP) —Movie stars may soon be able to consult a handbook called "How to Visit New York Without Being Maimed or Defamed."

The need for such a book is great, says Frank Sinatra, who is willing to be the author.

"It's murder for any celebrity to visit New York," said Frankie, who bravely returns to the town in a few days. "I know many movie stars who say they'll never go there any more. Cary Grant for one."

The escapades of Humphrey Bogart and Errol Flynn are examples of how a star can get in trouble there, the crooner said.

"A lot of people are gunning for you," he said, "and you can't always brush them off."

Little Monsters

He told of a time when a character kept glaring at him all evening. The croner knew it meant trouble and started to leave. The guy followed and got quarrelsome outside, so Frankie slugged him.

And then there are the "fans." Not the real fan-clubbers, who are bread-and-butter to Frank and other stars. There is another kind.

"There's a bunch of girls that call themselves the 'Little Monsters,' " he told me. "And believe me, they are. But they aren't so little anymore. They're around 16 or 19 and they're looking for trouble.

An Education

"They follow you around constantly. They follow you around to restaurants, night clubs, even to your hotel room. They lie on the floor of waiting taxi cabs and when you drive away, they follow you."

He told of an occasion when he was in a party with Claudette Colbert and they were hurrying to catch a show. They signed some autographs and begged to leave. One of the young girls hurled an epithet at Miss Colbert that Frankie said was "so shocking I couldn't say a word all evening."

How to handle these young hoodlums, plus publicity seekers and trouble makers is a major education, Frankie added.

Normal Students To Visit Toronto

Classes at the Peterborough Normal School will be conducted in a novel way Friday, November 18. To illustrate that teaching and learning need not be confined to the classroom the Normal School staff, with the approval of the Department of Education, has arranged to conduct an annual school excursion to Toronto.

"This is neither a picnic nor a holiday," asserted F. B. Smitheram, who made arrangements for the occasion. "In fact both the staff and the students usually find it to be one of the busiest days of the term. It has taken weeks of preparation to arrange the program from which the students will gain knowledge that cannot be presented effectively in the classroom."

The school day will begin an hour earlier than usual in order to leave Peterborough on the regular morning train on which excursion rates have been arranged. In Toronto visits will be made to a number of points of educational interest and will include special lectures at the Parliament buildings and at the Royal Ontario Museum.

The event is designed to demonstrate to the teachers-in-training methods of conducting school excursions, to acquaint them with the facilities of the museum, and to permit them to acquire at first hand learnings not readily available in the regular classrooms. Many of the students plan to use the occasion as an opportunity to take in the Winter Fair, the Santa Claus parade, and other attractions.

900 Stores Destroyed In Pakistan City Fire

DACCA, East Pakistan, Nov. 16 —(Reuters)—A disastrous fire which broke out during the night destroyed the business centre of this Bengal city Monday.

The blaze caused widespread damage in the Chowk Bazaar estimated at between $5,600,000 and $14,000,000.

More than 900 stores were gutted.

The fire, lasting three hours, reduced 20,000 square yards of the Bazaar to charcoal and rubble. Bamboo buildings helped to spread the flames.

Police reinforcements were summoned to prevent large crowds of shopkeepers from bursting into the Bazaar to save their property.

Canada Should Not Take Sterling

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The suggestion, made in some circles in Britain, that Canada should accept sterling in payment for wheat, is virtually another way of saying that she would sell her wheat on credit.

The sterling, inasmuch as Canada would have no immediate use for it, would be in the nature of a promissory note. She would accumulate it in the hope that some day she would pay her own farmers in dollars.

Whether or not Canada is in a position to extend credit is a matter for the government and its monetary advisers to say, but her feeling at about two years back was that she had extended all the credit she could afford.

If it were only a matter of extending credit, just possibly that could be done. But Canada has her own problems. She herself needs money with which she can pay the people from whom she buys—in this case, United States dollars.

And at this exact moment, to Canada, sterling is money only to a limited extent—to the extent that she buys from Britain or other countries using sterling.

Okay, some one says, why not buy from Britain and other sterling countries?

Can't Supply Goods

That, we are trying to do. But if, by some extraordinary measure, we were to say we will stop buying from the United States, could Britain supply what we want? Could she supply the goods required in the present expanding condition of this country, which we must have if we are to continue expanding?

Not very likely—not right now, in any event.

Now, in this post-war world, we don't get along by saying "we will do this" and "we won't do that." The fact is we do a little of this and a little of that, and, with quite an understanding of each other's difficulties, we make concessions to one another.

The United States has made the rather difficult concession—difficult for a number of reasons though mutually beneficial—by which Britain is able to use European Recovery Program dollars to pay for our wheat. That helps to carry on things for a while.

It probably won't go on indefinitely, because ERP itself is scheduled to run out in 1952. When that point is reached, we shall, of necessity, have to arrive at a new arrangement, one which will concern all three countries.

Councils Fail In Long Range Planning

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. XCIX. No. 115 WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1949 PRICE FIVE CENTS

No Bite For City Of 5 Million Federal Fund

Peterborough does not qualify for federal government payment of municipal taxes on its local properties, Assessment Commissioner Norman Wilkes explained this morning to the Examiner.

"We find ourselves in the same position as Toronto, and various other cities that discover they do not share in the $5,000,000 under the formula that has been adopted."

Federal realty in Peterborough includes: post office, customs house, armouries, George St. wharf, Peterborough locks and other properties.

Locally Assessed $500,000

"Our assessment of the federal government properties amounts to $500,000," Mr. Wilkes said.

"The government arrangement is that they do not pay the municipality anything if the local assessment on their properties is less than four per cent of the total assessment of the municipality.

"If their assessment is six per cent of the local total, then the government would pay something like 75 per cent of the taxes on two per cent of the municipality's total assessment.

"Here is how it works out. Peterborough's total assessment is $37,400,000. Four per cent of that sum is a little more than $1,500,000.

"Our assessment of federal properties is about $500,000. So, this city's assessment is not more than the four per cent of the government formula. We are one million dollars less than the required level at which the government would begin to pay taxes into the city treasury."

Mr. Wilkes said he was depending for his information on the Canadian Press reports with their explanation and examples of the government plan as it would operate.

12 Applications Already In For Director Job

A solution to the problem of choosing a new recreational director for the city of Peterborough was discussed at a meeting of a special committee of the Recreation Commission Tuesday night. The first and present director, Mr. Jack Dane, has resigned, and is leaving to assume recreational duties in Forest Hill in Toronto December 1.

Three qualifications, experience in community recreation on a municipal level, good personal habits, appearance and ability in public relations, and if possible, special training in recreational work, will be required of the new director.

Applicants will be given a preliminary screening, and those who seem best to meet the requirements will be asked to come to Peterborough for personal interviews.

Twelve applications have already been received. The applicants are from Moosejaw, Sask., Three Rivers, Que., Toronto, Trenton, Lindsay, Prescott, Innisfail, Alta., Hamilton and Fort William.

Mr. Dane said that several of the applicants have excellent qualifications both in the experience and education.

The committee are: Wilfred Langan R. E. MacDonald, A. E. Borland, and Mr. Dane.

UE Takes Dispute With CGE To Civil Court

In an effort to make the Peterborough works of the CGE implement the findings of the Arbitration Board on the grievance in the Induction Motor Winding Dept., the UE is transferring the dispute to the civil court.

That was the decision reached at a membership meeting called Tuesday night by the Provincial Committee of Local 524 UE. The left-wing leadership estimates that about 500 union members were present.

The Board, under Judge A. Cochrane of Brampton last February handed down a decision that restored piece-work rates to a number of girls engaged in winding induction motors. The rates had previously been cut by the company.

Only One Against

C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president, told the Examiner the company would be sued for failure to pay a debt owing, and for its failure to implement the arbitration award.

He said only one person, to his knowledge, voted against taking this action. A couple speaking from the floor of the meeting, demurred claiming some of the girls were supporting the right wing which has broken to join the new electrical workers' union.

A committee of 12 was elected to investigate charges against the right-wing members of the executive, recently suspended from office, for beginning a Canadian branch of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO). This report will be brought in to a membership meeting called within 30 days, stated Mr. Jackson.

Kenneth Elliott Awarded Forestry Prize

KENNETH ELLIOTT

A Peterborough man, Kenneth Elliott, 27, has just been announced winner of a Forest Industries Entomological scholarship at the University of Toronto, President Sidney Smith announced.

The scholarship is awarded to encourage university Forestry department students to specialize in control of harmful forest insects.

Mr. Elliott, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Elliott, 595 Chamberlain St., graduated from PCVS in 1941. During the war he was a Flying Officer pilot in the RCAF.

He is in his third year at Varsity. For three summers he worked with the Department of Lands and Forests in northern Ontario where he was studying the problems of spruce budworms.

The youngest of the family, he has two sisters and two brothers.

John Anderson of Toronto received a similar scholarship. Both hope to carry on postgraduate studies.

Jackson, Morton Counter-Claims On UE Situation

Only UE plants in Canada where "any real disruption has been momentarily created," are in Peterborough, Cobourg, Brockville and Guelph, C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president, has stated in a roundup of electrical industry dispute in this country.

In each of these situations "the UE membership is battling back against the secessionists with increasing strength," he reported.

"Ridiculous" is the counter-claim of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, (CIO) through their Peterborough spokesman, John G. Morton.

Not only have a number of locals repudiated the Jackson leadership, said Mr. Morton, but also some of his field organizers are switching their support.

Jackson View

Here is a roundup of the major plants, as Jackson sees it.

A unanimous condemnation of the "raiding and splitting policy" of the CIO and CCL was passed Thursday night at the Westinghouse plant in Hamilton. It is the biggest single UE local, with a membership of 4,500; about 1,000 attended the meeting.

At this same meeting a strong declaration of support and solidarity to the Peterborough CGE workers was adopted, Mr. Jackson stated.

Similar motions came from the membership of Local 522 in Kingston, with about 1,000 in the bargaining unit, and covering Canadian Locomotive Co., Frontenac Tile, and Gould Battery.

Composite Local 514 in Toronto with about 1,400 members covering Amalgamated Electric Co., J. J. Taylor, L. C. Smith, likewise adopted a strong resolution consolidating its support within the UE "against the raiding and divisive tactics of CIO and in support of the fight of UE workers against secessionists and disrupters."

At Welland a large meeting of the members of Local 523, covering approximately 2,000 workers in Page-Hersey Tubes and Electro Metallurgical plants, sent strong messages of support to the Peter-

Swindle Charge Bail Reduced

Bail on Jack Douglas, 37, Toronto, was reduced from $10,000 to $3,000 cash or $6,000 by bondsman on representation by his counsel, Emmett F. Sheehy when Douglas was remanded a further week in police court today.

Douglas is charged with being an accessory after the fact in the $100,000 Hancock swindle. He was believed by some to be Hancock's right-hand man but was described by Mr. Sheehy as "a sort of messenger boy."

Mr. Sheehy said probably not more than 500 people in Peterborough could put up $10,000 bail. Douglas was found in Toronto by Detective W. A. Clarke about a week ago and has since been in custody.

Mr. Sheehy told the court he thought Douglas's father would put up the $3,000 bail.

LABOR COUNCIL

The scheduled meeting of the Allied Labor Council failed to materialize Tuesday night as not enough members were present to form a quorum. President Alfred Barber postponed it till next Tuesday night. One of the question marks facing the council is whether to recognize left or right wing delegates as representing CGE workers.

Most of Time Now Spent On Petty Problems; Public Largely To Blame

Immediate changes in civic political machinery to give councillors the time and information to do their rightful job of long range planning was advocated by K. Grant Crawford, Director of the Institution of Local Government at Queen's University to a large audience at the annual Civic Night of the Sales and Advertising Club, Tuesday. Professor Crawford, who is a member of the City Council of Kingston, said aldermen spend most of their time on petty problems and details which would be better left to top municipal officials such as the city clerk and city engineer.

He said councillors have just so much time and energy to give. Like everyone else, they tend to deal with minor matters on which decisions come fairly easily. Major issues, needing careful study, a good deal of information and research before a decision could be even attempted, are put off, to next week, then next year and year after year.

Research Assistants

Professor Crawford envisioned a plan whereby the minor decisions were left to high level officials. Just as important, he said, if a council is to work efficiently, is that council members have available all pertinent information for them to reach an intelligent decision on complex matters. That information could be supplied by research assistants of the heads of the more important municipal departments.

Under present conditions, busy department heads have to do their own important research work. They seldom have the time, he commented.

Scouts Collect 70 Tons Paper

Scouters and Scouts with the assistance of some Cubs, made their rounds of Peterborough Tuesday night collecting paper. Between 60 and 70 tons of paper were collected by the men and boys to fill four freight-cars at the CNR station.

Paper collections of the Scout Association in Peterborough were recently discontinued by the association due to the decrease in price paid for old paper. But Scout officials were urged to hold this collection by numerous inquirers phoning to ask when the next paper drive would be made. They were also encouraged by a rise in the price of paper.

Two hundred men and boys started the collection at 6.30 and were finished by 10 o'clock, under the efficient organization of Peter Moore and Edward MacDonald. Various stores and industries generously gave their trucks free-of-charge to help the association.

Nearly $500 was raised to start the new headquarters fund of the association. The Boy Scouts here hope to erect a new building where they will be able to meet whenever they wish. At present they are meeting at any available place, usually the Legion Hall.

Four Hunters Return Deerless And Hungry To Home-Cooked Meal Of—Yes, It Was!

That now-familiar cry of the distressed Brooklynite "I should have stood at home," is being re-echoed today by Fireman Joe Astles of Douro St., and three hunting companions.

The quartet have been deer hunting since Monday north of Apsley, but without any luck. They didn't even see a deer. With him are Les McSwaine and Jack Blow of Acton, and Rodney Carveth of Newcastle.

But while they didn't exactly run out of ammunition they did run out of supplies as the hunt provided one thing at least, healthy appetites.

Today, a bit down in the mouth they came back to Peterborough for the supplies — and a good home-cooked meal prepared by Mrs. Astles.

And what did she offer them—you guessed it—hot venison, the gift of a friend.

THEREFORE, I, Max J. Swanston, as Mayor of the City of Peterborough, do hereby proclaim Saturday, November 19, as Kids' Day in Peterborough, and do call upon all citizens to support the objectives of this day and to co-operate to the best of their abilities in making the event a success.

Britain Prompt With Deliveries

LONDON, —(CP)— Transport Minister Alfred Barnes has assured the House of Commons that automobiles ordered by Canadian customers from the Austin Motor Company are being shipped from Britain without delay.

He said there is no shortage of shipping space for these vehicles

Barnes was replying to Raymond Blackburn, Labor, who had asked what arrangements were being made to ensure delivery to Canada for cars ordered from the Austin Company.

Liberal Peer Says Britain Has Champagne Thirst On Beer Income

LONDON, —(CP)—Baron Rennell, 54-year-old Liberal member of the House of Lords, strengthens his reputation for political boldness every time he speaks.

After his contribution to the Lords debate on Britain's economic crisis, cynics said that only a Liberal and a peer could speak so freely.

Among other things, Lord Rennell called for a reduction in "real wages." This was regarded as the most daring proposal advanced in the debate.

He said subsidies should be reduced on all goods except wheat meat and certain fats. This would probably lead to an increase in living costs, but must be accompanied by increased wages.

"It is no use mincing words," he said. "There would, in fact, be a reduction in real wages. Such a reduction is necessary if costs are to go down."

Charges For Service

Britain had developed a "champagne thirst on a beer income" and something had to be done to reduce spending.

He proposed a charge of 10 shillings ($1.55) for every pair of glasses, now obtained free under the National Health Service, and one shilling a day for occupation of a hospital bed, now also free

Probable savings would be about £25,000,000 ($77,500,000) a year.

The cynics said it was all very well for Lord Rennell. As a peer with a hereditary seat, he could talk that way without worrying about his constituency; as a Liberal, he had greater freedom from party political considerations.

WARREN R. AUSTIN (nearest camera), chief US delegate to the United Nations, calls on the Soviet Union to stop its "campaign of hate" in an address at Lake Success, New York, this week. In centre is Hector McNeil, United Kingdom representative, and at right is Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Austin demanded that the political committee kill forthwith a three-point resolution presented by Vishinsky. Inset shows Vishinsky in familiar form, this time as he made an unusual personal thrust against Canada's Minister for External Affairs, Hon. L. B. Pearson, chairman of the political committee, for the latter's assertion that Russia threatens the world with a new aggressive imperialism.

Luxury Freighter Arrives In Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (CP)—British shipowner Edmund Watts threw the rule book into the briny deep when he decided to build the MV Wanstead, a freighter with luxury liner trimmings.

The 8,600-ton motor vessel reachel here Tuesday on its maiden voyage from Liverpool, inaugurating service between Montreal and London.

Watts says the ship has a revolutionary design which provides crew members with both comfort at work and off duty and also has more stability. He claims the ship uses less fuel and rides better in heavier seas than the ordinary freighter.

Now, he claims, the British Admiralty plans to use some of Wanstead's new features, the United States navy wants to look over his blueprints and Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France and Norway want the patents Transport Minister Chevrier plans to look the ship over here tomorrow.

The 48 crew members consider the Wanstead "a home away from home." Each man, from the cabin boy to the skipper, has his own cabin, with a cushy bed, bedlamp, reading table, dresser and other furniture.

They eat cafeteria-style in a clean ship's restaurant. A menu on the wall shows the day's fare.

Crew members and officers have separate lounges with easy chairs. Eight-foot-wide covered alleyways strongly resemble a liner's promenade deck.

Eight Groups To Enter Drama Festival

Drama groups in the Peterborough district are practising nightly in preparation for the Peterborough Drama Festival which opens December 1 in the Queen Mary School auditorium. Eight groups from Peterborough and Lindsay have entered into the three-day festival.

Two of the entries, Knox United Church Drama Group and the 20 Plus Club are entering two plays each. Other groups who have entered are: the Little Theatre, All Saints Anglican Church Drama Group, St. James United Church group, Children's Theatre of the YWCA, PCVS Dramatic Club, and Lindsay Recreational Theatre Workshop.

Each entry must present a one-act play or an extract from a longer play, lasting at least 18 minutes and not longer than 40 minutes. None of the plays may have less than three speaking parts or have a cast of more than 10 and two others necessary to the performance.

Each entry will be awarded points for acting, production, stage presentation, endeavour, originality, and attainment. Acting includes characterisation, audibility of speech, variation in tone, emphasis, gesture, and movement will be closely watched.

The production of the play deals with the interpretation of the spirit, and the meaning of the play as well as the teamwork, general pace and variation in tempo, grouping and movement, properties, lighting, costume and makeup come under the heading of stage presentation

In the fourth grouping which includes endeavour, originality and attainment are the factors most likely to impress the adjudicator are the type of play chosen, its dramatic merit, suitability to the cast, originality and endeavours shown by the group in its performance and the standard attained.

The plays will be presented December 1, 2 and 3 under the sponsorship of the Peterborough Recreation Commission.

Appeals For Cooperation

QUEBEC, Nov. 16 (CP)—Premier Duplessis Tuesday appealed for co-operation and avoidance of friction in Quebec society so the province may fulfill its promise of becoming the "first in Canada". The Quebec government leader made his appeal at a convention of the Province's Association of Industrialists concluding a two-day study of methods of applying Roman Catholic social doctrine. He said trouble-free relations between employer and employee are needed today because the province is on the threshold of "exceptional development."

$60,000 Blaze

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP) — An estimated $60,000 damage was caused by fire which Tuesday swept a large warehouse owned by Builders Flooring and Milling Company on Dublin Avenue in Toronto's west end. For a time, nearby houses were threatened. Company officials said they believed the blaze was caused by sparks from the installation of a new electrical outlet.

GOOD ENOUGH TO EAT—A life-size milkmaid and her cow—carved from butter—are on display at the Royal Winter Fair, which opened at Toronto Nov. 15. Ross Butler, noted Canadian sculptor, is shown putting the finishing touches to his work while the milkmaid model, Evelyn Crone of Toronto, poses. An estimated 1,000 pounds of butter was used for the figures, which will be preserved by special refrigeration during the eight-day fair.

Racing Bettors Still Arguing

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Racing's $2 bettors still were arguing today about who should get hurt when one half of an entry is disqualified in a big race and the other half wins.

Tuesday on the closing Empire program at Jamaica, King Ranch's Flying Missel was paired with Edward Lasker's Natural as a $3.30 for $2 favorite.

Flying Missel won the race, the $20,000 Daingerfield Handicap, in the world record time of 3:32.4 for 2 1-16 miles.

But Natural was disqualified for interfering with Blue Hills at the eighth pole and the show money was given Blue Hills.

Flying Missel was allowed to stand as the winner. This caused a loud squawk from betters, most of them possibly backers of First Nighter, a 5 to 1 shot that missed second.

They staged a noisy 10-minute demonstration and stormed the press box with their complaints.

Flying Missel, as part of the entry should be disqualified too, they contended.

Track officials announced over the loud speaker system that the two horses were racing under separate interests although trained by Max Hirsch and thus double disqualification wasn't dictated.

Seeking Repeal

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP) — A general meeting of the Ontario Broker-Dealers' Association on Tuesday asked the association's board of governors to seek repeal of a section of the Ontario Securities Act which forbids completion of the sale of a security until the prospectus has been delivered to a client or prospective client.

THEN . . . AND NOW—Richard C. MacGregor of Saskatoon is shown, left, as a private with the 53rd Infantry Battalion during the First World War. He was reported missing, believed killed in action, in 1917. Suffering from partial loss of memory, he somehow got back to Canada. In 1937 he wandered into a pensions office in Regina to apply for help—but his discharge papers were lost and his memory hazy. For 12 years the RCMP and the Veterans, Defence and Resources Departments searched records for a clue to his identity. The mystery was solved this year: his laugh was recognized by a woman he once planned to marry. The "new" Richard C. MacGregor, right, now gets a $40-a-month veteran's allowance.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Syrup at Home

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make in your own kitchen. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble! (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.)

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for bad winter coughs. It makes a real saving, because it gives you four times as much cough syrup for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is a very effective, dependable, quick-acting cough medicine for the whole family. Quickly, you feel its penetrating effect in the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You will be delighted with its quick effect in clearing up coughs.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients in concentrated form, a well known reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Pinex is Dependable. Saves Money. Easy To Mix.

Indian Soldier Wants Turban

VICTORIA, B.C. Nov. 16 (CP) —Canadian Army history may be made here by 8th Anti-Aircraft Operations Reserve Unit, commanded by Captain R. V. Parrett.

Application has been made to Ottawa authorities for special permission to allow a 25-year-old East Indian member of the unit to wear his turban and beard.

He is Gunner Ranjit Singh Azad, anxious for a career in Canada's active army.

It is understood that if enough East Indians join the unit, a separate troop will be formed. Officers, however, declined to comment on this plan. The move would be entirely new for the reserve army.

Ranjit joined the 8th three months ago. He is married and a college graduate. Born in Canada and educated in India, he speaks seven languages. He is also editor of a Victoria East Indian youth paper.

Slow Up Dismantling

BONN, Germany, Nov. 16 (AP) —Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced on Tuesday the Big Three Western powers have agreed to put brakes on the dismantling of German steel and synthetic oil and rubber plants. They also have decided to allow Western Germany to build bigger and swifter merchant ships, he said, to establish trade consulates abroad and enter "many international organizations," and are considering ways to lighten the consequences of the technical state of war still existing.

Nothing To A Dentist's Visit In 10 Years New Machine Does Away With Painful Drill

TORONTO, Nov. 16 — (CP) — The dread dental drill, which haunts toothache suffers and often keeps them away from dentists, will probably go out of use in the next five or 10 years.

A new machine which may take its place was described Monday night to 6,000 dentists in 155 cities in Canada and the United States, linked together by telephone.

The dentists heard Dr. Donald A. Wallace, a Chicago scientist, describe the new instrument. He said it will be a friction-free apparatus and will clean out cavities on the sand-blast principle.

In Toronto, the broadcast was heard by Dr. Roy G. Ellis, dean of the faculty of dentistry at the University of Toronto, and 40 members of his staff.

Dr. Ellis emphasized that the new apparatus won't be ready for five to 10 years. He described the instrument as a handpiece which "cuts through the tooth structure by means of a high speed jet or air carrying a fine abrasive."

With the vibration of the drill eliminated the patient will be able to sit in the dentist's chair, without fear of pain, Dr. Wallace said.

Ames-McCulloch Vows Pledged

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16.—(ENS).—Bouquets of white baby 'mums formed the setting in Trent House Saturday afternoon when the marriage was solemnized of Betty Illean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCulloch, and Frederick Kenneth Ames, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ames. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. M. Smith.

Miss Patricia Hogle sang "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register. Mr. Albert Hazell played the Wedding March.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with lily-pointed sleeves. The nylon yoke was framed by a large bertha collar and the fitted bodice trimmed with satin-covered buttons. A full skirt with insets of lace at the front and trimmed with a wide ruffle of lace, tapered to a slight train. A band of white carnations held her finger-tip veil, and she carried a shower bouquet of Bettertime roses with white heather.

Miss Freda McCulloch was her sister's only attendant. She was wearing powder blue slipper satin in similar style, and carried a nosegay of yellow 'mums. The groom was attended by his brother, Clare Ames.

The bride's mother received, wearing a wine two-piece dress and corsage of yellow roses, and the groom's mother, also receiving, was gowned in a figured navy dress and wore a corsage of pink roses.

For going away the bride chose a green brocade dress, grey coat with mouton trim, black accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

They will live in Campbellford.

Robertson Davies Speaks At Teachers' Banquet

Mr. Robertson Davies was after-dinner speaker Tuesday evening when the local branch of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation had their ladies' night meeting at the Kawartha Country Club.

Of his work as editor of a daily newspaper Mr. Davies said "The editorial page needs careful preparation as we must be ready to uphold any opinions there expressed. A newspaperman must also be ready to accept criticism as a natural consequence of his business."

A newsman's day usually starts about 8 a.m. It takes about two hours from the time news is received until it is ready for the press, Mr. Davies explained. "The average reader spends about seven minutes reading the complete paper."

"Due to the speed necessary in getting and printing news, errors are bound to occur," he said. "All news that is printed is checked for authenticity. Freedom of the press does not mean the publishing of every opinion or every rumor. However, everything that is supposed to be public knowledge is eligible to be printed. Reports of court proceedings, council and board meetings are carried by the press."

Mr. Davies was introduced by Col. R. J. Bolton and thanked by Mr. D. T. Crawford.

Mr. L. McNeil, president of the local branch, was chairman.

A toast to the ladies was proposed by Mr. J. E. R. Munro and Mrs. C. D. Munro replied.

Community singing was led by Mr. H. Wilson with Mr. J. Telford at the piano. Bridge and dancing was enjoyed during the evening.

Committee responsible for the entertainment included Messrs. D. Lawless, J. Burns and O. Anderson.

India's Hostess Discovers Ottawans Friends at Once

OTTAWA (CP)—Most women would quake at the thought of moving to a new town one day and giving a big party the next, but not the attractive wife of Santdas Khushiram Kirpalani, India's High Commissioner to Canada.

Mrs. Kirpalani did just that on her arrival here last August. The party, a reception to celebrate India's Independence Day, has gone down in the annals of diplomatic entertainment as one of the season's best.

"It was great fun," she recalled at a recent interview. Her brown eyes flashed. "We were so new to the city—and we found everyone very friendly."

It isn't surprising that the reception was such a success. This vivacious woman enjoys entertaining and meeting new people. From that day, when she accompanied her husband to Canada after more than five years in the United States, Mrs. Kirpalani has felt completely at home in this country.

However, she has yet to see an Ottawa winter, and confessed that friends have warned her about the quantities of snow.

"But a few inches here and a few inches there are not going to frighten me," she said.

Lightly touching a fold of her blue chiffon sari, Mrs. Kirpalani added that she has found the ankle-length Indian garment highly unsuitable for wear on slushy streets. When feasible she dons western dress, although at most social functions she usually turns up in the beautifully draped eastern costume.

Style Still Counts

While Dame Fashion may not be able to dictate the height of hemlines in India, Mrs. Kirpalani says women of her country have their fashion troubles too.

No need to worry about the cut of a sari, which is nothing more than a six-yard piece of fine material draped as the wearer wishes. But the print is the thing. A pattern popular one year may be out of style the next.

"Then one must put the sari away for a few years until the pattern again is in style." Mrs. Kirpalani smiled. "And don't be surprised if someone tells you they have 100 saris in their wardrobe—saris seldom wear out, you know."

In travelling, the sari has an advantage over ordinary dress—it packs easily, and as many as four dozen saris can be tucked into a single suitcase. The High Commissioner's wife recalled that she took 10 saris with her on a recent brief visit to Toronto.

Travelling has not yet taken up much time in the routine of the Indian representative and his wife.

"For the time being we feel we should settle down to our activities here," said Mrs. Kirpalani.

Those "activities" included entertaining for India's Prime Minister, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, during his recent visit to the capital.

Seven Adopted In October CAS Reports

Adoptions of seven children were completed during the month of October, Miss Rachael Young, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, told the Board of Directors Tuesday.

Five children were admitted to the care of the society during October, two being children born out of wedlock, who were made permanent wards; two children were already in a relative's home and adoption was requested. The only living parent of the fifth was receiving prolonged medical care.

Two children who had been temporary wards were made permanent wards and one of these was placed for adoption.

One child was returned to his parents, who had established a home of their own. Two wards reached their majority.

A total of 435 families, unmarried parents and children in care were known to the society during October. During that month 27 new cases came to the society. Most common problems were juvenile delinquency, lack of adequate supervision of children and serious misunderstanding between husband and wife.

DOROTHY DIX

Parent Uses Wrong Method To Win Control Of Child

DEAR MISS DIX: My daughter, 8½ years old, seems to be steadily growing worse in behavior and is now almost incorrigible. She behaves well in school, but I cannot make her understand that she must obey her parents in the same way. I have thought of placing her in some institution where she would learn discipline. What would you advise doing?

Dorothy Dix

J. A. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Why, a little girl of 8½ is still a baby, and the idea of putting he rin any institution of discipline is horrible. It would brand her for life. Don't ever think of such a thing again and, above all, never let the child know that you ever contemplated taking such a step.

The only excuse for putting a child of that age in the institution would be if she had shown some serious mental disturbance, or if she were a hopeless idiot.

Trouble Lies in Home

The fact that the child behaves well in school makes me feel sure that the trouble is in your home and in your method of handling her. Instead of trying to reform her, why not try to find out what is wrong with your methods Perhaps you are too strict with her. Instead of ordering your little girl to do this or that why not try suggesting things to her? Why not use tact and diplomacy in dealing with her? Why not use a little flattery instead of perpetual fault-finding and criticism?

Children are peculiarly sensitive to suggestion. They try to live up to what you think they are. If you are always telling them they are little hellions. little hellions they will be to justify their reputation.

Children love the limelight and there is no way you can discipline them quicker than just by turning it off them. So is your little girl is obstreperous and hard to get along with, Just realize that she is having the time of her life harassing you. Just let her alone. Let her have her own sweet way and reap the consequences of it for a while. Neglect her. There won't be a bit of fun in raising cain if she is left to do it by her lonesome.

Evidently you and the little girl need to be parted for a while Send her to a good summer camp. I have seen that work wonders in a child. And when she comes back treat her as if she was a grown-up. That will put it up to her to act like one.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think of a wife who has always put her family before her husband, who has kept him from taking advantage of opportunities for advancement because she would have to leave the place where her people lived? She leaves him to get his own meals after working hard all day if she thinks any of her family need her, and she spends nearly all of the money he makes on her family.

JACK

ANSWER: There are a great many women whose ability to be good daughters and sisters seems to crowd out their ability to be good wives. They are so obsessed with family affection that they have no love left to give to their husbands. They offer themselves up as willing sacrifices of their own people and think it unreasonable that their husbands protest at also becoming victims.

Of course, the remedy is obvious. It is for the man to refuse to let his wife rob him for her people. She has a right to ask some help from him because if she were not married she would give them her earnings, but she certainly has no right to make him support them.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am planning to marry a man who is egotistical, self-centered, incapable of loving any one but himself. I am doing this to get away from home. I have been brought up in an atmosphere of hate, bitterness, spitefulness and cruetly Marriage is my only solution.

UNHAPPY JANE

ANSWER: You haven't tried being married to a selfish man Jane. Nor a loveless marriage When you do, you will find out ing pan into the fire, because you will have left hope behind. There is always a chance of getting away from your parents, but you are tied to your husband.

The discomforts of illness are greater for the elderly person confined to bed. Let your V.O.N. show you how to make Mother or Dad more comfortable and your work lighter. Do you know that this service is free if in receipt of the Old Age Pension?

LIKES CANADIAN STORES — Canadian stores have a fascination for Mrs. A. A. Roberts, wife of the South African High Commissioner to Canada. Although she finds prices are higher than in her home city of Pretoria, Mrs. Roberts still enjoys shopping in the stores in the Canadian capital.

Wife of Diplomat Enjoys Shopping in Self-serve style

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP)—The Canadian housewife may look on the corner groceteria as just another shopping centre, but Mrs A. A. Roberts regards it as a "fascinating place." Where she comes from—Pretoria, South Africa—such self-serve stores still are novelties.

"In your groceterias all the food is so beautifully packed," the wife of South Africa's High Commissioner to Canada said in an interview as she described recent shopping excursions in and about the capital.

On the other hand, Mrs. Roberts finds prices in the Dominion often a bit hard to take. In fact potatoes, fruit juices and nail polish are about the only things she has found herself able to buy for less than she would pay in South Africa.

And lemons—at 29 cents for half a dozen! Mrs. Roberts threw up her hands and laughed "You see, they grow on the trees in our garden at home"

Meeting the wives of diplomats and of government heads has kept this energetic woman at a brisk pace since she and her husband arrived in Ottawa last September.

Ant it has left her with a warm attitude toward Canadian hospitality.

"I do feel that the women are most friendly and really open their homes to you."

Likes Canadian Lakes

For the High Commissioner and his wife, seeing Canada so far has been limited to an occasional journey to montreal, and motor-trips through the nearby Gatineau hills.

"On a Sunday it's nothing for us to take a picnic-lunch and travel 100 miles," said Mrs. Roberts.

She has been particularly impressed with the many lakes and rivers in the Gatineau country and says South Africa has nothing to compare with Canada's waters.

Come spring ad the Sunday jaunts undoubtedly will take the form of fishing-trips.

The High Commissioner's wife says that both she and her husband are "keen fisher people" and are just waiting for the fishing-season to come around.

Mrs. Roberts is fond of gardening and has taken a lively interest in the variety of plants grown here, but unknown in her homeland

Already she has toured the Dominion Arboretum, which lies on the southern outskirts of Ottawa She expressed amazement at the quantity of crab-apple trees on the grounds.

On the lawns at the High Commissioner's big grey-stone residence she has planted a mass of crocuses and snapdrops. Daffodil and tulips bulbs are growing in pots in the cellar.

Tulips are a rarity in South Africa, and Mrs. Roberts is eagerly looking forward to their appearance come spring.

False Curls Add Contrast To Clipped Hair

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON — (CP) — Britain's "two-color" hair style was applauded at the annual congress of the Syndicate Haute Coiffure in Paris.

Introduced by Riche of Mayfair, it is a Coolie Cut—short, brushed-up ends no parting, the hair coming from the crown in a Catherine wheel fashion to form a front fringe.

The novelty of this style is a Juliet cap for evening wear made of contrasting hair. The cap is combed and blended into the real hair and finished with a wimple of black velvet circled with gold ribbon.

Paris's contribution to the false-hair styles is the "lacquer-curl." Short, softly-brushed urchin day styles can be glamorized for night-time by addition of a fine spring band to which is attached perfectly-matched curls that have been lacquered stiff and shiny.

Many styles can be achieved by this additional band—the wind-blown look, the club cut, the side-brushed shingle, the asymmetrical look and the winged Grecian line.

So, whatever the women of Britain do about it, hairstyles are definitely getting shorter. For smart women, these short styles are a "must" with the high-collared winter coats and tiny skull-shaped hats.

Coiffeurs Like It

Both Raymond and Steiner — two of Mayfair's exclusive coiffeurs—are concentrating on short cuts.

Raymond's semi-shingle flip is smoothly-brushed with a side-parting, softly brushed-up sides and slight back turn-up.

His "choirboy" style is a smoothly - brushed Napoleonic shingle—cap with winged sides and small fringe. His asymmetric style is a straight-cut short fringe style on one side, with the stepping-stone halo of roll-curls on the other side.

Steiner's "Peter Pan" cut follows the new off-thlforehead trend. It is brushed smoothly back to a tiny knot of short curls at the nape of the neck. For day or night wear you just change the curl ornament from combs to bows, jewels or flowers.

The new length is anything from three to six inches in front and much shorter at back. Sometimes the hair is only half an inch to an inch long at the back It may be softly turned up or cut in a mannish shingle.

Two of the most popular shingle-cuts are the smooth, cap-shingle with winged sides and short straight fringe and the second, formed by brushed-back waves with softly-brushed curls high on the forehead.

"What's Right?"

You are shopping down town with a friend when she stops for a moment to speak to someone you do not know.

WRONG WAY: Stay by your friend's side, waiting for an introduction.

RIGHT WAY: Walk off a little way, giving them a moment to chat. (If your friend wants to introduce you she will call you back.)

Woman Jailed 22 Times Reaps $500,000

By JAMES R. BERNS

OAKLAND, Calif., — (AP) — "People," observed Mrs. Elizabeth Worthington, "are awful careless."

The spry, 73-year-old widow ought to know. She estimates she has relieved "careless people" of more than $500,000 in the last 50 years.

Mrs. Worthington is spending a six-months' sojourn in the Alameda County prison farm — "Quite the loveliest jail I have ever been in."

She ought to know about that, too. Mrs. Worthington, who claims Missouri as her birthplace, but gives no specific town, says she has been arrested 22 times.

Her cheerful—if not exactly moralistic—outlook on life is the fruit of experience, of what she termed "grand and sometimes maybe great-grand" larceny in many states. Her present incarceration is on a vagrancy charge

Mrs. Worthington likes to travel, but she is glad to rest a bit in pleasant surroundings with all expenses paid. She has smooth dark hair, a lively smile and candid blue eyes. Mr. Worthington, she said, died about 45 years ago.

She said she was no juvenile delinquent, nor was she led astray by evil companions. As a matter of fact, her first shoplifting experience was by accident.

Followed Example

"I was in a department store," she told a reporter in her cell "when I saw a woman picking up stockings and things from the counters and shoving them in newspapers.

"'Uh huh,' I thought, 'I guess I can do that too.' I stepped out to a 5 and 10, bought me a shopping bag and came back. I did that other woman one or several better. I walked out with three expensive dresses"

"I got things to sell (Worthington never uses the direct word 'steal') for five years without being caught. Then they closed up all the fencing stores, so I didn't have a chance to sell things I had to get my money direct."

Mrs. Worthington's first arrest was the result of carrying a suitbox of "lovely things" into a courtroom, where she was witness in a case.

With a little spare time before the proceedings, she remembered, she "went down and picked up some beautiful dresses." With no time to deposit them elsewhere, she brought them to the courthouse. That was a mistake.

"Before I got down the steps of that place, I was charged with grand larceny," she said with a chuckle.

Mrs. Worthington figures she must have picked up more than $500,000. She has spent a lot of it "and not all on myself, either"—but a tidy sum of $10,000 or so is put away in a safetly deposit box. she says "and wouldn't the police of about five states like to find out where that is!"

borough UE workers and took a firm stand against any splitting of the UE.

Similar actions were taken by the International Silver Workers in Local 505, Niagara Falls, and at the Toronto plants of GE covering some 1,900 workers.

Toronto, Montreal Locals

In Toronto, Leaside and Mt. Dennis, Locals 512, 521, and 525 covering more than 2,000 workers strongly denounced the right wing group and re-affirmed their complete faith in the UE, Mr. Jackson's group stated.

In Montreal, Locals 513, 518, 528 and 531, covering more than 2,000 workers in RCA, Canadian Allis Chalmers, Anglo Wire Rope, Dominion Wire Rope, Warden King, Phillips Electrical, etc., gave strong pledges of full support against any division and disruption.

In Hamilton, Composite Local 520, with about 1,300 in the bargaining unit, which includes Hoover, International Silver, Brown Boggs, United-Carr Fastener, Coffield Washers, Wallace and Barnes, also came out in favor of unity in the UE, Mr. Jackson said.

"In every one of the series meetings of UE plants and locals, great tribute was paid to the work of the Unon as a whole in bringing outstanding gains to its members, in many cases, setting top figures of average earnings for the community in which the locals were operating."

He cited some "average hourly earnings" of male workers in a number of localities: Westinghouse $1.35, Welland where Page-Hersey with $1.39 "set the pace in the area, RCA in Montreal "lead the field in that city" with rates up to $1.76 for toolmakers and a minimum of 94 cents for women.

"All in all, the 25,000 workers of the Canadian District of UE stand firmly behind the policies and leadership of their union."

Morton View

"Jackson's claim that he has the Canadian situation regarding UE under control is ridiculous," commented Mr. Morton.

"His leadership has been rejected in Cobourg, Guelph, Brockville and Peterborough. We are already applying for certification to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for Local 534, Cobourg, and Local 508, Guelph."

He said Local 510, Brockville, is now out of the UE as far as the members are concerned, and in the name of the new International Electrical Union are at present attempting to obtain bargaining rights.

"In Peterborough the steering committee for the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO) are on the verge of declaring a majority of cards signed up in the CGE plant," Mr. Morton declared.

The right-wing leadership is getting requests from other locals almost every day, he said, for assistance in throwing off "Communist domination" of the UE. And all wish to join the UE-CIO.

"If Jackson really believes what he says he is in for a big surprise when he learns that even some of his field organizers are considering switching their support."

Shah Visiting U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) —The United States rolled out the official carpet in a big way today for 30-year-old Shah of Iran on a month-long state visit. A personal greeting from President Truman at the airport, and a crowded round of ceremonies, dinners and a tour of the Pacific Coast were on the program. As a special gesture, Truman's plane, the Independence, was sent to the Shah's capital, Teheran, to bring him here.

Foster Homes Required For Older Children

Recent publicity of the Children's Aid Society's urgent need for foster homes for children whom the society takes under its care either temporarily, or as wards of the society, has resulted in a number of people applying to board babies and young children, Miss Rachael Young, superintendent, reported to the board of directors Tuesday. She said the most pressing need was for foster homes for older children.

The directors set up a committee to consider ways of meeting the problem of being without foster homes. Those forming the committee are Gordon Millier, Mrs. F. J. Lynch and Rev. Ivan Morgan.

Foster Parents Requested To Consult CAS

Risks involved by taking other people's unwanted children into the home by private agreement without consulting the Children's Aid Society, were revealed Tuesday at a meeting of the Peterborough society. Miss Rachael Young, superintendent, reported that during October three instances where children had been placed privately, resulting in the parents neglecting their payments or fading out of the picture altogether, had been brought to the attention of the society.

In all three cases transactions between the parents and foster parents had been made without reference to the society and there had been other instances in previous months.

It is well for anyone accepting children privately to assure themselves that payments will be forthcoming and that parents will return for their children, Miss Young declared.

The foster parents who contacted the society after the children's parents had failed to bide by the agreement, have been made responsible for locating the parents and arranging for those parents to care for their own children, Miss Young said. She said that a charge of desertion under the Children's Protection Act could be laid and the matter brought before a court.

Youth Worried About Theft, Confesses Given One Year's Suspended Sentence

On a confession of stealing 60 cents from a Red Cross box in a school on the Stony Lake road in Douro township, 18-year-old Ronald Dwyer, R.R. 2, Lakefield, was charged and placed on one year suspended sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court today.

Provincial Constable Ray Pope testified Dwyer came to the city police station Sunday night and asked for a night's lodging. Before he left he confessed his crime to police because he said "it was bothering him and he wanted to get it off his minds."

"His trouble seems to be that he won't work," Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw commented.

One of the terms of the $250 bond of his suspended sentence was that he seek immediate and permanent employment.

Dwyer said he wanted to look for work in Peterborough rather than back near his home where the only work was cutting wood.

Tells Ghastly Tale Of Baby Sitter, Father But Turns Out 'Baby' Does Mistreating

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 16.—(AP).—Nine-year-old Eric Weill told his mother a ghastly tale of what "the baby sitter and her father did to me."

His bed sheet was smeared with blood. One of his teeth was gone.

Mrs. Mercedes Weill, naturally, demanded police action.

Patrolman Kenneth Dunham investigated and reported:

The sitter, Donna Giancoli, 16, took the boy home to her parents after Erick had locked her out of the house....thrown her school books out of an upstairs window ...turned off the lights with the master switch....kicked the sitter in the shins....and "in general acted like a brat."

Charles Gioncoli, the sitter's father, finally threatened the youngster with a cold shower. That did no good, so he washed out the boy's mouth with soap.

Confronted with the testimony, Eric admitted all. The tooth had been loose and he himself had pulled it out.

"I am of the opinion," said Officer Dunham, "that the boy was not mistreated in any way. If anyone was mistreated it was the baby sitter and her father."

Most Of Time

Important long-range planning is too easily sidetracked because voters are not interested in it. Joe Doakes is not interested in a sewage system which will go into use five years from now, he is interested in getting water out of his basement now.

Let Bigger Issues Slip

As a result of this clamor over minor matters, an alderman will attend to the small things and let bigger issues slip. Members of council are elected on what they did to have the garbage picked up Monday morning istead of Tuesday afternoon, not on what their ideas for the future development of the municipality are.

That is the way democracy works, he pointed out. Especially at local government levels, the elected representatives are very sensitive of the voiced opinions of the voters. Because of this, aldermen say one thing one week and omething quite different the next. The reason is that in the intervening time, they have had a chance to find out what the people think. Quite often they run into snags because the people do not know themselves, or are split over a question.

Men run for council for any number of reasons, he said. Most common, he thought, was that men thought there were important decisions to be made by councils and they wanted to take part in making those decisions for the welfare of the community.

Why Does He Seek Re-Election?

Once a man has been elected his continuous obsession is to be re-elected because "in his innermost soul he may admit Jones is perhaps a better salesman than himself, but when it comes to good sound judgment, he'll stack his against anyone's." It is just that which keeps the democratic system functioning as well as it does, he commented.

But too much emphasis is put upon minor issues as a result—two changes are needed in the civic government setup before it can be as efficient and human as it is capable of being. The first is a "greater confidence by councils in their officials, instead of members sticking their fingers in little pieces of civic pie." In this, county council members are usually the worst offenders, Professor Crawford observed.

The second is that "the public will have to show a willingness to accept" the system under which it cannot be continually cunning to council members about frozen water pipes and other trivia.

The results of the new system he is advocating, he predicted, will be a better community service and, in the long run, reduced costs which would mean lower taxes.

Professor Crawford was introduced by Robert Arnold and thanked by Alderman Pat Anglesey.

Note Firmer Trend On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP)—A firmer trend appeared in the forenoon on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, steadying industrials from Tuesday's declines.

Golds and base metals continued in slight demand while western oils barely held their own ground.

Market leaders firmed fractions in industrials following four successive sessions of decline. Bell Telephone, C.P.R., and Brazilian Traction were higher in utilities and papers also firmed. Canada Wire B was an early loser, dipping a full point at 31.

Senior golds gained fractions for the second successive day and advances ranged up to 10 cents in juniors. Norlartic was a feature among a few active smaller issues, gaining seven cents at 46 cents.

Consolidated Smelters added a full point at 106 and Quemont was up ½ at 20¼ in base metals.

Federated petroleums slipped slightly from Tuesday's 40-cent advance, down to $1.25, a loss of five cents. The company late yesterday announced purchase of Imperial Oil's interests in Foothills and Lowery petroleum.

Plan To Set Up Legal Agencies In U.S. Towns

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(CP).—In an effort to bring legal aid to the bulk of the intermediate wage-earners of the United States the American Bar Association Tuesday night announced a scheme to help create legal reference agencies in every municipal area in the country.

Putting on a country-wide scale a plan which was started 12 years ago in Los Angeles, the ABA hopes in this way to solve the problem of small wage-earners in finding competent, yet inexpensive, legal aid when they require it.

Reginald H. Smith of Boston, director of the Survey of the Legal Profession, in making his announcement, said the lawyer reference plan was part of a wide survey which the ABA has undertaken to determine the place of the legal profession in the social and economic life of the community. The legal aid scheme will be published Nov. 22, Smith said.

(A similar survey of the Canadian legal profession to determine its place in the Dominion's social and economic life and to appraise its future, was announced in September by A. N. Carter of Saint John, N.B., president of the Canadian Bar Association. The survey panel, independent of the CBA, will report periodically on its findings.)

The American survey showed that fear and ignorance kept people away from lawyers, Smith told a press conference.

Caused Disturbance

Lorne Fontaine, 19, 146 Aylmer St., pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance in a downtown hotel beverage room Tuesday night and was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshwa said Fontaine had broken a light in a wash room and had consumed a pint of beer although he was under age.

Pearson Old U of T Coach Plots The Plays Bosses Backfield At UN

By L. NORMAN SMITH.
(From Ottawa Journal)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—General Carlos P. Romulo is President of the UN Fourth Assembly, and a very spirited UN zealot he is too.

But the quarter-back, the man plotting the plays, the pivot man, is Canada's L. B. Pearson.

Canada's Foreign Minister has been in Canadian news for some years now. We know the grin of his bow ties, his college triumphs in sport, his Oxford degrees; we know he zoomed up from being a history professor at Toronto through the External Affairs to Cabinet rank. We know of his witticisms and his all-out Liberalism in the last election. And we know he's lead bet now as Mr. St. Laurent's successor.

But Canadians perhaps don't fully realize the place this 52-year-old son of a Methodist minister has won around the world's council table.

No. 1 Chairman

UN does its real work not in the formal plenary Assembly sessions but in committees. There are six committees. Into the first of these are put all the real woes of mankind: the political problems that keep the world wrought up. Communism, atom bombs, desarmament, China, Russian aggression in Greece or Yugoslavia or Korea—all these matters and more come before Committee No. 1. And the chairman of Committee No. 1 is L. B. Pearson.

Every UN nation is represented on Committee No. 1. That means 59 countries with 59 shades of opinion and 59 ideas of how a committee should work. That means that if Committee No. 1 is going to do anything at all the Chairman must by smile, gavel and plain wisdom be the driving force.

And L. B. Pearson is driving. He isn't new to key spots in UN—he chaired the special UN Committee on Palestine in 1947 and has been used as a front and back room trouble shooter by UN since he first went to the San Francisco founding meeting in 1945 as Mr. King's senior adviser.

But this is the toughest assignment he's had and he admits it. He was a little fearful of it before it began, he says, as before the whistle blows on the football field. But he's into it now and it holds a fascination so strong that he doesn't begrudge the theatres and ball games his job has kept him away from.

Those who have watched Mr. Pearson at UN over the last four years have noticed quite a change this year. He was always bright, gay, tough ready to fight or to laugh, he could always convulse a press conference with some disarming shaft of wit that would at the same time strike a sort of exquisite pain into his opponents.

But "Mike" has now become boss man, Secretary of State for External Affairs of His Majesty's Government in Canada, and Chairman of UN's No. 1 Committee. That changes a man, even a man like L. B. Pearson. He's not gone stuffy or high hat or pompous. He couldn't. But he restrains himself now from the luxuries of self expression and impulsive action. We'll never hear him talking of a "sacred trust" as Stettinius used to do, but Mr. Pearson holds peace no less sacred and I know of no man working more earnestly in behalf of the people's trust he holds as Foreign Minister and UN helmsman.

I suppose this is dangerously near being flowery language. But I'd like to say this: Before writing this piece I have spent a good many hours deliberately asking dozens of foreign delegates and reporters and members of the UN organization what they thought of Mr. Pearson. And because I was getting only compliments I repeatedly asked if he didn't have some faults, some weaknesses.

Their Only Complaints

The only things I could find against Mr. Pearson were these: An American said he sometimes seemed to take orders from Downing Street; an Englishman said he was on occasion rather too inclined to heed American pleading; several Russian bloc delegates said he was clearly a reactionary "but a very able one."

On the credit side the top of the list is his "fairness." As he sits up there at the head of the table always on the alert to keep things moving, to clear the log jams, to reconcile defferences, you get a lively impression of a man concerned only with the cause of UN's ideals. On day this week I spoke to him at the council table immediately after a meeting and asked how he found the work: "It is very exhausting, and what exhausts you is that you are trying always to lean over backwards to give the Russians a break or to avoid a situation where you know there will be another Russian row — and yet despite all this the Russians seem really to believe they are being trapped and bullied. Day after day that's tiring—but we've got to keep trying. What else can we do?"

But fairness wouldn't be enough. Not even plus the additional things attributed to him —integrity, sincerity and selflessness. No—on top of these he must have knowledge and good judgment. UN people will not say he has more knowledge than anyone around the place but they do tell you that he knows what to do with his knowledge and that his knowledge includes that of getting advice from those whose knowledge on something is greater than his own.

They also score him high on judgment—and on timing. One man who knows him well, says Mr. Pearson has a woman's intuition. He seems instinctively to know what can be done today and what must wait until tomorrow. He smells a row before it breaks out. If it does break out, he does not charge into it head on but slides around it and gets the participants talking about something else. When he is in luck he restores friendship and agreement and the contestants make up; when he is out of luck he has at least softened the clash, enabled the contestants to disagree but still sit at the same table and perhaps join hands on the same subject.

Alive To All His Plays

The timing factor occurs again when observers note that he is usually several moves ahead of the play. It is heads-up football for this old coach of U. of T. A long pass or a run around the end or a quick step through centre—he is alive to all his plays. and the one he uses least is the plain avoirdupois line buck.

For the next point we must move off the football field. Canada has developed something of a reputation around UN for coming through with compromise ideas — a not unnatural gift having in mind that our whole country politically and economically is something of a compromise.

Mr. Pearson is artful at this method of reconciling opposite views — but he has another little game more personal to his nature than compromise. He loves to fly a kite, and when he flies a kit it isn't simply to see what UN delegates will think of it, but what the American or Canadian press and people will think of it. Sometimes his kites are acclaimed and the idea aboard becomes UN policy. Other times they are dismissed as unworkable—but the idea dismissed has been the new extreme from which UN has reached a compromise. This partly explains why you hear often of Canadian ideas at UN, and then denials that they are Canadian

Our thought is simply to get a new approach, to get the people thinking in a new direction — we don't claim our ideas and indeed often they are bagged by the Americans or British as their own. Sometimes nobody wants any part of them—but this gives us no chagrin. Mr. Pearson is the prevailing sprite in this kite-flying activity. A stolid Mediterranean delegate put it this way: "Your Mr. Pearson is a man with ideas."

Here we get into a slight contradiction with an earlier paragraph. I have written of Mr. Pearson's willingness to seek advice. But there is another side: He is much of a lone wolf when it comes to sweating out his decisions. He will hear whatever anyone has to say (and he loves little better than a good thrashing-out argument with his Man Friday, R. G. Riddell) but once the material is garnered and all quarters are heard from Mr. Pearson is likely to do his own pondering and then announce simply that this is the way it is going to be.

Because he is a lone wolf in the last analysis and because he is not only a politician but has come to office up through the department and is therefore his own expert—for these reasons he is never obliged to stall for a decision. As he sits up there as chairman of No. 1 he is on his own. He has no Canadian with him. And so he calls things as he sees them and he sees quickly.

This has made for some fireworks. The Russian bloc set out to get Mr. Pearson's nanny, probably because he's so able an opponent. They'd ride him on his decisions, bicker with him on procedure, bombast him with propaganda. There's some difference of opoinion as to whether they have ever made him lose his temper. Once he used his gavel somewhat like a sledge-hammer and stood up to give it emphasis; often-times he got into fast crossfire of charge and retort. But most observers say he held his temper; they say with relish that he merely let Messrs. Vishinsky and Manuilsky have back what they gave.

It Was His Round

Probably Mr. Pearson would like to lose his temper. Manuilsky, Ukraine's fire-eater, stopped speaking one time to remark that he didn't care to go on because the chairman was talking to someone and not paying attention. Mr. Pearson tells me he was all set to say "I'm giving you all the attention you deserve" but instead he said nothing and in his own good time finished his conversation with a member of the secretariat and then turned back to the Committee and Manuilsky resumed. It was "Mike's" round.

Then there's the story of what he said to Vishinsky at dinner one night, of the time with neat craftsmanship he steered the committee clear over the prostrate body of the Russian bloc on a matter of technical procedure merely by challenging them to challenge his decision, and the story of the Dodgers and atom bomb . . . But one can't go on for ever, even about L. B. Pearson.

The fact is, though, that he is the most influential man at UN today. Sir Alexander Cadogan or Russia's Malik or Britain's Hector McNeil or the Assembly's President Romulo or the United States' Mr. Jessop may be more senior or greater men in one capacity or another and certainly they speak for greater countries. But UN's deeds are the sum total of the deeds and decisions of all 59 countries and L. B. Pearson is more than any other the man who shapes those deeds at this session.

I asked him if he worried about this, if at night he puzzled over what he would do the following day if such and such a thing happened.

"Gosh no," said the Mike of old, "if I did I wouldn't sleep."

That's a chracteristic answer but not the whole truth. Canada's "young" Mr. Pearson has got a sobering and worrying job on his hands. And he worries plenty. Perhaps that, too, is part of his success.

Demand Data On Atomic Agreements

Graydon Believes Industry Should Share Secrets

OTTAWA, Nov. 17—(CP)—Gordon Graydon (PC, Peel) Wednesday in the Commons called on the government for a clear statement on what "agreement and understanding" exists between Canada and the United States that prevents Canadian industry and labor from sharing in atomic secrets.

Mr. Graydon said testimony before the recently established Commons Atomic Committee showed that Canadian industry was barred from participating in atomic research for reasons of secrecy.

Yet, he said, the American policy "in vivid contrast to ours" apparently is "to make available to industry such information as is possible within the limits of national safety and security."

Mr. Graydon said "this policy adopted by one nation and not another might easily put Canadian industry and labor behind the 'eight ball' . . . in the competitive field of power and other atomic uses in the future."

Calls It Tragedy

He said the chairman of the Canadian Atomic Energy Control Board, Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, had termed it "a tragedy that secrecy requirements prevent industry from playing the role it could play in the atom's early era.

"Since this appears to enter into the field of our external relations with the U.S., we should be told upon what agreement or understanding on the international level, these facts are predicated upon.

"As compared with the partnership between government and industry which characterizes the development of atomic energy on a peacetime basis in the U.S., industry in Canada seems to be completely hobbled.

"More than that, it is said that 50 per cent of the American Atomic Energy Commission spending goes directly into industry and appears to indicate that the American policy, in vivid contrast to ours, is to make available to industry such information as is possible within the limits of national safety and security.

"This enables industry to acquire the know-how of atomic energy and its direct application to industrial uses . . ."

Ottawa Asks Advice Of Exporters

Want Expert Advice Before Asking Tariff Concessions

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (CP)—The government today asked the advice of Canadian exporters on the tariff concessions Canada should seek from other countries at the international tariff conference scheduled for next September.

The External Affairs Department announced the third round of post-war multilateral tariff conferences will be held Sept. 28, 1950.

It said government departments now are preparing for the conference and "in order to aid these preparations, Canadian business firms and organizations interested trade with the participating countries are invited to submit written representations."

Canada's main aim in the conference—a follow-up to negotiations at Geneva two years ago and at Annecy, France, last summer—is to obtain more tariff concessions in the rich United States market.

Groundwork for the conference will be planned at a conference in Geneva in February. The 33 participating nations must exchange requests for concessions by Jan. 15, 1950, and briefs from Canadian firms should be sent into the trade department by the end of the year.

Make Requests

"Each country may request tariff concessions from each other country on those products of which it is or may become the principal supplier to that country," the department said. "All concessions granted will be extended equally to all the countries which sign the agreement."

Twenty-eight countries which did not participate in the first two conferences have been invited to join the 1950 meeting.

In addition to customs tariffs, the negotiations may include mixing regulations, tariff quotas and protection afforded through the operation of import and export monopolies.

Briefs to the government from business men should concentrate on the possibilities of "enlarging the access of Canadian industry to external markets," the department said. They should state what concessions Canada should seek from other countries and what concessions Canada should give, or should not give, in return.

Police Visit To Church Bazaar Causes Consternation Among Women Attending

A police visit to a church bazaar Wednesday afternoon threw the ladies into consternation which turned into indignation when they discovered why. The object was not to pinch a fortune teller doing a land office business for a good cause.

Instead the officer was looking for a number of articles discovered missing from a home.

Earlier in the day a woman member of the church, eager to do her part, made up a batch of cookies for sale at the bazaar.

However, she was unable to attend the affair herself. To ensure that her cookies got there, she phoned the church and asked to have someone pick them up.

She explained where the key was located so the messenger could get in. She explained the cookies would be on a hall table.

When she returned later in the afternoon, she was shocked to find the table had been cleared of all its furnishings including a jardiniere. She immediately thought of thefts there had been in the neighbourhood lately and called the police.

As soon as the police arrived she realized perhaps her possessions had been taken to the bazaar. A telephone call revealed she was right. The officer went to the church to recover the missing items. Apparently other people liked them as much as she did because all were sold.

She got back her prizes, but the ladies still haven't quite recovered from the awful moment when a police raid loomed horribly in front of them.

4 Survivors Limp Away From Crash

Plane Falls In Flames Other Loses Tail; Recover Seven Bodies

STOCKTON, Calif., Nov. 17—(AP). — Two United States Air Force B-29 Supjerfortress planes collided 26,000 feet above Stockton at midnight Wednesday night. One fell in flames. The tail of the other fell off and it crashed in the mud. Four of the 22 men aboard were saved.

Seven were found dead in the wreckage and eleven are missing.

The four survivors—all at the Navy Annex of the Stockton Supply Depot after treatment for minor injuries—are: Lieut. Warren F. Sarrock, whose home is only 26 miles east of Stockton in the Sierra foothills; Pte. Keith R. Burns 19, Boise, Ida., apparently the only survivor of the burning plane; Sgt. B. Schmidt, Megley, Ohio; and Sgt. Robert S. Kluge, 26, Spokane, Wash.

The Sheriff's Office field party radioed three bodies had been taken from the plane that burned on a McDonald Island levee on the San Joaquin River, nine miles west of here.

State Highway Patrolman Bill Alott said four bodies were taken from the plane that crashed six feet deep into the mud on the Rindge Tract two miles north and across the San Joaquin.

Tail Collapses

The wings of this plane were intact, but the tail assembly had collapsed. First definite word of the crash, in a fog, came from one of the survivors, Lieut Sharrock. He staggered into Edward Kenyon's King Island fishing resort bleeding from a head injury.

"The other plane ran smack into us," he gasped.

The Kenyons heard the crash. They were out looking for the flames in the fog when Sharrock arrived.

Soon afterward the San Joaquin sheriff's office reported finding two men alive. The Lodi, Calif., police department said its men had picked up four others.

A few minutes later a gunner called into the sheriff's office, too excited to give his name. He said he had bailed out of one of the planes.

Judge Warns Police Tend To Abuse Their Authority

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP)—A warning by Mr. Justice J. Keiller Mackay that some police officers have a tendency to abuse their authority brought from Controller John Innes today a recommendation that the Toronto police force should "weed out the ruffians in its ranks." Mr. Justice Mackay told the annual banquet of the Toronto Police Association Wednesday night that "there are black sheep in every fold." While praising the Toronto force as a whole he said "when uncontrolled power is put into the hands of men it is not to be expected that everybody can successfully resist repeated temptation to abuse it."

Mr. Innes to-day called on the police force to "get back to those days 25 years ago when the cop was the friend of the neighborhood and knew everything that was going on in the neighborhood."

He blamed present conditions on the use of the squad car by which he said "the human personality of the policeman has been submerged." Extreme police brutality could not be condoned.

Mr. Justice Mackay recommended that regular police officers be relieved of traffic duties.

Terrible Beating Kills Man 40

MONTREAL, Nov. 17 (CP) — Police today sought three men who allegedly pummelled a 40-year-old man mercilessly in a street fight, inflicting severe head injuries that resulted in his death three hours later.

Police identified the victim as Romeo Lamy, who two months ago moved into a new house here with his wife and one-year-old daughter Murielle.

Lamy, for the last year employed as a carpenter at an oil refinery, was seen stepping off a street car with three other men.

Witnesses told police the man was struck repeatedly in the face by two of the men as soon as they reached the sidewalk. Left lying unconscious on the sidewalk, the injured man was taken to hospital where he was found to be suffering a fractured skull. His right eye had been pierced and practically torn out.

He died three hours later without regaining consciousness.

Police said the man's death was apparently a case of vengeance. They added some of his fellow-workers were believed to have beaten him.

Report Truman To Intervene In Coal Dispute

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) —All signs pointed to presidential action today to stop a new United States coal strike from starting in two weeks.

President Truman was reported ready to ask union leader John L. Lewis and coal operators to submit their contract dispute to a special fact-finding board for a peace plan.

In lieu of that method, Truman could invoke the Taft-Hartley Labor Law. This calls for naming a fact-finding board to hold hearings and report the issues in dispute, after which a strike-banning court injunction could be sought.

The six-month-old coal dispute was put in the president's hands Wednesday. Cyrus S. Ching, federal mediation service chief, reported to the White House there seemed to be little use in trying further to get Lewis and the operators to agree on a compromise.

Lewis has asked for more wages and shorter hours for miners. He also wants a boost in the present 20-cent-a-ton royalty on coal production which goes to finance his union's welfare fund. The fund pays for miners' pensions and insurance benefits.

Coal operators have refused to boost their labor costs. They have offered to renew their old miners' contract. It expired last July.

Two MP's Suggest Canada Recognize Chinese Reds

OTTAWA, Nov. 17—(CP)—Two members—one a Liberal and the other a C.C.F.—today urged the government in the Commons to give recognition to the Communist government in China. H. A. MacKenzie (L—Lambton-Kent), who served two years in China with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, said that if the western democracies want to maintain some remnant of stability in China they should recognize the new government as soon as possible. If this was not done it would drive the Chinese "right into the arms of Russia."

Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North—said China had a Communist government but the country was not yet under full Russian domination and might never be. Recognition of the new government should not be hurried but should take place before it is too late to capitalize on the strategic effect of such recognition.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) also spoke in resumed debate on external affairs. In inaugurating the debate Wednesday External Affairs Minister Pearson indicated that Canada may recognize the new Chinese government after consultation with other countries.

Mr. Stewart said Communism will never be destroyed by war. Bullets could never destroy ideas. All democracies shared the fear of Communism, but the answer was not going to be found in 'tearing out our hair' and offering no alternative.

Communism bred in want and discord. He said that in South Africa, for instance, the government was opening the way for Communism through its treatment of the Nationalists in that country.

Mr. Stewart said that what has been spent on the Marshall Plan "will be just a drop in the bucket to what we will have to spend from now on" to alleviate the suffering of under-privileged people.

Governments, he said, should plan proper distribution of food throughout the world so as to eliminate hunger and starvation.

But the Canadian government and other governments appeared to be prepared to return to old policies under which food was destroyed and farmers were encouraged to curtail production.

Thwarts Reds

Mr. Stewart cited Norway as a country where the ambitions of Communism had been thwarted by a government which continually strived to improve the standard of living.

The attitude of the people had been indicated in recent re-election of Norway's Socialist government and the defeat of the 11 Communist members of the previous legislature.

Of the Middle East Mr. Stewart said there would never be security until the fight for oil is resolved.

He suggested a foreign trusteeship for oil which would look out for the interests of the people who had been exploited for years and which would see that every country got its fair share of the oil resources.

Mr. Stewart was less pessimistic than some other members about the situation in China.

Western nations, he said, do not realize the strength of nationalism in China. He didn't feel that Russian nationalism would prove to be stronger than Chinese nationalism in the long run.

Mr. Stewart said recognition of the new Chinese government should not be hurried but should take place before it is too late to capitalize on the strategic effect of such recognition.

Snowflurries For Ontario

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — Snowflurries are forecast for most of Ontario with cool cloudy weather indicating that winter is almost at hand in southern sections of the Province.

Up to 15 inches of snow now lie on the bleak land of rock and bush north and northwest of Lake Superior, while at Sault Ste. Marie, the ground is covered by about seven inches. In the Cochrane area, where temperatures this week have averaged 20 degrees above zero, highways are snow-surfaced.

Snowfall Wednesday in the Wiarton district of the Bruce Peninsula was reported at 4.3 inches.

Traces of snow fell Wednesday in the Kingston and Belleville district.

Flurries of snow were reported last week in most parts of Ontario. But except in the north, the snow soon disappeared when temperatures rose.

Ontario escaped a snowstorm that hit Buffalo Wednesday. More than 17 inches of snow fell there.

Suspend Guard In Fire Inquiry

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (CP)—Maj Gen. R. B. Gibson of Ottawa, Commissioner of Penitentiaries, said Wednesday night that he hoped to have a full report "early next week" on the fire in the east cell block at the Kingston Penitentiary Nov. 7.

At the same time Gen. Gibson said that a guard at the penitentiary had been suspended pending further investigation into the fire which destroyed the attic structure of the cell block.

Gen. Gibson said one guard had been "temporarily suspended pending findings of the investigation." He said no charges had been laid against the guard and said it would be "unfair" to disclose his name at this time.

Burned In College Fuss

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP) — Eric Ford, 20, second-year student at Trinity College, University of Toronto, is in hospital today suffering from chemical burns and bright orange discoloration from the waist up, said to have been the result of the annual college "cake fight" between freshmen and upper-classmen Wednesday night. The chemical was identified as titanium tetrachloride, the hospital reported.

Shah Makes Frank Bid For Greater U.S. Help

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) —A frank bid for increased United States aid today launched the youthful Shah of Iran on his month-long goodwill tour of the United States.

The dark-haired young monarch addressed himself directly to President Truman Wednesday night at a State dinner which followed by a few hours his arrival from Teheran in Truman's plane The Independence.

Iran, he said, needs American friendship, and hopes for "even closer co-operation and intensified help in the future."

The Shah — His Imperial Majesty Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlevi — made his remarks in response to words of greeting offered by the President

Wins $600,000, Loses It

Vancouver Fireman Finds His Legacy Will Be Small

VANCOUVER, Nov. 17 (CP)—Gilbert Campbell found today his $600,000 inheritance had dwindled rapidly overnight.

The legacy which descended from a blue sky Wednesday to the city fireman, with the finding of a will believed non-existent, was described by executor Elmore Meredith as "nowhere near the expected $600,000."

Meredith said succession duties already have taken one-third of the value. Besides, Campbell receives only the residue of a sum from which almost 50 other persons get various amounts.

The will was that of the late James Thomson, former hotel owner here and a veteran of the Klondike gold trail.

An 11-month search for the document preceded its unearthing in the real estate office of a friend of the deceased.

First exuberant surveys of the disposal of the $900,000 Thomson estate reckoned without some important factors.

Largest shares of the estate go to former employees of Thomson's hotel. Campbell was a close friend of his.

Discovery of the will deprived Mrs. Marjorie Millen, widowed old-age pensioner, of more than $400,000, from the estate.

Mrs. Millen, Thomson's first cousin, originally would have shared the estate with her sister the late Mrs. Jane Wilson, who was willed $10,000.

Elliott Sensabaugh, 65, tap man in the hotel beverage room for 16 years, was one of three employees to draw $30,000.

Citizens Decide Aid Teen-Agers

FENELON FALLS, Nov. 17—(CP)—Aroused by the conviction of two youths and arrest of a third following a series of break-ins and thefts in the district, the 900 citizens of this town 21 miles north of Lindsay, have decided to take a more active interest in their teen-agers.

Max Brandon, prominent business man and sports enthusiast, who appeared in Lindsay court on behalf of the youths, said the citizens felt they were "letting the youth down" by not having enough activities for them.

He is supporting the Teen-Town recently organized by the young people. They have elected officers and are planning activities.

In court Don Robinson, 16, was given a two years' suspended sentence, on charges of breaking, entering and theft of a motor and rifle; Ray McMillan, 22, recently paroled from reformatory, was sentenced to 18 months definite on eight charges of breaking and entering and theft. A third boy, 15, is charged under the training schools act.

Post Police Guard At Union Offices

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—(AP)—A strengthened police guard was posted today at CIO National Maritime Union headquarters after an outbreak of near-rioting between left- and right-wing factions.

Sixty-five policemen patrolled the scene to prevent possible new disorders or violence.

Two union officials were injured and two persons were arrested Wednesday during a 10-hour siege of the union headquarters building by hundreds of milling, shouting seamen.

The trouble started Wednesday after right-wing officials, now in power, suspended the union's New York port agent, David Drummond, and 13 union patrolmen, replacing them with right-wingers.

Call GM Meeting

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP) —A Toronto meeting between officials of the General Motors Company plant in Oshawa and representatives of the United Auto Workers Union (CCL) has been called for today by Labor Minister Daley, it was learned Wednesday night. Negotiations between the Union and the Company were suspended Monday when the parties were unable to make headway in a deadlock over the dismissal of four Union shop officials.

Pope Pleads For Wise Laws

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Nov. 17 (AP)—Pope Pius today told a group of United States Senators fear of war will remain as long as a single member of the family of nations "uses sheer force to reduce its citizens to a condition of chattel."

The pontiff mentioned no country by name, but apparently he referred to the Communist governments of eastern Europe.

The Pope pleaded for protection by law of the world's people. He urged a wise law backed by a "reasonable force," with the function to "protect and defend the rights given to man by God and just law, not to whittle them down and crush them."

It was the third time within two weeks the Pope publicly referred to problems of protection of peoples through just laws.

Guide, Hunter Drown When Skiff Capsizes

PARRY SOUND, Nov. 17 (CP) —A Canadian guide and a United States hunter were drowned and four other persons escaped when their skiff capsized Tuesday night while crossing Pine Lake, 25 miles south of here. Dead are Oly Myers, of Moon River, Ont., and Robert Crawford, of Rocky Ridge, O. News of the double fatality reached Parry Sound by Forestry Department radio Wednesday. Names of the four who swam to shore were not available.

Has Friend On Side Of Law

Spends 19 Years In Jail Thief May Get 2nd Chance

MINEOLA, NY, Nov. 17 (AP) —Master jewel thief Arthur Barry, his youth, his money and his arrogance gone, has a friend at last on the right side of the law.

As a result, he may never return to prison.

"Barry is a changed man," Nassau County District Attorney Frank Gulotta said Wednesday, indicating that Barry has paid his debt to society during 19 years behind bars.

"I feel that if a man has not learned his lesson by now, he never will," Gulotta told Judge Henry J. A. Collins. "I believe the humane thing to do would be to give him an opportunity.

"It will be our recommendation that sentence be suspended or, if imposed, that execution be suspended."

Judge Collins held Barry for sentence November 22.

Barry, jewel-thieving scourge of Long Island's wealthy in the 1920s, pleaded guilty to six 20-year-old indictments. They grew out of some of the thefts that were reported to have netted him from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000. The bulk of the loot never was recovered, but Barry says it is gone.

Gulotta quoted the 59-year-old thief as telling him:

"In those days, it was easy come, easy go. There isn't anything left. If there was—even a cuff-link—I would tell you about it."

Barry was released Tuesday from Attica State Prison after serving 19 years for a $60,000 jewel robbery. He immediately was arrested on the old charges which were held in abeyance during his years in prison.

Proposed Invitation For Princess Popular

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP) — A Buckingham Palace official said today that the suggestion made in the Canadian House of Commons Wednesday night by Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member for Peel, that Princess Margaret should be invited to visit Canada next year would be of "interest" to the Royal family.

The official added, however, that no comment is possible at the present time and said he knew of no official Canadian invitation to the Princess to far.

U.S. Caught Between 2 Fires As Acheson Tries To Discover Middle Way

Government Tries To Free Consul At Mukden While Deliberating Action On Shelling Of American Merchant Ship

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—The United States found itself at odds today with both sides in the conflict in China. State Secretary Dean Acheson was trying to figure out what to do about the situation. He had to get Consul-General Angus Ward released from a Communist jail at Mukden. He also was confronted with a need for decision on what position the U.S. government should take regarding the shelling of the American merchant ship, The Flying Cloud, by a Chinese Nationalist warship. The warship was seeking to enforce a blockade of Communist held ports which the United States does not recognize as a legal blockade.

Acheson told a press conference that the effect of imprisonment of Ward and four other Consulate staff members at Mukden had already been to end any possibility of even considering American recognition of the Chinese Communist regime.

Working Hard

He added that the State Department is doing everything it can and considering all possible steps to obtain Ward's release.

In the case involving the detention of two staff members of the Economic Co-operation Administration by Communist authorities in Northern Korea, the United States asked the Russian government to obtain their release. Acheson disclosed Wednesday that the Russians had promised to intervene with the Korean Red regime. This raised the speculation that a similar appeal might be made in the Ward case.

The Flying Cloud incident had already produced an American protest to the Chinese Nationalist government.

EYE TOPICS

EYES IN THE LIGHT

"Let me take it to the light" you often say when you want to see something more clearly. Maybe it's a telephone book, or maybe it's a piece of cloth that you are buying. Whatever the object, good, clear light helps you to see it in its true detail and color.

Light enters the eye through the pupil, which is the hole in the colored circular part of the eye known as the iris or "diaphragm." The iris functions in very much the same way as the diaphragm of a camera. It opens and closes the pupil to let in more or less light.

Adequate illumination is one of the first requisities of good seeing. Normal eyes need it, and suffer ill effects without it. But nearsighted eyes demand an abnormal amount of light, to give sharpness to their vision. And all eyes require more and more illumination as they grow older, because they admit an ever-decreasing percentage of the available light.

Proper lighting can do much to preserve your vision, but it is only one factor. See to it that your eyes are also given whatever professional care they need. They are your most valuable organs. They merit the most careful and regular check-ups. Have your eyes examined regularly ,and you will be rewarded by the greatest gift of nature—good vision.

Need Feed Grain Government Told

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — Federal and Provincial governments were urged Wednesday to take action to ensure supplies of feed grains for Canadian livestock at reasonable prices.

The recommendation came from a conference here of livestock and grain representatives called by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. All provinces were represented except British Columbia and Newfoundland.

The conference came to this conclusion;

"That, owing to the apparent over-all inadequacy of supply of feed grains the meeting feels it is in duty bound to draw the attention of the Federal and various Provincial Ministers of Agriculture to the situation, with a strong recommendation for some action to make adequate supplies of feed grains available to the livestock industry at prices within the reach of livestock feeders."

Find Communism Dominates House Discussion

OTTAWA, Nov. 17—(CP)—Parliament wound along the twisting path of foreign policy discussions Wednesday and came up against Russia and communism at virtually every turn.

External Affairs Minister Pearson led off with a general outline of Canada's position in world affairs. Opposition members picked up the trail, one after another handing the government suggestions on what should or should not be done.

Almost every topic—the North Atlantic Security Pact, the China situation, the United Nations and Western European unity — was discussed in such a manner as to suggest that the basis of every major foreign policy problem facing Canada had something to do with Russia and Communism.

Mr. Pearson told of efforts to stem the spread of Communism and went beyond that to suggest hope that territories now under Russian domination still contained the flame of liberty to lift the "darkness."

Shift In Methods

Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel), Progressive Conservative External Affairs spokesman, emphasized that the Russian peace offensive is "not a shift of the goals, but merely a shift of methods designed to lead us down the primrose path of complacency."

Canada and other countries of like thinking should realize the threat of Russian aggression is "no less because of this shift in strategy."

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) said there must be economic as well as military co-operation among nations if "we are going to lay the foundation of lasting peace."

Mr. MacInnis, acting CCF leader in the absence of M. J. Coldwell visiting the atomic energy plant at Chalk River, said he feels the most disturbing aspect of the world situation, aside from Russia's actions, is the fact that not all western European nations accept co-operation as a good thing in itself.

Deer Hunter Hit By Hunter

First hunting accident in the Napanee district occurred Wednesday afternoon when Clifford Allan Benn of RR 6, Napanee, was wounded in the abdomen by a bullet.

He was taken to Kingston Hospital and the bullet was removed. Hospital authorities at noon today said his condition was "good."

The Richmond township farmer was deer hunting in the Denbigh district, northeast of Madoc, when he was somehow shot in the left side of the abdomen. Details of the shooting are lacking.

As yet there have been no reports of accidental shootings in Peterborough County.

Dawson Reid, 54, of Coe Hill, was found dead in Paudash Creek on Sunday after an accidental fall near his hunting camp in Cardiff township.

Two MP's Suggest

H. A. MacKenzie (L-Lambton-Kent) drew on his two years in China with UNRRA as the basis of his suggestions of what to do in China.

If the western democracies wanted to maintain some remnant of stability in China they should recognize the new government as soon as possible. If this was not done it would drive the Chinese "right into the arms of Russia."

Mr. MacKenzie said the civil war resulted from a series of conditions, most important of which was the corruption of the Nationalist government.

He had gone to China firmly convinced that the government of ChiangKai-shek was the one that should be supported. After a while he began to change his mind.

Misery Unbelievable

The want, misery and hardship was unbelievable. As many as 40 or 50 corpses a day were being picked up in Shanghai. Currency inflation added to privation and became so bad that in many places shops were simply closed. Illiteracy was about 80 per cent of the whole population.

China had a strong national patriotism but it lacked a national viewpoint.

The Nationalist government was "capitalism at its worst" with a few people controlling the wealth while the remainder of the population slowly starved.

Mr. MacKengie said it was inevitable that such a government should crack and it was regrettable that a Communist regime was replacing it.

But the situation wasn't hopeless. UNRRA had, for instance, left a lasting impression among the Chinese and the people had a high regard for such western democracies of Canada.

Prices Slip In Rut On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — Prices slipped into a narrow rut in the forenoon on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials showed signs of continuing Wednesday's strong advance as key issues advanced. Golds slipped slightly and base metals held firm. Western oils were on a slightly higher level.

Abitibi Paper continued a feature, gaining ⅜ at a new high at 22⅞. Bell Telephone and Brazilian Traction brightened in Utilities and papers tended higher.

Consolidated Smelters continued the standout in base metals, gaining $1 at $109, for a total gain of $4 in two days. Noranda also advanced. Waite Amulet and Sherritt Gordon slipped from Wednesday's gains.

Federated Petroleum featured Western Oils, gaining 18 cents at $1.41 and touching a new high at $1.42.

Bishop Of Peterboro' Received By Pope

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Nov. 17 (CP). — The Pope to-day received in private audience Most Rev. Joseph Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, and Most Rev. Martin Johnson, Bishop of Nelson.

Only Half Drunk But Gets 3 Months

Pleading guilty to a charge of consuming beef, iron and wine, one of a special list of drinks, for beverage purposes, Frederick Hamilton was fined $100, and costs, or three months, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in Police Court today. He took the three months

"I was only half drunk when I came in. I came in under my own power," Hamilton protested.

"You are not charged with being drunk," the magistrate said.

$50 PILLOW

Some 20 Peterborough florists attended Wednesday a one-night "school" of floral design at Oshawa, when El De Mero, said to be without peer in his craft, demonstrated. Mr. Earl Spencley brought back with him two El De Mero "creations", a funereal pillow valued at $50 and a wreath valued at $25. Both are now on display in his shop window.

NAMES OMITTED

The results of the children in the Primary Grade piano class were omitted from Wednesday's report on the presentation of diplomas and certificates awarded by the Faculty of Music, McGill University at St. John's Church hall, Tuesday night. Pupils of the Primary, Grade Piano who received their certificates were: Nancy Hancock, D; Donald Raddon, H; Gail Bastable, H; Carl Butcher, H; Joan Farrance, P. (D, 80-89; H, 70-79; P, 60-69.)

SLIPPED SLIGHTLY

The Boy Scouts paper drive included three pillows as well as 70 tons of paper Tuesday night. A woman in the west end left three pillows rapped in brown paper on her front porch Tuesday night for a downtown store's pickup truck. By some chance the Scouts reached the house first and took the pillows believing them to be paper. Telephone calls, trips throughout the city and some digging found the pillows deep in a pile of paper in a freight-car.

COUNTY COUNCIL MEETS

The regular fall session of the Peterborough County Council has been called for December 1. It is not expected that there will be any item of major importance on the agenda but the session will be chiefly concerned with winding up County affairs for the year. Third reading will probably be given to the by-law approving the issue of debentures to finance the building of the Chemong Causeway. Second reading was given at the last meeting of the County Council but it had to be approved by the Municipal Board in Toronto before a third could be given. The approval is looked on as little more than a formality.

Send 100 Planes In Search Of Missing B-29

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 17 (CP)—The biggest peacetime air rescue search in history was under way today for a lost B-29 bomber which ran out of fuel and crash-landed in the sea somewhere near Bermuda Wednesday. Twenty United States airmen were aboard.

Nearly 100 Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard planes from bases all along the Atlantic seaboard criss-crossed above Bermuda's surrounding waters hoping for a sight of the stricken bomber or bobbing life rafts.

First search patrols Wednesday were fruitless.

The last word from the Superfortress, whose navigation instruments failed on a flight to Britain, was a radio message: Going to ditch in five minutes.

After that message Wednesday morning a U.S. coast guard vessel heard a weak SOS signals—spurring hopes that the crew memebrs had taken to rubber life rafts equipped with automatic wireless distress signalers.

Lose Way

The plane, part of a B-29 group en route to Britain from March air base, California, lost its way when its radio navigation equipment failed and it encountered bad weather.

The bomber was due in Bermuda at 8.10 a.m. Wednesday. At 7.46 a.m. the pilot radioed that he could not fix his position because his radio navigation equipment had failed and bad weather prevented his taking astronomical sights.

Kindley air base gave the plane a radio bearing. Two search planes went out to act as guides, but were unable to make contact.

At 8.40 a.m. the B-29 pilot radioed he had enough gas left for two hours' flying at maximum speed. At 11.45 a.m. he sent his last message heard by Kindley base, that he was preparing to ditch the plane in five minutes.

$50 Drink Fine

Elmer Tripp was fined $50, and costs, after pleading guilty to being drunk, his second offence under the Liquor Control Act within a year, in Police Court today before Magistrate W. R Philp, KC.

Bruce Elmhirst of Campbellford president of the Northumberland County Junior Farmers, was awarded first place in public speaking of prepared speeches. His subject was "This year's demonstration of machinery at the ploughing match," and he spoke of the display of new farm implements and referred to the new models of cars shown as a welcome diversion from farm machinery.

Reginald Timlin, Roseneath and president of Alnwick Township Junior Farmers, won second place speaking on "What Ontario hydro can do for agriculture." He spoke of the modern conveniences in the house and barn to take the drudgery out of farm work, and to help keep the boys and girls on the farm.

Coat Spotted: Cleaner To Pay

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 17 — (ENS)—Judge M. E. Miller, Cobourg, in Division Court Wednesday charged Arthur Giles, silk spotter and garment dyer, in the Weldrest Cleaners, with carelessness in his treatment of a coat belonging to Betty Buchanan. Betty was given judgment for $15 and costs.

Mr. Giles testified that he had treated stains on the coat with a three per cent solution of peroxide and that the result had been 95 per cent. Betty and her mother, not being satisfied, he again treated the stains with peroxide. He said that he put the coat outside on the garage door to dry and two spots appeared on the back of the garment.

Joe Ender, the proprietor, said that he told Mrs. Buchanan that he would dye the coat any color she wanted free of charge. He stated that Betty said she wanted the coat just as it was.

N. A. MacColl appeared for the plaintiff and W. J. A. Fair, Peterborough, defended Mr. Ender.

Court Of Revision To Hear 92 Appeals

COBOURG, Nov. 17 (ENS) — Ninety-two assessment appeals have been filed against the recent assessment of the town and some of these are industrial appeals, it was revealed Wednesday by J. B. Ewart, town clerk-and-treasurer. It is the largest list of assessment appeals in many years but in view of the re-assessment, the number is not regarded as being out of proportion. Date of the sittings of the Court of Revision has not been announced as yet.

Judge Awards Damages To Two Drivers

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 17—(ENS). — John Pelletier, Warkworth farmer, was found guilty of negligence by Judge M. E. Miller, Cobourg, in Court of Division Wednesday. He was charged with not taking proper precautions on Oct. 9, 1948, to prevent a traffic hazard when his truck stalled on Ranney St.

Paul O'Sullivan, who collided with the truck, was given judgment for $75.75 and costs, and Vernon Spencer, whose car was similarly involved, was given judgment for $20 and costs.

It was said in evidence that Pelletier was turning around on Ranney St. when the battery fell out of his truck, leaving the vehicle almost perpendicular to the west curb with the rear end projecting about three feet over the centre line of the traffic lane.

While Pelletier was absent, looking for a tow truck, O'Sullivan, travelling south on Ranney St., ran into the rear of the vehicle, causing considerable damage to his car.

Some minutes later Edward Fry, driving Vernon Spencer's car, collided with the tail end of the disabled truck. Fry testified that he was blinded by the glaring lights of the tow truck when it was about to move Pelletier's vehicle. The garage bill to repair Spencer's car amounted to $156.95.

Told Direct Traffic

Constable W. E. Cargin investigated both accidents. He testified that the visibility was poor and that the first accident took place about 8.20 p.m., followed 20 minutes later by the second. He said he had warned Pelletier to direct the traffic until the truck was moved and also to use his flares.

J. T. R. Douglas appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. Pelletier was defended by Russell Honey, Port Hope.

No Shore Casting Rule Suggested

COBOURG, Nov. 17 (ENS) — Delegation from Rice Lake tourist resort owners attended the meeting here of the Northumberland Fish and Game Association to enquire about changing the fishing seasons. The delegation proposed that the last two weeks of the lunge season be cut off and casting from shore eliminated.

The season opens on May 15 and trolling starts July 1. The delegation suggested that casting from shore be cut off, which has been from May 15 to June 1 nad that drifting start June 1 instead of June 15.

Charles Weir, biologist with the Dept. of Lands and Forests, who addressed the meeting, pointed out that in the United States everything is excluded until July 1, as far as lunge fishing is concerned. Mr. Weir asked the meeting if they favoured Rice Lake being a pickerel lake, which would be in competition with other waters as a pickerel fishing ground, or whether they would like the Dept. to make it a lunge lake, to include green and black bass. Rice Lake from the standpoint of feed was very suitable for lunge and bass. It should be a case of concentrating either on pickerel or lunge, he said.

Mr. Weir said that he would like to see an over-all law from Simcoe to Quinte. At the present time Kawarthas had a different season from the others.

Peterborough's Income Tax Payers

Income tax statistics for the year 1947 have now been published and Peterborough people may be interested in knowing how much they as a group of taxpayers contributed directly to the national coffers. There were 11,855 of them taxable, with a total declared income of $26,274,000. The average income was $2,216. They paid in income tax $2,688,000.

• • •

This seems a staggering figure, but there are two consolations. The tax rate has gone down considerably since 1947, and the number of persons exempt has increased. Further, Peterborough did not pay as much as other cities of comparable size. St. Catharines had $3,756,000 collected from it, Oshawa $3,569,000, Brantford $3,626,000. Kingstonians got away a little more lightly; they paid $2,535,000, but there were only 10,722 income taxpayers.

• • •

The highest average tax among Canadian cities was paid, strangely enough, by Swift Current, Saskatchewan, $330. There were 1,892 income taxpayers in that city. The high figure is the most convincing proof we have seen lately that the West does have waving fields of golden grain. Toronto paid an average of $321, the second highest. Oshawa was high in that boom car year; 11,243 income taxpayers in that city paid an average of $317.

• • •

The highest average declared income in Canada was acquired by Quebec City residents; $2,585. Next were Oshawa people with $2,552, next Flin Floners with $2,546. Montrealers were sixth on the list, Torontonians eighth, and, a rank worthy of note, Charlottetowners (P.E.I.) came immediately below Torontonians with an average declared annual income of $2,459.

• • •

The average declared income for the year, across Canada, was $2,358, and 2,366,456 Canadians (including 5,000 abroad) paid $622,300,000 in income tax, in the year of grace 1947.

British Export Trade Since Devaluation

The devaluation of the pound sterling on September 18th to $2.80 U.S. was calculated to have an effect on trade. It would make British goods cheaper on the Canadian and American markets and thus, it was hoped, increase sales and bring into Britain more dollars. In order to increase the dollar receipts another influence of the devaluation would have to be counteracted: more goods would have to be sold at the cheaper prices to bring in the same number of dollars. The first full month of devaluation has now passed. Has Britain increased her sales in the Canadian market enough not only to make up for the cheaper prices, but also to bring in more dollars?

Mr. Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade, gave some provisional figures for October at the end of last week. British exports to Canada totalled £6,400,000 ($19,840,000) in the first full month of devaluation, or £1,100,000 more than in September. October exports to the U.S.A. totalled £5,600,000, an increase of £1,500,000 over September. Both these increases seem favourable, the Canadian one particularly so, since the Canadian dollar was adjusted to an intermediary position between the U.S. dollar and the British pound. (The U.S. dollar is worth $1.10 Canadian, the pound sterling $3.07). Thus Britain would not have to sell so many more pounds worth in order to bring in the same number of Canadian dollars, compared with her sales in the U.S. market.

When the two increases for the month are considered in terms of dollars, they show a decrease in dollar earnings, in both Canada and the United States. That is, although more pounds worth of goods have been sold, not sufficient have been sold to compensate for the reduced value of the pound, let alone to earn more dollars. Britain received about a million U.S. dollars less and a million and a half Canadian dollars less than in September, despite her increased sales in both countries.

Too much must not be made of one month's provisional figures. They do not, however, tell a bright story of startling improvement in British dollar-earning capacity as a result of the devaluation.

Shortage Of Foster Homes

The recent appeal of the Children's Aid Society to the city for foster homes for children has met with a good response; more are still required, particularly for older boys and girls who for reasons not of their own making are temporarily homeless. The Children's Aid Society undertakes to look after them in its own quarters, but prefers, for the children's sake, to find them foster-parents who will provide a real home environment.

The lack of foster homes is general across Canada. The Canadian Welfare Council has revealed that 1,000 children in the care of welfare agencies are needing them. The agencies have been compelled to provide makeshift accommodation for 119 children in Montreal, 171 in Toronto, 140 in Halifax and 150 in Winnipeg.

There is no lack of couples wishing to adopt children; there is a long waiting-list of would-be parents wanting to take a child for permanent adoption. The situation is exactly the reverse where children who for one reason and another may not be adopted are equally in need of kindly care and suitable shelter. These orphans, children from homes where sickness has made normal parental care impossible, or where families have been broken up, need desirable foster homes for a few months or a year or two. The Children's Aid Society and other welfare organizations give acceptable foster-parents money towards the support and care of the children, so that they are not entirely out-of-pocket. But it is not the money but the kindly service to children and their presence in the home which provide foster-parents their reward.

Today's Big Free Prize

In the letter column of the Ottawa Citizen an interesting correspondence has been going on about what A Nice Young Man and A Nice Girl will do for each other. One Nice Young Man says that girls seem reluctant to entertain paragons like himself in their homes: a Nice Young Girl replies, a little sourly, that she "expects a man to spend something else beside the evening occasionally."

The Montreal Star has entered this controversy, and its comment is as follows:

In this controversy we are strictly neutral, but it is one in which we have long been interested. Boy meets Girl. Boy makes $140 a month, Boy wants to take Girl out once a week or so (object: quite possibly matrimony eventually). How much—let's get down to cases, Miss Warre—how much does the Nice Girl expect the Nice Young Man to shell out? We may invoke the well-known Sucker Law, based on the principle of what the traffic will bear. On the other hand, we are talking about Nice Girls and Nice Young Men. The problem is a difficult one. The mind boggles.

Let the Star speak for itself. Our mind is not boggling; it is not the boggling kind. We have definite ideas on this matter, which we are ready to make public for the benefit of the young of both sexes. Our advice to girls who want admirers and husbands is to entertain young men in their homes as often as they can and to feed them as well as they can. If a young man is not well-to-do (and very few young men are) he cannot afford the company of a girl who expects him to spend a large part of his weekly pay on her, nor can he afford to marry a girl with extravagant ideas. And let the girl reflect upon this: the young man may eventually assume responsibility for feeding, clothing, housing and entertaining her for a period which may extend for sixty years. While he is courting her he deserves as many free meals and as much consideration of every kind as she can give him.

This is The Examiner's infallible recipe for getting a good husband, and we are giving it away, absolutely free, with every copy of today's paper.

NOTE AND COMMENT

California reports that few accidents happen to women drivers. Because of their protected position in the back seat, perhaps.

A Western hunter has shot a mule, mistaking it for an elk. Careless fellow! You should never shoot an Elk unless you can see the tooth on his watch chain.

Ontario Hydro's current slogan is: "More Hydro in '50, Meantime Be Thrifty". We suggested for its slogan next year. Don't Be Glum In '51; Brighter View In '52.

According to a chart in the Department of Municipal Affairs 1948 Annual Report Peterborough will have all its debts paid for by 1968. From that year onward there is a beautifully clean sheet. But we suspect that citizens twenty years hence and forever will not be living in a debtless civic heaven; in fact, we suspect that already there is red in the 1969 column. Even so, Toronto and Galt already have liens on their sheets to 1978.

Profile Of J. Arthur Rank

JOSEPH ARTHUR RANK, who has announced that he may be able to make no more films after next June, is one of the few financiers of the cinema who have become public figures.

As a rule, the customer is supremely indifferent to the men behind the men who make the stars. But Mr. Rank has impressed himself upon the public as a dramatic personality; which is odd, as he is not a dramatic person.

It is, of course, the unusual size and aims of Mr. Rank's business operations that have attracted notice. When, two years ago, the President of the Board of Trade informed the House that "the Government could not acquiesce in the creation of anything like a monopoly at any stage in the film industry," Mr. Rank was director of some 60 British companies, including the flour mills he inherited, Bush Radio, and Baird Television. The film assets he controlled were estimated at something like £70,000,000.

Mr. Rank has described himself not incorrectly as "a plain Yorkshireman without the gift of the gab." He comes from Hull, where his father, the late and truly remarkable Joseph Rank, a renowned Nonconformist leader, built up his great network of milling concerns from a modest start and died one of the wealthiest men in England.

THE strangest fact about his third son, Joseph Arthur, the future film magnate, is that he made almost no mark in life before he inherited his share of the fortune when well advanced into middle age. He started work as a clerk in a family business; at 29 married the daughter of a former Lord Mayor of London; took part in the first World War as a sergeant in an ambulance unit; and on his return, at the age of 31, received some capital from his father with which to buy a self-raising flour mill. It did not succeed and he had to sell the business. He thereafter rejoined his father's concern.

It was not until he entered the film trade as a man of great substance, his father having made over to him a large share in the family mills, that Mr. Rank's story really began. Since then he has played a large role in the world of business, combining flour and films. In his own words, he "works at flour all day in the City, and at films all night." When he took on the latter occupation, it was remarked by a joker that Rank was extending his benefits from bread to circuses.

MR. RANK himself is no joker. He is a tall, heavy man, now aged 61; kindly to meet, but not oncoming; a man who finds it hard to talk and harder still to laugh; a man, you feel, of a simple intensity.

He has few cultural interests, is not a great reader, concert-goer or patron of the arts. His remarks both public and private, have been such as others might have made.

He likes to wear tweed jackets with a dashing check, is a keen shot, and after a harassing week in London returns regularly to his home near Reigate. What differentiates him from an ordinary business man is that, each Sunday that he is at home, he teaches in the local Methodist Sunday School.

Mr. Rank is, like his father, a Nonconformist. There can be no doubt of the importance of this fact in the shaping of his life. Had he not possessed convictions, he would never have pushed open the door to the phantasmagoria of the film trade, or felt morally entitled to extend and maintain his position in that strange world.

IT all began in 1934, when Mr. Rank started backing a small Methodist concern called the Religious Film Society. The following year he helped to finance a semi-documentary film about Yorkshire mining villages, named "The Turn of the Tide." It was a good film, but it had little success—because the large chains of film exhibitors were the same people as the large chains of film producers, and they preferred showing their own wares (or the inexpensive products of Hollywood). It is typical of the whole muddled story that Mr. Rank entered the film trade intending to break this system, not enormously to reinforce it.

This first thwarting experience certainly marked the turn in Mr. Rank's life story: he decided to go further into the strange new world. He learned that a former director of Gaumont British, Mr. Woolf, was founding a new film-renting company, named General Film Distributors. Mr. Rank was invited to take an interest, and agreed. He plunged himself into gaining financial support for this company from friends in the City, who included the late Lord Portal, Lord Luke (of Bovril), Mr. Lindenburg (of Japhets banking house), Sir Edward Mountain (of Eagle Star Insurance) and others. Never before had a film company had such backers.

SOON the operations of the company assumed major proportions. A deal was done with the famous Mr. Giannini, the San Francisco banker who finances much of Hollywood, to acquire the distributing rights of some of Hollywood's products. Later 250 cinema houses were bought from the Ostrer brothers. In time, the control of 300 more cinemas was acquired by Mr. Rank from Odeon Theatre Corporations.

Meanwhile, he was acquiring an equally large holding in the production side of films. To the studios at Islington and Shepherds Bush he added those vast contraptions at Denham and Pinewood.

Mr. Rank also acquired control of companies manufacturing much cinema equipment, including cameras, lenses, projectors, sound systems, screens, and even chairs, thus, again, turning himself into both seller and buyer.

HOW did Mr. Rank, whose first 45 years had been spent so quietly, ever find it in him to acquire this enormous, diverse, and now in part—but only in part — somewhat shaky business empire? A wish to make religious films could have been more easily satisfied, and had his interest only been a desire to improve the quality of British pictures, there would have been no need to buy companies making lenses and chairs.

The answer is to be found not in Mr. Rank himself but in his most intimate business associate, Mr. John Davis. This gentleman, whom Mr. Rank met early in his film career, had all the sophistication and all the knowledge of the highways and byways of Filmlandthat Mr. Rank lacked, and still lacks. So intimate has their association been that Mr. Rank is said to have been guided by him in all matters, from high finance down to whom he should meet.

Only by meeting Mr. Davis is it possible to understand how Mr. Rank, large, gauche, amiable, sincere, and only of average imaginativeness, ever came to stand before the public as a confused giant who was but yesterday proclaiming that British films labelled with the words "J. Arthur Rank present . . ." were about to conquer the markets of the world.

IT is a sad story that may become sadder before it is ended. Mr. Rank appears to be in no great financial danger, as it seems that he can always cease to produce films and remain active in the lucrative business of distributing and exhibiting films produced elsewhere and by others. Nor is he an unduly sensitive man, or one inclined to lay too much blame on himself.

There is, also, no great need to commiserate with the former moguls of the trade whose influence was diminished by Mr. Rank's Organization in the days of its expansion. They are not suffering acutely and some, at least, would not deserve much pity if they were.

The public will, no doubt, recover from the surprise of being told that "our" films were doing well, and then told that they may cease to exist altogether.

The real sadness belongs to those people who had entered film studios because they wanted to practise an art, and who have devoted their whole lives to acquiring skills that can only be properly used in the making of films. For these people, the story of the Yorkshire miller who wanted to improve and expand British films may not have a happy ending.

Letters To The Editor

BAD ENGLISH IN PRESS AND RADIO

Sir: I wish to draw to your esteemed attention the peculiar language which one reads and hears from time to time in the local press and over the local radio station.

The other day I was condemned to listen to the "commercial" of a supposedly reputed firm. One would think, judging from the world wide acclaim that the firm enjoys that it would be more careful of the products—in this case words—it produces for human consumption. However it would appear that such is not the case. Two words, hedged around by some very poor efforts at English construction, struck me in particular.

One was 'hatchability'. I was just recovering from the impact of this monstrosity when I was floored by one even worse—'liverbility' (supposedly longevity was the word sought for).

Are offences like this to continue? Offences against the intelligence of any moderately educated human being. I repeat 'moderately'. The Canadian education system, with all its faults, surely can claim that the citizens of this country have a 'moderate' education.

What is the use, however, of educating our children even moderately well when the press (yes, the press itself slips up sadly sometimes) and radio go on day after day bastardizing the language which we claim to be our own?

I remain, dear sir,
Very faithfully yours,
SAMUEL JOHNSON.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR PRESS AND RADIO

Sir: History has revealed—has it not (?)—that the more educated, cultured, and religious a country becomes the greater the likelihood of its destruction—Greece and China for example. Could its cause not be self and money worship idolatry of things?

In the Bible story of the talents we are encouraged to develop those gifts, but for the glory—and of course use of recipient—of the giver. But mistakenly we use those "favours" for the exaltation of ourselves or a literal try to buy a heaven or paradise on earth, but minus its God, but so far this has never materialized, — because it has not been etherealized.

And as for the receiver of the one lonely talent—could it not be that he hid it in shame, self-depreciation (deflation), as well as fear? This talent may have been a knack for the work of the hands, farming, bricklaying, masonry, carpentry, housekeeping, home making, cooking etc. etc. — and snobbery, hedonistic, has caused him to hide or disguise his own wonderful 'boon', and opportunity?

It does seem then, that Communism, socialism and its kin—or the alternative, the atomic bomb—is a punishment in retaliation.

But it was never meant that labour should rule; its strength and glory is in serving, and if our leaders had diplomacy, they would give 'it', its reward, and their co-operation and praise.

In olden days farmers and labourers read their Bibles in their spare time and evenings. Today it is the movies, radios, and newspaper —and it is to them—the latter—that opportunity speaks, with the concurrence of the ministry—for if the people do not go to the church,—the church must go to the people.

Over CHEX we have some splendid programmes in this intent, notably "Songs at Sunrise", at a quarter to eight every morning week days, and "Morning Devotions" at a quarter to nine. Support of those programmes by every listener would ensure our own safety and democracy and cure an eventual unity.

And in the Examiner 'editorials' we have the best 'thoughts' of the day; and in the "Letters to the Editor" a chance to speak, and if he (the editor) thinks he (the writer) has abused his privilege, then the letter should be withheld and destroyed.

A COUNTRY LIVER.

DIVINE HELP OVERLOOKED?

Sir: Can you answer a question or shall I call it a puzzle. Why no hymn and prayer at the memorial on the 11th November? I have been back in Canada nearly three years but have not managed to hear them. Are our men and women who went not worthy? I consider my son is and I feel we need the divine help as much now as when they faced more than a little wind and rain.

Trusting I'll get an answer.

A MOTHER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you.

Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing. . . . For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself. (Phil. 3: 13-16, 20, 21.)

◇ ◇ ◇

For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. . . . For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God. For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day.

For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal. (II Cor. 4: 6, 15-18.)

Ex-Wife Wants More From Joe

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP) — The former wife of Joe DiMaggio wants some more of the Yankee's dollars for their son.

She brought suit in state supreme court Tuesday in the name of their son, eight-year-old Joe, Jr., asking to have the boy's monthly allowance raised from $150 to $650.

She blamed the high cost of living and pointed to DiMaggio's big salary—reputed the highest in baseball.

Joe's ex, known in the movies as Dorothy Arnold before she married, is now Mrs. George Schubert, wife of a New York broker.

Joe and Dorothy married in 1939 and were divorced in 1944. DiMaggio won unlimited right to visit the boy, and in return gave his wife $14,000 in cash, half his personal property, and the allowance.

DiMaggio is said to have earned $100,000 for the 1949 season, plus his share in the world series gate.

Papers Slap YoungConductor

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Some music critics spanked a 10-year-old Italian boy conductor in the public prints Wednesday and told him to go back to school.

Others hailed him as a new prodigy but hinted that some more training wouldn't do him any harm.

The boy—Roberto Benzi—made his London debut in white shirt, shorts and jacket Tuesday night before 4,000 people in the Albert Hall.

He put the Philharmonic Orchestra through Beethoven's Sixth Symphony, Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Liszt's "Les Preludes," Moussorgsky's "A Night on Bald Mountain" and the overture to Mozart's "Figaro."

At the end, he was applauded and accepted a white cake.

The Daily Express said he showed "remarkable gifts." The Daily Telegraph called him a new prodigy. Both compared him with Pienino Gamba, a 10-year-old Italian conductor who wooed London 17 months ago.

The Daily Herald and the Daily Worker were more severe.

The Herald said, "The result, from a musical point of view, was negligible."

The Worker's man spoke up stoutly:

"In my opinion he should be sent back to school and even allowed to study music if he wishes."

Diesels Edge Out Petes, 4-3 In Exhibition Senior 'B' Tilt

Belleville Diesels nosed out a 4-3 exhibition senior "B" puck win over the Petes before a fair-sized crowd at Civic Arena last evening. The game, late again in starting when the ice wasn't ready, was speedy and rough in spots, though there were several cheap penalties in the 17 handed out—eight going to the homesters. The hockey was still of the early-season variety. Bastedo was in on two goals for the winners, while Wardhaugh, Goyer and Barrett each got one, Nolan aiding on one. Jopling, Griffin and Tompkins tallied for the Foley flock, Whitnall and Legrow each earning one assist. There were no particular standouts in this tussle, a return exhibition match, the Quinte crew also taking the first one on Belleville ice.

Scored First

The first frame fas five minutes old when Wardhaugh picked a net corner with Nolan's pass at close range for Diesels. Semark went off for interference and Conlin came close as the Petes pressed. Hurst went off later for handling the puck, but was back when Nolan got it for tripping A Fife-Mortimer dash nearly clicked, but Plumley held them out till his side was at full strength again. McMaster was gated for charging and Barrett followed for holding as the period petered out.

Jopling tied the count early in the second on a long shot just inside the blue line on which Plumley fanned. Griffin put the Petes in front on neat work in close with Whitnall shortly after. Wasson was waved off for slashing and McMaster went away for tripping, but they got back with no damage done. Goyer sewed up the count from Bastedo with an inside angle drive, and Bastedo put the Diesels in front right after with an angle drive as Goyer blocked Harding's vision. Barrett went over the wall for charging and the Petes roared in till McMaster got the nod again for boarding and Legrow joined him for hooking. West had a good try near the close.

Got Misconduct

Schreider was penalized to open the third for cross-checking with a misconduct tacked on for rough language. Wardhaugh was robbed by Harding at point-blank range, and then Tompkins tied the score at 3-all when he batted in Legrow's passout on Plumley's front porch. Hurst and Tompkins glared at each other and got the wave for roughing, and Bastedo hit the trail for slashing. Two were back when Nolan and Horton were gated for roughing. Plumley was hurt but returned shortly and Jopling nearly notched the winner. Barrett got the winning tally with a slip-in angle shot from a sharp, close angle by himself Horton went over for boarding and Belleville iced the puck to relieve the Petes' pressure near the end. Harding came off with five seconds left as six forwards tried vainly to tie it up

Dutchmen Trip Mercurys In 9-2 Triumph

By The Canadian Press.

It took 20 minutes of play for the Flying Dutchmen of Kitchener-Waterloo to get moving Wednesday night. But when they did netminder Bobby Gillson had a busy time.

The Dutchmen spotted Owen Sound Mercurys one goal in the first period and then blasted in nine counters in the last two frames against Gillson to gain a 9-2 decision over the Mercurys in their Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game.

In a junior tilt Wednesday night Windsor Spitfires extended their winning streak to four straight games with a 6-3 win over Guelph Biltmores. The decision sent Windsor into a fourth place deadlock with Toronto. St. Michael's Majors and left the Biltmores in fifth place.

At Waterloo the Mickey Roth-Billy Flick-Mike Dzuira line collected 13 points. Flick paced the Dutchmen goal-getters with four, Roth got a goal and two assists and Dzuira assisted on five markers.

Other Scorers

Don Bauer, Art Hurst, Bob Bauer and Harvey Jacklin were other scorers for the Dutchmen. Red Favero and Harry Kazarian tallied for the Mercurys.

At Windsor, the Spitfires shot into a 2-0 lead minutes after the first period started and were never headed.

John Bailey collected three goals, Erwin Grosse got two and Bob Rawlyk sniped the other for the Spitfires. Chester Koheczny and Ron Plumb scored for the losers. The Biltmores, however, showed more finish than their opponents. They had 34 shots on netminder Glen Hall, while the Spitfires had 30 on Dennis Mooney.

Metras Works On Mustangs

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 17 (CP)—Coach Johnny Metras kept his powerful University of Western Ontario Mustangs behind closed quarters today as he drilled them for their sudden-death game against Montreal's McGill University Redmen for the Intercollegiate football title at Toronto on Saturday.

The stern-eyed coach said the Mustangs, who finished up the regular schedule in second place behind the Redmen, will leave for Toronto on a special train Saturday morning.

Besides losing the services of regular end Harry Wade for the season, Metras said starry captain Jack Parry will be hampered with his leg injury, sustained in a game several weeks ago.

If Parry is used it will be sparingly to toss some passes. A 26-year-old native of Windsor, he is regarded as one of the finest running backs in Canadian football and was given a position on the Intercollegiate All-Star team last season.

But the line will get some additional strength with the return of middle Reg Ort, on the sidelines for the last two weeks. Metras is thinking of using him as a reserve centre instead of Bobby Knox.

Cobourg Man Named To CPGA Executive

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP) — The Millar Cup, open to professional golfers in Eastern Canada, will be competed for next year under the qualifying system instead of match play.

This decision was reached Wednesday at the sixth annual meeting of the Ontario Branch of Canadian Professional Golfers' Association, governing body for Millar Cup competition.

Dick Borthwick, of Hamilton's Ancaster Golf Club, suggested the change to encourage the younger professionals. He said under the qualifying system the younger players would have a better chance of reaching the final rounds, instead of being eliminated in preliminaries.

Elected as members of the executive committee for 1950 were:

Bill Chinnery, Hamilton; Lesley Louth, Oakville; Archie Bloor, Orillia; George Clifton, Niagara Falls; Gordon De Laat, Toronto; Bob Lamb, Toronto; Lionel Ross, Cobourg; Bob Gray, Toronto; Les Franks, Toronto; and Jack Littler, Toronto.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Bobby Jones, king of amateur golfdom, abdicated his throne 19 years ago today. Twenty-eight years old and winner of 13 national titles—including four "majors" in 1930—the Georgia shot-maker quit amateur ranks to make a series of motion pictures on golf.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Guy was asking us recently our opinion on the most important thing for success in an athlete. A toughie, indeed. Condition is quite important, and so is that old will to succeed. Also the ability to play with relaxed nerves and muscles. But high in the list, we put control. All-around control. Certainly control of the mind and body—that is, keep the temper in check and the physique in shape. And control in the intricacies of the game through constant drilling. Max Swanston once told us that, when he was catching Al Heckman in senior ball, Al threw few curves during a game. But he had uncanny control and could pitch to every batter's weakness. Keeping the odd bender for emergencies.

Frankie Filchock didn't learn to hit pass receivers, at various distances through a maze of players, in a season or two. No, sir, he practised hours every week since he was a kid footballer. And he still does. Same applies to a kicker in rugby, a scorer in hockey, a forward in basketball, and to every player in every position in any sport. Come to think of it, this applies to folks in all walks of life. We didn't learn to type by the touch system simply — it took many hours and weeks of practising. No, there's no royal road to learning, just hard work. So our first advice to young athletes is: Practise, practise, practise until you become a star—and then keep on practising.

Couple Of Cage Frays

Couple of colleens' cage contests at the YWCA gym tomorrow evening. Neill's play the junior Nurses at 8.15 sharp, and this one is followed by CGE against the senior Nurses. Two fine frays on tap by the femme hoop flippers, and fans are bound to see lively action by these basketeers. They go there every Friday night, the next card being Nov. 25 when the two Nurses' teams tangle, followed by Black's vs. Neill's. Meantime, Hilly Yudin is getting the Towne Togs in condition for their lakeshore group play, the league being affiliated with the LOBA for playdowns.

Coach Bev Goulding is not pessimistic over the senior PCVS grid squad's chances here Saturday. He thinks the Garnet and Gray bunch will beat the strong St. Catharines Tricolor to retain their COSSA senior crown, held here for the last three years. But he is drilling the team hard all week as the St. Kitts outfit is plenty potent. They rang up a high-scoring record in the semi-final against Orillia. Al Northcott will probably be the only local absentee through injuries this week-end. The game is at 2.15 Saturday aft in the Oval, a sudden-deather for the title. Alex Londry's junior PCI-ers are at Port Colborne the same day to defend their COSSA championship in a sudden-death final.

Junior Puck Jamboree

You can't say the junior "B" Oddfellows are picking any soft touches in early-season puck exhibitions here. St. Mike's and North Toronto Lions were far from that. And Toronto Morris A.C. comes tomorrow eve at 8.30 to play the IOOF-ers in Civic Arena, another right promising exhibition scrap. This team is pretty much the former Corner Boys, who play in junior "B" with St. Mike's and squads of that ilk. Bun Kingdon will ice pretty much the same set of Triple Links as showed against North Toronto, so fans can figure on another of those wide-open and scrappy affairs when two good junior hockey clubs collide.

* * * * * *

Diesels of Bella Villa defeated the Petes 4-3 in an exhibition hockey tussle here last p.m., second straight for the combined Northern Electric-Diesel team along the Rue d'Exhibish. A pretty lively and even encounter with some squawking on both sides at cheap penalties passed out. However, the referees this year have orders to be tough and make puckists play hockey, and a roughish feud could easily be built up between the Bellevillains—or how do you spell it? —and the Petes. Rumor hath it that Walt Gerow is leaving Kingston Nylons to play for Diesels. Walt lives exactly halfway betwixt Kingston and Belleville and thus can pick his spot. Doug Free is also said signed for the Quinte crew.

The Anglicans entertained the Old Sweats royally and they parted with a game apiece. Scores were 13-7 and 7-12, two nice games. It is a coincidence that both teams, when losing, scored seven balls and the Old Sweats are team No. 7.

The Bakers visited with the Big Bens and really threw the dough into the works and those Big Bens never did get it cleaned in time, as is indicated by the scores 15-4 and 16-7.

The battle cry "Glens, Glens" proved almost too much for the Posties although they did wiggle out one encounter, 12-11, going down in the other 6-13.

The Treasurer really used the hose with a vengeance on the Quakermen and they could hardly see through the dust created. But all kidding aside, the scores 15-6 and 15-3 do not give a true picture of the ends as played.

King Billie and his Orange Squeezers were nothing but pulp after their invasion of the "Old Soil". The Sons collected the big end of the scores 13-4 and 14-5.

The meeting the other night clarified the running of the Memorial Doubles and the rules to apply will be printed in the column at a later date.

Draw tickets results are very good; keep up the good work. December 14 all tickets and money must be turned into a meeting at the Legion Hall.

Another team, the Glens, have paid their entry fee.

Minor Hockey

Trojan Bantams defeated Optimists 2-1 at the Arena last night before a small crowd. Carr and Davis scored for the winners while Pagett nicked the twine for the sole Optimist goal. The boys showed lots of spirit but just couldn't seem to get plays organized. Only two penalties were handed out and both of these went to the Optimists.

Piling up a total of nine goals, southend trounced the Midget Optimists in the second encounter of last night's twin bill. Only the efforts of the Trojans' goaler prevented the Optimists from scoring. White scored more than a hat trick for Trojans with four goals and one assist. With McCarthy scoring twice and picking up one assist, Kent, Batley and Scriver getting one each. Two penalties in all were handed out and these went to southend.

Referees were Ouimet and Giardino.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto's Turk Broda who chalked up his third shutout of the National Hockey League season by blanking Montreal Canadiens, while teammate Sid Smith scored the only goal to give Maple Leafs a 1-0 victory.

Bud Poile of New York whose winning tally midway through the second period cinched a 2-1 victory for Rangers over Boston.

Gordie Howe who countered twice for Detroit and scored the winning goal midway through the second period as Red Wings downed Chicago Black Hawks 4-1.

Broda Right On His Toes As Leafs Trim Habs 1-0

By JIM BASTABLE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Turk Broda may be the oldest and chubbiest goalkeeper in professional hockey, but it didn't show Wednesday night.

The Ol' Turk, shifting 190 pounds on his five-foot, nine-inch frame like a bouncing boy, made every move count when he racked up his third shutout of the National League season as the eager Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Montreal Canadiens 1-0 in Toronto.

It was a sweet victory for the 36-year-old product of Brandon, Man., who has snatched the Vezina Trophy twice in 11 years with the Leafs.

He toiled brilliantly as the hustling Canadiens tested him with 25 shots. Twice within a few seconds in the last period he turned back dead-on shots by right-winger Maurice Richard, the Canadiens' rocket who leads the NHL goal scorers.

While the Leafs recorded their seventh victory in 14 starts to move into second place, the leading Detroit Red Wings overpowered Chicago's Black Hawks 4-1 and New York Rangers edged out Boston 2-1 in two other games. The victory pulled the Rangers out of a last-place tie with the Bruins.

Have Large Crowd

At Toronto the season's largest crowd—14,406 paid admissions—watched the Leafs ride to victory on a first-period goal by Sid Smith, aided by linesmates Fleming Mackell and Ted Kennedy. The loss dropped the Canadiens in third place with 16 points—one behind the Leafs.

Broda's two previous shutouts were registered against the same Canadiens and the Black Hawks. He now is tied with Montreal's Bill Durnan in the shutout class. Meanwhile, Durnan played a terrific game. He had 26 shots to handle and several times came up with unbelievable saves.

Coach Tommy Ivan's Red Wings took advantage of Chicago penalties to chalk up their ninth win in 13 games. It was also their sixth straight game without a defeat.

Gordie led the Red Wings with two goals while defenceman Len Kelly and forward Jerry Couture got singles. Jim Conacher tallied the only Chicago marker.

Win First Game

At New York a crowd of 9,727, smallest of the season, saw the Rangers win their first game since Oct. 26, when they defeated the Bruins. In their previous seven games the Rangers managed only three ties against four losses.

The Rangers didn't hit the score sheet until 4.44 of the second period when Alex Kaleta drove a hard angled shot into the nets on a pass from centre Buddy O'Connor. Bud Poile got his first goal of the season when he put the Rangers up 2-0 a little later. Boston's only tally came at 4.46 of the last period.

There's only one game carded tonight. The Bruins take on the Black Hawks at Chicago.

Find Tickets Biggest Cup Question

By VIC MORRIS, JR.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Who's got a ticket? That's the big question that stretches from Montreal to Calgary today as the big day of the Grey Cup final at Toronto nears.

The Dominion champion Calgary Stampeders want 5,000. Montreal Alouettes want the same number, providing, of course, that they defeat Hamilton Tigers at Montreal Sunday in a sudden-death game for the right to meet Stampeders for the Canadian football title.

Hamilton, winners of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, haven't yet been asked how many they want in the wild scramble for passeboard passports. But win or lose against Hamilton, you can bet that Tiger fans will live up to the team's name when the tickets go up for public sale.

Montreal Alouettes, who are favored 18-5 to defeat the Tigers, are preparing their home grounds for a record 22,000-plus attendance Sunday.

Calgary Coach Present

Among the interested in the stands will be Calgary Coach Les Lear and Team President Tom Brook. They will be on hand to shake hands with the winner and make a few observations on the side.

Tigers are expected to arrive at Montreal Friday night and go through a light scrimmage behind barred doors at Delormier Stadium Saturday.

Coach Merle Hapes, of Tigers, doesn't believe in giving out too much information to the enemy. He claims he has already picked his team that will play against the Alouettes—but is keeping it a secret until tonight and perhaps until the squad reaches Montreal. He intends to take along 29 players but before game time will have to announce his 24-man playing squad.

PCVS Seniors Will Meet St. Catharines On Saturday

Saturday will be Senior C.O.S.S.A. football day in Peterborough. For the first time since 1941 the Collegiate seniors will be battling for the C.O.S.S.A crown on a local field.

Coach Bev. Goulding's boys will have plenty of opposition in the St. Catharines seniors who trampled Orillia the Georgian Bay champions 68-0 last Saturday in Hamilton for the right to meet Peterborough. They are said to have a big team similar to the East York Collegiate Goliaths.

Two years ago PCVS seniors clashed with St. Kitts in Toronto for the championship defeating them 16-6 to take the C.O.S.S.A. for their second straight having defeated Fort Erie the year before by a 46-5 score. Last year the PCI'ers won the crown for the third straight year taking Burlington 20-0.

Minus triple-threater Al Northcott the PCI'ers will meet the Tricolors with Carl Sergeant at quarter, Harold Grafstein at flying wing. Ted Evans, Warren Brown, Army Armstrong at the half positions, Killingbeck at snap, Grainger and Burns at inside, Lowes and Knox at middle, Jenson and Ward at the outside position. The game starts at 2:15 at the Oval.

St. Kitts Tricolors have yet to have a point scored on them in the playoffs taking the Niagara District honors from Saltfleet 32-0.

Go to Port Colborne

Coach Alex Londry's junior crew will play Saturday afternoon at Port Colborne. The prize they hope to snare is their second straight C.O.S.S.A. junior championship.

This will be the third time in three years the boys from Port Colborne have met the PCI'ers. Two years ago the Niagara Peninsula champs managed to take the Collegians but things were different last year at the Oval.

Port Colborne has a strong team taking the Barrie Collegiate juniors handily last week in Hamilton.

No injuries will affect the juniors who will have at quarter Young, at half Fowler, Stewart and Craw, flying wing Langhorne, snap Howe, inside Facendi and Grafstein, middle White and Forbes and outside Galley and McIlraith.

They will leave the Collegiate at 7.30 a.m. Saturday; eat at the Brant Inn; play the game at 3 p.m.; eat in Port Colborne and hope to take part in the big collegiate dance at PCVS in the evening.

Barons Swamp Mohawks 8-2

By The Canadian Press.

Cleveland Barons and Providence Reds are still rolling in the American Hockey League and gaining momentum with every outing.

The classy Clevelanders, who have dropped only two games this season, racked up their 12th victory Wednesday night by swamping the hapless Cincinnati Mohawks 8-2.

The Barons now lead the runner-up St. Louis Flyers by six points atop the league's western division and also have two games in hand.

Meanwhile, Providence maintained their winning ways on top of the eastern division with a 4-3 win over Indianapolis Capitals.

Pittsburgh Hornets halted the Springfield Indians seven game unbeaten streak by humbling the Tribe 7-2 in the only other contest.

Roy Kelly and Les Douglas led the Cleveland onslaught against the willing but unexperienced Cincinnati crew. Kelly rammed home three goals while Douglas, who has led the league in individual scoring most of the season, picked up two goals and three assists.

Neil Strain, Johnny Hoiota and Bobby Carse collected the other Cleveland markers while Bert Hirschfeld and Phil Hergesheimer scored for the Rhinelanders.

The game turned into a pier six brawl in the final frame with Charlie Gagnon, Mohawk defenceman, as the storm centre.

The fiery rear-guard received two five minute major penalties, a 10-minute misconduct and a $25 fine as the result of battles with Harry Taylor and Dan Sprout of the Barons.

Swamped By Inquiries

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — The Prices Board's rent control division offices were crowded on Wednesday by landlords and tenants seeking information about the increases for which landlords may apply after Dec. 15. Ten girls were on duty at a row of desks to answer questions while six others handled telephone inquiries.

2 Children Die In Fire

SQUAMISH, B.C., Nov. 17 (CP) —Trapped in a flame-swept cabin, two children burned to death Tuesday night near here. The dead: Sharon Watkinson, 6, and her four-year-old sister, Patricia, daughters of Mrs. Violet Watkinson. An exploding coal oil lamp started the fire. Two other children were rescued.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Do you know the best thing to do when a boxer is knocked out? A boxing physician gave the answer in Havana Wednesday; do nothing.

Dr. Leon S. Gordon, medical examiner of the District of Columbia Boxing Commission, recommends this treatment for a kayoed boxer;

1. Let him remain on the floor of the ring. Remove the mouthpiece.

2. Do not rub his neck, shake his head, slap his face or try to arouse him with ammonia inhalant.

3. Always allow an unconscious boxer to remain "as is" until he has fully regained consciousness and can walk away without aid.

If he doesn't come to after a reasonable time, the injured man should be moved to a bed "on a stretcher exactly as he lay on the mat" until medical examination can be made.

Dr. Gordon was a speaker on Wednesday's program of the National Boxing Association convention. He said efforts to revive boxers might aggravate brain injuries or bleeding.

At Philadelphia, Ike Williams' lightweight title defence against Chicago's Freddy Dawson was postponed Wednesday from Nov. 28 to Dec. 5.

Williams sought the postponement on the grounds that he needs the extra week to get in shape for what he considers his toughest title defence.

The Trenton, N. J., champion, who weighed 140 in a one-sided, 10 round decision over French welterweight Jean Walzack here Monday, had signed for the Dawson fight only Tuesday.

As a result of the switch in dates, the non-title match between Sugar Ray Robinson, welterweight king, and George (Sugar) Costner was also set back a week. It will be held at Philadelphia Monday, Dec. 12.

An atomic energy by-product eventually may prove a boon to dub golfers.

How? By imbedding radioactive materials in golf balls to make them easy to find in the "rough."

Dr. William L. Davidson, Jr., Director of Physical Research for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, suggested such a possibility in an address at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Davidson said a radioactive golf ball could be found easily by a golfer armed with a small Geiger counter, a device for measuring radiations.

Fritzie Pruden of St. Catharines Wednesday night scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Harry Hart of Columbus, O., in the co-feature of a boxing card that drew 2,113 fans and a gate of $4,596 to the Akron, O., Armory.

Pruden, 145, had Hart, 141 1-2, down for an eight count in the sixth round from a smashing everhand right to the jaw.

The touring Hull Volants split up into two teams for an exhibition hockey game at The Hague Wednesday night, and the Volants edged out their rivals, dubbed Hull City, 6-5. Several Netherlands players were used to round out the Hull City team.

The Ontario Hockey Association's 60th annual meeting will be held at Toronto Dec. 3. Secretary W. A. Hewitt announced on Wednesday night that amendments to the constitution and suggested rule changes must be sent to OHA headquarters before Nov. 19.

AQUATIC BUNNY

The swamp rabbit, found in the lower Mississippi River valley, has webbed feet and is an excellent swimmer.

Wallace Flattens Sailor John Hogan

HAMILTON, Nov. 17 (CP) — Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Canadian Amateur Middleweight Champion took just 1 1-2 minutes of the first round Wednesday night to flatten Johnny Hogan, a sailor from HMCS Hunter in Windsor.

The clash was them ain bout on the bill here. Hogan was no match for Wallace, who has not been beaten for more than a year. Before the fight Hogan complained as a painful sty over his eye.

Hockey's Big Seven

Detroit Red Wings today occupy the National Hockey League's three top individual scoring positions with Ted Lindsay holding down first place with 17 points. Gordie Howe's two goals Wednesday night put him in second place one point behind Lindsay and two ahead of teammate Sid Abel. Five NHL stars are deadlocked in third place, each with 13 points. They are: Maurice Richard, Montreal; Paul Ronty, Boston; Doug Bentley, Chicago; and Sid Smith and Fleming Mackell, both with Toronto Maple Leafs.

ANKARA, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Turkish government announced Wednesday night it has smashed a plot to assassinate President Ismet Inonu. The announcement said two members of the opposition's Nation's party are under arrest. Informants said the plot also marked for death Celal Bayar, leader of the pro-government Democratic party.

MRS. WARREN PEARL: Next to the cup the British gave her is the picture of the son she gave in World War II.

U.K. People Honor Woman Who Hasn't Stopped Giving

By JULIUS HUMI
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON—The big silver cup on Mrs. Warren Pearl's desk in London bears the simple legend: "To a great American—from the British People."

It was presented the white-haired, gentle-faced woman as high tribute to a foreigner by Princess Marie Louise—tribute for generosity that began in 1915 and will go on, Mrs. Pearl says, "even when they have to wheel me around in a bath-chair."

Her generosity is not confined to England alone. Now 69, Mrs Pearl was doing charity work in the slums of New York before she was 20.

Today she is connected with more than 240 charitable organizations, about 100 of them in the U. S. Friends estimate the money she has spent on the needy runs into the millions, although only she and her bank manager know the exact figure. And she has helped raise millions more.

In 1915, Mrs. Pearl and her husband, a one-time U. S. embassy official in London, were on the Lusitania when it was torpedoed Two sons were lost in the disaster, and she came back to England determined to dedicate her time and money to needy children. Although she had planned to stay only five years, Mrs. Pearl has been in England ever since except for annual visits to New York.

"I am lucky," she says. "I was born with money and a social position. But ever since that fateful day in 1915, I have known somehow that unless I could share my happiness with those less privileged, I would get little satisfaction in my life."

During World War 1 she financed and organized a 100-truck Civil ambulance outfit. Between the two wars she became famous in London society for the parties she organized for charities.

During World War II tragedy struck again. Her son Duncan, a pilot officer with the R.A.F., was killed in action over Britain. That second disaster only seemed to have spurred further activity, directed specially for war orphans and widows. She spent three hours daily packing parcels for prisoners of war. She made daily visits to hospitals, bringing gifts to the wounded, providing taxis for soldiers going home on convalescent leave. But she seldom left clues to her identity.

"Over the years I have given cinema shows, balls, parties and tried dozens of ways of raising money for the poor," she says. "I suppose I have a gift that way, maybe it's because I have kissed the Blarney stone.

"I am still an American," she adds with emphasis. "But I love England, and am in the lucky position to have roots both here and in America, where I have a married daughter." She also has another son now a practicing lawyer in London.

"Most charity organizations have become used to appealing to me for funds, and most of my friends have become used to my appealing to them," she admits. "I don't know how much I have raised, but I know it's not enough."

At the moment Mrs. Pearl is busy organizing a bridge party to be held sometime this month. She herself does not play bridge, but she will see to it that within a week of the party a check of more than 1,000 pounds ($2,800) will go to some charity organization.

More Defence Taxes

PARIS, Nov. 17 (Reuters) — France's 1950 budget will call for 165,000,000,000 francs $471,660,000) in new taxes, it was officially announced Wednesday night. Estimated expenses for the year are 2,300,000,000,000 francs, of which 420,000,000,000 are for military expenditure.

Storm Castle Walls

GHENT, Belgium, Nov. 17 (Reuters)—Steel-helmetted police with rifles, and firemen with ladders and hoses Wednesday night stormed the wall of Ghent's ancient "castle of the counts" to remove hundreds of Ghent university students who had seized the buildings in a student prank.

Would Take 1 Bomb

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) —The Washington Post says today the staff of the United States Atomic Energy Commission has estimated that one acurately-placed atomic bomb would finish off this city as a useful seat of government. In a copyrighted story, the Post says the AEC reported that every building within 2,500 feet of an atomic bomb burst would be demolished and fires would devastate an area of many square miles.

Tells Court Childs Shot Napanee Farmer

NAPANEE, Nov. 17 (CP) — Ronnie Ross, 19-year-old farm laborer, testified Wednesday that Alfred Childs, 16, was the rifleman who fatally shot Elijah McQuaig last June 29. Childs is charged with murder.

Ross, who was working on Archibald Davis' farm at nearby Selby, said he saw Childs in the south doorway of the Davis barn after the shooting. He was holding a rifle.

"We had been working about 20 minutes," said Ross. "Harry Thompson (a fellow worker) and I heard the crack of a rifle a couple of times. I thought it might be Mr. McQuaig striking the horses, but then the bullets started coming our way."

Ross said he was wounded in the groin, leg and arm as he ran to aid McQuaig, a neighboring farmer who had come to do some haying for Davis.

"We started toward the barn and found Mr. McQuaig lying on his face, motionless, with his team (of horses) standing about 25 feet away," said Ross.

Like Sharpshooter

Ephriam Robinson, a farmer from the Selby district north of here, said he had seen Childs use the rifle like a sharpshooter. On June 29—the day of the slaying—Childs disappeared from the Robinson farm.

Mrs. Robinson testified that Childs was an ardent reader of western thrillers. She said he spent all his spare time reading them. Since his detention in Napanee county jail, it was reported Childs has been busy writing stories which follow his favorite type of literature.

Two hundred townsfolk packed the court room Wednesday. Among them was Alfred Childs, the youth's father, seated with a Salvation Army officer. During a recess, Mr. Childs chatted with his son in a corridor, and gave him a cigar which the youth smoked with apparent enjoyment.

Tour Atomic Plant

DEEP RIVER, Ont., Nov. 17—(CP)—The Commons first atomic committee Wednesday completed an intensive inspection trip of Canada's big Chalk River atomic project and admitted they were "pleased but somewhat bewildered" with what they had seen and learned. A spokesman for the 14 Members of Parliament composing the committee said the committee was 'tremendously pleased" with what they had seen of Canada's efforts in the atomic field.

Ban Army Aircraft

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP) —The Civil Aeronautics Administrator Wednesday banned all combat-type aircraft from Washington National Airport. D. W. Rentzell, CAA chief, announced in a statement that the action was taken "because of the increasing congestion" at the capital's only major civilian landing field. A study into the congestion was made after the mid-air collision about two weeks ago between a fighter plane and a transport, in which 55 died.

Jail Ringleader

WINNIPEG, Nov. 17 (CP) — An 18-year-old youth described as a ringleader of a gang of North Winnipeg hoodlums, Wednesday was sentenced to 30 days in jail for a planned raid on a dance at a west-end 'teen canteen. Gordon Wallis Lamoreaux pleaded guilty to charges of carrying a concealed weapon and being disorderly in a public place.

Charge Britain's Leaders Too Delicate With Words

By ALLAN HARVEY

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP)—One of the gentler criticisms of Britain's Labor government is that its top men are too delicate in their choice of words. Opposition leader Winston Churchill, whose handling of such phrases as "blood, sweat and tears" should win him a respectful hearing, says the Socialist party is just too mealy-mouthed.

During the recent economic debate in the House of Commons, Churchill took a couple of hefty swings at Sir Stafford Cripps. He said the Chancellor of the Exchequer insists on "disinflation" instead of "deflation" and on "revaluation" instead of "devaluation."

"It's just a farce to say there must be no increase in personal incomes, when what you mean is that there must be no increase in wages," said Churchill.

Variable Vocabulary

"I suppose that disinfilation, when it gets a bad name, will be called by the chancellor 'non-undisinflation,' and then he will start again."

Purists also took exception to Sir Stafford's use of "quantity" as a synonym for "to measure." But the Daily Telegraph, Conservative, rallied to the chancellor's defence.

It said quantity is correct, if inelegant. In fact, the verb was used as far back as 1878.

Passed over without editorial comment was "dis-saver," used by Sir Stafford to indicate somebody who takes his savings out of the bank.

Another gem of official language came from the Board of Trade. On the front page of its monthly journal, in arresting italics, it asserted:

"The over-riding criterion is the necessity to maximize dollar earnings."

That one earned top billing in a collection of sayings of the week, complied by the Sunday Observer, independent.

And a columnist lashed out at the government's use of the word "operative" for worker, saying it reminded him of a dose of salts.

Feels University Training Doesn't Make Journalists

By WILLIAM BOSS

LONDON Nov. 17 (CP)—What sort of training ought a newspaper man to have?

Is the best preparation found in a university education, in early plunging into the hurly-burly of the profession, or in some combination of the two?

For weeks — ever since the publication of a Royal Commission's report on Britain's press—readers have been writing about it to their weekly and daily press and lately the correspondence has centred upon the Times.

Lord Kemsley, a Conservative press baron with a 17-newspape empire, took the discussion to the independent "Thunderer" with a half-column letter.

"Journalism," he wrote, "lacks the formality and organization of the other professions" for both recruitment and training.

Not B-immin. Over

"An academic qualification cannot of itself make a journalist, and on the other hand the impetus to write may arise in any brain. . .let none imagine that the universities are brimming over with heaven-sent journalists."

He suggests recruitment at all levels, and where education has yet to be completed that the junior attend lectures arranged by his firm with neighboring universities. Lecture courses and conferences are arranged by the Kemsley organization for all grades, from office boy to editor and "several hundred members of the editorial staffs have attended one or other."

He is skeptical of the university man's value. "If the university graduate desires to be a newspaper man in the fullest sense of the word he can only be so by undertaking, on entering the profession, a basic training in the necessary routine of journalists' work. . .Those who believe that newspapers would do better if entrusted wholly to a graduate staff are out of touch with reality."

Supports Graduates

Support for the graudate, however, came from John Pollock, longtime Paris correspondent of the Daily Express and Morning Post, now the Daily Telegraph. Noting that in his time five of the best foreign correspondents' posts in Europe were held by university men, he wrote:

"If a foreign correspondent's work is not characterized by what Lord Kemsley calls 'the rough and tumble' of the newspaper offices, it has to be done at express speed and with the maximum of news sense, brevity of expression and accuracy."

One correspondent suggested that newspapers usually were staffed by "able, intelligent, narrow technicians," whose "competence is great, their knowledge small, and wisdom negligible." He considered wisdom—the fruit of travel and study—the prime requisite and suggested two-year scholarships to promising reporters and news editors during which the first would be devoted to study and the second to travel.

Early Advertisement

Tom Clark, former director of London University's discontinued school of practical journalism, said an advertisement which appeared in the Times 140 years ago, set forth the classical qualifications for a newspaper man.

It said: "Literary employment—to superintend a long-established and respectable literary concern, a gentleman is wanted who combines with liberal education a general knowledge of the world, and intimate acquaintance with the occurrences of the present times. . .An active mind and the habits of attention are also essentially necessary. Some acquaintance with the mechanical arrangements of the press would be desirable, though it is not essential."

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

There are those who say, "costs must come down"—costs, that is, within your business, within your office.

But how? By the pruning knife method, or by a bit of thinking?

Dr. R. P. Brecht, professor of industry at the University of Pennsylvania, offers some advice on the subject.

He offered it Wednesday night to the Toronto chapter of the National Office Management Association, of which he is second vice-president in the United States.

Well, if you get panicky, or if things get suddenly critical, just possibly, according to Dr. Brecht, there may be some justification for the pruning knife; but he thinks it is the weakest and least intelligent approach.

The pruning knife system is, of course, the one in which you suddenly say to all departments: "Cut costs by so much per cent—to heck with everybody and everything—cut costs."

Offer Alternative

But he offers an alternative to the pruning-knife. And the gist of it is to make sure that you are operating in such a way that your employees are working with you.

He emphasized particularly, for office mangers, simplification of methods—more effective ways of doing things, elimination of waste motion and of waste time in paper work.

In accomplishing this, he said, one of the big jobs of business and industry is to democratize the economic process.

"The whole industrial system has grown up with a tendency not to make employees feel themselves a part of it. What is the use of introducing new methods, if the people who do the work treat them with indifference."

Employees, at the supervisor and rank-and-file level, must fee they can use their brains and come up with a suggestion. They must feel, too, that they can do it with security, that they won't be putting themselves out of a job if they do suggest a more efficient and economic way of doing things.

He cautioned, also, that a simplification program can't be entered into lightly. It must have the real support, spiritual and financial, of top management,, support which will see it through and not suddenly get fed up if the results don't immediately add up to profits.

Urges Separate Traffic Police

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP)—Mr. Justice J. Keiller Mackay of the Ontario Supreme Court recommended Wednesday night that regular members of the police force should be relieved of traffic duties.

At the annual banquet of the Toronto Police Association, Mr Justice Mackay said regular members should be relieved of traffic duties by an auxiliary which would have a lower pay scale and fewer responsibilities.

He said:

"It does not require young men of ability and judgment to take the number of offending vehicles or post temporary no parking signs. It is a question whether dealing with such petty duties is good for the morale of men whose first duty is to safeguard the people."

He said police officers should be careful of the rights of the individual.

"Too much authority is like alcohol in its effect on the brain," he said. "There is no excuse for infringing on the rights of the individual on the pretext that you are defending the freedom of the state."

Manitoba Beaver Flourish In Huge Northen Nursery

By DAVE CROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Vast areas of Northern Manitoba have been turned into a huge beaver nursery.

Compared with a closed season in 1942-43 when there was no profit from the declining beaver population, Manitoba last year netted $425,000.

A Northland variety of dog-catcher and regulated trapping keep the pelt yield steady and eliminate "nuisance" beavers.

For years the beaver was a problem for railwaymen, damming culverts and causing floods on the lines. Once a rail crew spent three successive days cleaning out a culvert, only to find it plugged again by morning. They finally had to shoot the beaver. Six carloads of gravel were needed for repairs.

In 1945 a "nuisance patrol" was formed to travel the railway on gasoline hand-cars and trap the pests. In their first year, the two-man team caught 152 beavers. This year the objective is 250—an impressive figure when it is realized three females produce about 300 descendants in five years.

Beavers caught by the patrol are not killed, but transported by airplane, train, truck or dogsled to areas where there are a few of the animals.

The Manitoba government, having seen the provincial beaver trade fall to a point where a "closed season" sign was needed, brought in the registered traplines system in 1940. The idea is to control the annual kill so that enough beavers are left to breed a new crop.

A Manitoba game and fisheries branch official said "transplanting" animals is an important part of the control set-up.

"There was a closed season as far as beaver were concerned in 1942-43, because of the scarcity of the animal," he said. "In 1947-48, however, 10,762 beavers were trapped and their pelts sold.

"While Manitoba's figure is not nearly as impressive as that of Ontario or Quebec—the latter has a crop about four times as big—it is fair for the province's size in comparison with the other two."

Pair Studying Newspaper Work Have Lively War Experiences

By GEORGE RONALD

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP) — Andre Schuwer can tell you how to plan a mass escape from a Gestapo prison. Roy Ferroa knows the niceties of unloading tobacco on the wartime black markets of the Far East.

But both prefer to talk about Canada, Canadians and Canadian newspapers.

Schuwer, 35, an editor of the Netherlands Press Agency, ANP, and Ferroa, 33-year-old reporter for the Straits Times of Singapore, are in Canada for a six-month study of newspaper, radio and film methods.

They are among 64 persons from war-devastated countries who have won fellowships sponsored by the Canadian Council for Reconstruction through the educational, scientific and cultural organization of the the United Nations. The others are doctors, teachers, agricultural specialists.

"In Between" Role

Schuwer and Ferroa are impressed by the "in between" role Canada plays in dealings with Britain and the United States. But several weeks in Ottawa and Toronto has convinced them that a Canadian is a far cry from either a Briton or an American.

Schuwer said in an interview: "I like the proud way you people say, 'I'm a Canadian'." Ferroa, on the other hand, has noticed among most Canadians a love of British tradition.

Ferroa agrees with Schuwer, however, that Canadians are "much more American than British in your ways."

Schuwer was helping edit a provincial paper in the Dutch town of Zwolle when his homeland was overrun by the Germans in 1940. He remained at his job for a year before slipping into the Dutch underground as editor of a mimeographed publication which never was more than a few jumps ahead of the Gestapo.

With fake papers identifying him as a slave laborer bound for the anti-invasion fortifications along the French Channel coast, Schuwer made his way to the safety of Switzerland. He went back to France after the Allied invasion, joined the Dutch army air force and served three years with the Dutch naval air arm in Indonesia before returning to the Hague in 1948.

Save 20 Lives

A raid on a Gestapo prison was one of the many Dutch underground exploits in which he participated. He and his friends stole two German officers' uniforms to gain entry to the jail, where 20 underground men were held for execution.

"We cleaned out the whole prison," he said. "About six people were shot as a result of what we did but we still saved the lives of 20. That's the way it was."

Ferroa says his wartime experience was "tame" by comparison. The Malaya Tribune, for which he was working when the Japanese invaded Southeast Asia, was seized by the Japanese navy.

"You might say I then started down "tobacco road," he said. "I sold tobacco on the black market for a year or so and business was very good until the supply failed. One day two Japanese who seemed to know all about me came and 'suggested' I go to work for Domei, the Japanese News Agency.

"The British seemed far away at that time and I had no alternative."

Cadi Amazed By Evidence, Gives $10 Fine

I thought I had heard the ultimate when I heard the evidence of Carr, but at that point I had not heard the evidence of the defence, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, commented in police court today as he dismissed a charge of careless driving against David Fenn, 756 Sophia Street. The charge arose out of a car accident involving Fenn and Harold Carr, 258 Mark Street.

Fenn is not to be relied upon in the slightest degree. We are driven back solely to the evidence of the police officer, he added.

Finally, he said, all along the line we are driven back to deductions and therefore I give the accused the benefit of the doubt.

Guilty On Lesser Count

Fenn pleaded guilty to driving without a licence and was fined $10 and costs.

The charges arose from an accident in which two cars collided almost directly in the centre of the intersection of Mark and Sophia Sts. at noon Oct. 29.

One car, driven by Fenn, turned over on its left side and was almost a complete wreck. The other car, driven by Harold Carr, 258 Mark St., hit a tree on the northwest corner and turned completely around before coming to a stop. It was badly damaged on both sides by the Fenn car and the tree.

Traffic Officer Claire McGillen, who investigated the accident, testified there was too much damage on both cars for them to have been travelling about 30 miles an hour.

The magistrate intimated he could not decide from the evidence which car had entered the intersection first.

To Contest Mayor?

COBOURG, Nov. 17—(ENS)—Rumored candidate for mayor to oppose the present mayor Joe Smith is Harry Fisher, local dairyman. Mr. Fisher was county organizer for the Liberal party in Northumberland County at the last federal elections. Mr. Fisher was non-committal when asked if he would oppose Mayor Smith. Local municipal politicians see a partisan battle between Liberal Harry Fisher and Conservative Joe Smith.

VON Visited 214 Patients In One Month

October was a busy month for VON nurses, Miss Mary Ross, nurse in charge of the Peterborough branch reported at this month's board meeting Wednesday. Two hundred and fourteen patients were visited and of 89 new contacts, 28 were medical and surgical cases, eight of which had been discharged from hospital while still in need of nursing care. There were 15 pre-natal patients and 46 were mothers and babies.

Visits totalled 583. Thirty-six to expectant mothers, 293 to mothers and babies and 254 were medical and surgical.

Most tuberculosis patients are receiving care in a sanatorium, Miss Ross reported, but there are exceptions and in cases where the patient is at home, the VON can be of service. One TB patient has been nursed at home since May, she said.

"Not only does the VON give nursing service, but also advises the family of preventive measures. Medical and surgical visits to TB patients in Peterborough to date number 60, she said.

Death Rate Down

The death rate from tuberculosis is on the decrease in all provinces, Miss Ross said. The 1948 figure represents a drop of 6.3 points from the 1947 figure.

Ontario has the lowest rate and Saskatchewan the second. The highest is in Quebec, although there has been a decrease there during the past two years.

After reporting the decrease in tuberculosis, Miss Ross said that multiple sclerosis, a crippling disease of the nervous system, is becoming more wide-spread. The Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada has asked the Peterborough branch of the VON to ask patients to register with the society in order that accurate statistics can be compiled.

In Peterborough the order is nursing two sclerosis patients, both young married people, Miss Ross reported.

PCVS Students Plan Parade Before Game

Planned by the Students' Council the parade will move off from the collegiate at 1.00 p.m. and arrive at the Oval in time to get the crowd in a proper football mood. Horses, bicycles, sirens, clowns, decorated cars and a band will lead the procession down George St. to Charlotte to Water to Simcoe to George to Park Hill Road and the Oval. Before the game and at half time the C.G.E. pipe band will play. The bleacher seats are promised to be in place for the game.

3 Apartments Rifled Of $100

More than $100 was stolen from three apartments at 414 Water St. Tuesday afternoon police revealed today.

Mrs. Frederick G. McNeely told police she left her apartment unlocked while she was away 'just five minutes." In that time someone entered and tore a change purse containing $10 or $12 from her purse which she had left behind.

Albert Radford reported $4 had been taken from his apartment while it was empty, but locked during the afternoon.

Robert Gamble, who heard about his neighbour's loss, was sympathizing with them the following day. Then he and his wife decided they had better check on the money they had been saving for Christmas. When they looked they found their cache of from $90 to $100 had been taken.

They also noticed drawers had been searched. Mr. Gamble said his apartment had been empty with the door locked most of Tuesday afternoon. He said he could not see how entry had been made, but suspected someone had a key.

LIGHT BULBS REMOVED

For the second time in recent weeks, the light bulbs which illuminate Mrs. George Pogue's tourist sign in front of her house at 82 Lansdowne St., have done a vanishing trick. The sign stands firmly at the front of the house and at the top are two light bulbs and a green shade, training the light onto the sign. Mrs. Pogue discovered Tuesday night that the lights were not on and upon investigation, found they had been removed. This was the second time this had happened.

Fame Was Within His Grasp As Death Struck Lucky Ace

By NICK NICKELS

In Philadelphia on the eve of Nov. 12th the Ace died suddenly at a trial of champions. He had already gained 14 points to place him on the threshold of immortals of his kind when Fate denied him the final count. He is being returned to Bewdley embalmed, the laurels of glory as cold as he.

The Ace was a dog but not of the ordinary kind. His full name, registered in Canadian National Livestock Records of April, 1948, was Lakeland Lucky Ace, No. 246949 an English white and fawn bulldog. From famous blood lines of the Basford and Morovian strain, he was of the ninth generation of champions. His sire was Ch. Kempsten Legacy's Barry and his dam, Lady Theda.

Born two and one half years ago at the kennels of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goss of Bewdley, the Ace was picked as champion material before he was 24 hours old. Dog breeders say that all the traits are visible at this tender age and that they disappear immediately and do not show again until several weeks later, and then gradually.

Fame In 14 Months

The Ace was groomed for the show ring early in life and was exhibited at the Royal Winter Fair in 1947 in the junior puppy class. He took first place. During '48 he was shown at the Toronto Sportsmen's Show, at two shows in Ottawa, and in Chatham, London and Kitchener. At each of these kennel shows he was first in the "Best To Breed" class. At the Guelph Kennel Club he gained his tenth show point to make him champion, according to Canadian rules. Ace was then 14 months old.

The next honors came when he won five shows at the Canadian National Exhibition the same year and wound up the year's show circuit with another final win at Port Colborne.

Mrs. Goss knew that the Ace was good enough to become champion of two nations. He was entered in the American show ring circuit in which he had to gain 15 points to become American champion.

The first show was in Boston where the Ace "placed in class", and then to Philadelphia to enter the largest specialty show on the continent. He was rated "Best of Winners" there and finished the season circuit in Camden, N.J., with more honors.

Pneumonia Bout

Starting early in 1949, this year was a constant series of American shows for the Ace,—Boston, Buffalo, Detroit. The pace was terrific. He contacted pneumonia from the strain and was nursed carefully back to his usual good health in Bewdley before being shown again.

Madison, Plainsfield and Mount Holly, all in New Jersey, were the next club showings, and back to Canada to Unionville and three more shows at the CNE this past summer. Steadily piling up his American points, the Ace was shown again this fall in Boston and in New York State at Geneva, Rochester, Syracuse and Binghampton.

The Ace was in great form and won time and again, now a veteran of many show rings and an audience favorite wherever he made an appearance. A final trip to Philadelphia once more, his mistress knew, would win the final point he so richly deserved.

Big Moment Comes

They started off by car from Bewdley about a week ago. The Ace, as usual when travelling, was panting heavily, but was in fine shape. Philadelphia, on the eve of the Army-Navy football game, was a bad place for a highly-strung show dog to quiet down before the biggest moment of his career.

Mrs. Goss moved him to the quiet of a friend's home. He was still too agitated to calm down and a veterinary was called. The Ace was removed to an animal hospital for attention. Twelve hours later the champion died.

Undertaker Obliges

His mistress was beside herself with grief. She was so attached to the Ace that she requested that his remains should be embalmed and shipped back to Bewdley for burial. The request was unusual, but the veterinary complied with the assistance of an animal-loving undertaker, and the request for shipment was placed in the hands of the British consulate.

Since her arrival home on Sunday, Mrs. Goss has not been able to settle down. Every shelf, side table and spare wall display trophies won by the Ace, silver salvers, cups, plaques of all sizes and even a magnum of champagne. Boxes of bright ribbons are stored in every cupboard.

Behind the house in a thermostatically-controlled kennel house nine other bulldogs of various ages snuffle and waddle about the clean pens or in the yard runs, sad-eyed Lady Theda, the Ace's mother, senses the absence of her favorite son and knows he will never return alive. She will be one of the chief mourners when the mortal remains of Lakeland Lucky Ace arrive in a few days for burial at Bewdley.

Thirty Agencies Discuss Formation In City Community Welfare Body

Representatives of 30 Peterborough agencies and organizations met Wednesday night at the YWCA to consider co-ordination of welfare and community services through the formation of a Community Welfare Council. The meeting was sponsored by the Public Affairs Committee of the YWCA with Mrs. Paige Rowell in the chair.

The chairman outlined why the meeting had been called, and pointed out that much overlapping in recreational and welfare work was evident where many groups were working individually and without understanding of the functions of other groups in the field.

Examples of Overlapping

Miss Rachel Young of the Children's Aid Society cited examples from her experience which showed the overlapping of services, and said that she believed damage was sometimes done to families receiving too much undirected attention from different organizations.

Miss Mary Ross of the Victorian Order of Nurses was of the opinion such a council would make "our social planning much more efficient in meeting the needs of the community, and especially in times when employment is not at a maximum level, and would make voluntary workers aware of the extent and limitations of the work of other organizations."

Mrs. Rowell announced a meeting to be held at the YWCA on Tuesday, November 20, at which Miss Joy Maines, Executive Secretary of the Association of Canadian Welfare Workers will speak on "The Function of a Community Welfare Council". J. E. Girven, representing the V.O.N. and Bruce Sargent the Children's Aid moved that before such an organizational group is set up, Miss Maines should be heard.

Present were: Mrs. R. Whalen, Canadian National Institute for the Blind; Mrs. J. E. Watters, University Women's Club; Mrs. Chas. Ray, Peterborough Branch Can. Red Cross Society; W. H. Yelland, Canadian Legion, Branch 52; Magistrate W. R. Philp, Canadian National Institute for the Blind and Family Court; Miss Rachel Young, Children's Aid Society; R. J. Youth Sentenced To 18 Months On Six Counts

LINDSAY, Nov. 17 (Special to The Examiner)—Pleading guilty to six charges of breaking, entering, and theft, Raymond McMillan, age 22, a recent resident of Fenelon Falls, was sentenced in Lindsay Police Court Wednesday to a reformatory term of 18 months definite and six months indefinite.

A 16-year-old youth and a 14-year-old, both of Fenelon Falls, were given suspended sentences.

Provincial police testified that McMillan earlier this year began a series of robberies in Fenelon Falls and at Long Beach cottages. On one occasion the two younger lads accompanied him and the loot included an outboard motor and a .22 rifle from the summer cottage of a Torontonian.

Other items which McMillan pleaded guilty to stealing were a diamond ring, a wrist watch and a small sum of money.

A native of Smooth Rock Falls he had a previous criminal record. He was paroled in March from the Guelph Reformatory after serving two years for robbery with violence. For several months he worked as a tinsmith's helper in Fenelon Falls and then began the series of thefts.

The lad of 16 pleaded guilty to the charge of theft of the outboard motor and rifle but as it was the first time he had been involved in trouble he was given a suspended sentence of two years upon signing a $100 bond.

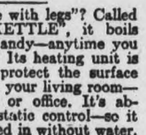
Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, Nov. 17th.—When a woman says she just loves to bake you can be sure she's a good cook! You can be sure, too, that her success largely depends on the best ingredients. So I'm not at all surprised when these women tell me they always bake with SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR. Made from choicest soft winter wheat . . . sifted over and over until 27 times as fine as ordinary flour, Swans Down makes every cake light, even-textured. exquisitely moist and tender.

Have You Seen that wonderful, new electric "kettle with legs"? Called "RADIANT 3 MINUTE KETTLE", it boils anyplace there's a wall-plug handy—anytime you feel like a cheery cup of tea! Its heating unit is well-insulated and its "legs" protect the surface of your furniture—so boil it in your living room—your bedroom—your kitchen or office. It's absolutely safe! It shuts off automatically by thermostatic control—so it never boils dry AND it shuts off at once if it's plugged in without water. It's economical—lasts a lifetime and saves power because it heats faster! In less than three minutes you can boil enough water for four cups of tea!



There's An Old Saying, that if a woman tells her age — she'll tell anything! Whether or not this is true, let's confess most of us like to keep folks guessing about our ages. And a fresh, youthful complexion will keep them guessing for a long, long time! That's why I recommend regular use of WOODBURY FACIAL SOAP! It will help keep your skin smooth and young-looking, for Woodbury Soap is extra-mild, kitten-mild! It actually contains a skin-smoothing ingredient of fine face creams! You'll never, never have "skin-burn" when you use this gentle soap—skin-burn is that roughened condition of skin robbed of its softening oils. So, for that youthful complexion—make a daily "beauty habit" of Woodbury Soap!

Are You A "Hit-And-Miss" Christmas Shopper? Or do you make a well-thought-out list of the presents you're going to give? Well—here's a gift for the top of your list . . . something that man-in-your-life will really appreciate . . . A GENUINE RUBBERSET SHAVING BRUSH! Every man enjoys the feeling of satisfaction that a really smooth shave gives him! And a smoother shave is easier to get when he uses a genuine "Rubberset" shaving brush. Yes, a Rubberset Shaving Brush is the kind of Christmas gift your man will enjoy owning and using for years to come. You can't buy a better present for him! . . . In bristle, nylon and badger—$1.00 to $15.00 at all drug and department stores.

Time Now to bake that Christmas cake, if it's to be "well ripened" for Christmas entertaining! So here's a timely, completely delicious recipe for Cherry Fruit Cake . . . made with FIVE ROSES FLOUR, the famous flour "for all purpose baking" . . . .

2 eggs	1 tspn. nutmeg
1 1/2 cups fruit sugar	2 tspns. vanilla
1/2 lb. butter	2 tspns. baking powder
1 lb. white sultana raisins	2 3/4 cups sifted Five Roses Flour
3/4 cup chopped orange peel
1 1/2 cups shredded pineapple	1/2 cup pineapple juice
1/4 lb. candied cherries	1 cup shredded cocoanut

Sift together the flour, baking powder and nutmeg. Cream butter and sugar. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with the pineapple juice to the creamed mixture. Add cocoanut and egg whites beaten stiff. Add the rest of the fruit and vanilla. Pour into a greased paper lined cake pan. Bake at 300 deg. F. for 2 hours. After cake is cold, wrap in cheesecloth which has been dipped in a little sherry or brandy. Store in tightly covered tin container. An apple placed in the container will keep the cake moist. Recipe makes a 5 lb. cake.

It's True that in certain parts of this continent, steak and potatoes used to make a regular breakfast meal . . . with possibly an apple pie to "finish off"! But old timers and modern families are getting their breakfast nourishment a lot quicker and easier these days! Now one of the most popular breakfastime foods all over the country is luscious 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT"! So speedy—it cooks to complete digestibility in just 5 minutes of boiling! And it's so good—as smooth and tasty a breakfast dish as ever you could wish! Good for you, too—for 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" contains Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. No wonder "Cream of Wheat" is a family habit in thousands of homes everywhere!

Faraway Places or the summer cottage by the lake . . . whatever your plans for next year . . . you'll find that Saving is the Royal Road to the perfect vacation. So why not begin your journey there today? Open your special Savings Account at the BANK OF MONTREAL! Then, once a week or once a month 'til holidaytime, put aside a fixed amount. The courteous, friendly people at your nearest branch of the B of M will be glad to help you open your "Sunshine Account". Keep to it and you'll make next year's vacation the one you'll always remember.

Are You "Sick And Tired" of having your husband's wool socks "mat" when you wash them? Well—here's the best way I know to end your "wool sock worries":—always wash socks in VEL! "Vel" is ideal for woollens of all kinds! You see, it helps avoid "matting" in three ways. First, it works perfectly in the lukewarm water best for washing wool. Second, it penetrates quicker—deeper—so no rubbing is necessary. And, last but not least, Vel contains no soap or alkali so it cannot leave any soapy residue to coarsen the wool fibres or dull the colours! "Vel" is so very gentle with fabrics of all kinds, you'll like it best for washing your nylons and undies too!

There Are More Ways Than One to "stretch" a budget. You can scrimp and save 'til it hurts. But here's one way to save pennies that's not only painless . . . it's a pleasure! Make a cooking habit of LIBBY'S EVAPORATED MILK! Cocoa—custards—sauces—scrambled eggs . . . almost everything you serve can be richer, tastier, more nourishing—at much less expense when you use Libby's! Yes, today, compared with ordinary milk, Libby's is more economical than ever! Truly! You see, it's fine, country-fresh milk with all the original cream left in and half the water removed. Ever Tasted Food Without Flavour? It's so dull and uninteresting that you resolve never to be guilty of cooking flavourless food yourself! That's why you'll want to set aside a special shelf in your kitchen for SHIRRIFF'S FLAVOURING EXTRACTS (True Vanilla—Lemon—Almond—Peppermint—and all the other exciting flavours)! Just a little of any one of them flavours cakes—frostings—puddings . . . oh, so many foods!—deliciously! Try this Shirriff's recipe for a real taste treat! . . . Cherry Hermits—

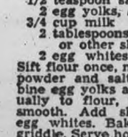
1. Mix and sift 1 1/2 cups pastry flour, 2 tspns. baking powder, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/4 tspn. salt
2. Beat and add 1 egg, 1 tbspn. milk, 1/4 cup melted butter, 1 tspn. Shirriff's Cherry Flavouring Extract
3. Add this mixture to dry ingredients and stir until dampened.
4. Add 1/2 cup drained Maraschino or candied cherries, 1/2 cup nuts
5. Drop, in teaspoonfuls, on oiled sheet. Bake at 350 deg. F. for about 10 minutes or until brown.

For instance, there's that new FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATOR you've dreamed about for so many Christmases. This Christmas morning it can take its wonderful place in your kitchen, if he sees a Frigidaire Dealer soon. A sly mention of the Frigidaire Meter-Miser is something to intrigue a man. It's the simplest cold-making mechanism ever built. Has only two moving parts. Never needs oiling or any attention. And mention the scads of ice cubes that pop out instantly from Quickube Trays, the huge quantities of delicious frozen foods you could keep on hand, and the out-of-this-world frozen desserts you could make. Yes, start your Christmas hinting early.



Griddle Cakes or Pancakes—call them what you may! — but I'll bet you've never tasted such deliciously light and tender ones as these! For CALUMET BAKING POWDER'S dependable "double-action" makes them perfectly leavened, even-textured—always.

2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
3/4 cup milk

Electors Discuss Village Needs

Third annual meeting of the municipal electors of Lakefield for the discussion of civic affairs will be held in the town hall Tuesday Nov. 29.

Essentially its purpose is to enable the elected representatives of the ratepayers to consult the citizens collectively on matters pertaining to the good of the community. Their views are sought on projects in hand or in contemplation as a guide to the council on policies and undertakings.

One of the topics for the approaching meeting is a "use of land" bylaw involving more or less town planning.

To Encourage Interest

The first meeting was inspired by Reeve Wm. C. Grant as a means of encouraging the townspeople to take more interest in the administration of their municipal business. Resolutions for discussion are invited, and the chief concern is directed to the future rather than to a review of things done, as at the nominations meeting.

The chairman is some one from outside the community, if that engagement can be arranged. Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore presided a year ago.

Lakefield nominations are Monday Dec. 5, beginning at 8 p.m. for reeve, council, Public School board and Hydro Commission.

U.S. Pilot Rescued

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 17 (CP) — The pilot was rescued when a United States naval aircraft plunged into the sea five miles north of here Wednesday. He was identified as Lieut. Henry H. Henderson. His fighter was returning to the U.S. aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, on manoeuvres with other U.S. warships, after landing a passenger at Argentian naval base. The single-engine plane, accompanied by three other aircraft, encountered engine trouble and had to be ditched.

May Be Offered Post

VANCOUVER, Nov. 17 (CP)—The Vancouver Sun in a dispatch from Victoria Wednesday says Premier Byron Johnson of British Columbia may be offered an important post in the federal cabinet. Premier Johnson is in Ottawa after a surprise overnight trip by plane. The Sun said: "A telephone call from the east suggested an emergency trip . . . it is known federal cabinet changes are under discussion. . ."

The young physical claims the ash-can-type apparatus can produce radioactive isotopes as good as those made in a huge, full-size atomic pile.

Sleeping In Raw To Be Depicted On Movie Screen

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17 (AP)—The good old American custom of sleeping in the raw finally will be depicted on the screen.

I guess it was inevitable. Movies have been going down the road to realism for some time. Actresses have been shown without makeup, without fancy hairdos. And now without clothes.

This new blow for realism is being struck in the film, "In A Lonely Place." It came about during a confab with producer Robert Lord, director Nick Ray and star-producer Humphrey Bogart. Also present: Gloria Graham, the co-star and Ray's wife.

"We've got a scene of Gloria waking up in the morning," said Bogart. "What'll we have her wear—nightgown or pyjamas?"

Au Natural

The men mulled the momentous matter for a few minutes. Then Miss Graham spoke up:

"What's the matter with you dopes? I sleep in the nude and so do millions of other American women. Why don't you do it that way?"

The men were stunned. "It's been done," said Ray defensively.

"Wait a minute," said Lord. "I've been in the picture business many years and I've never seen it done."

It was true. For years, glamor girls have been clambering out of king-size beds attired in gowns that looked no more slept in than their other costumes.

Much Better

So the scene was shot with Miss Graham in the altogether. Ray, a stickler for the real thing, had her slip under the covers and slither out of her clothes. Of course, she didn't clamber out of bed; she played the scene with her arms and shoulders above the sheet. Miss Graham was nonchalant about the whole thing. "I was born this way and I sleep this way," she said.

After the scene was finished, Ray realized his wife's wisdom.

"The scene is much better this way," he told me. "Actually, a night gown is the most ridiculous thing a woman can wear.

"A woman is bound to be self-conscious in it. She appears before a man and the gown is so obvious that he was to say something about it. Then he gets embarrassed because he can't think of anything to say. Thus the whole effect is ruined."

8,000 Enthusiastic Fans Enjoy Horse Jumping At The Royal Winter Fair

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born British newspaper publisher and Premier McNair of New Brunswick are expected to be among the thousands who will visit the Royal Winter Fair today, third day of its eight-day run.

The horse show arena in the Coliseum's building of the Canadian National Exhibition lakefront park was packed Wednesday night with 8,000 fans who watched Mexican and Chilean international army teams jump off for first place in the military handy course. Hatuey, a Mexican mount won the event in the third round of jumping. Canada and the Republic of Ireland were eliminated in the first round.

At a meeting of the Canadian Horse Show Association Wednesday, Lawrence J. McGuiness of suburban Mimico charged some of the mounts appearing in the show were being doped. He said the practice was common at many shows.

C. S. McKee, general manager of the Fair, and the Fair's official veterinary surgeon said they had no knowledge of doping of Royal Winter Fair horses.

John Eliuk, a middle-aged farmer from Hairy Hill 70 miles northwest of Edmonton, became the first to win two of the fair's world champion titles when his entries won the oats and barley classes.

Judging of grain, cattle, sheep and swine from farms across Canada and the United States continue today. At a dinner last night the 100 representatives of Canada's junior farmers received their awards for farm competition.

Commission Charges Council Made Secret Of Sewage Bylaw

COBOURG, Nov. 17 (ENS) — Cobourg Public Utilities Commission told Mayor Joe Smith at its meeting Tuesday that it considered the council had failed to take the commission into its confidence in framing the bylaw which would boost the water rates 50 per cent. to pay for the sewage disposal plant .The Commission, however, agreed to meet the council at a special meeting at the end of the week to discuss the matter, before the bylaw is given further consideration by the Dept. of Municipal Affairs.

Commissioner Jack Delanty demanded to know why the report of the consulting engineer in 1947, which had been made in connection with the sewage disposal plant, had been marked confidential and for the information only of the town council and utilities commission." He said the taxpayers had not been informed as to what it was all about.

"I am the man responsible for the 'confidential' and I'll tell you why," explained Mayor Joe Smith." The sewage disposal plant has been designed to handle a maximum of two million 000 gallons", he explained. "Now the tannery uses 100,000 gallons per eight hour day and the CGE uses 200,000. The engineers were liberal in their design so as to take care of future needs. The report also pointed out that the tanery load alone was equal to the rest of the town."

I didn't like that statement becoming public at the time because it inferred that half the cost of the disposal plant was directly charged to handling the tannery sewage. There are round 190 men employed there and that statement would have started some arguments. I would not have liked to see the tannery smeared like the CGE has been lately. It is unfortunate that the tannery uses one half the plant's load," the Mayor said.

Opposes Increase

Commissioner Delanty declared that he would not stand for a 50 percent boost on the water rates as it was not fair to industry. The tannery paid $4,000 a year and the CGE a like amount in water rates.

The utilities got $17,000 a year from industry in water rates and if this was lost it would only save $700 in operating costs. The town had bonussed plants in the past, plants had later folded up and it was not fair to penalize industries that had stood on their own feet. The Commission had never been consulted before the town council introduced its bylaw to impose a 50 percent increase in the water rates, he said.

Mayor Smith insisted that the matter had been brought up previously before the Commission. It was correct that it had not been discussed with the Commission during the past three months because it was in the process of being compiled and due to the fact that no other municipality had ever devised such a bylaw there was no precedent to consult in drawing it up.

The Municipal Broad had approved of the by-law but the Dept. of Municipal Affairs had decided it needed revising. The bylaw, declared the Mayor, had been sent to the Commission for its consideration after the second reading, not for its approval.

Commissioner Maurice Booth stated that the water rate boost as a means of paying for the sewage disposal plant, had never been seriously discussed before the Commission.

"It hit us like a bolt from the blue," he declared.

Bolt From Blue

"I knew the bylaw was wrong from the start and now the Dept. of Municipal Affairs confirms that it was drawn up wrongly. We should have been consulted before it was thrown at us in this manner. It is a very serious matter. Poor tact and poor management has been shown. You told reporters that we had to do it. Now you find out that you are wrong and your attitude has changed. I feel that we should get together and work this out said Commissioner Booth.

Mayor Smith informed the meeting that he had been as conscious of industry's interest as as it is a very important matter," anyone. He had this week held a luncheon meeting with three of the big industries who use a large amount of water and it was pointed out that they turned some of its into the creek, unpolluted after use.

They had agreed to a discussion on water rates on a basis of a surcharge on water which went through the sewage system from these plants, the Mayor said.

The meeting ended Tuesday in an agreement to discuss it further at the end of the week and Mayor invited the Commission to send a representative with those of the council to the Dept. of Municipal Affairs next week.

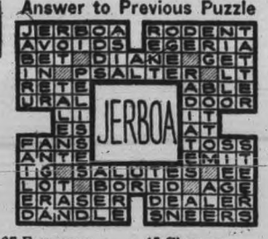
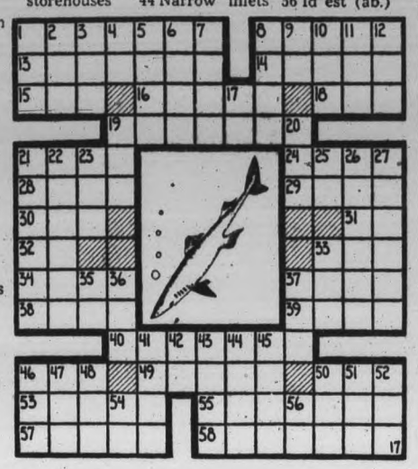
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Ask VON Branches To Confer Here

A regional conference in Peterborough of VON branches, situated in this part of the province was suggested Wednesday by P. J. Scollard at a meeting of the board. Mr. Scollard was following up a suggestion made at the Dominion annual convention that a regional conference would serve for board members of a number of branches to discuss their problems and ideas.

It was felt that after attending the annual meeting there was still much to learn about the organizational structure of the Order, and this would be made clearer at a regional conference.

Delay Funeral Service For Violinist Neveu

PARIS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Funeral services for concert violinist Ginette Neveu have been postponed indefinitely because, her brother Roger said, the body his family received was not hers.

She was killed in a plane crash on an Azores island which took the lives of 48 persons including the French boxer, Marcel Cerdan; Guy Jasmin, editor-in-chief of the Montreal French-language newspaper Le Canada, and his mother, Mrs. Rachel Jasmin.

Transport Minister Christian Pineau, explaining the possible mixup in identification of the bodies, told the Lower House of Parliament Tuesday that "a certain number of the inhabitants of the island pillaged the cadavers, which in some cases made identification impossible."

Then home to delicious, welcoming Fry's!

Young folk love Fry's Cocoa . . . after school and after play. Fry's is so sm-o-o-th, so chocolaty — so satisfying to the youngest, keenest appetites! It's nourishing, too — so serve it often.

Everyone loves Fry's richer chocolate flavor — a tastes-like-more flavor that makes it Canada's favorite by 3 to 1.*

Be sure to use Fry's when cooking, too — for your chocolate recipes.

SHORT-CUT MINUTE RICE GRAND FOR ANY MEAL

Supper . . . luncheon . . . dinner — yes, even breakfast! — can be wonderfully helped by new Minute Rice — the amazing pre-cooked rice that makes dozens of taste-thrills quicker for you.

Snowy-white, tender and tempting, Minute Rice makes the most delicious rice pudding you ever enjoyed!

It's a grand alternative for potatoes. It's an inspiring basis for casserole dishes that are so good, your family will never suspect how cleverly you have made a little meat or fish go a long way.

And an interesting change from your usual breakfast cereal. Serve it hot with brown sugar and top milk — add a few chopped dates if you like — m-m-m-m!

Miracle-Quick, Miracle-Easy

Minute Rice is so quick and easy to prepare! You just add water — and bring to the boil. No further cooking is needed, for fluffy, delicious rice to accompany stews and curries and creamed dishes . . . to replace potatoes at any meal . . . or to serve as cereal, or use in made-up dishes of many kinds.

For such old favorites as Baked Rice Pudding, Spanish Rice and so on, Minute Rice cuts cooking time to a fraction and gives results that are more satisfying than ever before in your life. And think how much fuel you will save!

Just add water and bring to the boil

Remember that Minute Rice is pre-cooked. You do not cook it like ordinary rice. There's no washing, no rinsing, no draining, no steaming. Only one saucepan needed — no sticky pot or sieve to wash.

Because it saves so much time and effort—because it makes meals so much more interesting — every woman should have Minute Rice always on hand. At grocers' across Canada.

COLLEGE GIRL MAKES HIT with easy Sunday suppers. "I love to have people in for supper", says one Sophomore, "and Minute Rice makes the main-course so easy. Mother makes creamed chicken or veal — I cook the Minute Rice. And the crowd think it's wonderful".

CHOCOLATE MINUTE RICE PUDDING

1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
2¼ cups milk
½ cup Minute Rice
1 square Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate, melted
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon vanilla
Meringue (see below)

Combine egg yolk and ¼ cup of the milk; mix well. Add Minute Rice, melted chocolate, sugar, salt, remaining milk. Bring to boil; simmer gently 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add butter and vanilla. Bake in greased small baking dish in slow oven (325° F.) 20 minutes, stirring once during baking. Remove from oven and stir again. For meringue, beat 1 egg white until foamy throughout. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons sugar; continue beating with rotary beater until mixture stands in soft peaks. Drop by spoonfuls over pudding. Brown in 400° F. oven (5 minutes). Makes 4 servings.

QUEEN'S RICE PUDDING

Omit chocolate in above recipe. Before covering the baked pudding with meringue, spread with a thin layer of tart jam or jelly. For a special touch, sprinkle Baker's Coconut over the meringue before baking.

OLIVE RICE, TOMATO RAREBIT

To 1¾ cups water, add 1 package Minute Rice; add ¾ teaspoon salt, bring to full boil. Remove from heat; cover, let stand 10 minutes. For the sauce, heat 1 can condensed tomato soup, add 2 cups grated sharp cheese, ½ teaspoon mustard; cook and stir till cheese melts. To rice, add ½ cup chopped stuffed olives, 2 tablespoons butter. Serve with sauce, 4 servings.

These dresses for the holidays make the most of high color, rich fabrics. The model (left) wears a "sin" red taffeta dress with snug, short-sleeved bodice and skirt drapery that wings out from one side. At right is a cocktail dress of flower-embossed, bronze-colored brocade with short sleeves, tailored belt, and slashed hemline. Styling here is deliberately kept simple to show off the elegance of imported fabric.

Rustle Fabric, High Color Set for Holiday Wear

By EPSIE KINARD

Dresses that have caught party fever show it by their high color, their sumptuous fabrics.

Jewel-like green, lilac, rose, dusty blue, champagne color, bronze and a red called "sin" will brighten the holiday scene.

Taffeta is favored for the informal party dress that goes to almost any gathering except a ball. Its skirt if full of rustle, its silhouette draped. Sometimes the skirt, as is the case of one "sin" red dress of Molly Parnis' design, stands out from a snug short-sleeved bodice to make a spectacular pouffe at one side.

Vying with taffeta for holiday honors are slipper satins and rich brocades. A cocktail dress of Pauline Trigere's design owes its elegance to a flower-embossed bronze-colored brocade. So handsome is the imported fabric used to make this dress with short sleeves, tailored belt and slashed hemline, that styling is kept simple to show off the elegance of the material.

St. James' WMS Regrets Passing Of Mrs. Geo. Cuffe

Autumn thank-offering meeting of the W.M.S. of St. James United Church was held in Wesley Hall Tuesday afternoon with Miss M. Bowers in the chair.

With "Remembrance Day" in mind, a suitable hymn and scripture were chosen for the opening.

The worship service was led by Mrs. E. Kent. She was assisted by Mrs. A. Saunders reading scripture and Mrs. R. B. English offering prayer. A solo "Besides still waters" by Mrs. R. Pearson was much appreciated. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. F. Doig.

Second chapter of the Study Book was ably presented by Mrs L. Bird. She told of the achievements of the United Church through evangelism.

Miss Bowers spoke feelingly of the loss sustained by the auxiliary in the passing of Mrs. George Cuffe, a life member and loyal supporter. As a memorial to her a hymn was sung.

Mrs. F. W. Craik gave a timely message on christian stewardship. Mrs. W. K. Sloane outlined recommendation as set forth at the recent women's mass meeting on temperance.

Members were requested to attend the organization meeting of the Junior mission circle Wednesday evening Nov. 30 and the dedication service of the mothers' auxiliary to the Baby Band on November 23.

Blind Persons Plan Bowling

Regular meeting of the Louis Braille Society Wednesday evening at Dixon House was conducted by the president Mr. Tom McQuade. Bowling during the coming season was discussed at length. The games will be opened to every blind person in the city and they may receive full information from Mr. McQuade by phoning 22040, of from Frank Simmons at 20521. The piano stool given by Mrs. E. Pearse was put into use when Mrs. Harris played accompaniment for a lively sing song. Mr. Tom Pritchard was master of ceremonies for the program and also sang a duet with Mr. Hurrell Dodds. Eleven-year-old Jimmie McCullough gave splendid imitations of Al Jolson in two fine numbers and Walter Wilson entertained with a few numbers in George Formby style, playing his own guitar accompaniment. Lunch provisions were generously donated by CPC and Trent Valley Baking Company and served with tea by Mrs. T. Pritchard, Mrs. A. Mason and other friends present. Golden Mile Club Bazaar Successfully Held With Aid of Soroptimists

Promptly at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon members of the Golden Mile Club were on duty at their bazaar tables set up in the YWCA Green Room. Just as promptly the customers began to arrive and look over their handiwork, novelties and home-made candy, and they kept them busy until six.

At the touch and take table where Mrs. E. Sanders was in charge, she who hesitated lost all her small change. The parcels were so nicely wrapped and the prices so low that one was not enough. Usually they contained a pleasant surprise — something useful or ornamental. Mrs. C. Seeney, who was assisting at the table, has just recently moved to Campbellford district, but she returned for this event. At last week's meeting of the Golden Mile Club she was presented with a pair of lined leather gloves as a farewell gift.

Mrs. R. Tyers, past president, had charge of the handwork and sold aprons, fancy folders, knitted articles and others. Novelties and small decorated boxes of candy were being sold by Mrs. E. J. McKee. Mrs. A. McMillan had printed recipes for a special confection, 'food for the gods" and was giving buyers a sample to taste.

A beautifully hand painted tray was the prize that went to draw winner Mrs. T. Sargent, 488 Sherbrooke St. The patchwork quilt is as yet unclaimed but will go to the holders of ticket number 4214.

Members of the Peterborough Soroptimist Club who sponsor the Golden Milers gave their assistance in the tea room. The table was lovely with a bouquet of pink and white 'mums and tall white tapers at each corner, all in gleaming silver holders on a beautiful lace cloth. Miss A. L. Thomson and Miss A. Robinson presiding at either end filled the tea cups.

The home cooking table was operated for Soroptomists by Mrs. W. Belleghem. Real Viennese pastry created considerable interest there. Expertly made, it was unusual in appearance and the impression was borne out in the tasting. Small mound-like cakes were decorated with almonds, others like cup cakes were coated with colored icing. Home-made marmalade and cranberry jelly were other popular items, also light and dark candy, and special home-made bread and rolls.

Miss Mary Carey, Soroptimist treasurer, attended the door and took charge of all receipts. She reports a nice sum realized during the afternoon, most of which will go to the Golden Mile treasury.

Mrs. E. Chatten, who has been elected as their second president by the older women, and Mrs. May Thompson, president of the service club, were receiving at the door.

Urges Use Of Perishables In Own Homes

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (CP) — Conservation of soil and food was the main recommendation which the president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada Wednesday urged upon the women of Eastern Ontario's rural area.

In an address to the Eastern Ontario WI annual meeting, Mrs. Helen Morton of Vegreville, Alta., president of the national body, asked the women to study conservation of soil, food and water as it relates to food production.

She reminded them that conservation was a national WI project for 1949 across Canada.

She told more than 300 delegates attending the two-day convention that in Canada "we are losing thousands of acres yearly to the ravages of wind and water."

Mrs. Morton urged the women to use perishable foods in their own homes and leave other kinds for the people who need it in hard-pressed lands.

Killingbeck-Cox

The wedding took place in George St. United Church Saturday afternoon of Elsie Norma, daughter of Mrs. Eva Cox, 259 McDonnel St., and Robert Elwood Killingbeck, son of Mrs. W. Hubble and the late Mr. P. Killingbeck. The Rev. Dr. James Semple performed the ceremony. Mr. Charles Allen was at the organ and Mr. Sam Castle sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register. White 'mums with ferns and palms decorated the church for the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Mr. W. Cox. She was gowned in white slipper satin trimmed with Chantilly lace and the long flowing train was edged with matching lace. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. A. Little was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Misses Betty Cox and Iris Smith. The former was gowned in yellow and the latter two in green, with hats of matching material and they carried cascades of chrysanthemums. Bonnie Malcolm as flower girl was in mauve moire taffeta frock and headdress and she carried a nosegay of 'mums and roses.

Mr. J. Killingbeck was the groomsman and ushers were Jack Wilson and Russel Killingbeck.

A reception followed in the church parlors. The bride's mother receiving was in a skipper blue dress and grey hat. The groom's mother wore a grey suit and navy hat and each had an orchid corsage.

When leaving on a wedding trip to Toronto and the United States the bride was dressed in grey and had navy accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Killingbeck will live in Peterborough.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Claims Separated Woman Free To Go With New Man

DEAR MISS DIX: A pal of mine, a likable young fellow of 30, is going out with a woman ten years his senior—a married woman who has not lived with her husband for three years. I maintain it is not the correct thing to do. He can see no harm in it and asks my reasons for objecting. I don't seem to be able to find words to explain my aversion. I only know that it is against my way of thinking.

Dorothy Dix

TOMMY

ANSWER: If the woman were living with her husband, it would certainly be very wrong for your friend to pay her any attentions which might tend to win her heart away from her lawful mate and fill him with jealousy.

It is the prejudice that you, along with all other honorable and right-thinking people, have against home-wreckers that makes you feel that there is something wrong in your friend going out with a woman who is still married ,although she does not live with her husband. And your sentiments do you credit.

Status of Divorcee

But when a woman has been separated from her husband for three years she automatically takes on the status of a divorcee and there is no reason why any man should not pay her attentions if he wishes to.

He is in no way responsible for the break between her and her husband, and he does nothing to augment the trouble between them. But I think, just to keep the record clean, that if the woman wishes to go about with the freedom of a single woman, she should get a divorce. That will prevent her from being subject of gossip.

Your friend's age, too, should make a difference in your attitude toward the subject. If he were a young and inexperienced boy, you would have reason to think that it was a foolish thing for him to be running around with a woman who was still legally bound to another man, and especially one who is ten years older than he. But a man of 30 is old enough to know his own mind and certainly nothing that any one can say is likely to change his opinion.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am scared to death that I am going to be an old maid and I don't want to be one, but there are no eligible men in my little city and I have no opportunity to meet many men from other places. In this town there are quite a few of the prettiest old maids—lovely women who have never married just because they never had the opportunity.

Can you suggest anything for a girl in my position?

GREEN EYES

ANSWER: Nothing except to go where the fishing is better. But where the good catches are to be made, Heaven alone knows.

It is certainly not in the small town from which practically every able-bodied and energetic youth emigrates by the time he is 20 and where only senile grandpas and schoolboys are left. Neither is it in the cities, where the cost of living is so high that it puts marriage out of the question for most men until they are middle-aged and where the numbers of girl bachelors grow yearly larger and larger.

Still, for all of that, nothing venture, nothing have, and the girl who finds eligible men scarce in her community is wise when she strikes out into new fields. For a new girl often attracts a man who had been thought a confirmed bachelor or widower and who had been given up as hopeless by the local maidens.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is always chasing some woman. He spends his money on them and doesn't support my son and me. I am desperate and am thinking of taking the easy way. I have traveled the hard straight road and got nothing in the end, and if I would go the other way I would at least have pretty clothes and the gay life. What do you think of it?

PEGGY

ANSWER: Well, eggy, I don't think that two wrongs ever made a right, nor do I think that because a man welshes on his marriage vows it gives his wife a right to quit on hers. Your business is bringing up your son to be a fine man and you can't do that if you are setting him the example of leading a bad life yourself.

Besides, the primrose path isn't strewn with expensive clothes and night clubs for any but the youngest and most alluring girls. Look about you at the bleary, slovenly, shabby women of the stret if you want to know how much it pays.

Plan To Place More Muskrats By Athabaska

EDMONTON, Nov. 17 (CP)—A huge rehabilitation project for Indians trapping muskrats on Lake Aathabaska's shores is proposed in a joint plan of the Provincial and Federal governments.

The plan would stabilize income of Indian trappers around the mouth of the Athabaska River, where it enters the lake in northern Alberta.

E. S. Huestis, Provincial Game Commissioner, said today the plan is to increase the muskrat population in the area, conduct trapping under supervision and pay the Indians by instalments. This is intended to ensure them a larger and steadier income. White trappers would benefit from the increased number of muskrats.

Wide fluctuations in the water level of the sprawling delta now limit the "rat" population. It is hoped to control the water and thus produce more muskrats.

Big Reservation

Roughly half of the 750,000 acre tract near Fort Chipewyan, Alta., is an Indian reservation. The remainder belongs to the Alberta Government. Federal and Provincial officials are co-operating with Ducks Unlimited in preliminary discussion of the plan.

Mr. Huestis said a similar scheme undertaken on the Saskatchewan River delta increased the muskrat population "five or six times." It was necessary to bring in additional trappers to handle the catch.

Preliminary plans on the Athabaska delta call for strategic dams to trap flood waters. Mr. Huestis pointed out that food for the muskrats will disappear if the water is simply impounded. Provision must also be made to release the water at suitable times.

In the 1947-48 season, Alberta trappers took 463,000 pelts. The number in the previous six years fluctuated between 159,000 and 378,000.

Rum And Wines May Be Cheaper

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (CP)—Imported rum, Irish whiskey and certain wines may be cheaper in Canada if a government bill before the Senate receives parliamentary approval.

The bill would amend the Customs Act so such goods, imported into Britain for processing and export to Canada, would enjoy easier Canadian customs regulations.

The legislation is sponsored by Senator A. K. Hugessen (L—Quebec). He explained the bill to the Upper Chamber Wednesday, but said he could give no assurance that the provinces, which administer liquor laws, would pass to the consumer any saving involved.

The customs bill was aimed primarily at enabling Britain to sell more goods to Canada, Senator Hugessen said. It was intended to cover liquor from Britain, but in effect, it gave the government power to reduce tariffs on any goods imported to a country which then exported them to Canada.

Reason for the bill, Senator Hugessen said, was that Britain imposed high tariffs on liquors and wines imported to the United Kingdom in bulk. The bottled products came to Canada with this assessment added to the value on which duty was charged.

To Re-open Plants Minus Striking Union

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—The Canadian Lithographers Association plans to re-open strike-bound plants in five Ontario and Quebec cities without the striking union.

An Association spokesman said Wednesday night, following the collapse of negotiations with the Amalgamated Lithographers of America (C.I.O.), that an offer placed before the union Wednesday was final. He said its rejection means that the plants will attempt to resume operations without the union.

The union announced the collapse after two days of negotiations with the Association which represents lithographers in five cities—London, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal—where 850 men have been idle some five months in the dispute.

Chief barrier to agreement was wage rates. The union's announcement said the employers "refused to grant 10 cents an hour retroactive pay, offering only 7½ cents." It saaid also thatt the employers withdrew a previous agreement to include a new two-year contract provision to discuss pensions and hours of work three months before its termination date.

Communist-inspired strikes following the devaluation of the country's currency, the shilling. Devaluation is expected this week-end. Reliable observers said the strikers would demand wage increases to offset rises in living costs which devaluation is expected to bring.

Six Parishes Contribute To Hospital Bazaar

Parishioners of all the Roman Catholic churches in Peterborough and nearby district contributed toward the mammoth bazaar held Wednesday by the Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital. Those in charge of the tables and booths set up in the nurses' residence auditorium were on duty most of the time from three until ten o'clock at night.

Bazaars are generally considered women's events, but the huge crowd that passed and repassed the tables was liberally sprinkled with men, and when games were opened in the evening they were on hand to try for the woollen blankets and other valuable prizes. Mrs. T. V. O'Toole and Mrs. G. Carey of Assumption parish were in charge of the wheels. Donations from Douro parish made up a "country store" booth and Mrs. Alan Hayes was in charge.

Women of St. John's had a candy table and were also selling church calendars. Mrs. T. McGarrity, Mrs. John Doleman and Mrs. Wm. Prindible were the attendants. They also had a draw on a beautiful doll, and Mrs. B. Monaghan and Mrs. G. Maloney were selling the tickets. The winner was Miss Monica Shalla, nurse-in-training. Another doll was raffled by the auxiliary and tickets were sold at a table where a display of knitted articles from the St. Joseph's Cupboard was shown, with Mrs. J. E. Sullivan in attendance. Winner of this one was Mrs. M. O'Brien, Stewart St.

Attractive hand-made jewellry was a special feature from the Sacred Heart parish, in charge of Miss Louise Letellier, and she also had colored plastic aprons for sale. Three tiers of fruit cake, handsomely iced, were donated by St. Anthony's Society for a raffle, and the tickets were sold by Mrs. J. Cairns, Mrs. C. Viscoff, Mrs. F. Perry and Mrs. M. Murray. Winner of the cake was Miss Kay Drury, 605 St. Catherine St.

"The Treasure House," a tax-free unit that attracted much attention not only for its colorful exterior designed by the sisters of St. Joseph, but also for the seven fine Christmas gifts, all beautifully wrapped, which they had put inside. Mrs. F. J. Lynch took charge of the ticket sales and the lucky winner was F. Swanson of 130 Robinson St.

A beautiful hand-made afghan was given the auxiliary by sisters of St. Joseph for a draw, and this was won by Mrs. Thomas Heffernan of RR 7, Peterborough. Two pairs of woollen blankets were offered as second and third prizes and they went to Charles Hayes, 181 Romaine St., and Marguerite Connors, 182 Montgomery St. Tickets on these were sold by Mrs. P. J. Doris and Miss Anna Murray.

A shell picture, valued at $20, was offered for a draw prize and Mrs. A. Foley and Mrs. L. Costello were in charge of the tickets The winner was Mrs. A. Jung, wife of the Czech doctor now at St. Joseph's Hospital. A pyrex refrigerator set on which raffle tickets were sold by ladies assisting at the snack bar was won by Mrs. M. J. Roche, Engleburn Ave.

Mrs. O. Hallihan operated a bake table where all kinds of pastry and cakes were offered. The huge supply of home-cooking was obtained through the presidents of each parish league, Mrs. T. McGarrity, Mrs. A. Bailey, Mrs. A. Tate, Mrs. F. Crowley, Mrs. S. J. Houlihan and Mrs. Leo Martin. Assisting Mrs. Halliahn with the sales were Mrs. J. Grady, Mrs. J. Rutherford, Mrs. H. Connelly, Mrs. Zebernowsky, Mrs. H. McDougall, Mrs. F. McCarthy, Mrs. A. Willis, Mrs. Begley, Mrs. Burke Mrs. S. Bogue, Mrs. J. Callahan, and others. Cashiers were Misses Marguerite Cadigan and Edith Mattucci, Mrs. J. O'Connell and Mrs. F. Collins.

Two baskets of fruit were raffled at this table, and they were won by Mrs. M. Murray, 51 Park St., and Mrs. L. Rendell, 726 Chamberlain St.

The fancy goods booth, arranged by Mrs. W. A. Richardson and Mrs. F. J. Hickey, was a great boon to Christmas gift seekers. Charming tea aprons made of sheer organdy and trimmed with color, pillow-cases, print aprons with pot-holders to match, tea towels, tally cards, knitted articles for children, socks, gloves and pyjamas were noted in the assortment. Other helpers at this table were Mrs. J. Rutherford, Mrs. R. McCabe, Mrs. A. O'Grady and Mrs. Leo McCabe.

The snack bar, a novelty arrangement in charge of Mrs. V. Sullivan and Mrs. M. J. Roche, was doing business throughout the bazaar. Quartette tables were set for the convenience of guests and tempting lunches were served with tea and coffee. Among those serving were Mrs. J. McGrath, Mrs. J. J. Crowley, Mrs. F. O'Loughlin, Mrs. M. Crough, Mrs. G. Poole, Mrs. Wm. X. Blackburn, Mrs. D. Pearse, Mrs. P. Kylie, Mrs. J. McCormick, Misses Louise Flynn, Jean O'Loughlin, Rosemary DeNoble, Barbara McCormick, Mary McCabe and Madeleine Flynn.

Background music was provided during the afternoon and early evening by pianists Miss L. Hurley, Miss Catherine Naud and Miss Ethel Armstrong.

Decorations carried out in a blue and yellow scheme were the work of Miss Madeleine Flynn, Mrs. J. F. O'Brien, Mrs. M. Crough and Miss Louise Letellier.

Mrs. J. V. Gallivan, president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. A. E. Cauley were general conveners of the affair.

Unveil Plaque To Late Editor

GODERICH, Nov. 17—(CP)—The memory of Sir John Willison, editor tand author, was honored Wednesday at the County Courthouse with the unveiling of a bronze plaque provided by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

The plaque was unveiled by Warden J. W. Armstrong after an address by Arthur Ford, editor of the London Free Press, Cancellor of the University of Western Ontario and a friend of the late Sir John. Prof. F. E. Landon, vice-president of Western, also spoke, and dedication was by the Rev. L. H. Turner, of Victoria St. United Church.

Sir John Willison was editor of the Toronto Globe from 1890 to 1902 and the Toronto News from 1902 to 1910. He was born at Hills Green, Huron County, in 1856, and died in Toronto in 1927.

Mr. Ford recalled that he was associated closely with Sir John when the latter was editor of the Toronto News, because he was Ottawa correspondent for the paper. Sir John was Canadian correspondent for the London, Eng., Times, and under him Mr. Ford represented the Times at Ottawa.

"It was a great privilege to work with Sir John, and I owe to him much of the training I received as a newspaperman," declared Mr. Ford.

Master Spy Keeps Secret

Briton On German General Staff 2 Wars

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP)—Too hot to publish, one of the best spy stories of all times is to be kept as a top secret textbook for future British spies.

It is the story of Lt.-Col. Alexander Paterson Scotland. A master spy, the close-cropped, grey-haired British officer was on the German General Staff during both world wars.

Scotland is currently a defense witness in the Hamburg trial of Field Marshal Von Manstein. He probably has more inside information on German war crimes than any other Allied official.

To Keep Secret

Although his personal story would earn him a fortune, Britain's very special agent has promised never to write for publication. His secrets will stay in the archives of the British Intelligence Service—and in that hush-hush text book.

A nephew of George Bernard Shaw, Scotland doesn't share the Irish playwright's volubility.

"The less publicity directed at people like myself, the better," he said when his spy role was revealed.

Villagers of Bourne End, Buckinghamshire, where Scotland shares a bungalow with his wife Rhona, thought the quiet, elderly officer had found a cushy office job in Whitehall when Hitler touched off the Second World War.

"A nice, quiet gentleman, he is," said a station porter at Bourne End. "He travels up to London on the 8:44 when he's at home."

But instead of keeping a chair warm in Whitehall, Scotland had headed for Berlin. There, his perfect German and his short, bristled hair made him the ideal Prussian type. He crossed frontiers by devious ways, but the public will never know just how.

Knew Where Troops Placed

From German Army headquarters in Bendlerstrasse he relayed information to London by communications facilities installed in his office. At one time he knew the disposition of nearly all German armed forces.

While he drew Germany army pay in Reichmarks, Scotland had his British army salary paid into a bank account back home. And he didn't allow the Berlin work to deprive him of a periodic home leave.

"He would arrive home out of the blue quite unexpectedly," Mrs. Scotland recalled. "He would be with me perhaps only a few days, then just as suddenly he would go off and be away weeks and even months."

Some 40 years earlier, from 1903-1907, Scotland had done a hitch as a private in the Kaiser's army. He learned to speak and act like a German. His aptitude resulted in rapid promotion in the Imperial Army with the result that he was a staff officer during the First World War.

So well did he play his double role right to the end of Hitler's war that the Russians took him prisoner after the fall of Berlin—and needed a lot of convincing before they would release him.

St. Luke's Church Bazaar Held On Larger Scale

The annual bazaar and tea of St. Luke's Anglican Church, held Wednesday afternoon, was on an even larger scale than usual and met with similar success. Each organization in the church had a part in this mammoth event and the proceeds will go toward their special project.

Articles for the fall bale to be shipped to the west were on display, in charge of Mrs. E. E. Lee, Mrs. J. Lush and Mrs. J. S. Mason of Senior Branch WA. Clothing for all ages from infant to grandmother were included, some new and some used, but all of good quality, also blankets and items for the household.

Evening branch of the WA which has been organized less than a year, took over the tea room and made a fine showing The president of this group, Mrs. Jack Lee, received at the entrance assisted by Mrs. Hugh Morrison, who acted as general convener.

Decorators Mrs. R. Davidson and Mrs. Lee used their ingenuity to make up a table centre suitable to the pre-Christmas season, using bittersweet berries on a bed of pin needles and hod small corsages of cones and pine branches at the table corners. Highlighting tapers were green and the cloth used was of hand-crocheted ecru lace.

Those pouring the tea during the afternoon were Miss A. Curtis, Mrs. M. Burnham, Mrs. W. J. Gilling, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mrs G. Maniece and Mrs. D. Wyatt. To most of the cups they were requested to add a teaspoonful of tea leaves for a tea cup reader was in attendance.

Branch members who served the guests at individual tables, each prettily arranged, were Mrs. A. Hamilton, Mrs. D. Worboy, Mrs. M. Perry, Mrs. H. Steen, Mrs. R. Greenly, Mrs. L. Thomas, Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. K. Hamley, Mrs. J. Gemmell, Mrs. R. Davidson, Mrs. R. Sanderson, Mrs. J. Watson, Mrs. M. Mesley, Mrs. Weavers, Mrs. H. Choate, Mrs. W. Hepburn.

They also had a draw, conducted by Mrs. Arthur Ebbs, proceeds of which will go toward purchase of a piano. Winner of the Christmas cake was Cora Newell of Warsaw, and of the Christmas pudding Agnes Moore of 453 Hamilton St.

A box of candy was raffled by the girls' Auxiliary who were also selling Christmas cards and seas with Mrs. Shirley Trennum. The draw winner was Mrs. M. J. Murdoch, 70 James St.

Choir members were selling tickets on a large smoked ham and the winning ticket drawn was 7989. Holder of this stub may claim it by calling at 182 Sophia St. At this table they also sold home cooking, jam and marmalade, Christmas cake, stuffed toys and novelties. Attendants were Mrs. F. Legon, convener, Mrs. F. Dainton, and Mrs. S. Pammett.

Upstairs in the Parish Hall, Mrs. G. Maniece, president of After noon Branch WA, welcomed visitors to the bazaar room. First table to catch the eye was that of the Church Year, piled high with "white elephants" that particularly fascinated the young crowd coming in after school. Mrs. A. McIlvena and Mrs. W. King were in charge.

The Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary decorated their table of handwork with the Scout's colors. They had pillowcases, luncheon sets, felt bags, belts and slippers, fireplace mats, oven mitts and sachet bags. Also a draw on a quilt which was won by Mrs. O. Huggins, Rogers St. Those attending the booth were Mrs. R. Harvey, Mrs. R. Tuck, Mrs. L. Lipsett and Mrs. H. Tunnicliffe.

The Chancel Guild had a country store which offered canned goods, candy, fruit cake, fresh flowers, even a watermelon. Mrs. F. Storey, Mrs. C. H. Hamilton and Mrs. T. Martin were in charge. Tickets on a large hamper of groceries were sold by Mrs. W. Purcell and this was won by Mrs. Rollie Montgomery of Buckhorn.

The WA's sewing table featured colorful tinsel Christmas trees, as well as mittens, boottees, laundry bags, dusters, pin cushions and other incidentals. Those in charge were Mrs. R. Krant, Mrs. H. P. Laing, Miss A. Curtis and Mrs. E. MacDonald.

Mrs. A. Leach was in charge of selling church calendars during the tea hours.

Young Aborigine Talented Singer

NEW YORK. Nov. 17—(A)—A young Australian Aborigine, one of a tribe that has dwindled from 700,000 to 80,000, used to sing and yodel in the canefields and while he was milking cows.

The word got around that he was quite a singer, and the word got to some business men in Brisbane. They decided to send the yodeling Aborigine to singing school.

Thus Harold Blair became the first of his tribe ever to be admitted to the Dame Nellie Melba Conservatory in Melbourne.

And today, under the chaperonage of Todd Duncan, famed Negro baritone, the 24-year-old Aborigine is setting another mark for his tribe—as the first Aborigine ever to study outside his native Australia.

Blair's voice has been praised by Marjorie Lawrence, Wagnerian soprano, but he will not give many concerts right away.

"He could," said Duncan, "but I'm a perfectionist. I want him to be very good, not just good."

WING TANKS ADD RANGE TO SUPERFORTRESS — A new version of the Boeing Superfortress, the B-50D, seen in flight over Wichita, Kan., carries two 700-gallon external fuel tanks under the wings. The long-range bomber, derived from the famed wartime B-29, can carry 28,000 pounds of bombs "more than 6,000 miles." Top speed is over 400 miles an hour, and the plane is equipped for refueling in flight to increase its range. The wing tank fittings can carry 4,000-pound bombs in place of the gas tanks.

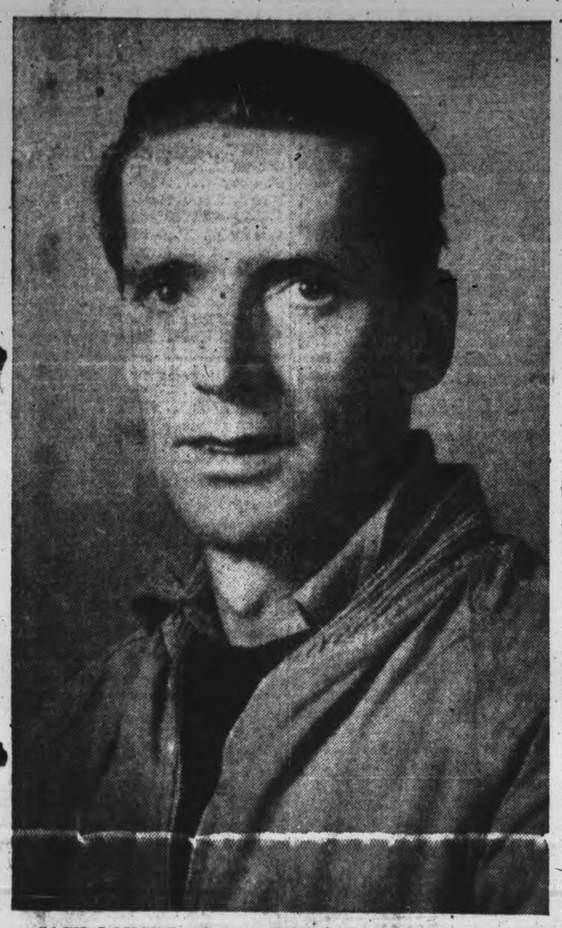
LINDSAY MAN MURDERED



JACK LOUCKS, 36, Lindsay, formerly of Peterborough, was allegedly murdered by a knife-wielding thug, one of a group of four from Toronto and Hamilton with whom he was fighting on the main street of Lindsay about 1.30 this morning. An argument broke out in front of a restaurant which quickly became a one-sided fight between the four and Loucks. The men were later captured in Peterborough. Three bystanders were wounded. (More pictures on page 3)

Neighbors Comfort Widow Heart-Broken Over Tragedy

Young Mother Plans To Keep On Plant Job Will Be Able To Support Three Children

LINDSAY, Nov. 18—(CP)—After a sleepless night Mrs. Jack Loucks, widowed mother of three children, was comforted by neighbors today in the knife-slaying of her husband on a Lindsay street. Mrs. Loucks left her husband with the children, Dick age 13, Michael, 11, and Roxie, 3, to attend a church function. When she returned the children said her husband had left with four men. "Oh, why, was it him," she sobbed. But she said "What good will it do to harm those men? It will not bring Jack back." She added: "I'm sure they must have been drinking or they would not have deliberately done a thing like that to my Jack."

The attractive 32-year-old mother said she would continue working as a machine operator at a Lindsay textile plant to support herself and the children. She had been working for the past two years so they could save enough money to buy a home of their own.

"He was always a good father and I can't understand how he came to be downtown last night," she said.

A friend of Loucks said he "never had an enemy." It was reported that he had been seen in a Lindsay beverage room before the fight.

Name of the dead man is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Injured: LAC Fred LeClair, severe cuts on one foot; Cpl. Jack Madden, severe cuts on one hand.

The body of the airman was found near the north door of the hut where he apparently was overcome by smoke trying to reach the door.

GM Workers To Vote On New Offer

Terms Not Disclosed Prior To Conference Hint Peace Possible

OSHAWA, Nov. 18 —(CP)— Members of the United Auto Workers Union (CIO) on strike at the General Motors of Canada Ltd. plant here since Oct. 26, are to hold a mass meeting to vote on new terms for settlement.

The new settlement offer was reached at a meeting between company and union officials here late Thursday night but its terms have not been disclosed. Attending the meeting were W. A. Wecker, president and general manager of General Motors; R. B. Reddick, the company's industrial relations manager; George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, and Malcolm Smith, chairman of the union local's negotiating committee.

The terms of the tentative offer were withheld pending a mass meeting of union members. Union officials today were trying to arrange this meeting for the Collegiate auditorium here tonight but arrangements had not been completed.

May Cancel Toronto Meet

Persons in close touch with the dispute here said they believed the development here meant that a scheduled meeting at Toronto today would not be held. Company and union officials were to have met with a representative of the Ontario Department of Labor today.

Labor Minister Daley's office at Toronto however could not say whether the Toronto meeting would be held. Mr. Daley himself was unavailable this morning.

The strike of 5,500 production workers at General Motors here was called Oct. 26 after four workers were dismissed in a dispute following an alleged speed-up operation.

Bell Company Asks 10% Boost

OTTAWA, Nov. 18—(CP)—The Bell Telephone Company of Canada today moved for a temporary 10-per-cent rate increase on most Ontario and Quebec phone services pending disposition of an application for a general boost averaging 20.6 per cent.

The company notified the rate-regulation board of transport commissioners that it will apply Dec. 19 for the temporary "surcharge," which would be placed on most local and long-distance services within the two provinces.

Major exceptions would include:

1. Local calls from pay telephones and hotels.

2. Charges on which the surcharge would be greater than the increase proposed in October and on which the board has deferred action until Spring.

Calgary Plans Big Invasion Of Toronto 100-Foot Model Train To Carry Fans

CALGARY, Nov. 18—(CP)—A subdued crowd of about 400 Calgarians Thursday night sent the Calgary Stampeders on their way with the coveted Grey Cup—and strict instructions to bring the Dominion football trophy back with them.

Coach Lear clucked around his flock until they were aboard the train for Toronto. Then he hopped a plane to scout the Eastern Canada final between Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tigers.

Scheduled to hit Toronto with all the whoop and holler of last year's east-west final on Sunday morning, the Stampeders then will leave for final workouts at Oakville, 30 miles west.

In their wake will go a special train of Calgary rooters, complete with horses, Indians, cowboys and enough general merry-making to turn turn the sedate eastern city into a three-ring circus.

A 100-foot model train will carry the party through Toronto streets after their arrival Thursday morning. Mayor Hiram (Buck) McCallum, of Toronto, will be presented a hand-tooled saddle. The city council will get a sure-'nuf Indian teepee from the Blackfoot tribe for their next meeting.

The station scene Thursday night at Calgary was singularly quiet. Stamps' president, Tom Brook, held the cup aloft as a signal the invading horde was ready and the cry went up: "Bring back that cup."

Hamilton Wife Didn't Want Four Men To Go On First Hunting Trip to Bryson, Quebec

HAMILTON, Nov. 18—(CP)—Mrs. James Sahodnik broke into tears today when she was told that her husband is being held at Lindsay with his two brothers and another man on a charge of murder in the knife-slaying of Jack Loucks. "I did not want my husband to go on this trip and I can't understand why this had to happen," said the 30-year-old mother of three children who was getting her two older youngsters ready for school when a reporter called and broke the news.

Mrs. Zahodnik said her husband left in his truck for a hunting trip to Bryson, Que., where his brother Mike lives. He was to be accompanied by two brothers, Paul of Hamilton and John of Toronto, and William Yuzwa of Hamilton.

All four are held at Lindsay on a joint charge of murder.

The party left Thursday at 6 p.m. in her husband's truck, she said. "I didn't want them to go. They had never been hunting before as far as I know."

Mrs. Yuzwa first heard the news of the slaying from a radio newscast. "I couldn't believe my ears," she said. "Oh, it couldn't be them. They didn't know anyone in Lindsay and they wouldn't do such a thing."

In Toronto, Mrs. John Sahodnik said: "They took along some whisky to drink on the hunting trip They must have got started drinking before they got there and now they are in trouble."

She said her husband recently bought a truck and went into the cartage business and was getting along well. She has three children.

Investigate Police Manhandling Charge

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP) — The Toronto Police Commission Thursday asked Inspector Albert Lee to review the case of Paul Zeurcher, 35-year-old Hamilton carpenter who complained of being "manhandled" by two Toronto police officers.

Inspector Lee, head of the morality squad, said that two officers had approached Zeurcher at the Union Station, because the man answered the description of a person who the police had been informed was in the station with narcotics in his possession. Zeurcher put his hand in his mouth and the inspector said this is a customary attempt by drug suspects to hide evidence. The man was searched but without violence, the inspector contended.

Will Enforce Bar Curfew New Year's Eve

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP)—The usual 11.30 p.m. Saturday closing for bars and beverage rooms in Ontario will be enforced New Years' eve, it was learned Thursday. A notice will be sent to licence holders in the province next week.

Toronto night clubs will be hamstrung even further. Civic officials also ruled out any move to run New Year's eve parties starting at midnight Sunday, because Monday is civic election day and sale of liquor is prohibited.

Despite the fact that this will curtail cabaret, hotel and other public celebrations, government officials said there could be no extension of the closing hour because of the law which bans the sale of alcoholic beverages on Sundays.

As one official remarked, if Toronto residents want to celebrate either Saturday or Sunday they'll have to do it at home.

The usual early closing on Christmas Eve is also to be enforced. This means that all outlets will suspend sale at 6 p.m., so their employees can prepare for the arrival of Santa Claus at home with their families and friends.

4 Belleville Hunters Pulled Out Of Lake

MINDEN, Nov. 18—(CPY) — Plunged into the icy waters of Little Hawk Lake when their heavily-loaded boat overturned during a snow squall, four Belleville hunters were rescued Thursday night when cries for help were heard by Gordon (Pete) Sawyer.

Mr. Sawyer, a tourist lodge operator in this Haliburton centre, 48 miles north-west of Peterborough, Dick Hewitt, another lodge operator, and Jim McLean, of Toronto, made a three-quarter mile dash by boat into the lake to reach the hunters.

Rescued were: Jack Chambers; Percy Bolton, farm superintendent at the Ontario School for the Deaf; Lyle Jones; and Wesley Gray, Canadian National Railways engineer.

Two deers the hunters were bringing to camp were lost. The hunters were in the water, clinging to the craft, for 15 minutes.

Young Couple Beaten Up By 4 Thugs

Believed Same Men Who Took Part In Lindsay Stabbing

Four men, alleged slayers of Jack Loucks, 36, of Lindsay, beat up James Hogan, 26, and his slight young wife, Hazel, Thursday night, at Melody Inn, north of Lakefield, about 11:20 when they said service was slow in obtaining a cup of coffee.

The four men came into the inn, a roadside stand run by the young couple where the highway branches to Young's Point and McCracken's Landing. Mr. Hogan said while he and his wife were out in the back preparing hamburgers, one of the four began playing at being a waiter behind the counter.

Demanded Coffee

When Hogan came out into the front shop he asked the man to get out from behind the counter. Another of the four immediately demanded his coffee. Hogan said his wife was preparing fresh coffee and they would have to wait.

"I want coffee and I don't wait for what I want," the hoodlum shouted smashing a container of drinking straws with his fist.

He then grabbed Hogan's shirt and nearly ripped it from his back. The fight started. When Mrs. Hogan tried to phone police one of the thugs ripped the receiver from the phone.

Two other customers, George Wannamaker and Hec Edwards, were in the shop at the time, but they took little part in the fight.

Hogan, who weighs about 145 pounds, said three of the men were big who would weigh about 190 to 200 pounds each and the fourth was about Hogan's size.

Pulled Outside

While Hogan was fighting with two of the men, his wife tried to push one of them out of the door, but he pulled her outside as well. He threw her to the ground and together with one of his pals pounded the slight attractive woman.

During the fight which moved in and out of the shop three or four times Hogan was at one time held by two of the men while another struck him repeatedly. Two of the men seemed to be the most vicious.

After about ten minutes of fighting, Hogan was able to persuade the two less belligerent to take their pals and leave.

Denies Princess To Visit Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today in the Commons that there is no foundation for rumors of a pending visit to Canada and the United States by Princess Margaret Rose.

He said the government has not yet considered the question of inviting the princess to visit Canada.

He made the statement in replying to Gordon Graydon (PC, Peel), who asked if an invitation had been or would be extended to the princess and other members of the Royal Family.

Mr. Graydon said he had read press reports saying that Buckingham Palace sources were interested in his suggestion that the princess visit Canada.

Mr. St. Laurent said he would be surprised if the press reports were exact. There was no foundation for rumors that the prncess would visit Canada and the United States.

Refused Entry To U.S.

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP) — Omar Walmsley, 24, theology student at Emmanuel College here, said today he has twice been refused entry to the United States. Walmsley was refused a temporary visitor's permit last September after being accepted for enrolment at Boston Theological College. Again last week he was refused entry when he sought to accompany other members.

Four Men Charged Street Stabbing Of Jack Loucks

From Lakefield To Lindsay Chase Ends In Peterborough

By DAVE WHITE

Four men—three from Hamilton and one from Toronto—are being held in Lindsay jail as the aftermath of a fatal stabbing of a 36-year-old Lindsay man, Jack Loucks, of 58 George St. E., in a brawl on the main street shortly before 1.30 a.m. today.

An hour later they were arrested at a provincial and Peterborough city police roadblock on the outskirts of Peterborough, near the Reid St.-Chemong Rd. intersection.

Jailed and held on charges of murder are Paul Zahodnik, 28, and his two brothers, James, 33, and John, 30; also William Yuzwa, 33. John gave his address as 312 Earlscourt Ave., Toronto, and the others said they were from Hamilton

Three Bystanders Are Injured By Quartet

In addition to the fatality three men who described themselves as bystanders were injured by the berserk quartet—and all were treated in Lindsay Hospital for wounds caused either by a knife or some other sharp weapon.

Released from Lindsay Hospital after being given medical attention by Dr. W. C. Blackwell, were Sidney Risley, 50, of 58 Cambridge St. S., Lindsay; Thornton Olver, 37, of 25 Division St., Lindsay; and Floyd Smith, 25, of RR 2, Hagersville.

Risley had a slash on his right arm that required about a dozen stitches to close; Olver received a thrust that nearly severed the tip of his nose, and Smith had a deep scalp cut as well as multiple bruises from being kicked and punched.

Wounds were believed caused by knives "or some other very sharp weapon," Dr. Blackwell stated.

Surrendered To Police On Outskirts Of Peterborough

The men surrendered meekly on the Peterborough outskirts after a fusillade of shots by Constable Claire McGillen of the city police and Chief Constable Garnet Samis of Lakefield. The roadblock was not fully in position and the panel truck driven by the four accused men did not pull up until just past it, and after a bullet had pierced a rear tire.

Three rifles and a revolver were found in the vehicle.

This was the climax to a wild night that saw the four involved in the beating of a Lakefield restaurant proprietor and his wife, a police chase over the highways north of Peterborough, the slaying of one man and the wounding of three others, and the resumption of the police chase over the Lakefield Highway to the roadblock.

Eleven Provincial Police Prowl Cars In Action

Before the quartet was safely locked up, 11 provincial police prowl cars, and the police forces of Lindsay, Peterborough, as well as Chief Samis of Lakefield had joined in the hunt.

Motive for the stabbing of Loucks, father of three children and a former resident of Peterborough, has not been determined. It is believed an argument developed in "The Big Twenty" a Chinese restaurant on Kent St., and it continued outside.

According to witnesses all four attacked Loucks after he walked away from the panel truck parked just outside the cafe, where he was arguing heatedly with one of their number seated in the front seat. Lionel Tracy, a Lindsay construction man, and a passenger in the Tracy car, Robert Williams, a civic employee, both stated they saw the man take a swing at Loucks.

All Five Men Become Involved In A Melee

When Loucks turned his back and walked away, the men in the truck jumped out and ran after him. The three other accused men who had apparently been standing near by "jumped him" and all five became involved in a melee, Tracy and Williams told the Examiner.

'Where they came from I don't know," said Tracy.

Williams said he saw one of the assailants give the knee to Loucks, but he was not sure whether this was before or after the stabbing.

At some point in the fight he was stabbed a deep blow just under the left ear. His throat was not cut, a taxi driver who later picked up the fatally injured man's body declared.

Spilling blood from the wound he staggered along the edge of the sidewalk for a distance of about 70 feet, still striving to fight free from his assailants, and he collapsed in front of a photographer's shop, and later died.

Eye-Witnesses Describe Actions Of Four Men

All three of the "bystanders" who were wounded by the accused men said they had done nothing to provoke any retaliation.

Thornton Olver, a truck driver, said he was just walking by "and we were the ones that got it."

Risley said he walked out of the cafe and started to pass fatally injured Loucks, lying bleeding on the sidewalk.

"One of the four said 'What the hell do you want?', but I didn't say anything and kept on going. Next thing I knew I felt a blow on my arm. I didn't know at first I was cut."

He said he then went down to report the brawl to the Lindsay City Police.

Floyd Smith, 27-year-old truck driver from Hagersville, Ont., said that he was attacked while he talked to Thornton Olver, 34, of Lindsay in front of the restaurant. Smith had just come out of the restaurant where he had bought a package of cigarets. He received scalp wounds in the fight.

Smith told police, seeking an explanation of the attack, that the four men "looked mad."

Going All Out To Grab Market From U.S.

200 British Manufacturers Campaigning To Snare Canadian Agriculture Sales

LONDON, Nov. 18—(CP) — Two hundred British manufacturers of agricultural machinery have been called to meet Nov. 29 to plan an all-out drive to wrest a major portion of the Canadian market from United States producers.

A 10-man mission, back from a 16,000-mile tour through every province of Canada, will urge them at a meeting at the Board of Trade to co-operate in a great sales drive in the dominion.

The confidence of the mission that Britain can win a big share of the market is recorded in its report, published here Thursday night. The report will be the basis of discussions with Board of Trade officials.

Capt. E. N. Griffith, leader of the mission, told reporters: "Primarily the trade we can get must be at the expense of the American manufacturers. The whole thing depends on ruthless competition."

Can Be Done

The mission's report, written before sterling devaluation, concluded:

"Knowing the capacity of British factories we are satisfied that, with some important exceptions, there are no machines used on Canadian farms today which the United Kingdom could not provide, of a quality at least as high as, and at prices not far removed from, those of North American competition."

Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, in a foreword to the report, wrote:

"If this was true when the report was drafted, it is doubly true now following devaluation . . . All the help that a government can properly give in the task will be readily forthcoming."

Urge Representative

The mission urged the British agricultural machinery industry to send a technical and commercial representative to Canada for at least two years "to comb out prospects of business."

A British spare parts organization should be created, which could be used by all manufacturers in Britain. The organization would carry adequate stocks to guarantee that Canadian distributors and dealers could get spares quickly. The mission suggests the government might help with the financial problems of creating such an organization.

Canada Sends Magnificent Aid Search

Spot Faint Flares Hear Signals, Hopes For 20 Soar

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 18 (CP)—The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent today sped toward a lonely patch of ocean 345 miles northeast of Bermuda from where flares and faint distress signals spurred hopes that the 20-man crew of a missing United States B-29 may be found alive.

The 18,000-ton flat-top, accompanied by the destroyer Haida and Frigate Swansea, was en route to Charleston, S. C., on the first lap of a West Indies cruise when she was ordered to join in the search.

The flares—two tiny red beacons—were spotted early Thursday night. Capt. K. T. McFarland, piloting a B-29, flashed the word to nearby Kindley Field at 5.45 p.m. EST. Two planes hurried to the spot, equipped with parachute flares, emergency supplies and dinghies. They continued the search throughout the night.

Hear Faint Signals

Then, another B-29, landed at Kindley and her crew said they had recorded faint distress signals. A bearing taken on these signals coincided with the location of the flares.

It was not known whether the Haida or the Swansea was with the Magnificent.

Throughout the night, three aircraft swung slowly over the area where the missing plane went down. Many others—nearly 100—stood by at Kindley Field.

The last word from the plane was a radio message which said she was lost, her navigation gear was out of commission and she would ditch in five minutes.

There have been unconfirmed reports that the four-engine bomber, one of several heading for Britain from United States points for routine training assignments, carried "high ranking" American officers but there has been no elaboration of this report.

18 U.S. Airmen Died In Collision

STOCKTON, Calif., Nov. 18 — (AP) — Eighteen United States airmen died early Thursday in a collision of two B-29 bombers five miles up in a mock bombing raid.

Three crew members survived the double crash.

One of the bombers crashed in flames early Thursday on McDonald Island in the rich delta land, 18 miles north-west of Stockton. The other broke to pieces on muddy Rindge Tract, two miles away. It did not burn.

Workers recovered seven of the eight bodies from the wreckage on Rindge Tract, from which two men had parachuted to safety. The eighth body, tightly pinned in the battered mass of wreckage, will be removed today.

Only one person escaped the McDonald Island crash Three bodies were thrown clear by the impact. The others remained in the plane and were reported burned beyond recovery.

Youth Wounded Man Suicides In Taxi Melee

MORRISBURG, Nov. 18, (CP) —Arthur Flynn, Jr., 18 was seriously wounded today and Charles Cramer 55 shot and killed himself immediately after what police said was an attempted murder and suicide.

Flynn was taken to hospital at Brockville believed in critical condition.

An eye-witness, taxi-driver Bruce Casselman, said that the Collegiate student and his father, Arthur Flynn Sr., and Cramer were in his cab when the shooting started.

The boy warned his father, "he has a gun," according to Casselman. When the first shot was fired Casselman ran for police. The taxi-driver said he thought three shots were fired altogether.

Casselman told police that Cramer, a book-keeper at Morrisburg Industries Ltd., and part-time insurance salesman, asked him to drive to the Morrisburg Collegiate to pick up young Flynn one of the school's leading students.

At the school Cramer asked the driver to get Flynn and he returned, Flynn getting into the rear seat. Then Cramer asked him to pick up the boy's father at his law office in Morrisburg, and the driver did this. The elder Flynn sat in the front seat with Cramer and the driver.

Wouldn't Sign

Casselman said that Cramer handed [illegible] senior Flynn, saying "sign these." Flynn refused to do so. He threw the papers in the back seat.

Casselman said the boy picked up the papers and gave them again to his father, saying, "Dad—sign those papers. He has a gun."

The elder Flynn again red the papers and again refused to sign. The boy repeated his request.

Then the shooting started, Casselman told police. At the first shot he jumped from the cab and raised the alarm.

Cramer was found dead from a bullet wound in the head. The younger Flynn was critically injured.

Four Men Charged

Witness Robert Williams stated he saw a man he believed was Smith being kneed and kicked.

"I saw him this morning," Williams related, "and he was in awful bad shape."

Sitting In Car

Both Tracey and Williams count themselves lucky they were not numbered among the victims of the four who ran wild. The two were sititng in Tracey's car next to the panel truck of the assailants.

Although they did not see the actual stabbing incident they realized the seriousness of the affair and took the number of the truck. They were seen jotting down the numerals by one of the gang.

"What's your name?" he demanded of Tracey, and when the latter did not reply he reached through the open window of the car and punched Tracey's face, cutting his lip with the blow.

Tracey then backed his car out of the parking space preparatory to driving away to the police station, and another of the foursome made an attempt to get into the car at him.

Four Men Fled

Neither Williams nor Tracey saw a knife. For some reason the car was delayed and before they had reached the east end of Kent St., where they had intended to make a turn before going back to the police station, the speeding panel truck cut in ahead of them on its flight toward Peterborough.

There are some reports the four were originally going on a hunting expedition, leaving home on Thursday. They were first noticed in Lakefield by Chief Garnet Samis shortly before 11 p.m. He noted their truck had a Hamilton license plate.

Before checking them the chief decided to finish his beat in town, and he had just done so when two Lakefield men—Hector Edwards and George Wannamaker rushed up to tell him that the Melody Inn, just north of the village, was being wrecked.

When Chief Samis arrived he found the dazed proprietor, James Hogan and his wife, Hazel, recovering from a beating at the hands of the quartet. The phone had been ripped off the wall.

The men apparently went north and Chief Samis followed, after informing the Provincial Police of the incident. When he reached Burleigh Falls he found a roadblock had been established but it was too late as the truck had already passed.

As provincial prowl cars closed in on them the four are believed to have left Burleigh Falls, driven along Highway 36 to Buckhorn, then across to Bobcaygeon and then south to Lindsay. At one time 11 prowl cars were tracking down the men, but they were unable to prevent the subsequent tragedy.

When the men reached Lindsay they apparently entered the cafe, became engaged in an argument that developed into a fight and the single death and three injuries resulted.

Police say that in addition to the three rifles and a revolver found in the car there was a blood-stained knife (not positively identified as the murder weapon), a quantity of sewing needles and babies' and children's clothing.

Two of the rifles bore price tags.

Inspector C. W. Farrow, head of the Peterborough detachment of the provincial police, said he was checking on whether the goods had been stolen from country stores in the Peterborough and Lindsay districts.

Loucks was a long-time resident of Peterborough having worked with Rehill's for about five years. Recently he moved to Lindsay. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Loucks of 457 Murray St.

There are two brothers in Peterborough, Douglas and Ronald, the latter employed at Rehill's. A sister, Mrs. Margaret Roberts works at Canada Packers.

Prominent in the arrest were Provincial Constables Joseph Hanson, D. W. Coffey, Bell, and R. A. Feeley. Among the city police who converged almost simultaneously at the roadblock with the provincial car closely pursuing the fugitives, were Constables Claire McGillen and Douglas Farthing.

Either Chief Samis or Constable McGillen winged the truck of the fleeing men with a well-aimed shot.

The increases applied for at that time varied widely, some being well below 10 per cent.

List Limitations

On long-distance calls, the surcharge would apply only to calls between Ontario and Quebec points. Calls between Ontario-Quebec centres and points outside the two provinces would be exempted.

Another exception in long-distance service would be calls payable at pay phones for which the charge is 25 cents or less. On coin box calls, the surcharge would be payable in multiples of five cents.

The company estimated the over-all result of the temporary boost would be an increase in total revenue of just under eight per cent. It would produce a gross $9,222,000 in 1950, leaving the company $5,476,000 after taxes.

If granted, the proposed temporary surcharge would stand only until the transport commissioners had disposed of the company's main-rate increase application.

For local residential service, the greatest increases would be in the larger cities. On hand phones, they would range from a top of 5 cents a month in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec down to 25 cents in the smallest exchanges.

Gardiner Raps View Canada Only War Larder

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner Thursday said he disagreed with a United Kingdom view that Canada should be used as a food larder only during times of war.

Such a policy, he said in an interview, would be "hard on Canadian agriculture."

The minister was commenting on a statement by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, who informed a London press conference that Britain may switch to European supplies for food she formerly purchased in Canada.

Sir Stafford told the conference Britain bought foodstuffs in Canada during the war in "unaccustomed" amounts which could not be maintained when Britain got back to post-war trading with other countries.

Hard On Farmers

"In my opinion," said Mr. Gardiner, "the view that Canada is to be depended on for supplies of food only during war is rather hard on Canadian agriculture.

"I am sure it is not the view of a great many people in Britain."

Mr. Gardiner said he could not comment at this time on a statement by Sir Stafford on purchase of Canadian eggs. Sir Stafford said:

"It is therefore a fact that in certain things, like eggs, which we bought exceptionally from Canada because we could not then get European supplies, we are now switching back to our original sources of supplies."

Loan To China Not Paid Back

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP)—A dim future looms for Canada's $60,000,000 loan to Nationalist China.

Authoritative quarters said on Wednesday that Canada has small chance of being repaid.

They expressed this view after a statement in the Commons by External Affairs Minister Pearson that Canada may at some future time consider recognition of the new Communist Government in China.

They thought recognition would have little bearing on the future of the loan. The money was borrowed by the Chinese Nationalist Government in 1946 and was used, in part, to purchase Canadian war materials and supplies to help fight the Communist-inspired Chinese civil war.

Of the $60,000,000 Canada has realized only $2,000,000. She will be lucky if she gets any more.

5 Men In UE Jailed Year For Assault

9 Other Members Fined $500 Each; Acquit 8 Defendants

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—(AP) — Fourteen members of the United Electrical Workers' local Thursday were convicted of assault with a deadly weapon during a picket line disturbance.

Five of the 14, including three union officials, were sentenced to a year in jail and fined $1,000 each by Judge Leonard C. Reid. He fined the nine other members of the UE local $500 each. Eight other defendants were acquitted.

The six-week trial was in connection with a disturbance last April 5 outside the strikebound Elkay manufacturing plant in suburban Cicero. Six men were injured and a non-striking AFL worker was in hospital 16 days.

Use Blackjacks

Witnesses testified blackjacks, bricks and ball bats were used in the fracas. The fighting broke out a day after an AFL teamsters workers local was recognized as bargaining agent for Elkay employees, supplanting the striking UE Local 1119.

The UE struck at the Elkay plant last February, protesting the firing of 13 workers. During the trial prosecutors charged the UE officers resorted to violence to settle a union dispute. They contended Communism was widespread in the UE local and officers were unable to refer to the National Labor Relations Board because they had not filed the non-Communist affidavit required under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Canada Sending Delegate To Ceylon Talks

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP)—Canada will participate in an important commonwealth policy-making conference in Ceylon next January.

External Affairs Minister Pearson announced in the Commons Thursday night that a cabinet minister will represent Canada at foreign policy discussions on Pacific and Far Eastern matters as well as "external affairs of general interest."

Two big matters which will come up for discussion are possible recognition of the Communist Chinese government and the question of drafting a peace treaty for Japan.

Timing of the conference suggested that recognition of the new government of China would not occur before then.

"It may be," said Mr. Pearson in completing a two-day debate on Canadian foreign policy, "that we shall be in a slightly better position to unveil that (Chinese) picture after the conversations that we shall have in Colombo, Ceylon."

Mr. Pearson said he could not name the Canadian delegate to the Ceylon conference.

Urge Pearson Delegate

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) had suggested that Mr. Pearson should be that delegate.

However, said Mr. Pearson, he had been away a lot in the last two or three months, "and although there is nothing I would like better than to spend the month of January amidst the balmy breezes of Colombo, I am not quite certain at this time who will be the representative of the government."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said that the world situation was clear now and becoming clearer all the time. It involved the fundamental differences between Russia and its Communist - dominated satellites and the western democracies.

Mr. Drew intimated that sanctions should be applied against Russia until she agreed to give the people under her domination the opportunity of choosing their own form of government.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Research Helps Lengthen Life!

Almost every day we hear about products that last longer because of research. An interesting example is a Johns-Manville Packing called Navalon.

Used for sealing oil, water and many other liquids, packing some into direct rubbing contact with moving machine parts. Most packings wear out quickly under this constant rubbing. In developing Navalon, J-M research engineers used "Ramie", natures strongest and toughest fibre—so that it would far outlast other packing of similar type.

Navalon is only one of many Packing and Gaskets in hundreds of styles and sizes that J-M supplies to meet industry's varied needs If you have a packing problem, contact Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto — or see your nearest J-M distributor.

Horse Burned In Barn Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18 — (ENS)—Flames shooting 30 feet into the air lit up the night sky at 1.40 this morning when Russell Ferrill's small barn, west of the town limits in Seymour township, was completely destroyed by fire.

Local firemen stood by ready to pounce on any fresh outbreaks in nearby buildings. Bob Ingram, returning home from work, sent in the alarm.

Don Glenn who had the barn rented, lost a horse. A goat belonging to Charlie Ingram was rescued from the burning debris at considerable risk by Ed. Little and W. C. Stapley. A small quantity of hay was burnt.

Cause of the fire is unknown and damage will run into hundreds of dollars.

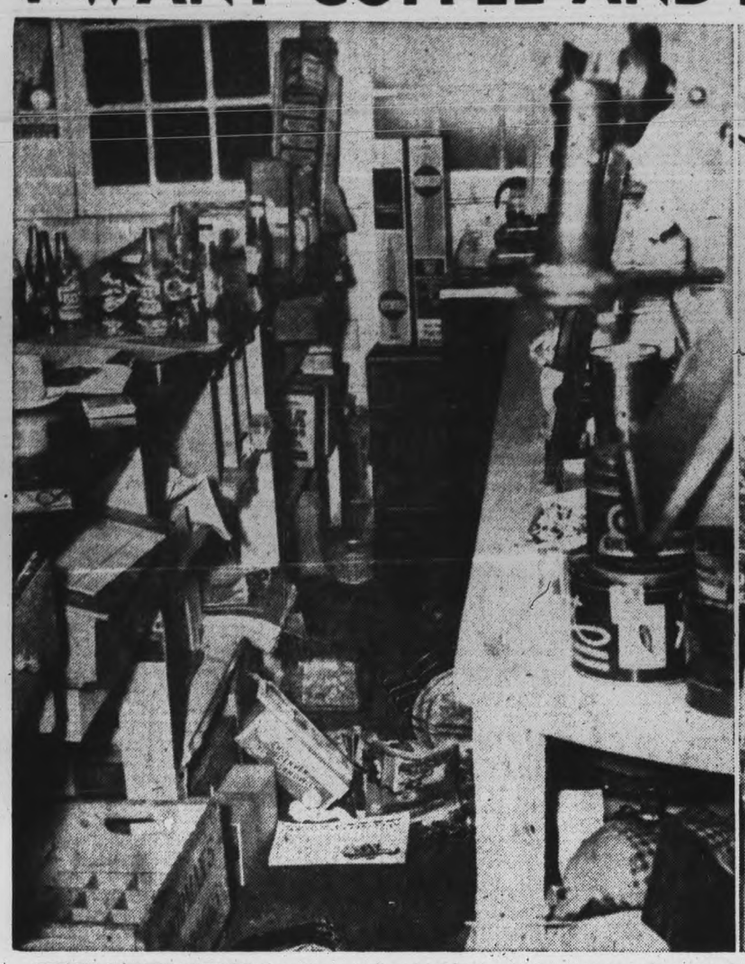
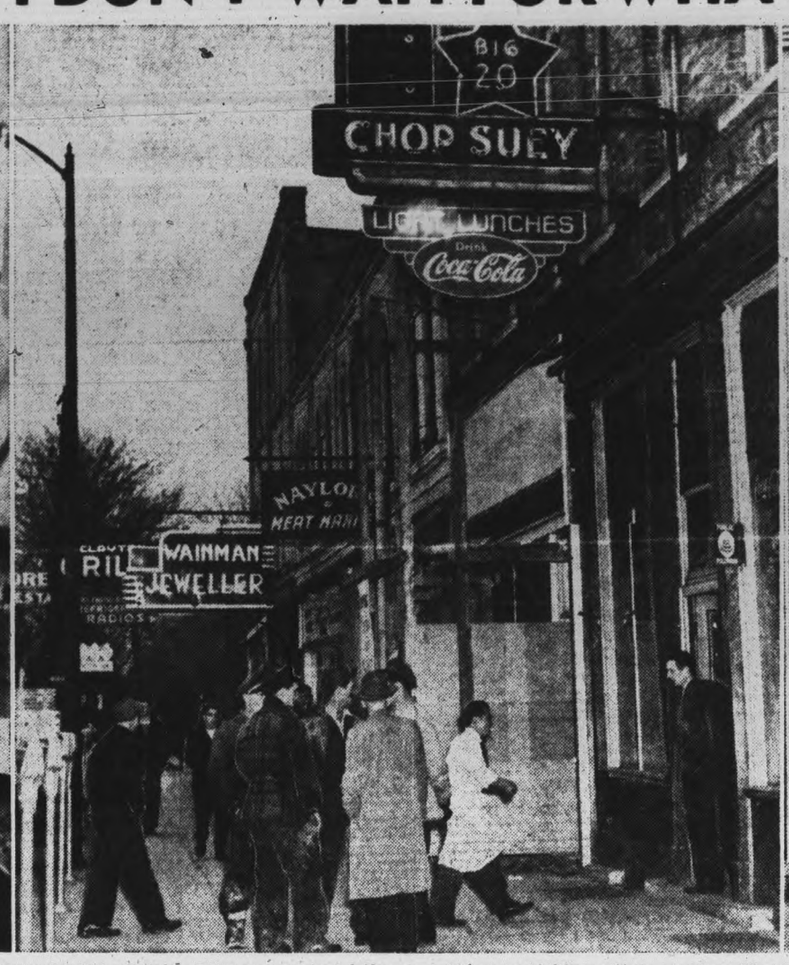
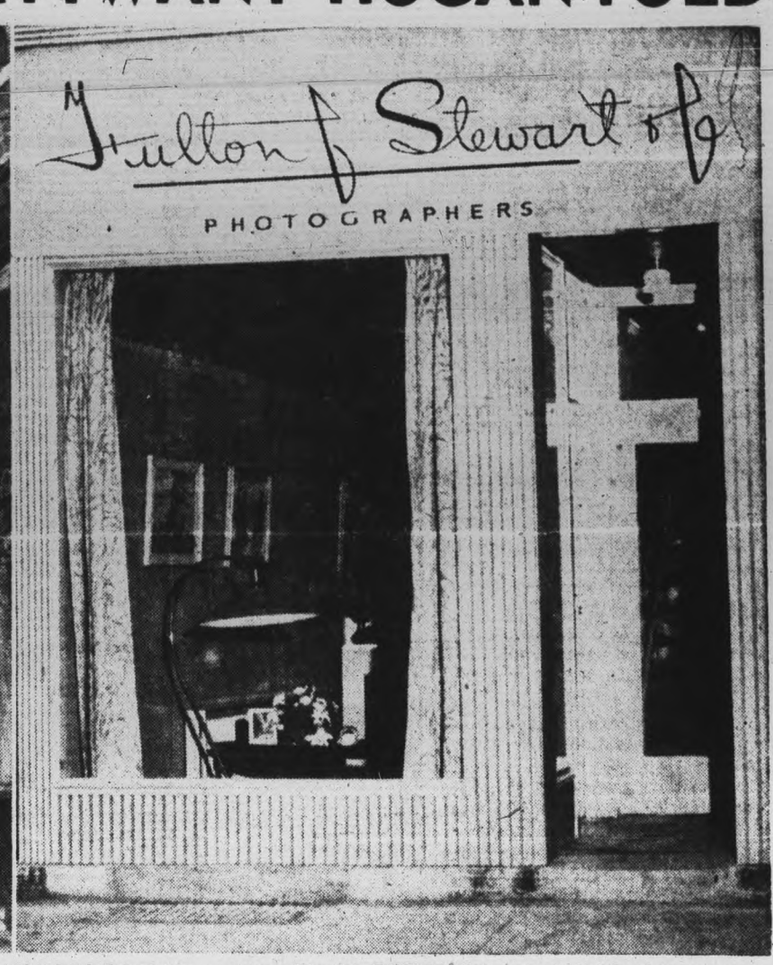
'I WANT COFFEE AND I DON'T WAIT FOR WHAT I WANT' HOGAN TOLD





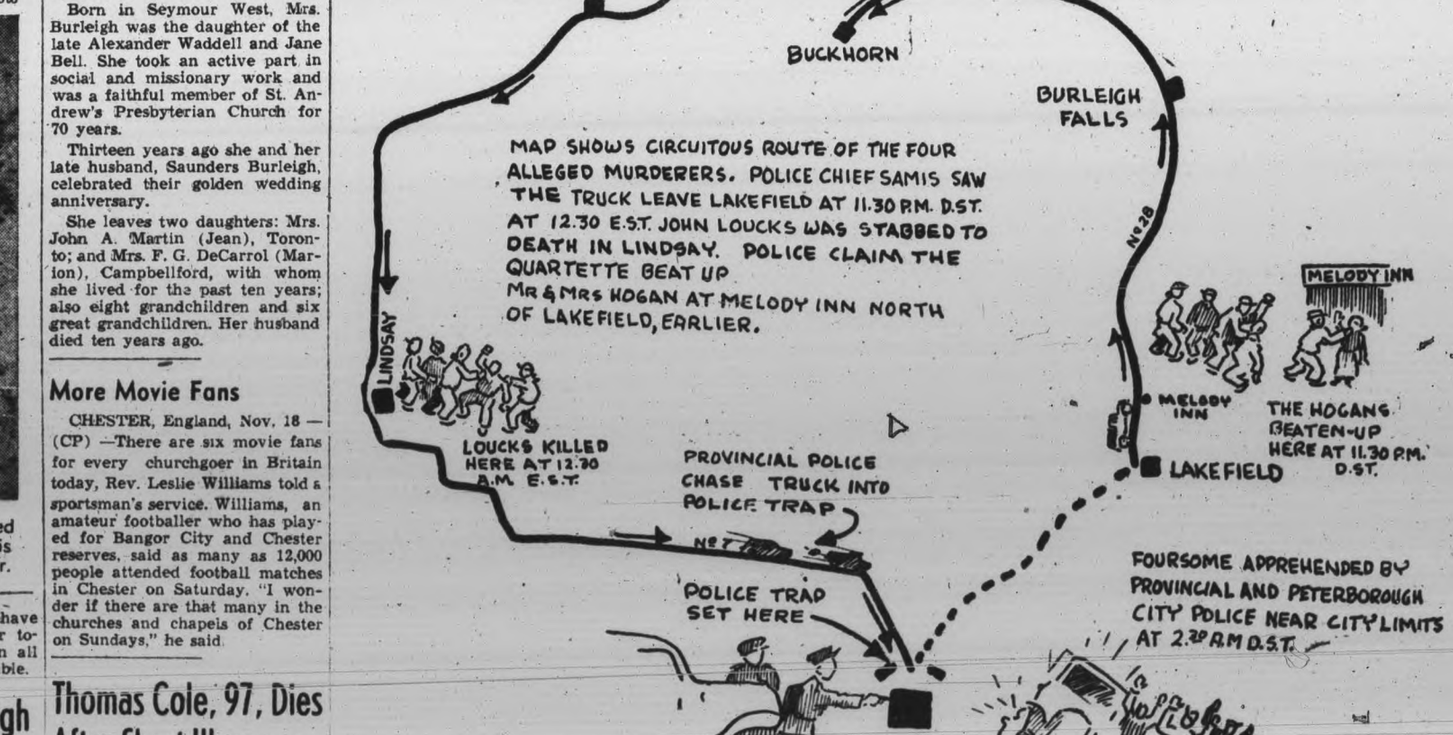


THESE THREE SCENES link the events which led to the death of Jack Loucks, 36, about 1.30 this morning. On the LEFT is seen the wreckage behind the counter at the Melody Inn, just north of Lakefield. Four men entered the snack bar operated by James Hogan, 26, and his wife Hazel. They started a fight because they could not get a cup of coffee as quickly as they wanted. They beat up the young couple then fled by way of Burleigh Falls, Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon to Lindsay. Outside the Lindsay restaurant pictured in the CENTRE, they became involved in an argument with Jack Loucks and Loucks was stabbed in the ensuing fight in front of the neighbouring photographers shop on the RIGHT. —Examiner Staff Photo

STILL STIFF AND SORE from the beating they were given by four men, alleged killers of Jack Loucks, Mr. and Mrs. James Hogan pose with their two-and-a-half-year-old son, Robert. The four thugs came into the Hogan's snack bar, the Melody Inn, north of Lakefield, about 11:20 Thursday night. The four started a fight over getting coffee immediately and pounded the Hogans before they raced to Lindsay by way of Burleigh Falls, Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon. —Examiner Staff Photo

PICTURED ON THE LEFT is the Melody Inn, just north of Lakefield at the junction of the Young's Point road and the McCracken's Landing road, where the first in a series of events began which led to the death of Jack Loucks, 36, Lindsay. Four men beat up Mr. and Mrs. James Hogan, proprietors of the Inn, and then sped to Lindsay via Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon in the truck pictured on the RIGHT. Loucks was stabbed in a street fight with the four. The right rear tire of the truck was punctured by a police bullet when the men were captured about 2:30 a.m. in the north end of Peterborough. Lakefield's Chief Constable Garnet Samis, who helped in the chase and capture of the four, is seen at the door of the Melody Inn. —Examiner Staff Photo

SPATTERED BLOODY TRAIL of street fighting and foul death on Lindsay's main street early this morning. Here four men were wounded and Jack Loucks staggered 70 feet along the sidewalk dropping his life's blood as he died, victim of a killer.



Young Couple

Telephoned Police

As they got into their waiting truck, they warned the young couple not to leave the shop for five minutes. As soon as they left, Hogan ran across to a neighbor's to phone police, but in the meantime, Wannamaker and Edwards had got out and phoned the police.

Chief Constable Garnet Samis of Lakefield arrived in a few minutes and gave chase north, the direction in which the four had fled.

Chief Samis got as far as Buckhorn and by that time a provincial police cruiser caught up and took over the chase.

Led To Lindsay

The hunt led to Lindsay where Loucks was murdered and finally to the road block at the intersection of Stewart and Reid Sts. at the Chemong road turn.

Mr. and Mrs. Hogan are stiff from the numerous body bruises they received.

They said the four did not have any weapons in the fight. When Hogan at one point threatened to use a billy on them, they tore it from his grasp and warned him they would beat him with it.

During the whole fight, the Hogans' young child, Robert John, two and a half, was asleep in a cabin at the rear of the shop.

The Hogans came to Lakefield from Toronto last May and have been running the snack bar together with a service station all summer with no serious trouble.

Sir Stafford Cripps And The Clergy

On Saturday last we expressed our disagreement with Mr. Gordon Graydon's proposal that the clergy should be exempted from Income Tax, and in that editorial we said that, as Governments never give favours for nothing, the clergy might find that their freedom of criticism suffered if they accepted such a favour. This week news from England provides an example of what we mean.

• • •

Of late the Archbishop of York has been speaking with deep concern about the financial state of Britain, and has appealed to the Government to consider a coalition, or some compromise, as a means of meeting the national emergency. As an Archbishop of the Established Church of England Dr. Garbett was appointed to his office by the King (actually by the Government) and he has a seat in the House of Lords. Sir Stafford Cripps, in a speech to the Church Assembly, has in effect told the clergy to keep quiet about politics; as Chancellor of the Exchequer, and a very important member of the Cabinet, Sir Stafford's rebuke will carry great weight. The Church of England is a State church, and when the Government tells it not to be critical of the State it must weigh the odds very carefully indeed before it does so.

• • •

We do not pretend that this incident is of overwhelming importance, but it shows clearly what happens to clergy who are under obligations to the Government; they are not as free to speak their minds as they would be if they received no favours from the State.

• • •

We do not think that social criticism is the chief purpose of the Church, by any means. But there are times when the Church may feel, as a matter of conscience, that it must act as a social critic. Let the clergy of Canada reflect carefully before they surrender a jot of their independence.

Who Pays The Biggest Tax?

We have at hand the 1949 "Green Book", of the Department of National Revenue, Taxation Division. This current edition contains the taxation statistics for the year 1947, and among the "Statistics of General Interest" in the first pages is a table showing Canadian taxpayers by occupation. It is no surprise to find that "employees" paid 64.71 of the income tax in that year, for there were 2,060,946 of them, who paid tax. Among "employees" the average income of those in armed services was $2,171, in municipal governments $2,157, in business enterprises (including industry) $2,156, in provincial governments $2,132, in Dominion government a mere $2,093. People employed in educational institutions, mostly teachers we presume, came next with an average annual income of $2,075.

According to the Department of National Revenue's statistics the highest average incomes in Canada are earned by lawyers. In 1947 3,886 of them earned an average of $7,882 each. Next highest income fell to the lot of medical doctors and surgeons, 7,442 of them in the country, whose average yearly earning was $7,822. Next came engineers and architects with an average of $7,452 then a drop to dentists at $5,713. Listed in the same table in this order are "Deceased, $3,646; Other Professions, $3,553."

Authors and writers did not make much hay in 1947; the 41 of them in Canada who were taxable earned an average of $2,537. The 40 hunters, trappers and guides who paid tax picked up an average of $1,175 in the year. They were the lowest in the list; second lowest were nurses, averaging $1,279.

Such statistics tell stories which are not completely true. Nevertheless, it would seem that it is more profitable to be a lawyer than a trapper, a doctor than a nurse, deceased than "other profession". If it is any consolation to the trapper, the nurse and the others, lawyers paid the highest income tax, an average of $2,056; engineers and architects the next highest, $1,882 a head, and doctors the third highest, $1,799. The great host listed as "employees" paid an average income tax of $195.

The Most Famous Hunt

Now that hunting is again the talk of town and country we feel we should say a few words about the sport. The most exciting deer hunt we have ever experienced was one in which fifteen hundred Englishmen and two thousand Scots slaughtered bucks and themselves on Chevy Chase, which is in the Scottish border country. This great, stirring and tragic hunt took place several centuries ago; our thrilling experience of it comes from reading the ballad Chevy Chace in which an unknown minstrel tells the story. It is a great story and a great ballad. Sir Philip Sidney once said (in the sixteenth century): "Certainly I must confess my own barbarousness, I never heard the old song of Percy and Douglas that I found not my heart moved more than with a trumpet."

The story of the "woefull hunting" in Chevy Chase begins:

The stout Erle of Northumberland
A vow to God did make,
His pleasure in the Scottish woods
Three summers days to take;

The cheefest harts in Chevy-Chace
To kill and beare away:
These tydings to Earle Douglas came,
To Scotland where he lay.

Who sent Erle Percy present word,
He wold prevent his sport;
The English Erle not fearing that,
Did to the woods resort.

The gallant greyhounds swiftly ran
To chase the fallow deere;
On Monday they began to hunt,
Ere day-light did appeare;

And long before high noone they had
An hundred fat buckes slaine;
Then having din'd, the drovyers went
To rouze the deere againe.

If the hunters who set out before dawn last Monday did not have the same good bag of deer, at least no disaster overtook them of the magnitude of the slaughter on Chevy Chase. Lord Percy, Erle of Northumberland remarked that he had not seen Earl Douglas, the Scot who had promised to make the bold intruder bite the heather. The English hunters had been wary all morning:

Theire backsides all, with speciall care,
That day were guarded sure.

Then over the hill came "full twenty hundred Scottish speres" and the Earl Douglas.

"Show me", sayd hee, "whose men you bee,
That hunt soe boldly heere,
That, without my consent, doe chase
And kill my fallow-deere".

(The quatrain might be adopted by a game-warden!)

The fight was on, but both leaders agreed that it would be senseless slaughter to engage all their men in battle. The two as champions desired to have it out, but their knights and squires protested that they would not stand idly by.

They clos'd full fast on everye side
Noe slackness there was found;
And many a gallant gentleman
Lay gasping on the ground.

The two earls met. Douglas the Scot was slain by an English bowman's arrow, accidentally, for in those days men of lesser rank were not allowed to kill above them. The Earls were each other's meat only. Earl Percy was mortified:

O Christ! my verry hart doth bleed
With sorrow for thy sake;
For sure, a more renowned knight
Mischance could never take".

The whole field was thrown into confusion and rage; the slaughter was dreadful. Both earls, and most of the knights were slain. (One knight, when both his legs were smitten off, "fought upon his stumpes.") Only fifty-five of the 2,000 Scots remained alive; only fifty-three of the Englishmen went home from the hunt. King James of Scotland and King Henry of England mourned the loss of the noblemen, and took vengeance.

The bard's final homily is:

God save our king, and bless this land
In plentye, joy, and peace;
And grant henceforth, that foule debate
'Twixt noblemen may cease.

Our own observation is that armed hunters, whether noble or common, are even more dangerous when they are enraged than when they are quietly beating the bush.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A fossil 400,000,000 years old was found in the rock at Kingston, recently. That's a long term, even for Kingston.

A fashion note says, "Spring suits for women present little to the eye, with plunging neckline and falsies out". Ah well, if the neckline plunges too far the falsies fall out anyway.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: If a Peterborough person sues for divorce, must his or her case be heard in Peterborough? Must there be public notification of it in Peterborough?

ANSWER: Yes, to both questions. Twenty years ago, before amendments to divorce legislation, it was common practice for Toronto couples seeking divorce to have their cases heard, for instance, in the obscure silence of Whitby. Now an appellant for divorce must have the case heard in his or her own county, at the regular non-jury assizes of the Supreme Court. If the person seeking divorce has established residence elsewhere, even though the wife or husband lives in Peterborough, the case may be heard elsewhere.

The public notification of divorce proceedings does not compel newspaper reporting of them. As a matter of fact, the better newspapers in the province do not report on divorce cases, titillating though they may be. This is an example of the restraint the press imposes upon itself, feeling that divorce is a private matter which ought not be aired before a gaping public. If the Peterborough public wants to know what divorces are pending, it can go up to the court-house a few days before the non-jury sittings (the next are in December) and look at the lists posted on the left-hand side of the entrance to the court chamber.

DEAR ALPHA: Perhaps you noticed on the back page of Monday's Examiner an article from the Orillia "Packet-Times" on Champlain's 1615 route. The writer completely disagrees with Professor Needler on his two chief points, that Champlain portaged to Sturgeon Lake and not to Balsam out of Lake Simcoe; and that he came down the Otonabee from Stony and Clear Lakes, and not through Chemong and by portage to the Otonabee at Peterborough. What say you to this? A couple of weeks ago you presented Professor Needler's thesis and agreed with it.

ANSWER: Yes, I have seen the Orillia article, and unlike the anonymous friend of the editor of the Orillia paper who seems to be his chief authority, and who merely "glanced over" Professor Needler's historical paper, I have read it. I have written Professor Needler asking for his comments, and shall here refrain from a detailed critique. I hope next week to have Dr. Needler's reply.

The question of water-levels in 1615 should be settled. Dr. Needler did not specifically take into account any changes between then and now. The Orillia authority and the Orillia editor shilly-shally. "The dam at Bobcaygeon raised the lake six feet and eliminated the rapids which in the days of the first settlers were two miles west of Bobcaygeon". The implication is that in Champlain's day the water-levels were lower than now (when dams control them), and so "Sturgeon Lake which is now a long narrow lake.... in those days would have been more like a river". Yet "Concerning the rapids between Cameron and Balsam Lakes, these are very slight. I have no doubt in those days there were practically non existent". The picture of Sturgeon Lake as a river implies low water levels; of the rapids between Balsam and Cameron as being non-existent, high water levels.

There is little doubt in my mind that the water-levels in the Kawartha system were considerably lower in the summer of 1615 than they are now, despite the forests of Champlain's time which would have restrained the spring freshets. Sturgeon lake (though it is 20 feet deep in some places) could have been a river; the Otonabee a mere stream, and impassable because of the rapids, shoals and shallowness. The chief engineer of the Trent system, Mr. T. J. Ryan, even hazards the guess that if Champlain's party came down the Otonabee from Lakefield to Peterborough they would have had to portage nearly all the eleven miles. Now there are eleven dams between the two places, whose purpose is to make level reaches which can be navigated.

A close reading such as Dr. Needler has given the original Champlain record, does make his argument for the portage from Lake Simcoe to Sturgeon Lake, and against the portage from Chemong to Peterborough, very substantial.

AS the Orillia writer points out, the Talbot trail from Lake Simcoe to Balsam Lake would have been a natural Indian route. It follows the Talbot River, thence from Gambridge (near Beaverton) there is a relatively short portage, used by early settlers and still called the Portage Road, to the east side of Balsam Lake at its head. A route farther south, though ultimately shorter as Professor Needler shows, must have been more difficult, and there seems to be no evidence of a common Indian route from Lake Simcoe to Sturgeon Lake. Such a route would involve crossing two heights of land, the watersheds of Gull and Burnt Rivers.

It is a question for experts and those familiar with the channels and topography. If I seem to veer away from Professor Needler's thesis, it is merely as devil's advocate, for I know that Professor Needler is most capable of supporting his argument himself.

SIR: I know the word suicide, homicide, fratricide and the rest, but fungicide is a new one to me. Does it mean killing a person by giving him poisonous toadstools to eat?

ANSWER: By analogy from your own examples suum—cadere—to kill oneself, homo—kill a man, frater—do away with a brother, fungicide must mean to kill a fungus. And so it does. It is the name of any substance which kills fungi. Regicide, by the way, is becoming an archaic word, for there are so few kings left to kill.

ALPHA: When did the last war start? I read in some papers that it began on September 1st, in other September 3rd (1939).

ANSWER: For continental Europe it began on September 1st, when German troops invaded Poland. For Britain and France it began officially on September 3rd, when these countries declared war. For Canada it began on September 10th, when Canada officially declared war, though it is interesting to note that in governmental and military regulations of the week between September 3rd and the 10th, Germany was already referred to as "the enemy". For the U. S. it began on December 6th, 1941. Some historians believe that the war began at the close of the Great War with the Treaty of Versailles; some other consider it dates from the close of the Napoleonic Wars (1815) and the Congress of Vienna.

FOR THE RECORD: I have recently come upon an account of bridal furniture bought in 1911. The still handsome and serviceable solid oak dining-room table, which extends to ten feet when its extra boards are inserted, cost $13.50. Each dining-room chair was bought for $2.00, except the head of the family's arm chair, which cost $2.60. The half-dozen kitchen chairs, still in the kitchen and still standing firm and strong cost sixty cents each. The kitchen table, four feet wide and six long, complete with drawer, was bought for $2.65. Prices have gone up since 1911. My question is, will furniture bought today even at the high prices, hold together as well—or at all—for 38 years, with the prospect of lasting the bride through her golden wedding anniversary?

Letter To The Editor

RESENTS COMMERCIAL USE OF HYMNS

Sir: All my Methodist blood is at boiling point. The heat is generated by my resentment of the use of organ music and some of my best loved hymn tunes to sell all kinds of "junk" over the radio.

Surely those inspired writers of our gospel hymns, and such tunes as Redhead. Moscow and Sovereignty did not have patent medicines in mind, nor the increased sales of any product. For the most part they were written to fortify the spirit and to bring solace, comfort and hope.

Make no mistake—the end is not far off. It is later than you think, and I'm not fanatical when I now state it is time to do some serious heart-searching and cease right now from secularizing His sacred works to assist men's cupidity.

I am, yours sincerely,

CROSBYS.

TB Is Being Beaten

For the first time a Canadian province is below the death rate of 20 per 100,000 population from tuberculosis. Ontario can claim that proud record, with only 19.2.

There is a noteworthy improvement all across Canada in combatting this scourge. Progress made suggests that with continuance of efforts tuberculosis can almost be eliminated as a killer.

The rate for all Canada in 1948 was 37.1 per 100,000, compared with 43.4 in 1947, a marked drop. The provincial rates range from a low of 19.2 in Ontario to 58.4 in Quebec, with Saskatchewan having 26.8; Alberta, 30.6; Manitoba, 38; Nova Scotia, 38.9; British Columbia, 40.8; New Brunswick, 45.7.

The rate in Quebec seems bad, and is. But that province, a late starter in the campaign against tuberculosis, is now doing well. Its death rate from the disease dropped from 72.2 in 1946 to 58.4 last year.—Windsor Star.

Machines Are Not Enough

Electric gadgets are not capable of looking after all the daily chores. They will not feed chickens, draw the water from wells, tend to the kitchen garden, prepare the poultry for market, keep the house spic and span or do the mending. There is more to a big Monday's washing than a purring machine. It takes a good pair of arms to get the clothes on the line and bring them in when they are dry.

The hired man and a horse or two are still indispensable, despite that imposing array of power equipment in the implement shed.

The hired girl is just as essential. Not much is heard about her. Perhaps she is too busy to do much talking about herself. But the rural scene would be lost without her. It is time that her importance was recognized.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God....O satisfy us early with thy mercy; that we may rejoice and be glad all our days....And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us; and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it. (Ps. 90: 1, 2, 14, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (Rom. 12: 1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward: not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God; who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life....

Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. But we all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord. (II Cor. 3: 4-6, 17, 18.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Diner: "Sorry, sir, but I have no money to pay for the meal."

Proprietor: "Don't worry about that. We'll just write your name on the wall, and you can pay next time you come in."

"I don't like the idea of that. Everybody will see it."

"Oh, no, they won't. Your coat will be hanging over it."

An elderly lady, after long trips through impressive hallways and an hour of waiting, was permitted to see a high-up assistant in the Agriculture Department.

"But I want to see the Secretary of Agriculture himself," she protested.

"He's not in just now, madam," said the official. "Can't you tell me what it is you want to see him about?"

"Well, I have a geranium that isn't doing so well."

✧ ✧ ✧

For several minutes the young man did not speak. His heart was too full. It was enough for him to know that this glorious creature loved him; that she had promised to be his wife.

With a new and delightful sense of ownership he feasted his eyes upon her beauty, and realized that henceforth it would be his privilege to provide for her welfare and happiness.

His good fortune seemed incredible. Finally he whispered, tenderly: "How did it happen, darling, that such a bright, shining angel as yourself fell in love with a dull, stupid fellow like me?"

"Goodness knows," the girl murmured, absently, "I must have a screw loose somewhere."

Mission Circle Meets At Mrs. M. Ball's Home

MILLBROOK, Nov. 18 (ENS) Golden Links Mission of St. Andrew's United Church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Melville Ball, with Miss Jean Burnham, vice-president, in the chair.

Mrs. Laurence Winslow, who was in charge of the worship service, read the scripture lesson and led in prayer. A devotional poem was read by Mrs. David Lunn.

In the absence of the Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. E. Powell, her report was given by Miss Estelle Hetherington, who also played the accompaniments for the hymns. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Betty Lunn.

Miss Jessie Lunn read a news letter from the Circle's special missionary for prayer, Miss Jean Stewart of China, whom many of the Circle members met on her last furlough. Miss Stewart told of a missionary trip to outlying districts during which she travelled by wheelbarrow pushed by a Coolie, ate Chinese food and wore Chinese clothes for convenience.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. B. C. Ingham, was asked to send cards of congratulation to the president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, on the birth of her son, and to Mrs. Gordon Wright on the birth of her daughter. A card of condolence was to be sent to Miss Marjorie Skitch.

It was decided to hold the Christmas meeting, at which the election of officers is to take place, between Christmas and New Years, the exact date to be settled later. Miss Jessie Martin, Circle's secretary for the Presbytery, has been invited to attend.

The third section of the study book was given by Mrs. Homer Ouellette and Miss Jean Burnham.

The autumn Thank Offering envelopes were received.

Mrs. Melville Ball, Mrs. G. A. Spicer and Miss Estelle Hetherington were supper hostesses.

Resigns Position Truant Officer

HAVELOCK, Nov. 18 (ENS)— The resignation of James Diaper, school attendance officer, was read and accepted at a meeting of the Public School Board on Monday. Ill health was the cause of Mr. Diaper's resignation. Samuel Southward was appointed to fill the office for the remainder of the year.

Harold Hunter, assistant principal, gave the report for October as follows; school open 19 days, enrollment 171, average attendance 164.42, actual aggregate 3,124 perfect aggregate 3,235, percentage 96.57. One pupil had been transferred and one had been admitted to the school. Twenty copies of "The Canadian Singer" were required for Mrs. Backus' room. Mr. Hunter said three Normal School students had been assigned to teach in Havelock Public School from Nov. 21 to Dec. 2.

Discuss Hockey

He requested that the Board purchase a soccer ball for the boys. Hockey and skating for public school pupils were discussed and the secretary was instructed to communicate with E. D. Chiles, secretary of the rink committee, asking the number of hours a week available for the pupils for hockey and skating and the charge.

The Board authorized the purchase of a soccer ball and the music for Mrs. Backus' room.

The secretary was requested to write to the Public School Trustees and Ratepayer's Association asking what procedure a public school board should take to engage a nurse to inspect the pupils monthly.

A communication was read from the local Home and School Association advising the Board that the class rooms at the School have been pestered with flies during this fall season. It was during executive meetings of the Society held in the class rooms, that they had become aware of the nuisance. The Society suggested screens be placed on the windows for next season and that the flies be cleaned out right away by means of fly spray.

It was also noted that draft boards, which are available, were not in use. The society stressed the use of draft boards as one step toward the fight against the common cold.

The secretary was instructed to write the secretary of the Home and School Association stating that the matter had received the attention of the Board.

Expects To Cut Losses

Bank balance was at present $449.57 compared with $79.73 this time last year.

Found Badly Beaten In Hotel Parking Lot

TORONTO, Nov. 18— (CP) — Beaten "unmercifully" by two men with whom he had been drinking earlier, Charles Jacques 21, early today was found blood-soaked and unconscious in a dimly-lit parking lot at the rear of a Danforth Avenue hotel. He required 41 stitches to his face and head to close wounds.

Picked up in a cafe on the city limits, Ramon Kyles 21, and John Campbell 22, have geen charged with robbery with violence and are scheduled to appear in court today.

Jacques, a Walkerton farmer, told police he was robbed of $1 and that he did not remember much of what happened. As soon as he left the hotel, the pair jumped him. He said they were strangers, but that they had been drinking with him.

Deputy Chief Wilf McLellan said it was one of the most "unmerciful" beatings he has ever seen.

Four of 13 aquatic events in the YMCA pool here Saturday eve are for provincial championships. The 100-yard breast stroke for young men, the 100 breast for boys under 14, the 160 free style relay, and the 100 free style for boys under 12 — open to all challengers. Nine or 10 clubs will have representaties here, mostly from Toronto. Local entries include: Bill Watson, Jim Heffernan, Bob Malby, Jack Boorman, Scott Pearton, El Palmateer, Alec Baptie, Terry Reid, Ross Dobbin and Lorne Hale under direction of Gord Minty. Cliff Lumsden of New Toronto, the youth who won the 15-mile CNE swin this year, will be on deck to give a demonstration.

With the junior PCI-ers off to Port Colborne tomorrow in the COSSA final, local grid fans will trek in large numbers to the Oval at 2.15 p.m. Saturday to see St. Catharines and PCVS in the senior COSSA final playoff. A battle of young giants with a title at stake, and it should be a grand game. The student body will be out in force, spurred to heftier vocal efforts by the fair cheer leaders—and many old-time grads will wend their way toward the northend battlefield for this memorable melee. St. Kitts are husky and go in for plenty of passing, with Thompson (No. 38), Quinlan (43) and Oneschuk (35) their payoff performers. Keep an eye on them.

Names And Numbers

Fans might also run a scissors around this para as it contains the names and numbers of PCVS seniors, as supplied us by Coach Bev Goulding. Linemen are: Killingbeck (10), Jopling (11), Grant (12), Knox (13), Lowes (14), Telford (15), English (16), Taylor (17), Jensen (21), J. Burns (22), Curtis (24), G. Burns (25), Grainger (28), Ward (30) and Foster (31); backfield includes: Armstrong (18), Wood (19), Galoska (20), Evans (23), Grafstein (26), Brown (27), Gandy (32) and Sergeant (33). Al Northcott is out with an injury. These, then, are the big-shouldered boys who will be out at the Oval tomorrow aft trying to bring PCVS a fourth straight senior COSSA championship. Come out and support them. And loads of luck to the juniors, too.

Bun Kingdon says his Triple Links are all set and rarin' to go in their OHA junior "B" exhibition puck fray with Toronto Morric A.C. at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena. No injuries in the local lineup, and it is a well-known fact that juniors round into shape much more rapidly than senior players. More dash and stamina. The visitors are reported strong, something like the St. Mike's Buzzers, and this will be another stiff test for the IOOF-ers. A slambang hockey scrap assured the customers when these teams tangle, as husky youths don't spare the horses when the puck is dropped.

Senior "B" Grouping

OHA member Frank Buckland and convener Lorne Cook (he's from Kingston) conducted the OHA senior "B" meeting in Belleville last p.m. and arranged a grouping of: Petes, Legion, Belleville, Kingston and Gananoque. All senior "B" teams, playing a double schedule, opening on Nov. 28 with Petes at Legion. It runs till around the middle of February, followed by two group semi-finals, there being four clubs in playoffs. Frank Buckland will have the schedule drawn up in a day or two. That'll leave Lindsay (by way of Toronto) Meteors grouped with Stouffville, Markham and another Toronto team up that way in senior "B". We're glad, of course, to see Legion, Petes and Belleville together in a grouping, but Kingston is a hefty haul, and Gananoque—golly, golly, golly! But it should be a right interesting setup for local fans.

Everything happens in pro wrestling, so it shouldn't be surprising that last eve at the Brock a colored chap (Seelie Samara) beat a tall Texan named Lee—possibly not a descendant of the south's General Lee. Using his thick skull to butt out the decision, whilst the fans cheered heartily. We liked the semi-final better, a newcomer here named Wladek (just call him Ladek) Kowalski winning over Jim (Goon) Henry. Weeks ago, Pat Flanagan told us he was better looking than the huge Sharpe boys, and Pat was pretty nearly right. This tall young guy hasn't an ounce of fat on him, and he weighs 265—with shoulders as wide as a lot of sidewalks in this city. And he can play it rough, too, when bothered—chucking the referee around a few times. Stack and Korman went to a lively prelim draw.

Jack Gaudaur Unanimous Choice With Five Tigers For All-Stars

By GEORGE TATHAM

TORONTO, Nov. 18 —(CP) — There is no doubt about bruising Jack Gaudaur's ability on a gridiron.

This was shown today when the Hamilton Tigers' 235-pound snap from Orillia was given the only unanimous vote for a position on the 1949 Ontario Rugby Football Unions All Star team.

Jake and five teamates from the league-winning Tigers picked up five of 12 positions—two were chosen for one spot — on the dream team selected annually for The Canadian Press by football writers and coaches in the four union cities.

Next in line were Sarnia Imperials and Windsor Rockets, splitting six positions, with Toronto Balmy Beach placing one man on the squad, which has 13 because of a tie for one place.

The 28-year-old Gaudaur, a Tiger both offensively and backing up a line—he stands six feet three inches—picked off the snap spot for the second straight term. He was given 24 points in a vote that was weighed to give equal balloting strength to each union city

Top Scorer

Joe Capriotti of the Tigers, top scorer in the union, won the flying wing spot. Joe, who counted all points by his educated toe, finished the regular season with 47 points on seven fields goals, six singles and 20 converts.

Others Chosen

Sarnia, Hamilton and Windsor players took over half positions Windsor's Sylvester (Cy) Mike 200-pound speedster from Los Angeles, is the only American import in the backfield. Jackie Stewart of Hamilton, who finished the scheduled season in a sensational burst with six touchdowns in the last game, and Sarnia's Don Knowles complete the half line. Hamilton's Stan Wolkowski took the quarterback post.

Veteran Don (Shanty) McKenzie, playing coach of Toronto Beaches, and Jack Morneau captain of the Rockets, collected inside spots. It was the fourth straight season Shanty has hit the All-Star squad.

Place-kicking specialist Lloyd (Dutch) Davey of the Imps, and Windsor's Len Wright were chosen for the middle positions. Dutch, who comes from Stratford, collected 10 points on singles and converts this season.

Hard-tackling Keith Fisher of Sarnia was two ballots short of being a unanimous choice in winning an outside wing spot in his fourth season of senior ball. Bill Damiano and Rube Ainsworth, American imports with the Tigers, were tied in the balloting for the other outside position.

The team:

Flying wing — Joe Capriotti, Hamilton
Half—Don Knowles, Sarnia
Half—Jack Stewart, Hamilton
Half (Secondary Defence)—Sylvester (Cy) Mike, Windsor
Quarter—Stan Wolkowski, Hamilton
Snap—Jake Gaudaur, Hamilton
Inside—Jack Morneau, Windsor
Inside—Don (Shanty) McKenzie, Toronto
Middle—Lloyd (Dutch) Davey, Sarnia
Middle—Len Wright, Windsor
Outside—Keith Fisher, Sarnia
Outside—Bill Damiano and Rube Ainsworth, Hamilton (tied).

Industrial Tilts

Quakers defeated CGE 1-0 as Nashua Paper Co. won 4-2 over De Laval last evening in the opening games of the Industrial Hockey League in Civic Arena. Games there next Thursday night commencing at nine, are, Keene vs. Westclox, and Brintons vs. Ventilating Shades. The Quaker-CGE opening scrap was a nifty one, with good checking seen by the well-matched rivals and fine goaltending on both sides. R. Willshaw got the only marker from D. Willshaw in the first period. But five penalties were handed out.

Colored Grappler Beats Lee Using Head As A Hammer

Seelie Samara flattened Hi Lee in the main pro mat bout at the Brock Arena last night, using his Negro hammer-head to butt out the decision. He gained the third and deciding fall with three head butts to Lee's head, after breaking a choking rolling necklock with fists and elbows. The 290-pound Texan was outside the ropes and dazed from the butts when counted out for a popular Samara fall in just over three minutes.

Lee had won the second round of the tussle in four minutes with his rolling necklock, strictly an illegal choke hold, and the fans booed him and Referee Ernie Powers at the finish. Seelie had started off strongly but Hi caught him in a vise-like grip around the neck, after a softening-up process with knees and fists, to roll him around and pin his shoulders, Powers overlooking the strangle grip on the neck.

Came Back

The first round of the main go went 21 minutes before Samara came back after a roughing, including eye rasps, to slam his tall opponent to the mat for the fall. Lee had it on him considerably in height, weight and rough stuff, but Samara was faster, just as ring-wise and got away with some illegal stuff at times, too. He was well-built, with massive chest and heavy shoulders and arms, but could move quicker. Lee favored a choke hold, with Seelie working well with the scissors and later a wristlock, as they stressed straight mat work for a time.

Lee threatened Powers at times when the referee yanked him away from unorthodox holds. The Negro was popular and got a hand with his first fall.

Popular Guy

Comparing favorably in appearance and ability with the popular Sharpe brothers, Wladek Kowalski, 265-pound Polish-Canadian, won the semi-final in 17 minutes over Jim (Goon) Henry, 261. Jim was disqualified for using his knees to the stomach, after several warnings. He was rough and unpopular, but big and tricky, while the husky Pole was young and handsome, and had a temper. In fact, Kowalski came close three times to disqualification for throwing the referee roughly around in a temper when pulled loose from a grip. The crowd really went for him, applauding his every move after a space, and riding Powers and Henry. It was a hard scrap between two big and able matmen, and it kept the fans noisy all through, with a big cheer at the finish.

The prelim between tall Bill Stack, weighing 225, and squat Al (Krusher) Korman, at 227 pounds, went to a 30-minute time limit draw. It started clean with Korman effective with a leglock and Stack coming back with good grappling. Korman began to play it dirty and things livened up a lot. Halfway through, Stack had a fair lead but Korman turned it on and—despite the odd comeback by Bill—he gave his rival a rough go of it in action-packed grappling that was interesting to the customers.

Five Entered In Group For Senior 'B'

Five teams were grouped together in Central Ontario for OHA senior "B" competition at a meeting in Belleville last night. They are the Petes, the Legionnaires, Belleville Diesels, Kingston Nylons and Gananoque. A double schedule will be run, opening Nov. 28 and going till the middle of February, with four teams making the group playoffs. The Petes meet Legion here on Nov. 28 to start it off. In playoffs, the first and third meet, and the second and fourth, two out of three games, the finals being a best-of-five affair.

Frank Buckland, who with Lorne Cook of Kingston conducted the meeting, will draw up the schedule this weekend. The OHA will appoint referees, local linemen being used. The teams finishing with most points have choice of home arena at playoff time. A deciding playoff game, if necessary, will result in the gate being split but no mileage given. The meeting last night was well-attended.

Curling Notes

By HERB MARTIN

Entries closed for the Neill Trophy last evening, and chairman Ruttan tells us that with entries from Keene, Lakefield and Peterborough, there will be well over 70 rinks competing.

This is going to be one swell bonspiel with primary and consolation events. It will be interesting to see just how this idea of playing this bonspiel every Tuesday works out. We believe it is worth a fair trial.

When we left the rink Thursday night, well after 11 o'clock, there were only three rinks entered in this men's bonspiel for for 9.00 o'clock tomorrow morning. It would appear that unless the curlers take a decided interest in this 'spiel, by tonight, it could easily be a washout.

Almost every night there is an extra end game, and on Thursday night it was C. Mowry and T Ryan who did the trick, those boys getting the nod on the 11th end.

We're wondering what's happened to the Hot Stove League.

And then there's the sad case of the Scotsman who sprained his ankle, squeezing a tube of toothpaste.

Black Hawks Blast Bruins 8-3 In Tilt At Chicago

By JIM BASTABLE.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Frankie Brimsek, who traded Boston's invigorating salty air for Chicago's blustery, cold winds this year, still is showing more than flashes of the old hockey style that earned him the moniker of "Mr. Zero."

The 35-year-old goaltender from Eveleth, Minn., did not come up with one of those famed shutouts Thursday night, but he did come out on top as his Black Hawks blasted Boston's last-place Bruins 8-3 at Chicago.

The victory moved the Black Hawks into fourth place in the National Hockey League with 13 points—three behind the third-place Montreal Canadiens and seven behind the leading Detroit Red Wings, idle Thursday night.

Brimsek, who came by his nickname back in the 1938-1939 season when he racked up six shutouts in seven games in a 16-day period, toiled steadily as he turned aside 20 hard shots by the goal-hungry Bruins.

In Fourth Place

The win left Brimsek, who asked for a transfer last September so he could be close to his home, in fourth place in the goaltender's standing. He has allowed 41 goals to get past him in 15 games for an average of 2.73 a game.

On the receiving end of that deluge of pucks was his rookie understudy—Jackie Gelineau in the Boston nets. In their previous meeting at Chicago the Black Hawks blasted 10 pucks past Gelineau while Brimsek allowed three goals. Gelineau has seen 62 pucks go past him in 15 games.

A crowd of 12,681 fans saw Gaye Stewart and Billy Mosienko pace the Black Hawks with two goals each. Singles were tallied by Doug Bentley, Roy Conacher, Ralph Nattras, and Jim Conacher. Paul Ronty, Phil Maloney, and Johnny Peirson scored for the Bruins.

Tigers Refuse To Be Underdogs

HAMILTON, Nov. 18 (CP). — Hamilton Tigers, their workouts here ended, plan to leave tonight for Montreal and Sunday's Eastern Canada football final. Not one player will accept their casting as 3-1 underdogs against the Big Four champion Alouettes.

The Ontario Union champions will hold a practice in Montreal Saturday afternoon to get accustomed to Delormier Park, with its short 100-yard gridiron and small end zones.

Just to satisfy themselves that Alouettes are false favorites at those odds, Tigers took a survey of players at Thursday night's workout. They found at least 11 who have played at one time or another in the Big Four. Several of these said they had been offered Big Four contracts at the start of this season.

Those with Interprovincial Union experience are linemen Charley Waterman, Bill O'Breza, Jake Gaudaur, Louis and Dante Defrancesco, Bill Damiano, and George Zarek and backfielders Joe Caprio..., Joe Chioni, Jack Stewart and Doug Smith.

"Why should we be afraid of them?" asked most players. They pointed out that the Tigers, with an over-all average weight of 193 pounds and a wingline averaging 209, are as the Montrealers And, they said, they plan to be a lot scrappier.

Hamilton Wildcats dropped a 6-0 decision to Toronto Balmy Beach five years ago today but a nine-point lead piled up the previous week gave them their second straight Ontario Rugby Union title on the total-points round. Montreal's highly regarded Navy squad upset the Cats for the Grey Cup the following week.

Report 2 Boxers Facing A Suspension

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18— (CP) —Two of Canada's Empire Games boxers may be suspended from the Canadian team because boxing associations in Manitoba and Ontario refuse to abide by international amateur rules, it was reported here Thursday.

The boxers are Ronnie Muir, Toronto flyweight, and Frank White of Winnipeg, Dominion featherweight champion.

A story of Jack Richards, sport writer of the Vancouver Daily Province, says the suspensions may follow a report of Prof. Nelson Hart of London, Ont., president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. It has been prepared for the 56th annual meeting of the AAU in Toronto, November 24 to 26.

Prof. Hart charges, says, Richards, that boxing associations in Ontario and Manitoba have refused to abide by international amateur rules.

If action is taken on the report all amateur boxers in Ontario and Manitoba would be denied the right to compete in international meets and Dominion championship tournaments.

Denies Any Action

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP) —Prof. Nelson Hart, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, denied Thursday night he contemplates making any report to the AAU annual meeting about the status of two boxers on Canada's British Empire Games team.

In fact, he said he knew "nothing" about flyweight Ronnie Muir of Toronto and flyweight Frank White of Winnipeg, mentioned in a Vancouver report as facing possible suspension.

"Nothing in regard to either one has been brought to my attention," he declared.

Injuries Weaken Western For Title Clash

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP)—The spirit was willing but the flesh was a little weak today as the University of Western Ontario Mustangs prepared to meet McGill Redmen in the sudden-death Intercollegiate football playoff in Toronto's Varsity Stadium on Saturday.

Coach Johnny Metras, who had been showing some enthusiasm lately, wasn't talking so hopefully as he viewed a few of the injuries among his first-string players.

Practices still were being held behind guarded gates at the local oval, and very little news about the shape of the team was reaching the public. The student body was full of gossip, however, and much of it wasn't in favor of Western being as good as even money against the Montrealers.

Some 6,000 district supporters are expected to trek to Toronto by special train, plane, bus and private auto for the college classic.

There were reports that Captain Jack Parry, whose bulls-eye passing did a lot to put Western in the playoff, may see even less than "limited action." His leg-muscle injury is said no better.

Doug Gray, who has stood in very well as a stand-in passer and kicker for Parry, is another question mark. He still has a shoulder injury.

Other doubtfuls are end Bill Ford and inside Doug MacKinley who have been a bulwark of the first-stringers.

There is one bright spot and that is regular middle Reg Ort. The bad knee he got in the last Tronto game has responded well, and he is expected to play centre, with the late-shining Sid Tatham filling at middle.

Hockey's Big Seven

Doug Bentley, fleet left wing of Chicago Black Hawks, has moved into a tie with Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings at the top of the National Hockey League's individual scoring race. Detroit's Gordie Howe still holds second place with 16 points but Chicago's Roy Conacher moved into third slot when he picked up three points to bring his total to 15.

Bill Mosienko, also of Chicago, moved up into the next position when he bagged two goals and two assists. Mosienko, Sid Abel of Detroit and Paul Ronty of Boston have 14 points each.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A big entry was assured Thursday night in the Canadian junior cross-country championships to be held at Leaside High School in suburban Toronto Saturday.

The Montreal Track and Field Club, whose juniors won the Quebec senior cross country championships, is sending a strong team under Glenn Cowan, great distance runner of former years.

Other runners are entered from Ottawa, Oshawa, Hamilton and St. Catharines, while a large contingent will compete from the University of Toronto.

The championships are in three divisions, midget for those under 16 years of age, juvenile under 18 and junior under 20.

Favorite for the individual junior championship is Richard Ferguson of Leaside, who has been named on Canada's team for the British Empire Games.

Eastern Canada officials for the Canadian football final and Grey Cup, in Toronto Nov. 26 will be nominated by the east's championship team, Dr. W. A. Campbell, president of the CRU, said at Kingston Thursday.

He said if the winning club—either Montreal Alouettes or Hamilton Tigers—fails to agree on officials after Sunday's sudden-death game in Montreal, the CRU will name them. The winners will meet the defending champion Calgary Stampeders.

In Calgary, Tom Brook, president of the Stampeders, said the two officials from the west will be Les Ferguson of Calgary and Andy Bieber of Winnipeg. Ferguson was judge of play in the 1948 Grey Cup game at Toronto—whicht he Stampeders won 12-7 over Ottawa Rough Riders.

Connie Smythe, managing director of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, announced Thursday at Toronto that William (Bill) Johnson of the amateur Toronto Marlboros Seniors will get a three-game trial with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

"Johnson has earned a trial with the Hornets on his fine showing for Marlboros this season," Smythe said. "He leaves to join Pittsburgh immediately after Friday night's game with Hamilton Tigers at the Maple Leaf Gardens."

The trial is made possible through the player agreement that exists between the NHL and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, whereby an amateur player can move up to a professional team for three games without impairing his amateur standing.

At Ottawa, Jimmy McCaffrey, manager of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football League, said Thursday night that Wally Masters will be retained as Riders coach for next season.

"We have talked over contract terms with Masters and expect to sign the contract in two or three days," McCaffrey said.

He did not disclose the terms of the contract with the coach, who piloted Riders to the top of the Big Four standings only to lose out to Montreal Alouettes in the league playoffs. Last year Riders won the Eastern Canada championship under Masters.

Sixty-four of Ontario's leading rinks will compete at Kitchener next week in the five-day Kitchener Granite Club invitation bonspiel, first major event of the Ontario curling season.

Carl Asmussen's Kitchener foursome, winners of the Premier Trophy for three of the last four years and the secondary award the other, has been split up for the competition. The rink will be reunited for tankard and consols play later in the year.

Hull Volants put on another practice session for fans at the Hague, Netherlands capital, on Thursday night, splitting up into two teams for an exhibition hockey game that was won by the Volants, 11-5, over Hull City.

The Hull City team was a combination of Canadians and Netherlanders. Maurice Auclair paced the touring Volants with three goals.

Jack Kramer won another marathon pro tennis match from Pancho Gonzales at Providence, R. I., Thursday night, 10-12, 6-2, 9-7. It was the big Californian's 13th triumph in 16 meetings with the American-born Mexican.

In a second match, Pancho Segura of Ecuador defeated Frankie Parker 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Delayed Penalty

Players, timers and fans are often confused in a rough game over the rule on delayed penalties. Here it is, Rule 33, section (a):

If a third player of any team shall be penalized while two players of the same team are serving penalties, the penalty time of the third player shall not commence until the penalty time of one of the two players already penalized shall have elapsed. Nevertheless, the third player penalized must at once proceed to the penalty bench, but may be replaced by a substitute until such time as the penalty time of the penalized player shall commence.

When any team shall have three players serving penalties at the same time and because of the delayed penalty rule, a substitute for the third penalized player is on the ice, none of the three penalized players on the penalty bench may return to the ice until play has been stopped or the substitute removed from the ice When play has been stopped or stitute removed from the ice. the player whose full penalty has expired, may return to the ice.

(The referee is to advise the penalty timer of this effect.)

When the penalties of two players of the same team shall expire at the same time, the captain shall designate to the referee at the time the penalty is imposed which of the two players shall return to the ice first; this player shall be named by the referee to the penalty timer.

Top Secretary To Holiday King Handles Big Task

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, —(CP)— It's fun working for Billy Butlin, Britain's holiday camp king, who spent his boyhood in Canada, says Winifred West.

Winifred ought to know. She's his confidential secretary who got the job in a three-minute interview six years ago.

Blue-eyed with fair curly hair, Butlin's "right-hand woman" sits at a shiny Hollywood-type desk with two telephones, plus a private phone on the window ledge behind her.

Just outside the office a barrier of three typists and a doorman protects her from casual intruders. When she takes down letters herself—at a speed of 100 to120 words a minute—it is from a man sitting at the late Joachim von Ribbentrop's desk, bought at the German embassy sale.

Her job means reading and answering all private correspondence, supervising the female staff, picking uniforms for camp personnel, engaging staff, dealing with begging letters, knowing all about Butlin camps at home and abroad.

She organizes the entertainment of every celebrity visiting Butlin and his camps, and deals with correspondence in French.

The job has its advantages.

"When I go on holiday I can choose Butlin hotels in Cannes, Monte Carlo or Paris," Winifred said, "and my salary now is in four figures."

Winifred was working as private secretary to a company director when in 1943 she saw an advertisement which specified: "Secretary wanted. able to work on own initiative and pleasant looking."

"I talked to Mr. Butlin as briskly as he talked to me and answered all his question promptly and without hesitation. He likes that."

The amount of entertaining required by her job means investing in several evening dresses. For formal occasions Winifred always has one black velevt evening gown in the clothes closet of her two-room Kensington apartment.

To be a successful secretary, she says: "You must know the way your boss' mind works and learn absolute discretion."

The ideal boss should be "understanding, approachable and know exactly what he wants.

Jackie Robinson Of Dodgers Voted Most Valuable Player

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP). — Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn Dodgers, batting champion and second base spark of a pennant winner, has been elected most valuable player of 1949 in the National League.

First member of the Negro race to play in modern big league ball the 30-year-old former college star from Cairo, Ga., drew a total of 264 points to 226 for Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals. Robinson said he was "very happy" over his selection.

Twenty-four members of the Baseball Writers' Association, three from each city in the circuit, acted as a committee. Each listed 10 players in order of their value and 12 of the 24 put Robinson on top.

Musial, who almost caught Robinson in the final stages of the batting race, drew five firsts. Enos Slaughter of the Cards and two of Robinson's Brooklyn teammates, Pee Wee Reese and Carl Furillo, each received two first-place ballots. The other one went to lefty Ken Heintzelman, the Phillies' 17-game winning pitcher. Only Robinson and Musial were on every ballot.

On Point Basis

On a point basis, with 14 for first, nine for second and so on down to one for 10th, Robinson led by 38 with a final total of 264 to 226 for Musial. Slaughter with 181 was third and Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner, the home-run king and runs batted in leader, was fourth with 133. Reese, Dodger captain and shortstop partner of Robinson's in a fine double play combination drew a fifth-place total of 118 points.

Others among the top 10 in order were outfielder Furillo, a .322 Brooklyn batter; Warren Spahn, Boston's 21-game winning southpaw; Don Newcombe who notched a 17-8 record for Brooklyn; Heintzelman and second baseman Red Schoendienst of St. Louis.

Robinson, whose signing by Branch Rickey in the winter of 1945-46 surprised the baseball world, completed his third year in the big league by topping the hitters with a .342 average.

Buffalo Shac'es Cincinnati 1-0 In Minor Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

George Pargeter, Connie Dion, Jean Paul Lamirande and Jackie Gordon stole the spotlight in the only two American Hockey League games played Thursday night.

It was Pargeter's third period goal that enabled Buffalo Bisons to shade the luckless Cincinnati Mohawks 1-0.

Dion, tiny Bison goalie, buffaloed the Mohawk sharp shooters by stopping all 24 of their drives.

Lamirande and Gordon tallied twice apiece as New Haven Ramblers downed Springfield Indians 4-2.

As a result of these victories, the Bisons and Ramblers are still deadlocked for second place in the league's eastern division. Both trail Providence Reds by only a single point.

Pargeter's lone counter came at 8:39 of the final period as the Bison left winger slipped Lloyd Finkbeiner's long pass by Gerry McNeil in the Mohawk nets from five feet out.

It marked Cincinnati's sixth straight loss.

At New Haven, the Ramblers spotted Springfield an early first period goal by Billy Gooden and then rammed home four straight counters before the Indians scored again, this time by Kelly Burnett.

Criminal Has Little Chance Of Now Eluding The Law

With the establishment of the Provincial Police radio network system, the criminal has a steadily decreasing chance of successfully eluding the law, the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada was informed Thursday night.

The speaker was James L. Partridge of the CGE Electronics Division, Toronto District Office.

Mr. Partridge has had an extensive experience with FM (Frequency Modulation) radio equipment for police, taxi and utility service. And he is well acquainted with the planning and operation of the Ontario Provincial Police radio system.

After the local engineers had heard his illustrated lecture on the complicated radio equipment they received a practical demonstration. They were taken to the District 8 HQ on Charlotte St. to view the remote control unit and then to the transmitter outside the city.

"Radio communication in police work is absolutely necessary in police work, particularly in a province as large as this," Mr. Partridge stated.

Cases Cited

Illustrating the usefulness of radio he cited a case earlier this month where thieves broke into a store in Tweed, Ont., and stole some money and cigarettes. Within 15 minutes of the initial clues being picked up by Provincial Police in the Tweed area a transport truck was stopped in the Peterborough district and the culprits arrested.

He described this as a typical case, not a record so far as the time lapse was concerned.

Operating costs in maintaining this complex radio system are high, he conceded, but this is more than offset by the increased efficiency of both the equipment and the personnel.

A particularly high level of competence is demanded of the dispatchers, he pointed out. They must be thoroughly versed in their duties as Provincial policemen, including an extensive knowledge of law. In addition they must know their radio sets and make split-second decisions as well as have exemplary broadcast enunciation.

11 Control Stations

Eleven fixed control stations with the general headquarters in Toronto, and the main transmitter site near Aurora, are the framework of the southern Ontario system, he stated.

The stations, generally situated near large centres, operate on the 42-44 megacycle band. The standard equipment is 250 watt transmitters and two receivers. Receivers are on separate pre-set frequencies—one for control station to control station communication and car to car, and the other for communication between car and control station.

Requisites of such a zone system are two; one, a central control point in a position to contact mobile units, usually cars, by radio; and two, a complete two-way communication between HQ in Toronto and the various detachments throughout the province.

Besides Peterborough there are 10 other control stations—Chatham, London, Dundas, Niagara Falls, Aurora (main transmitter), Mount Forest, Barrie, Belleville, Perth and Casselman. Only two of these stations are out of reliable direct contact with HQ, Mr. Partridge said, and they are Chatham and Perth—the western and eastern extremities of the area covered.

Communication is made with these by relay. Chatham is reached through London and Perth through Belleville.

Reception in the Bruce Peninsula and the Owen Sound district is poor or non-existent, he said. Rather than set up an additional control station an unattended transmitter and receiver unit are placed in this area to relay two-way communications between prowl cars and Mount Forest.

Messages from either source are picked up, amplified and retransmitted.

Similar coverage for the northern sections of the province are now being worked on, said Mr. Partridge.

Smaller Stations

There are also 60-watt stations at fixed detachments within each of the 11 zones. For example in District 8, the Peterborough District, there are five; Lindsay, Cobourg Picton Napanee and Kingston.

At the moment there are about 400 provincial prowl cars keeping law and order in the rural districts of southern Ontario, the speaker declared, and even surer methods of quickly apprehending wrong-doers are being developed.

Mr. Partridge was introduced by chairman Robert Hailey and thanked by Larry McKeever.

Search For Teeth Courageous London Newspaper Declares

LONDON, Nov. 18 (CP)—The moral courage of a Canadian engineer who reversed his train to recover the dentures which a sneeze popped out of his mouth won commendation Thursday from the Times of London.

The incident, reported in the paper's news columns, occurred last week between Owen Sound and London, Ont. The missing teeth eventually were found by passengers, all of whom joined in the search, says the paper's Ottawa correspondent. The gratified engineer forthwith gave two toots of the whistle to signify resumption of the journey, the writer told Britons.

In its daily, witty, fourth editorial, the Times ruminates on how most persons tend to write off missing personal possessions whose recovery would render them conspicuous or would inconvenience others.

"Of what nobler, sterner stuff is constructed the character of this Canadian engineer?" it continues.

'How many of us would have been capable of this degree of moral courage? To hold up a startled trainload of complete strangers and to set them searching upon the broad bosom of mother nature for one's false teeth, that really must have taken nerve.

"Some of us, it is greatly to be feared, might have thought twice about doing it, even if we had been driving a freight train."

The usually-accurate Times erred slightly, however, in its whimsy. It placed the incident further west, saying the sneeze caused the engineer's teeth to "bite the dust of the extensive prairie."

Experts From 58 Countries Try To Solve Food Production Problem

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (CP)—Experts from 58 countries will gather here next week to wrestle with two related but apparently conflicting problems—how to increase food production in some countries and how to prevent surpluses in others.

Specifically, they will be faced with the problems of trying to keep people from starving in one part of the world while trying to save farmers from ruin by plenty in another.

The questions will come before the fifth annual conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, opening here next Monday for a two- to 2½-week session.

Canada, as one of the organization's leading members, will be represented by a substantial delegation from Ottawa and other parts of the dominion. It likely will be headed by Dr. G. S. H. Barton, of Ottawa, Dominion Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Dr. Barton already is here as Canada's representative on the FAO 18-government council. Its meetings are closed by the sessions of the annual conference but will be open to the press.

Definite Division

Roughly, FAO officials define the areas of plenty as those of the western hemisphere, particularly North American, and those of starvation and under-development as India and Southeast Asia.

Specific proposals for bridging the gap between world demand and potential world supply of food will be studied.

One of the main suggestions to come before the conference looks toward narrowing that gap in under-developed countries by expending their ability to produce more. This has to do with FAO's part in the proposed expanded program of technical assistance to under-developed countries worked out by the UN and specialized agencies.

The conference will be asked to approve the FAO's participation in the program.

A second proposal is designed to deal with unmarketable surpluses which may exist now, or threaten to exist soon, in countries which produce certain important agricultural commodities beyond the needs of their own people. Canada, for example is one country which produces more food than her people can consume.

International Clearing House

This proposal is for the establishment of an international commodity clearing house within the FAO.

In broad outline, the clearing house would be like a public corporation, with a substantial capital contributed by participating countries.

It would buy surplus commodities offered by the producing countries, either at special prices for resale in convertible currency to needy countries, or at commercial prices for resale to needy countries for their own currencies, which would be held by the clearing house to the credit of the supplying country until increasing trade and restored convertibility cleared the accounts.

The clearing house would not enter into general trading. It would operate only on the margin of the market—that is, dealing in surpluses not capable of being disposed of in the normal course of trade, and handling these through existing channels of trade.

TRANSPORTATION TROUBLES— The strike of bus-drivers in St. John's Nfld., has brought forth an odd assortment of vehicles to keep passengers moving. Ambulances have been converted into buses; jeeps and assorted army vehicles have been pressed into service. This station wagon is one of the unorthodox "emergency" buses.

Children's Tastes In Books Change

New Course Will Seek To Close Primary-Secondary School Gap

The courses of study and the examination systems used in the Public Schools in the past have created a gap between the primary and secondary schools Oliver Steer, principal of Queen Mary Public School said in addressing the Kiwanis Club Thursday. His subject was "Our Task."

Many pupils never survive the jolt they receive socially and educationally upon entering secondary schools, he added. "These courses and examinations have served a purpose and probably supplied the needs of that day for which they were intended but with the changes of our time are absolete and harmful,"

Mr. Steer told the club that education should be a smooth - working, co-related units of work from the Kindergarten to those grades able to be covered by the average child in the years of compulsory attendance at school.

"This we lack with the result that a most difficult period of adjustment has been set up in the educational life of the teen-agers."

New Day Breaks

Referring to the recent announcement of the Minister of Education, Dana Porter, Mr. Steer said "the light appears and a new day breaks with the announcement of a new order of things to offset and remove these existing evils".

According to Mr. Steer the Peterborough schools have been directing their energies for the past 10 years towards this new order. This has been done through accelerated classes and gradual elimination of the too formal and old-fashioned examinations.

The speaker said that his work is a partnership with the parents whose children are entrusted to his care.

His task is to live and work with the pupils in his Grade VIII that they must realize that they are no longer public school children but real people, men and women. The pupils must grow away from the close guidance and pressure of public school life and develop pride, culture, initiative self-control, the will to work and to make decisions. These things a Grade VIII pupil lacks upon entering the grade and must be equipped with before entering secondary school.

Mr. Steer then outlined four duties of the parents in the partnership with teachers:

First, to shelter, clothe, feed and rest the children so that they are in proper physical condition to participate in a day's work. He warned the club members against the many distractions and interruptions in the routine life of children that tend to wear them down to the point where they cannot give their best in school.

Second, to so live and act in home life and in the community that the children will feel a sense of pride and security.

Third, to see as far as possible that the habits of good living taught in school are practised in the home.

Lastly to provide the environment best suited to the individual and social development of the students. Here Mr. Steer referred to the schools and equipment "to which the people of Peterborough through the Board of Education have reached a high point of efficiency in recent years".

In closing Mr. Steer assured the Kiwanians that Peterborough teachers are capable, well-equipped, and conscientious group of citizens whose thought and energies are constantly directed toward the healthy growth and development of the children into worthy citizens.

Mr. Steer was introduced by Ralph Standish and thanked by Charles Spearin.

Young Finds Way To Use Frozen Funds

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18 (AP)—Movie companies have been searching for ways to use up their money frozen in foreign lands. Robert Young has his own idea, he'll take his family on a 'round the world cruise.

Young's production company has racked up small chunks of money in countries which won't let loose of it. Since the firm has no immediate filming plans, he'll use up the coin with a junket for his wife and four daughters.

"I plan to go to each country and stay there until we use up the money," he said on the "Here Lies Love" set. "I don't think the countries will object, because we will be spending the money in the country."

Young said he plans the trip for next summer, when his daughters are out of school." I won't have a chance to change my mind when they read this," he sighed.

Movie Talk

Mona Freeman returns to Paramount to play a bobbysoxer after being a kleptomaniac in "Shoplifter." She is due to continue her role in the "Dear Ruth" series, and she isn't too happy about it. "I've got to grow up sometime," she says.

Opening scenes of "Sunset Blvd." are being re-shot. The original had Bill Holden narrating the film from a morgue and conversing with other corpses. Preview audiences turned thumbs down. . .

Vic Damone, who has taken Hollywood by storm, will have Jane Powell as his first co-star. They'll be in "Nancy Goes to Paris," a sequel to the unreleased "N. Goes to Rio."

A Bit Personal

Walter Huston, at Tucson, Ariz. with "The Furies," has finished the first draft of his tome, "Ranch Style Cook Book". . . How a dramatic actress does it; Margaret Sullivan worked up to a tense scene of "No Sad Songs" by pacing the stage alone for 20 minutes.

Seed Life Long But It Has Limits Wheat In Tombs Never Germinated

From time to time we read of claims that wheat grains and other seeds recovered from ancient tombs have been planted, and, in spite of great antiquity, have grown to produce fine, healthy plants. These stories are usually put out in good faith. H. J. Bunker writes in the London (Eng.) Listener.

A few years ago an Englishman of unimpeachable honesty brought home from Egypt some seeds which were undoubtedly genuine; it was quite certain that they were several thousand years old.

Produced Crop

The gentleman had these seeds planted in his garden, and, to the amazement of those "in the know," they produced a very fine crop of plants, indistinguished from modern varieties.

On further investigation, however, it was found that the gentleman's gardener, thinking it most unlikely that the poor-looking seeds his master had brought home from Egypt would produce much of a show, had planted modern seeds alongside the old, in order, as he said, not to disappoint his master!

"Mummy" grains and seed taken from ancient Egyptian tombs, and of undoubted authenticity, have, from time to time, been planted under strict scientific supervision, and it can definitely be said that, whenever this has been done, in no single instance has any of this seed or grain ever germinated. Such are the facts, disappointing though they may be.

Longevity Test

What, then, are the actual facts as regarded the longevity of seeds? Naturally, it varies immensely with different types of seeds, and, without going into great detail, I can give you two interesting cases cited by Dr Ramsbottom, keeper of the botany department at the British Museum of Natural History at South Kensington. As the result of air-raid damage to the herbarium of the museum in 1940, the seeds of some plants got damp, including a type of mimosa which had been brought home from China in 1793.

In spite of their long sleep of 147 years in the herbarium the seeds germinated. But this is not the record. A seed of the Sacred Lotus plant of the Nile, Nelumbium speciosum, was treated with concentrated sulphuric acid and then with water, and in a matter of a few hours it germinated, and is actually growing now at Kew Gardens.

237 Years Old

This specimen is known to have been collected 237 years ago This is the longest period of seed viability of which we are absolutely certain.

We do not know what determines the ultimate length of life of seeds, or why there is any limit to their viability. So far, we only know that the toughest do not normally germinate after two or three hundred years.

Perhaps one of the most interesting tests which has been done on the length of life of seeds or spores was a little experiment I was able to carry out some years back, when Tutankhamen's tomb was discovered.

It occured to some of us that here we had a case of a tomb which had definitely not been opened for over 3,000 years, so that we would have an opportunity of seeing whether bacterial spores, which are highly resistant, or, indeed, any other form of life, had managed to survive 30 centuries of dormancy.

So, when the inner chamber of the tomb, embodying the golden shrines round the royal sarcophagus, was opened, sterile swabs, which we had sent out from England, were wiped on the walls and on various objects in the chamber.

Examination Made

They were then sent home to us for bacteriological examination. In every case the contents proved to be sterile. Indeed, the same applied to the various mould fungi and insects which were also found in the tomb: all were dead. The last spark of life had gone out some time during those 3,000 years.

So the cold facts of science have shattered these two stories about "mummy" wheat and disease-producing microbes living on in the tombs of the Pharaohs. It might have been more exciting had the wheat grain germinated to a living plant, or the bacteriological spore to an active culture, but science recognizes only one kind of romance, that of truth. It was Thomas Huxley who said: "A tragedy is a beautiful theory killed by a fact" and, unfortunately, such tragedies have to happen every day in the world of science

Sicily's Bandit-King Headache To Italy's Mobster-Chasing Police

By C. R. BRUSINI

PALERMO, Sicily, Nov. 18 — (AP) —Salvatore Giuliano, Sicily's bandit king, may be a romantic robin hood to thousands of peasants but he's just another hard-to-catch mobster to Italy's vexed police.

Giuliano has defied the law for more than six years—since Sept 3, 1943, when he shot down a policeman trying to arrest him for blackmarketing wheat.

A picked police force of 1,500 men set siege to the 27-year-old bandit's Montelpre kingdom in September after Giuliano's ambush murder of seven policemen raised public opinion to a fever pitch. With a mixture of detective and army tactics, the police captured 21 of Giuliano's henchmen but they haven't had even a glimpse of the outlaw leader himself.

Colonel Ugo Luca, much decorated Commander-in-Chief of the special Commando Force of National Police, has even offered himself as a target to lure Giuliano into the open. The husky six-foot officer tours the bandit's lair in an open jeep without escort.

Giuliano, no slouch as his own press agent, several times has challenged the government to send him a worthy opponent. Once he defied government leaders to fight him one at a time in personal combat.

"If I lose, it will be my life. If I win I will take over the government," he wrote in a letter to the editor of a Palermo newspaper.

To the Colonel Giuliano is no more than a common gangster who prospers on the ancient protection racket popularized by the prohibition-era American mobster.

Colonel Luca says the gangsters have "endless supplies of money. It comes from kidnapping ransoms and from regular payments made by people fearing to be kidnapped."

Giuliano thinks nothing of passing out 100,000 lire to an aged or needy friend.

Truman Ready To Invoke Taft Labor Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—President Truman's statement that he will use the Taft-Hartley labor law in the United States coal dispute if there's an emergency brought a cry from one operator today that there already is one.

Truman took his stand at his press conference late Thursday. He would not say whether he thinks an emergency would come with another walkout of the miners Nov. 30. That is the end of the present working period decreed by president John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association, replied from Lexington, Ky., that "there already is a national emergency."

Truman's stand—keeping out of the dispute for the present—left the way open for a new peace meeting between Lewis and the operators before the present truce runs out. However, no immediate conference was arranged and Moody said he saw no present hope for resuming contract negotiations.

Truman surprised most observers watching the coal situation by saying he would not step in until an emergency arose, and was relying on the Taft-Hartley Act in that event. The law provides for an 80-day court injunction to keep production going if necessary to the public welfare. He has used the law before although it was passed over his veto.

Shipping Slump Serious, Owners Worried

MONTREAL, Nov. 18—(CP)—Strikes, slumps and stowaways highlighted the fast-dwindling 1949 Montreal shipping season and today with only about 20 days remaining before the port closes up for the winter, longshoremen and seamen are moving toward lumbering jobs in the bush.

Although the season in general has been successful for local shipowners, shoals ahead are forecast by many officials.

Some operators say they will be forced to lay up their fleets next year unless the Federal government inaugurates a system of subsidization.

The Canadian Seaman's Unions' long-drawn-out strike was the most spectacular feature of the 1949 season. It started last March 31 and continued until two weeks ago. Although in its early stages as many as 81 ships were tied up throughout the world, the C.S.U. finally lost all of its deep-sea bargaining contracts to the rival Seafarers' International Union (A.-F.L.).

Growing Serious

The general shipping slump grew more serious in recent weeks, largely because European shopping companies announced highly-competitive freight rates following devaluation of various European currencies. A number of local owners say they are prepared to lay up many ships next year.

Forty-eight stowaways have entered the port so far this year and most were promtly deported. The number is believed to be the largest since the immigrant days of the 20's.

Grain figures announced Thursday totalled 96,372,762 bushels received and 87,867,879 bushels shipped. About 30 ships still are due and the handle is 45 per cent over 1948 figures.

In 1949, 961 ships arrived with a total of 3,799,506 tons of all types of cargo. This also is a considerable increas over 1948.

Double Feature For Londoners

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(AP). — London movie-goers saw a double feature Thursday night—the royal family and eight of Hollywood's brightest stars.

The occasion, which drew huge crowds to J. Arthur Rank's Marble Arch Odeon Theatre, was the fourth annual film performance for the benefit of needy movie actors.

Upwards of 5,000 persons stood outside the theatre to watch the king, queen and two princesses arrive in two long black limousines.

As an added attraction, they also saw Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon, Errol Flynn, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., George Murphy, Gregory Peck, Rosalind Russell, Ann Sothern and 21 British screen players.

Inside the theatre 2,200 spectators paid up to 25 guineas (about $80) to watch a showing of the "Forsyte Saga," a hands across the sea affair, taken from the novel by the late John Galsworthy.

After the movie the stars appeared on the stage. Later they were presented to the royal family.

Backers of the Cinematograph Benevolent Fund said the show brought in some £3,000.

PASSION PLAY FIGURES—Anton Preisinger, left, was named to play the role of Jesus in the world-renowned Passion Play at Oberammergau, Germany. Preisinger won by secret ballot of the Play Committee over Alois Lang, right, an alleged minor Nazi who played the Savior in pre-war days. Oberammergau is completing plans for production of the first Passion Play since the war began.

Unconditional Surrender Plan Discussed With Churchill

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(Reuters). —Winston Churchhill Thursday retracted a statement made last July that President Roosevelt issued his historic call for the unconditional surrender of Germany, Italy and Japan without consulting him.

Britain's wartime prime minister said that after looking up the records of the Casablanca conference of January, 1943, he found that he referred to the demand for the unconditional surrender of Germany and Japan in a telegram to the cabinet in London five days before the President of the United States made his pronouncement to the world at a press conference Jan. 24, 1943.

The original plan was to exclude Italy from the unconditional surrender formula, but the reply of the war cabinet in London indicated that it unanimously wanted Italy included, Churchill said.

Churchill made his personal explanation in the foreign-affairs debate in the House of Commons to clear up statements made during an exchange with Foreign Secretary Bevin July 21.

Churchill said that Bevin at that time had introduced into a foreign-affairs debate the question of responsibility for the introduction of the term unconditional surrender into Allied policy.

"He (Bevin) seemed to me to complain that the cabinet had not been consulted and he asserted his inveterate opposition to the idea," Churchill continued.

"He raised this matter without giving me any notice and on the spur of the moment I said that the first time I heard the words unconditional surrender was when the President used them in his speech at the press conference at Casablanca.

U.S. Producing Atomic Weapons At Laboratory, Experiments Show

By RICK RAPHAEL.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 18 (AP)—A high United States atomic energy official said today "we are no longer experimenting" with atomic weapons at Sandia laboratories of the atomic energy commission—"we are producing them."

Rear-Admiral George P. Kraker told for the first time some of what goes on in the top-level atomic installation.

Working with the armed forces special weapons project, the Sandia laboratories no longer are engaged in research and academic development, Kraker said.

That is left to other atomic energy projects. Application is the theme at Sandia.

Lots of Gadgets

This application goes into the "gadgets" being produced at the laboratories, 'Gadget" is the nickname the workers apply to the still-secret weapons being developed. These are being studied and learned for combat use by handpicked men of the armed forces, who share Sandia base with the laboratories.

Behind high steel fences, skilled technicians and engineers have replaced the scientists who produced the world's first atomic bomb.

How do these men react to their tasks of producing some of the world's most deadly weapons?

"We have no need for fear," Kraker said, "for there is a minimum of danger involved in our operation. Every possible safety precaution has been taken and our people know it."

All the global operations and military aspects of the atomic energy commission, from uranium exploration to the test theories of nuclear fission, eventually funnel into Sandia.

Charge 2 Boys With 10 Thefts

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP) — Two 15-year-old boys today faced 10 charges of automobile and truck theft and a 14-year-old boy four charges after their capture Thursday night following a chase in which four warning shots were fired.

Police said the two older lads admitted stealing 10 cars and trucks within the last two months, drvng them until the vehicles ran out of gas and then abandoning them.

The trio was captured by Provincial Police after a chase on Kingston Road. The boys are said to have abandoned the automobile they were driving and cut across a field in an escape effort. A Provincial Police constable fired four warning shots. They surrendered.

They admitted stealing 100 vehicles and said the younger boy was in on four of the thefts.

They told police they disconnected ignition wires on cars they wanted, drove around until they ran out of gas, then hitchhiked, or took a street car home.

Veteran Ball Writer Charles Good Dies

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP)—Charles Good, Sr., Dean of Canadian Baseball writers, died Thursday. He was about 75.

He retired some years ago after long service as baseball reporter for the Toronto Star. Before that he had been sports editor of the old Toronto News and wrote sport for the Toronto Globe.

After his retirement, he acted as official scorer for home games of Toronto Maple Leafs in the International Baseball League until poor health forced him to give up this work.

His father, H. J. P. Good, was the first sports editor of the Toronto Mail, and later of the Toronto World.

Survivors include two sons and three daughters.

Caught With Pants Down 1,000 People Hoot Boxer

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 18—(CP)—Jack MacDonald, youthful boxer from Niagara Falls Boxing Club, was caught with his pants down Thursday night—before 1,000 people.

He walked into the ring in a colorful green robe. A handler started to take it off when it was found MacDonald had forgotten his trunks. Amid shrieks and hoots from the fans, the boxer dashed out of the ring for his forgotten trunks.

He was back minutes later and received a good boxing lesson at the hands of Jack Eber, Hamilton fighter, son of a former Canadian bantam champion.

Order Policemen Not To Talk Much Outside

MONTREAL, Nov. 18—(CP)—Montreal's city policemen were sternly warned Thursday that weren't to tell tales out of school in the wake of a veteran detective's sharp criticism of the treatment of mentally-ill prisoners.

Police Director J. Albert Langlois said policemen must not make "official statements concerning the administration of the city, and more particularly the police department, without the authorization of the director."

Langlois hastened to add, however, that the order was not a news blackout. Routine crime and accident reports to the public will continue to be issued by station, district and squad officers.

The case that touched off Thursday's order was a published interview with Det.-Sgt. A. A. Finel, head of the police social service squad for 22 years. Several weeks ago, Finel said there was a "shocking situation" in connection with the treatment of mentally-ill prisoners in police cells and he added that women mental patients were 'left to die in jail cells" and "are treated worse than animals."

He blamed the Quebec Provincial Government for the situation.

Lanlois denied that Finel had been disciplined. He said Finel "had a right to release the story but should not have attached any blame. That is a right reserved to the proper authorities only."

Langlois tacitly admitted the truth of Finel's statement on jail conditions when he said that steps were being taken to improve the situation.

LaborCouncilRequires Oath On Communism

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP) — The Toronto District Labor Council decided Thursday night to require all members to take an oath that they are not members of the Communist Party or identified with that party.

Before the decision can be put into efefct, it will be necessary to amend the constitution.

At present, members are required to declare that they are not connected with the Fascist Party.

Give Russia Opportunity To Further Compromise

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(CP)—Britain appeared to be taking the lead today in efforts to see whether Russia is willing now to compromise on some of the deadlocked east-west issues in the United Nations.

Thus far only tentative moves have been made. There is no specific indication that the Soviet union is ready for conciliation.

Delegates noted, however, that Britain's minister of State, Hector McNeil, for the last two days has made it clear that his delegation would welcome talks with the Russians.

These cautious moves to determine the Russians' present attitude on such issues as an independence treaty for Austria and the admittance of new members to the U.N. coincided with debate in a plenary session of the General Assembly on the Greek-Balkan dispute.

Thursday Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia said the western powers had provoked the Soviet union into repeated use of the veto in the Security Council by proposing the same candidates for membersh time after time.

Referring to that statement, McNeil said: 'I thought this was as near as the distinguished Soviet delegate ever comes to a plea. If it was a plea, my (British) delegation would be the last to set it aside." McNeil added that if Vishinsky wants to discuss the membership question reasonably the British delegation is ready to talk things over.

Some Friendliness

Some evidence of friendliness was given on the Assembly floor by Vishinsky, who left his seat twice Thursday to confer with western delegates.

The Soviet foreign minister, who usually spares no feelings when he launches into debate, was unusually mild Wednesday in his review of Russia's attitude towards the question of the conflict between Greece and her northern neighbors.

When McNeil took the rostrum, he, too, was comparatively quiet in knocking down the Soviet contentions that the U.N. special committee on the Balkans should be disbanded.

Livestock Price Shows Decline On Toronto Market At End Of Week

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP)— Earlier cattle prices gained 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight but trade eased at the close on the Toronto Livestock Market this week, the Dominion Marketing Service reported today. Calves, hogs, lambs, and sheep were steady.

The cattle run of 7,000 head was added to 400 carried over from last week. Included in fresh arrivals were 800 Westerns. The estimated holdover for the week-end was 570 cattle. The general quality of the cattle supply was low. Buyers paid higher prices for a few better cattle. One load of choice weighty steers sold at $24.50, while plain to medium steers were $17-$22.50 Good light steers brought $20-$22 and a few good heifers sold at $19-$19.50. Plain to medium light steers and heifers were $15-$18.50. Good cows sold at $14-$15, with canners and cutters mostly $10 to $11.50. Good export bulls brought $17 to $17.50 and plain light bulls sold as low as $13.50. Picked stockers and feeders sold at $18-$19 and plainer kinds sold downward to $13.50.

Calves totalled 1,800 head. Prices held steady at $27-$29 for choice vealers. Plain to medium veals sold at $16-$25 and thin grass calves sold for slaughter at $13-$15.50.

There were 2,500 hogs offered. Prices were unchanged at $29 for Grade-A and $28.60 for Grade-B1. Sows were $19 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 3,500 head. Lambs sold steady at $23.50 for good ewes and wethers and at $22.50 for bucks. Good local sheep made $11-$11.75, with Western sheep up to $12. Culls and heavies were from $6-$10 a hundredweight.

Nations had pledged themselves to maintaining free choice of government.

Must Restore Rights

It was the duty of the west to press ceaselessly for the restoration of this right among Communist-dominated countries.

'If the free nations of the west establish a position of such strength and certainty of purpose that Russia is in no doubt whatever about their determination to stand together to preserve their freedom, then we will have gone a long way towards the fulfillment of that ideal of the United Nations charter."

Mr. Drew emphasized the need for reaching the Russian people as a step toward restoring understanding between the east and west.

Mr. Pearson agreed that great strides in maintaining peace would be made if the west could transmit to the people of the Communist countries the earnest hope for understanding and agreement.

Chief purpose of Mr. Pearson's concluding address was to answer the host of questions asked by members during the debate.

He announced that Canada shortly will establish a diplomatic mission in western Germany. The mission of the new state would be headed by Lt.-Gen. Maurice Pope, currently chief Canadian diplomatic representative in Berlin.

Split Troublesome

Mr. Pearson told The Canadian Press that the move couldn't be properly described as meaning official recognition of the West-German state because it might leave the inference that Canada had not previously recognized the recently-federated state. Canada had recognized the state, in fact, welcomed its establishment.

Summing up the situation in Germany, Mr. Pearson said the possibility of holding a peace conference for the whole country had become more remote in the last year as a result of the continuing "split" between East and West Germany itself.

Mr. Pearson said he wanted to clear up what appeared to be a contradiction on Canada's commitments under the North Atlantic Security Pact.

When he referred to definite commitments, he meant the political undertaking that Canada would come to the defence of any member of the alliance which might be attacked.

When Defence Minister Claxton had said some time ago that there were no commitments, he was referring to military undertakings.

Working On Plan

Work had just begun on a military plan under which each country would be assigned a contribution in event of aggression. It would take some time to draft this plan and Canada's military commitments would not be known until then.

Of other matters raised during the debate, Mr. Pearson said:

Canadian industries can obtain the same information about atomic energy as is available to industries in the United Kingdom and the United States. The government was offering free to industries a one-year supply of radioactive isotopes.

He "agreed entirely" that in a democracy the foreign policy should be based on public opinion, informed and intelligent through information being made on developments. However, he did not believe in premature release of information on ticklish negotiations still in progress.

MAKE SURE OF TIPS

In Japan, persons such as the waiters and barbers, who render personal services, expect their tips to be enclosed in small tipping envelopes which are made for the purpose.

507 Patients Treated In Civic Hospital

The Peterborough Civic had a busier month in October than in the preceding month, John Hornal, hospital superintendent, reported to the board of governors Thursday.

In October the hospital had treated 507 patients in comparison with 458 in September. This was considerably higher than the 476 monthly average. At the same time, however, fewer people were refused admittance. In October 51 failed to gain entry, but in September there had not been a place for 66, while the average number refused were 54.

There was a decline in the number of minor and major operations performed in the month. October's total of major operations was 69, one less than in the previous month. The drop in the number of minor operations tions wasfrom 217 in September to 188 in October.

In the Queen Mary branch, 19 patients were treated in October as against 21 in September.

An all time high in the number of X-ray examinations for a month in the Civic Hospital was reached when 437 pictures were taken in October. In September only 295 X-ray examinations were made.

Truck Smashed By Yard Engine Dragged 30 Feet

A tow truck was demolished by a yard engine which pushed it 30 feet along the tracks near the corner of Townsend and Bethune Sts. at 7 a.m. today.

John Russelle, Jr., sat in the cab of his truck unhurt as the truck was crushed around him. The train and a section of the tracks were also damaged.

The truck was kept upright because the coupling device on the front of the engine jammed between the top of the right rear tires and the platform of the truck.

Attention On Boy

Russelle told investigating Constable Louis Rodreque as he was driving east on Townsend he saw a boy on a bicycle ahead of him. He thought the boy had caught the cuff of his trousers in the bicycle chain and it looked as if the boy were going to fall in front of the truck.

His attention was so occupied with the bicycle, he did not see the train almost until he was hit.

The train's engineer was N. R. James of Lindsay. Police reported there was no automatic signal at the crossing.

The rail switch was also damaged and a semaphore line beside the tracks was cut.

Artists, Writers, Musicians Are Today's Shabby Genteel

Society's poor relations are its painters, writers and musicians, Professor H. L. Tracy of Queen's University told Queen's Alumni at their annual dinner at the Kawartha Club Thursday evening. Like the shabby genteel, they are an embarrasment, and our society still does not know how to deal with them. Yet Dr. Tracy felt that there was a bright possibility that the commercial democracy of today could and would cope with its artists to provide them not only the means of existing but the recognition and dignity which is their due.

Dr. Tracy succinctly and vividly sketched the lot of artists through history, and their present plight. Until democratic materialism flowered, the history of the arts has been a history of patronage. From the Greeks to the 18th century, painters, writers and musicians carried on their work through the support of patrons. The greatest patron has been the church, "mother and only parent of the cultural endeavours."

Church's Role

Dr. Tracy reminded his audience of the role of the church in the development of drama, music, and painting. Especially when the church was a state church, an integral part of government, was it the "Ministry of Culture" of the state. It ministered to the arts, to education, hospitals, public welfare, and was even a precursor of psyschiatry.

Now some of these tasks which belonged to church have been taken over. Drama, Dr. Tracy thought, was self-supporting, and Hollywood, a descendant of the Greek theatre, was proof of its posh position. In this present society the two first accepted values were money and entertainment. Drama, which from Greek to mediaeval times was a priestly affair, was discovered in early modern times to have entertainvalue. Hospitals, public welfare and the like have now become clear-cut economic matters, a state concern.

The church, with its long and noble tradition as patron of the arts, "is itself now in the breadline," Professor Tracy, a distinguished classical scholar, told his audience, and thought the situation rather sad. The church itself is now the poor decayed gentlewoman, needing hand-outs, and meekly asking for them.

"Stable of Musicians"

In early modern times princes and plutocrats kept "stables of musicians" and artists at hand. These artists had a "bogus prosperity" in the aristocratic modern times. Some of it is left in the United States, which Professor Tracy termed "the most aristocratic society in the world today."

Professor Tracy remarked that when a society becomes democratic it unfortunately also becomes materialistic. This was so, he said, in the late fifth century B.C. in Greece; it is so today in North America. The artist's dilemma in a democratic materialistic world is that he must be both a wage-earner and an artist. The two are incompatible, since an artistic experience is a complete thing, and so therefore is the artist's work; it demands his full being. It is not fair to ask him to compete in a profit-motivated world. Art and the profit motive do not mix.

'What society can do for the artist lies not with the artist but with ourselves," Dr. Tracy said. Not only could his hearers help create a market for his work, for music, poetry and painting; they can by example and their attitude and aproval restore the artist to a position of dignity in society, so that people will regard the arts as valuable and important, and the artist as a person doing significant work. "University people can be the pressure group to provide the artists a dignified place in society."

Professor Tracy was introduced by Mis Helen McGregor, president of Queen's Alumni, Peterborough branch, and thanked by Miss Verna Burgess.

Children's Aid Must Publicize To Reach People

Children's Aid Societies serve entire communities, not just a small section and because of this universal service, it is important that the whole population be informed of Children's Aid Society activities. This was the theme of an address by Clarence Halliday executive director of Ottawa and Carleton County Children's Aid Society, when he described his Society's publicity program to more than 100 eastern Ontario delegates to the annual regional convention of the Association of Children's Aid Societies today at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Halliday was the first speaker in an all day program. Delegates were welcomed by Mrs. James Wharry, vice-president of the Association and a member of the Peterborough Board of Directors. The invocation was said by Rev. J. J. Killen.

N. Zimmerman, president of the Association, followed Mr. Halliday with a paper on basic financial policy and the morning session concluded with dinner, at which T. T. Rodger, president of Peterborough Society, was chairman. Speaker was Rev. Ivan Morgan, a member of the Peterborough Board.

Publish Report

Describing how the Ottawa Society was endeavouring to inform the maximum number of people about its work, Mr. Halliday explained how circulation of the Society's annual report had been increased by press advertising.

Instead of circulating a printed report to about 500 people specially selected, the report was published in all the newspapers serving the Ottawa and Carleton County area which circulated to an estimated readership of 75,000.

Leaflets Used

Small quantities of leaflets and pamphlets were of no use for advertising a Society operating in a heavily populated area. Mr. Halliday displayed a number of samples of publicity material distributed throughout Ottawa. He explained the importance of identifying the Society in the minds of the public as an entity in itself, supported, but not operated by the municipality, nor operated by the province.

Contributors to the Society through the Community Chest or other agencies had a right to know how their money was spent. The general public, neither unduly friendly nor hostile to the Society, was mostly indifferent and had to be approached through a publicity program.

Analysing the results of Ottawa's carefully planned publicity program, Mr. Halliday said it had cut down sniping at the organization, the public was making more appreciative remarks about Children's Aid service and is also had an effect on the Society's staff, who were given an added incentive to live up to the claims made on the publicity material.

Baker Admits Slaying Neighbor's Child, 7

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18 (AP) —Muttering "I don't deserve to live," Fred Stroble, 66-year-old baker, braced himself in a jail cell today for swift grand jury action in the sex-slaying of six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft.

Stroble, the grandfather of one of Linda's favorite playmates, poured out his sordid story to District Attorney William Simpsons a as 48-hour fugitive search throughout the west and into Mexico wound up Thursday on a stool in a downtown Los Angeles bar—about five blocks from Central police station.

Simpson said Stroble, formally charged with murder, admitted that he strangled and bludgeoned the pudgy little girl to death when she resisted his improper advances.

"I had been drinking all day—wine. I wouldn't have done it if I hadn't been drunk," Stroble was quoted as saying. Simpson said the ashen, gray-haired grandpa—who likes to buy kids ice cream and candy—then told of enticing Linda into a bedroom to the home where he lived with his daughter her husband and their two children.

Highest Corn Crop Yield 135 Bu. To Otonabee Acre 'Like Illinois' Says Seedman

The highest averaging crop of grain corn ever grown in this district was recently harvested by Bert Armstrong of Otonabee at 135 bushels to the acre. 'That is Illinois production," said R. M. Peirson, manager of Co-Op Services who appeared today to be even more enthusiastic about this yield than was the modest Mr. Armstrong. "I haven't heard of any crop of hybrid corn in eastern Ontario to equal it," Mr. Peirson said. "It is an extraordinary yield of feed corn, and provides further proof that hybrids can be grown and harvested in this area."

Mr. Pierson estimates at 190 bushels the equivalent in oats, both in tonnage and feed value, of the Armstrong hybrid corn.

"That wil give the farmer an idea of the quantity of feed grain Bert Armstrong has drawn into his barns from that five acres of the Canadian hybrid No. 275," Mr. Pierson said.

"With feed at present prices, farmers should be interested in that volume of grain corn. I think it is a wonderful result that Mr. Armstrong has shown."

Mr. Armstrong said he sowed the corn in good time, side dressed it with nitrogen when it was two feet. The growth was tremendous. That patch was mentioned several times this fall. The picking was done by Stewart Dawson, and both he and his father, W. W. Dawson, who have been pioneering with hybrids, admitted that the Armstrong crop had theirs beaten.

It was Mr. Pierson who suggested the comparison with the average yields of hybrid in the central corn States across the border.

"I'm interested," he said, "because Mr. Armstrong bought the seed from us, and we talked about planting and fertilizing. Mr. Armstrong did the rest and he has set a high mark of production for this part of the province."

Mr. Peirson suggests it may be a record for the whole of eastern Ontario. Farmers have been experimenting in Lanark and Carleton areas around Ottawa, and have been getting highly satisfactory results, but the Armstrong yield is the biggest that has been heard of around here.

Youths Receive Minor Burns

A freak chemical accident in the chemistry laboratory in the Industrial Arts Department at PCVS Thursday caused minor cuts and burns to four students.

Grouped around one of the tables the boys were doing an experiment to determine the percentage of oxygen in the compound, potassium chlorate. Suddenly they were showered with bits of glass and the hot salt as the contents of the test tube exploded.

James Wood and Kenneth Sutton each received minor burns to the face with Gerald Wood receiving burns on the face and a small cut about the eye, requiring a stitch to close it. Bart Grainger received cuts on his hands.

Nearly all the boys grouped around the table had their clothes sprayed with the hot salt, leaving small holes wherever it landed.

R. G. Corneil, the Industrial Arts Department chemistry teacher, said there was no reason why the substance should suddenly explode as it did. The grade of potassium chlorate is fairly high, he said, good enough for school work. He added that it was possible the test tube the boys were using was dirty, the substance in the tube causing the explosion.

Illinois Farmer Receives Prize At Royal

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP)—Six silver trays were presented Thursday night for world seed championships at the Royal Winter Fair but only one of the champion farmers was there to receive his prize.

E. W. Doubett of Hanna City, Ill., world champion corn farmer, accepted his tray and a $100 cheque in the Coliseum horse show ring but the oats, barley, wheat, rye and potato champions were absent and their awards were accepted for them by friends and relatives.

Potato champion Theodore Depatie was in a Sudbury hospital where he is being treated for a chronic ailment. The 61-year-old French-Canadian's comment:

"The Sudbury potato, she's the best darn potato there is."

Mr. Doubett, who came from Illinois when he heard of his victory, calls himself a "hilly billy" farmer and says he doesn't know much about corn.

"But I'm learning every year," he added.

Develops 42 Varieties

He won his championship with his D42 hybrid corn, the latest of the 42 varieties he has developed on his 350-acre farm.

Later in the same ring, the Mexican Army team chalked up its third straight victory of the three-day-old horse show when Capt. Ruben Uriza, riding Hatuey won the military fault-and-out event, defeating the teams of Chile, the Republic of Ireland and Canada.

The Irish riders were so impressed with the nightly performance of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police musical ride they have asked Commissioner C. S. Woods of the R.C.M.P. if arrangements can be made to have the Mounties visit Ireland.

As cattle judging neared an end J. J. E. McCague of Alliston, Ont., scored his third consecutive award as premier Holstein breeder. The championship for finished car-lot beef cattle went to McIntyre Ranching Company of Lethbridge, Alta., for its Shorthorn entry.

Doctor Given Memorial Award

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP)—Dr. Alfred K. Haywood, of Vancouver, was presented Thursday with the George Findlay Stephens Memorial Award at the annual meeting of the British Columbia Hospitals Association. Dr. Haywood is the first recipient of the award, to be made from time to time to persons giving noteworthy service in the field of hospital administration.

Dr. Haywood is a former superintendent of the Montreal General Hospital and the citation read Thursday by R. Fraser Armstrong, of Kingston, president of the Canadian Hospital Council, said: "Not the least among your many contributions to the hospital field, to your community and to the national effort during two wars and the years of peace, has been your training of a succession of assistants, whose many achievements and honors must have been a source of just pride to their preceptor."

The award is a memorial to the late Dr. George F. Stephens, of Montreal and Winnipeg, a leading authority in hospital administration.

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD DALE GRAF'S FAITHFUL DOG, Butch, guards him so fiercely that the boy's mother can't even approach his hospital bed until Dale tells Butch it's okay. The Sioux Falls, SD, boy has a brittle bone disease and has suffered so many fractures he has lost count.

Building City For Workers On Ghetto Ruins

By VINCENT BUIST

WARSAW, — (Reuters) — The first of several workers' settlements is rising on the ruins of the famous Warsaw ghetto, razed by the Germans during their occupation.

During the next five years, it is hoped to house some 50,000 people there. But this new "workers' city" will stand about nine feet above the normal ground level of the area.

To clear all the rubble of the ghetto area to the level of the surrounding streets would, it is calculated, take 10,000 workers with seven trains and other salvage equipment at least three years.

Reconstruction can't wait as long as that.

Today five years after liberation, it is still impossible to walk more than a block without encountering grass-covered masonry awaiting clearance.

A determined attack on the task of clearing the ground in the ghetto area ready for the builders was made last month when nearly every Pole in Warsaw who could handle a pick and shovel went to work on it.

Every day during the month when offices shut typists and clerks cleared their desks and clattered downstairs to tackle another job—clearing rubble from Europe's most war - shattered capital.

City-Wide Call

Stanislaw Tolwinski, mayor of Warsaw, appealed to every able-bodied man, woman and youth living in the city to give up eight hours during the month to work on bomb sites, salvaging bricks which could either be used for patching up damaged houses or plants, or manufactured into new bricks slabs.

The people of Warsaw responded enthusiastically. Within a short while over 10,000,000 usable bricks had been unearthed and stacked ready to use again. No appeal touches the average Pole so much as one to help in beautifying the capital, three times destroyed in its 700 years of existence and now ugly and dilapidated, strewn with mouldering ruins, creaking stiffly back to vitality, but still beloved by its people.

Every day, workers converged on the site of the former Warsaw ghetto, perhaps the most melancholy memorial to race hatred in Europe. It is certainly the most completely annihilated district in a city which was 85 per cent destroyed by war.

It is a wilderness of 700,000 square acres of charred and rusty rubble standing nine feet above the surrounding streets. Only two objects break that desolate horizon.

One is the spire of a Catholic church, spared because it had no link with Jewry. The other is a 30 - foot - high monument in granite and bronze erected to the memory of the heroes of the ghetto.

In the early part of their wartime occupation of Poland, the Germans walled in the Warsaw ghetto and transformed it into a staging camp for Jews on their way to labor or concentration camps.

With arms smuggled in through sewers the Jews rose in revolt in the spring of 1943. After six weeks' ferocious fighting against German SS troops, the revolt was quelled. But it is claimed that at least 20,000 Jews were slaughtered during the fighting.

Exhorts Canada To Prepare In Case Of War

MARMORA, Nov. 18 (ENS) — A challenging address to Canadian citizens to co-operate is being prepared for any possible future war, was heard by approximately 80 persons who participated in the annual Remembrance Day dinner in the Royal Hotel on Wednesday. RSM Angus Duff , of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regt., who is also an Alderman of Belleville was the speaker.

He declared that Canada should be in a position to defend herself. "Just as we pay taxes and hire policemen to protect us, so do we as a country, need defence against aggressive nations," he declared.

Before the last war, there were parents who wouldn't let their sons become Boy Scouts because they thought they might be militarised, Ald. Duffy said. The unpreparedness that such an attitude helped to bring about was paid for in Dunkirk and other places. After 1918 there were those who knew the Army should not be set aside and some continuation of training went on.

But there were those of the general public who sneered and called them Saturday night soldiers. It seems as though the people of Canada are missing the boat again, he declared.

Privates Win Wars

The first signs of decay appeared in the armies of Greece and Rome and other fallen empires when they hired other nations to fight for them.

"Practically every fight I have been in was won by the privates, the speaker claimed. The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment couldn't produce a fighting platoon now and it was time intelligent interest was taken in the Army.

The dinner was sponsored by Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion whose president, W. M. Regan acted as toastmaster.

There was a sing song with Rev. J. M. Brownlie at the piano. The toast to Canadian Legion was proposed by Comrade P. J. O'Neill and Percy Gray responded to the toast.

The toast to fallen comrades was proposed by District Commander Wilbert Mumby. Lieut. Gray recited "In Flander's Fields," the two minutes silence was observed and Last Post and Reveille sounded by Bugler Robert Sanderson. The final toast to the ladies was handled by the padre of the Branch, Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie.

NATIONALIST TARGET—The American cargo ship Flying Cloud was fired on by a Chinese Nationalist warship when it ran the Nationalist blockade of Shanghai. The vessel, belonging to the Isbrandtsen Shipping Co., was hit by "hundreds of shells", according to the master, but none of the passengers or crew was injured. The Flying Cloud outdistanced the Chinese blockader.

Wonder Drug Cures Small Boy 3 At San

KITCHENER, Nov. 18 (CP)—Eldon, aged 3—his last name isn't revealed—will leave the Freeport Sanitarium today cured of tuberculosis away ahead of schedule.

Dr. J. S. Hawkins, medical superintendent, told how the wonder drug streptomycin made the difference between the child getting well in a hurry—or requiring a longer time for recovery.

Eldon was admitted June 20, 1948. The usual treatment of bed rest and good food, under which most patients thrive, failed to help during the first four or five months. Then streptomycin injections were given.

"The change in the boy's progress....was amazing," the doctor said. "He picked up immediately ....today he is well again and can live a normal life."

Set Up 3 Bases Fight Lamprey

—The United States government is setting up three main bases this fall for its scientific war against the sea lamprey, the plague of the Great Lakes.

Paul Thompson, assistant chief of fishery biology for the fish and wild life service, said campaign headquarters will be at Ann Arbor, Mich.

The University of Michigan had offered space, and excellent library research facilities are available he said.

The fight also will be directed from major sub-station at:

1. Charloevoix, Mich., on Lake Michigan, through alteration and and expansion of the lake trout fish hatchery adjoining the Charloevoix Coast Guard base. Six biologists and a boat are to be based there for intensive work in the upper peninsula area.

2. A Wisconsin or Minnesota site yet to be selected on Lake Superior. Both states have suggested locations, and both are especially interested because the lamprey, having devastated the fisheries of Lakes Michigan and Huron, now are moving against the trout in Lake Superior.

Congress has appropriated $276,000 for sea lamprey and fish studies this year. The sea lamprey is an eel-like water animal which attaches itself to fish, killing them.

Insurance Men Feel Publicity Still Necessary

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Of all forms of investment, probably life insurance is best known to the average person.

Nearly everyone has a life insurance policy. Statistics put it at one out of every three in Canada. But that includes men, women and children, and if taken by households the representation is undoubtedly much broader.

One might think that anything sold so widely has already done its job of public relations. But life insurance people feel there still is much to be told, and much to be done to have their story sufficiently understood.

They hold, among other things, public relations luncheons. One year they invite school teachers, another year bankers, and so on.

The Toronto Chapter of the Institute of Chartered Life Underwriters held one such Thursday and had as their guest speaker an insurance man from away back; one who has been in the business more than 40 years; and who has headed most of the organizations which have to do with the rank and file of insurance men in Canada and the United States.

Doing Good Job

He is J. G. Parker, president of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, and here is his story of life insurance and what it provides:

"It is children in their first day in kindergarten; the young man registering at university; the young girl graduating from a secretarial course;

"It is clothing; a home; a farm; a large factory preserved in spite of the inroads of succession duties; a small business saved for it's creator's family; it is a man and his wife enjoying comfortable years of retirement."

From that, naturally, one gathers that Mr. Parker thinks life insurance companies are doing a grand job, and is a determined defender against any one who thinks anyone else can do the job better.

Murder Sex Crime

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP)— The mystery death of Ferne Blanche Fisher, 45, store clerk whose body was found floating in False Creek Nov. 9, Thursday was established as a sex crime Dr. T. R. A reward of $2,500 has been offered for a solution of Miss Fisher's death.

Test Radio Rays

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18 (CP) — Entomologists attached to the Dominion Department of Agriculture here are testing high-frequency "radio" rays as a means of killing food-contaminating insects. The experiments have been conducted at the department's Stored Products Insect Laboratory. Lethal effect is due to absorption of electrical energy as heat.

Innes Denies Calling Policemen Ruffians

TORONTO, Nov. 18—(CP) — Controller John Innes Thursday night denied that he had said the Toronto police force should "weed out the ruffians from its ranks." He said he never used the word "ruffian."

The member of the four-man City Board of Control had been quoted thusly in an interview Thursday by a reporter who asked his opinion on the warning issued Wednesday night by Mr. Justice J. K. Mackay, who said that some police officers have a tendency to abuse their authority.

Mr. Innes said that the interview he gave a Toronto evening newspaper reporter was a general one. "I know nothing about the police; that is the job of the police commissioners," he told The Canadian Press. "I think we have as fine a police force as there is anywhere."

Denies Plan Break Coalition

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18—(CP) — Education Minister C. Rhodes Smith said Thursday that certain "eventualities" might lead to the break-up of the coalition which now governs Manitoba. But he said it is incorrect to quote him as saying the Liberal-Progressive party which holds the largest bloc of coalition seats might take the initiative in such a break-up.

Mr. Smith, himself a Liberal-Progressive, issued a brief statement to "correct" what he termed an "inaccurate report" of a speech he made Wednesday to the Saskatchewan Liberal Council at Saskatoon.

(The Canadian Press Wednesday night quoted Mr. Smith as saying in that speech that it was "not possible" that "certain events" might cause Manitoba Liberals to abandon coalition).

"Certainly I never said the Liberals would abandon coalition and I never suggested that we, the Liberals, would take any initiative of any kind in regard to abandoning coalition," Mr. Smith said.

To Organize Jews

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP)—Appointment of Murray Shiff as full-time field consultant to organize Jewish community life in all parts of Ontario was announced Thursday by the central division of the Canadian Jewish Congress. Both he and J. I. Oelbaum, newly-elected central division president, will attend a conference at St. Catharines next Sunday on Jewish educational problems.

Vocational Training

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP)—The labor department's director of training, R. F. Thompson, reported $11,500,000 has been spent by the government on buildings, equipment and in grants towards the expansion of vocational training facilities. The report was made to the Canadian Training Advisory Council which ended a two-day meeting Thursday.

A Comma May Be Worth $99,000 To Man As B.C. Millionaire's Legacy Investigated

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18 (CP) — Alfred Seigerstrom has his fingers crossed, a comma may be worth $99,000 to him.

The comma might change his $1,000 legacy from James Thomson, millionaire hotel owner, to $100,000.

Mr. Seigerstrom, manager of Thomson's beer parlor, was included in the $900,000 will of the hotel owner. In the will it was written $1,000,00. First interpretation tagged the second comma as being meant for a period.

But fireman Gilbert Campbell, chief heir and due for about $300,000, says he remembered that an unsigned copy of the will stated Seigerstrom was marked down for $100,000.

Because no other amounts given in the will include a "cents" column, legal opinion is that a court probably would uphold Seigerstrom's claim.

Thomson, an 88-year-old bachelor, who lived in a cluttered downtown hotel room, died last December. His will was found on Wednesday after an 11-month search in the musty files of a real estate office.

Aluminum Deal Rouses Interest

LONDON, Nov. 18 (Reuters)—Great potential importance on Thursday night was attached in informed quarters to an announcement that Aluminum Company of Canada has acquired a share interest in West African Aluminum, Limited.

If this bears fruit, it will mean that the sterling-area aluminum smelter, costing anything up to £100,000,000 ($310,000,000) will be built in West Africa and will be an all-commonwealth job.

West African Aluminum is a subsidiary of the important South African Mining Finance House, Anglo-Transvaal Consolidated Investment Company, Limited.

West African Aluminum, a company incorporated in the Gold Coast colony, holds certain concessions of bauxite properties, hydro-electric sites and other rights in that territory.

It is thought that an aluminum smelter must be built somewhere in the sterling area to save dollars. At present Britain and other sterling countries have to get most of their aluminum from Canada, and pay dollars for it.

To Protst D.S. Time

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP)—Senator W. D. Euler (L-Ontario) gave notice in the Senate Thursday that he will protest next week against the day-light saving time situation. At present several municipalities in Ontario, including Toronto, Ottawa and Hamilton are still on daylight time.

Won't Up Prices

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP) — The Transport Department does not intend to recommend an increase in radio licence fees from $2.50 to $5 a year, a departmental spokesman said Thursday. The CBC in a brief presented earlier this year to the Royal Commission on Arts and Science asked that the licence fee for receiving sets be increased to $5.

Children Mark Book Week, Public Library

Peterborough children, like others across Canada, are celebrating Young Canada's Book Week. The children's section of the Public Library, usually thronging with youngsters after school hours, has been even more active than usual as children of all ages have been taking part in book contests every day this week.

Identifying books by characters called out by the Librarian, identifying fairy tale pictures, unscrambling the jumbled letters of book titles and giving the names of books beginning with each of the letters in Young Canada's Book Week, are some of the tests which have been set at the library.

Climax of the week is to be a parade Saturday morning, when the youngsters will appear as characters from their favorite books.

Five children will present a radio dramatisation Saturday afternoon of "Mrs. Nesbit's Five Children and It," with Miss Lilian Wesley, children's librarian, as narrator. The children are Barbara Lewis, Joan Smith, Roberta Hayward, Sam Kingston and Harold Snowden.

In the evening Miss Wesley will review over the radio the children's book "Across Canada" by Clare Bice, which was published this month.

Interviewed Author

Wednesday afternoon Miss Wesley broadcast an interview with Mr. Bice, who is a celebrated Canadian children's author. In the evening Mr. Bice addressed a meeting of children and members of the Home and School Associations in the library.

Mr. Bice, whose first book was "Jory's Cove," illustrated the change in style of children's books during the past generation. Mass instruction had been the endeavour of earlier books, the authors deliberately offering admonitions and instruction on behavior.

The modern method of providing youngsters with story books for them to enjoy, was providing the more successful method of instructing them in manner and social habits, Mr. Bice said.

He commented also on the improvement of color reproduction in books today.

Referring to his new book, Mr. Bice said Canada had a wealth of material for children's stories which had not yet been exploited.

Like By Words

Speaking of writing specifically for children, Mr. Bice said it was no use "writing down" to children. They liked to come across words they did not understand, they enjoyed the rythm of long words and enjoyed having their curiosity aroused.

Mr. Bice, whose home is London, Ont., described the art gallery of that city. The people in London had got away from the idea of regarding an art gallery as a mausoleum to be entered on tip toe. It was a recreation centre in which to relax.

K. S. Wightman, chairman of the Public Library Board, introduced Mr. Bice and a vote of thanks was proposed by the Rev. E. C. Moore.

Convict Gateman

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP)—Leo Jenkins, 58, railway gateman, was convicted late Thursday of manslaughter in a fatal accident at a level crossing guarded by his gate. He will be sentenced today. The charge arose from the death last March 11 of John C. Wilson, transport company president who was one of two persons killed when a train struck their car. Jenkins was accused of neglecting to lower the crossing gates before the train approached the crossing.

Youngster 7 Attacked, Tossed In Canal

BURLEY, Idaho, Nov. 18 (AP) —Blonde Glenda Joyce Brisbois, "a friendly little girl," was criminally attacked before her body was thrown into an irrigation canal, police said Thursday night.

An autopsy revealed the attack on seven-year-old Glenda who rode to her death in a dark blue sedan. The little first-grader's body was found Thursday by a friend of the family, 18 hours after she had been kidnapped from near her home.

Coroner Vern McCulloch reported the autopsy revealed the girl had "definitely" been criminally assaulted.

Hope for a quick capture of the girl's kidnapper faded Thursday after two men, one in Idaho and another in Utah, were picked up for investigation but released after questioning.

Glenda Wednesday afternoon stepped into the car, which police said was driven by a round-faced man in his 20s. Her beaten body was found Thursday in the canal, one mile southeast of this aroused and angry Idaho farming community of 5,300 persons.

In Foot of Water

Nearly a foot of water partly covered the small body which was fully clothed. Her head had been gashed deeply by three blows from a sharp instrument—police said it probably was a hatchet or an ax.

While the prostrate parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brisbois were secluded in their Burley home, police continued to trace out a pair of meagre clews. The father is a truck-driver. Glenda has an older sister, Sandra Lee, 9.

A playmate said the first-grader talked briefly with the smooth shaven, ruddy complexioned man before she stepped into the sedan —a 1939 to 1942 model, clean and well kept and bearing Idaho licence plates.

Avoid Censorship

VICTORIA, B.C., Nov. 16 (CP) —Careful handling of any federal legislation banning crime comics, to avoid any suggestion of censorship, was advised Thursday by British Columbia's attorney-general, Gordon S. Wismer. Mr. Wismer made public suggestions he has forwarded to Justice Minister Garson at Ottawa, in response to a request from the latter to all provincial attorney-generals for advice on the subject.

Home Economics WI Subject

WESTWOOD, Nov. 18 (ENS)—"Home Economics" was the subject of the November meeting of the Women's Institute on Tuesday afternoon in the town hall. The roll call was answered by giving a recipe for a casserole dish. The demonstration of a supper dish "Italian spaghetti" was given by Mrs. T. Cardwell. A paper by Mrs. E. W. Sargent recommended the practice of keeping a family budget, which is increasing in popularity and not considered 'queer" as in former days. If faithfuily kept, the family budget will bring added pleasure, new investments and peace of mind.

News of current interest by Mrs. Hilliard Neilson added to the program and Mrs F. E. Birdsall won the monthly contest.

The treasurer, Mrs. S. Graham, announced that the proceeds of the Institute lunch counter at Mr. H. Carter's auction sale were $93.57.

It was decided to hold the Short Course on "oven meals" on November 24 and 25 at the home of Mrs. Stewart Graham instead of in the Town Hall, and ladies of the community are invited to attend.

A conference on "Health—before and after forty" will be held in Havelock on December 9, and is open to all ladies.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the masonic dinner to be held on November 30.

The hostesses, Mrs. Cardwell, Mrs. Post, Mrs. E. Elmhurst and Mrs. Birdsall, served refreshments.

Major Nazi Offender

TUEBINGEN, Germany, Nov. 18 (AP)—Frau Gertrud Scholz-Klink, Hitler's top Nazi woman's leader, was convicted Thursday of being a major Nazi offender. But she was set free from jail. German court which sentenced her to 18 months in jail ruled she had already served that long under a previous conviction.

Testifies Childs Holding Rifle

NAPANEE, Nov. 18 (CP) — The murder trial of Alfred Childs 16, may reach the jury stage late today.

Childs, accused of shooting district farmer Elijah McQuaig last June, entered the witness box late Thursday to answer questions concerning a statement which police said he gave them following his arrest.

Mr. Justice John L. Wilson, presiding in Ontario Supreme Court, said he will rule on admissibility of the statement at the start of today's hearing.

Childs, his counsel and the jury Thursday visited the Selby district farm on which McQuaig was cut down by a hail of bullets while driving a hayrake.

Ronnie Ross, 19-year-old farm laborer, testified Wednesday that he saw Childs standing in the doorway of a barn after the shooting. Childs was holding a rifle. Ross was wounded in the groin, leg and arm as he ran to assist McQuaig. (In a story on Thursday, the Canadian Press erroneously reported that Ross testified that Childs was the rifleman who shot McQuaig.)

See New Zealand Markets In East For Soft Woods

By J. C. GRAHAM.

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Nov. 18 — CP).— So rapidly are New Zealand's man-made pine forests maturing that forestry officials consider before long the Dominion will be in a position to supply a large share of the needs of the East for softwoods, especially for pulp.

A. P. Thomson, government forestry official who recently attended an international conference on timber utilization for Asia and the Pacific, considers that there is a vast potential market for New Zealand softwoods in the Far East, and that the Dominion will soon have large exportable surpluses to supply it.

The first export market for New Zealand softwoods is Australia, which is already taking considerable quantities and has contracted for even larger supplies of pulp in the future. So large are the forests of various species of pine that have been planted, however, and so great is the rate of growth, that the export surplus is likely to exceed Australia's needs before many years.

Sets Higher Record

For the third year in succession New Zealand's output of timber was a record in the production year just ended. The quantity milled was 480,000,000 board feet —an increase of 47,000 board feet on the previous record.

However, the utilization of the man-planted forests is comparatively speaking just beginning. The principal species milled was rimu, a native timber much used for housing and furniture, the production of which was 216,000,000 feet from forests growing in their natural state. Production of pinus insignis has as yet reached only 159,000,000 feet, whereas it is estimated that in a decade it is likely to exceed the output of rimu many times.

WMS To Start Mission Band At Marmora

MARMORA, Nov. 18 (ENS) — Formation of a Mission Band in the new year was discussed on Tuesday by St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. T. J. Bateman and Mrs. E. C. Prentice agreed to act as leaders.

To raise funds to meet the year's allocation, the Society decided to sell 50 church calendars.

Mrs. H. C. Barlow was chairman and Mrs. G. D. Young had charge of the worship service.

Mrs. E. C. Prentice took the solo part in the second hymn. Mrs. H. W. Sabine, in the absence of Mrs. W. J. Pack, deputised as secretary.

Mrs. Young mentioned that she needed assistance to carry on the activities of the Explorers' Group now having a membership of 23.

Plans were outlined for the evening service next Sunday at which Mrs. F. R. Harback of Belleville, will be guest speaker. Members of the WMS will conduct the service.

The 10th anniversary of St. Andrew's WMS is being observed on Tuesday, Nov. 22, with a social evening in St. Andrew's Hall.

A nominating committee composed of Mesdames Young, Sabine and Sweet will prepare a slate of officers for 1950.

Mesdames E. C. Prentice, J. Sproul and G. Jarvis were appointed a committee for the December candle lighting service.

UE-CIO and the G. E. WORKERS

On November 3, the membership of Local 524 (UE) authorized the Local Officers and Executive Board to take all necessary steps to maintain Local 524 within the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO). Since the only method by which this could be accomplished was to transfer affiliation to the International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (UE-CIO), the local leaders immediately began signing members into the new Union. The citizens of Peterborough and particularly the GE workers are entitled to full information regarding the UE-CIO.

Q.—What is the status of the UE-CIO?

A.—The International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (UE-CIO) is a properly constituted Union, chartered by the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO) to replace the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (UE) expelled by the CIO at the Cleveland Convention because of its communist-dominated leadership and policies and continual sabotage and obstruction of CIO policies.

Q.—What benefits will GE workers derive by joining the UE-CIO.

A.—The GE workers will enjoy the protection and support and collective bargaining power of an International Union. The UE-CIO has been assured the full support of the 6,000,000 membeers in CIO and the 400,000 members in the Canadian Congress of Labour.

Q.—What happens to the contract while GE workers are transferring from UE to the UE-CIO?

A.—The contract remains as it is — protected by law. No contract conditions are changed or endangered. When the UE-CIO is certified by the Ontario Labour Relations Board as the new bargaining agent in GE, negotiations may resume at the same point at which they were suspended.

Q.—Does the UE hold the bargaining right in GE until 1950?

A.—Definitely not. According to the Ontario Labour Relations Law, once 10 months of a contract have expired, another Union may apply for certification. Approximately 18 months have expired since the present contract was signed.

Q.—Will the Company recognize the UE-CIO?

A.—When the UE-CIO is certified it is awarded the present contract and the right to bargain for a new contract. The Company is bound by law to recognize the UE-CIO.

Q.—What is the progress and aims of the UE-CIO?

A.—The Interational Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers CIO already has the support of over 100,000 former UE members. In the United States approximately 85 locals — some with memberships of over 15,000 — have voted to join the UE-CIO. In Canada 4 locals — Peterborough, Brockville, Guelph and Cobourg — have voted to join UE-CIO. There are indications that many other locals in Ontario are preparing to take similar steps. In the Peterborough GE the requirements for certification are practically complete.

The purpose of the UE-CIO is to give to the electrical, radio and machine industry a Union free of Communist, Fascist or totalitarian domination. The UE-CIO is dedicated to serve the interests of free trade unionism, to raise and improve the working conditions of its members.

For the successful conclusion of a satsifactory contract settlement the Peterborough GE workers are urged to join UE-CIO — NOW — and hasten certification.

Invent Mechanical Cow Does Everything But Moo

By GEORGE KITCHEN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (CP). —Now they have invented a mechanical cow.

It apparently does everything but moo. Instead, it clanks. But, aside from that defect, the mechanical cows does produce pasteurized, homogenized, grade-A milk which, the manufacturer says, tastes just like the stuff you buy from the corner grocery.

The facts of this 20th-Century creation were placed on the record of the recent congressional session by representatives Reid F. Murray, Republican from the dairyland state of Wisconsin with a plea that the true flesh-and-blood bossy not be forgotten.

Milk For the Troops

The mechanical cow, he reported, was constructed by Dr Charles E. North of New Platz N.Y., and now is in use for United States troops in the Far East There, it slakes their thirst via seven machines turning out 22,700 gallons of milk daily, the equivalent of a herd of 7,500 head of live cattle.

Other such "cows," he added, soon will be supplying milk in the Philippines Venezuela, Trinidad, Curacao and Aruba.

The secret of the mechanical cow apparently is in the method of taking the water out of milk before shipment and putting it back in again at its destination. Unlike powdered milk, the new product so resembles untampered milk that you can't tell the difference.

Special Processes

The procedure is to separate skim milk and the butterfat on this continent in huge centrifuges, pack them under intricate processes which preserve flavor and original composition and ship them to any place where milk is needed.

There, the two are put back together again with distilled water in a recombining machine— the mechanical cow—and the result is a milk tasting almost as fresh as from the cow.

The recombined milk first is being introduced in places where milk supplies are poor or non-existent, such as tropical regions in which dairy cattle do not thrive. It may eventually be sold on this continent. The manufacturers say recombined milk could be sold in New York for as little as 15 cents a quart, considerably below prevailing prices for the fresh product.

Face Feed Shortage

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP) — Farmers in this area face a critical shortage of winter feed as the result of last summer's drought, Reeve N. D. MacMurchy of King township Thursday told York county council. He said insect damage had resulted in failure of the turnip crop while hay, spring crops and pasture lands were adversely affected by the weather.

$15.00 Should Provide Christmas Dinner for Six

Here we go a-budgeting—for Christmas dinner. Wise Peterborough housewives will set aside approximately $15 for Christmas dinner for six people. Perhaps the thriftiest of them will exceed that amount. "Christmas comes but once a year," they will rationalize. But $15 should provide a cheery Christmas dinner.

Dealers report that fowl of all kinds will be plentiful. Small turkeys (from 12 to 17 pounds) will be costing about 60 cents per pound; turkeys over 20 pounds, slightly less, at approximately 50 cents, dealers predict.

If you are bent on economy (and willing to consume liberal doses of turkey hash, sandwiches, stew and soup until New Years) then the larger birds are your best buy. On the other hand, an average sized family will find a 12-pound turkey a satisfactory buy at approximately $7.20.

Plum pudding, vegetables, butter, tea or coffee, come under the "essential" label. Or mince pie instead of plum pudding, if you have a favorite recipe. Incidentally, with a little pampering, "bought" mincemeat tastes as good as Grandma's own. Stores sell several brands, costing from 37 to 45 cents per two-pound container. "Doctoring" up ready-made concoctions in a lot easier than hauling out the grinder, many have discovered.

Of course, it wouldn't be Christmas without seasonal table decorations. Perhaps you could save expenses here by borrowing a half dozen choice balls from the Christmas tree, and arranging them in a cluster on a mirror centre. Flank them with small snippings from the Christmas tree branches that Dad cut off with his pen knife.

Then you'll want grapes, salted nuts and mints, to say nothing of Christmas crackers, paper napkins and red and green tapers.

There will be a few unlisted items cropping up among Christmas expenses. Perhaps you forgot that you used up the last spare Christmas tree bulb last year. Then, too, you will need to replace the three glorious globes swished casually floorward by the tail of your favorite canine.

EVER-LOVELY — (Left) Fashionable classic in grey and silver jersey with skirt gathered in soft fullness in front. Chinchilla wrap is an added luxury. (Centre) "Trump Card" a black crepe afternoon dress with draped panel in the back skirt features pointed high collar on a plunging neckline. (Right) Elegant simplicity keynotes this dress. Graceful dolman sleeves are posed on a slim silhouette, enhanced by high jewel neckline. Made of nubby textured yarn, it's hand finished and hand fashioned.

on moral standards. Mrs. G. Rutherford, for United Nations, referred to the Brotherhood Week meeting held here and said a similar meeting is to be arranged in 1950 by Mrs. W. Addyman.

Mrs. H. Dunford, vice-president of the Council, was honored with presentation of a life membership certificate and pin, bringing the number of life members in Peterborough Council to 34.

The nominating committee appointed to bring in a slate of officers at the January meeting is Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, chairman, Mrs. J. Henderson and Mrs. V. W. McClennan. Plans for this annual meeting were left in charge of the sub-executive committee.

Mrs. W. Addyman, president, asked for names of those wishing to attend the annual meeting of Provincial Council in Toronto, November 24 to 26. Some discussion followed the reading of a letter from the Kawartha Conservation Association in regard to the Cedar Lake property. A letter from the Rev. E. E. Pugsley, of Norwood, asked the women to organize rallies on the liquor question.

As there will be no meeting of Local Council in December, Mrs. Addyman closed with wishes for the Christmas season, and served a cup of tea and cake.

STORK AT 6,000 FEET—A six-pound girl was born to Mrs. Leokadia Rolbiecki, 36-year-old Polish immigrant, in a Scandinavian Airlines plane east of Greenland and 6,000 feet above the Atlantic. Mother and daughter, "both doing well," are shown in the lounge of the plane after it landed at Sydney, NS. Mr. and Mrs. Rolbiecki, their three older children and the new arrival continued to New York after a brief stopover.

Christmas Card Trends Found to Change Little

There's a swirl of gaiety, a bustle of activity afoot in city stores these days—wise citizens are buying their Christmas cards, wrapping cards and decoration in time to enjoy festive preparation, instead of being caught in the last minute rush

Christmas is traditionally an old-fashioned season, and trends in cards and decorations change very little. This year a couple of the old ideas are exploited in a new way, but add to the old atmosphere rather than change it.

One novelty seen in a downtown store was an unusually attractive set of color photographs set on Christmas cards. The pictures, of children filling stockings, Christmas trees and lifelike angels, were amazingly realistic, and brought to mind personalized Christmas cards, in which the same family picture or friendly greeting can be sent out by the dozen.

Old favorites are the "Cherub" cards, featuring a crowd of bright-eyed, pink-cheeked babies, particularly suitable for children. For their elders, greetings depicting painting of Mary with the infant Jesus, by masters such as Raphael and Mignard, would be appreciated.

Cards showing snow-covered scenes, typically Canadian, are particularly popular. These are reproduction of paintings by Manley MacDonald, Franz Johnston, George Thompson and others, and can be bought in sets.

Stores have a good selection of cards this year, and have been little affected by the current strike of lithographers, 90 per cent of orders being delivered to date.

Wrapping paper is always exciting—that gay design of Santas or holly adds so much to the most insignificant present. Popular this years are wrappers printed with candy canes set off by a velvety black background, and that perennial favorite, the poinsettia, sprayed on white paper.

To display these to advantage are a host of seals, tags and ribbons, and with some discreet buying and matching, your present can be the finest on the tree, no matter what its cost.

If originality is the aim in decorating, here's an idea particularly good for rooms without fireplaces and mantels. Notion is, to tie greeting cards to branches of the tree with colored wool. It's an eye-catcher if you feel you can dispense with Christmas tree fairy.

Is there an artist in the house? He'll enjoy himself spending a few days before Christmas painting scenes on the inside of the windows, with paint that will easy wash off. Nativity pictures, lighted from behind by a candle, are effective.

Much can be achieved in house decoration by twining evergreen round the bannisters and finished with a big bow on the last post of the staircase, the combination looks "Christmassy" and a mantel mirror, always the focal point of a room, can be improved with a ribbon and evergreen frame.

Effective tableaux can be inexpensively achieved and little other decoration is needed in the room that features one. A house made of corrugated cardboard, showered with snow, and lighted from within by a light bulb, is a suitable fireplace decoration, easily made. A miniature sleigh drawn by reindeer adds to the atmosphere of his model.

Half the joy in Christmas lies in anticipation, and by preparing well, buying cards early, wrapping carefully chosen gifts, and planning a scheme of decoration that will complement the home, the spirit of the great day is already caught.

"What's Right?"

You have accepted invitations to a number of large parties, but are hesitant about trying to manage a large party yourself.

WRONG WAY: Feel you have to have a large party if others in your crowd are giving them.

RIGHT WAY: Entertain in the manner that seems best suited to your own circumstances. If you would rather have several small parties than one large one, that is quite all right.

Local Council of Women Hears Mrs. Chas. Everitt

At the regular meeting of the Local Council of Women Thursday afternoon in the YWCA, Mrs. Chas. Everett gave advice to those who desire to be good citizens. Her text, "Sit ye in the seat where they sit" was taken from Ezekiel, and, enlarging upon it, she showed how this plan might have averted some of the supreme tragedies of the world.

"What a difference we would see tomorrow if each nation would sit in the place of the other nation," she said. "Also in industrial relationships, what a change if employer were to take the place of the employee, and employee that of the employer. We would see the main idea become that of 'serving' instead of 'getting'."

Mrs. Everitt, who is a Major in the Salvation Army in her own right as well as the wife of Major Chas. Everitt, who has charge in this city, was introduced by Mrs. G. Rutherford. Expressing appreciation of the address, Mrs. W. Steinkraus said "Practising your well-worded advice might help to solve many social and domestic differences."

Reports of conveners present were read and submitted to the secretary. Miss Leta Brownscombe for migration gave an outline of the situation regarding displaced persons and some of the plans they are making for the future on completing their contracts. Mrs. K. Simpson, archivist, advised her committee is compiling a handbook of constitution and rules.

Mrs. J. Henderson reported some work in child welfare. Mrs. A. E. Barrie, for arts and letters, reported on the display of paintings brought here recently. Outlining changes in economics and taxation, Mrs. H. Lundy spoke of devaluation, higher grocery prices and the liquor question.

Mrs. A. W. Nelson, education convener, asked members to spread interest among parents in the insurance plan which has been introduced in the schools by the Board of Education, and which has proved worthwhile. She also recommended nominating a woman to the Board and urged support of the nomination in the election.

Housing and town planning convener, Mrs. W. H. Morton said the plans of the city planning committee are taking shape and expansion is being controlled. In the January to August period 268 houses were completed and 256 are in course of construction. Greatest building project at present is the new Civic Hospital.

Mrs. Hadley Gave Snead Preview Of Wedding Dress

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18—Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley took time out from last-minute preparations for her wedding to Vice-President Alben W. Barkley to show her trousseau to the women with whom she formerly worked.

The clothes-conscious St .Louis widow scheduled a "sneak preveiw" of her wedding dress for 3 p.m., to be attended by a select group of women from Washington University and the Wabash Railroad.

Mrs. Hadley was once a secretary in the romance language department of the university, and later served as secretary to Chancellor Arthur H. Compton. At the time of her engagement to Barkley she was employed as a secretary in the Wabash legal department.

Fittings and alterations on the trousseau have taken up much of Mrs. Hadley's time since Sunday, friends said. She made the final selection of the wedding dress from the Stix, Baer and Fuller Department Store here, it was learned.

Mr. Cole, who was born in Newfoundland, and served there during both wars spoke on the "Boundaries of Newfoundland and Labrador." He traced the boundary changes through the years and discussed some of the disputes that caused them. He illustrated his talk with a map.

Mrs. Ruth Crawford expressed appreciation to the speaker, and soloist.

Those responsible for planning the banquet were Miss Ruth Mortlock, Mrs. Gloria Robertson, Mrs. Ruth Crawford and Miss Mayme Cathcart.

BC Woman Editor Is Also Cattle Breeder

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP)—It isn't enough for Dorothy Taylor of New Westminster, B.C., to be editor of the daily newspaper, the British Columbian. She is a cattle breeder too.

And at the Royal Winter Fair Wednesday, her 15-months-old Jersey bull, Jersey Joe, placed second in his class.

The cattle-raising story started eight years ago when Miss Taylor was attracted by a pretty face—of a cow. She had bought a 15-acre farm and decided it wouldn't be complete without cattle. So she bought the cow which became Jersey Joe's grandmother.

"Jersey Joe was born just about the time Joe Louis had defeated Jersey Joe Walcott," said Miss Taylor. "I was disappointed because he was a bull. He had club feet too and I said he'll never be a champion, so I called him Jersey Joe Walcott."

She has only a dozen jerseys and four calves to choose from But she took both junior championships in the lower mainland show in British Columbia last spring.

The attractive woman editor works a heavy day running her farm and newspaper. From 5.30 p.m. until eight in the morning she is a farmer. The rest of the time she spends with the British Columbian.

Miss Taylor will tell you it is the "oldest paper on the B.C. coast and the fastest growing newspaper in Canada." It wasn't until 1941 she really took a leading part in the British Columbian Her father became editor in 1900 and gradually bought the paper.

Then he and her brother died within three months of each other and the ownership passed to Miss Taylor. She took over the editorial chair on the suggestion of her editor, who retired.

Press and Radio Outnumber Guests At Barkley Nuptials

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18—(AP)—A romance which budded during a cruise down the Potomac River last summer was culminated in this city by the Mississippi today when a pretty mid-western widow became the bride of the vice-president of the United States.

The ceremony uniting 71-year-old Aben W. Barkley and petite, brunette Jane Rucker Hadley, 33 years his junior, took place at 1 p.m. EDT in the chapel of St. John's Methodist church.

Although the wedding has been one of the most widely publicized of any in the U.S. in recent years, only members of the immediate families of the bridal pair were invited. They numbered 34. About twice as many press and radio representatives were on hand.

The simple ceremony called for the single-ring service with the word "obey" omitted from the bride's vow. Both bride and bridegroom are Methodists.

David M. Barkley of Paducah, Ky., Barkley's son by a previous marriage, was best man. Mrs. Hadley chose her brother, William R. Rucker of West Palm Beach, Fla., to give her away.

After arriving here Thursday by plane from Washington Barkley and his bride-to-be drove away in a new $3,000 convertible he recently gave her as a wedding gift.

Among other presents received by Mrs. Hadley was a $10,000 diamond brooch from "a friend of the vice-president." It has 136 round and 36 rectangular stones.

Barkley's first wife died in 1947 after 44 years of married life.

Mrs. Hadley is the widow of Carleton S. Hadley, Wabash Railroad general counsel, who died in 1945.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Correspondence Insufficient See Girl Before Proposing

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think that a couple could ever fall in love enough through a correspondence to justify them marrying and would such a marriage be a success? I have been corresponding with a girl for a long time, her letters are so delightful that I have become very much interested in her and I think myself in love with her, through I have never seen her. Her letters go right to my heart. Do you advise me to propose to her or not?

Dorothy Dix

PUZZLED TWENTY-TWO.

ANSWER: I should certainly want to give any girl the once-over before I let myself in for looking at her the balance of my life. So my advice to you is to go and pay the young woman a visit before you finally commit yourself.

You might get the measure of a girl's mind by corresponding with her and be able to test accurately the amount of intelligence and education she possessed, and also to get a pretty good line upon her sympathies and opinions and general reaction toward life. You might fall in love with a girls' heart and soul through her letters, but that isn't enough.

Should See Her First

When you see her she might have some bodily peculiarities that would make her utterly repulsive to you. She might be hideously ugly, and while beauty is not a necessity in a wife, it certainly is comforting to have one who is easy on the eyes. Or she might have manners that disgusted you, or little ways that got on your nerves.

Marriage at best has risks enough to satisfy the most foolhardy adventurer without taking any chances on tying up with a lady sight-unseen. Certainly when you realize that your whole future happiness is at stake, it's worth the price of a railroad ticket.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been keeping company with a man for several years, have given up almost everything for him, but did it willingly because I love him. But he will not get married until his mother passes away. There is another man who is continually asking me to marry him. He has everything to offer me, but I have nothing to give him, not even love. He is willing to take that chance. Is it my duty to sacrifice my life for the man I love or take the man I don't love and learn to love him? I would like to be married and have children.

ANXIOUS.

ANSWER: There isn't any question of duty in your case. It is entirely a matter of preference. There is certainly no reason on earth why you should sacrifice your youth and your chance to marry and have the family you desire for a man who loves his mother better than he does you.

Certainly any practical common sense would suggest to you to give up your faint-hearted and lukewarm lover. But before you do so look well into your own heart and try to decide whether you can coerce it into bestowing its affections where it should.

There are women who are of such an affectionate nature that they could love any man who was kind and good to them and be happy with him. There are other women — one-man women — who give all the love that is in them to some one particular man and who will never have anything to give to another man.

So decide to which of these types you belong before you take the fatal step.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think of two young men who took their girl friends out with them and then left them to go home alone at 12 o'clock at night because they said it would take them out of their way? Upon being reproached for this, these boys said: "Everybody expects girls to take care of themselves now."

THE TWO GIRLS.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Being a gentleman never goes out of style, and it seems to me these lads were extremely rude to you and that you will do well to refuse their further invitations. However, you can't have your cake and eat it, too, and when girls went into the world to compete in business with boys they naturally couldn't expect to be regarded as clinging vines any longer.

Queen's Alumni Honor 2 Men Of '90's

At their annual dinner meeting at the Kawartha Club on Thursday evening, the Queen's Alumni of the city and district named their 1949-50 executive.

Officers are: honorary presidents, Rev. David L. Gordon, Rev. Wm. McDonald; immediate past president, Miss Helen R. McGregor; president, Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon; 1st vice-president, Dr. A. G. Howson; 2nd vice-president, T. J. Allen; secretary, Miss Ethel Patterson; treasurer, C. M. Krug; executive committee: Arts-Levana, Mrs. Alda Connett; Arts, F. Burritt Smitheram; Science. Donald A. Lamont; Medicine, Dr. Thomas E. Currier.

The nominating committee's report was presented by Dr. R. A. Kelly.

The two new honorary presidents were given special mention as two of Peterborough's oldest graduates. The Rev. David Gordon was graduated in arts in the year 1897; the Rev. William McDonald in 1898.

Greetings Brought

The dinner was attended by sixty Queen's graduates and their friends. Greetings from the University of Toronto alumni were brought by Mr. Ross Dobbin and Miss Margaret McCullough; from the McMaster University by A. J. Arnott.

The toast to Queen's was proposed by Dr. Bruce Gordon, and responded to by Mr. H. J. Hamilton, of Kingston. General Secretary of the Alumni Association. Mr. Hamilton reported on the progress of the General Endowment Fund campaign which is being held across Canada this year. O. J. Frisken presented the financial report of the local branch, Miss Jean Lancaster, the results of the canvass among graduates in Peterborough, when more than $5,000 was pledged.

Professor H. L. Tracey head of the Department of Classics at Queen's was the speaker. His topic was "Society's Poor Relations".

Following the dinner several films were shown, with Mr. William Graff at the projector. Of special interest was a colour movie of the recent Queen's-McGill football game at Kingston.

Miss Helen McGregor, president of the Peterborough alumni, presided at the head table.

Sailor Turns Farmer Sought Titanic Dead

HALIFAX. —(CP)—A veteran mariner who helped search for survivors of the Titanic disaster in 1912 has retired after 38 years of service with the Commercial Cable Company.

Cable foreman Victor Hughes served on three cable ships out of Halifax, joining the old Mackay Bennett in 1911, then going abroad the Mary Louise Mackay and during his last 27 years at sea, serving with the John Mackay.

After a year in the cable service, he was aboard the ship that helped search for Titanic survivors. The Mackay brought scores of bodies to Halifax. A total of 1,517 died in the disaster During his sea career Mr. Hughes also has been credited with saving three persons from drowning.

Now, after 38 years at sea Mr Hughes is settling down. He has bought a farm and plans to do a bit of salmon fishing on the side

Training Is Rugged For Would-Be Cops

MONTREAL, (CP)—A policeman's job, say the "flatfoots,' is far from soft and it's not easy even to start to be a policeman.

During a rigorous three-month training schedule, would-be constables at Montreal's Cadet Training School are given a class of physical culture for one hour starting at 9 a.m.

After a 10-minute breather they resume with a class labelled "self defence" in which they are taught wrestling, boxing and judo. In this period the rookie is taught "not to treat any prisoner roughly"—unless forced to.

First aid comes next on the program and in the afternoon they receive lectures on the basic facts of the Criminal Code, municipal bylaws and the general duties of a policeman.

All policemen-to-be must learn to handle a revolver.

Cadets range in age from 21 to 29 and must be at least five feet, eight inches in height. Those below the age of 25 must weigh at least 140 pounds, while over that age, they have to weigh a minimum of 145 pounds.

Have Good Pipelines To Tap Russ Secrets

OTTAWA, Nov. 18—(CP)—The Western Powers have "very confidential sources of information" in Russia, External Affairs Minister Pearson tdday told the Commons Committee on External Affairs.

In 90 minutes of testimony, he said Canada's small embassy staff in Moscow sends back "very interesting reports" and referred to suggestions by Gordon Graydon (PC, Peel) that they should be made public.

Mr. Pearson said release of some of the information has been considered, but it's "a very difficult question" because the reports are confidential and "in some cases the sources are very confidential."

Girl Wins First Round In Highway Dept. Battle

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 18 — (CP)—Pretty Mildred Dixon of nearby Grimsby has won the first round in her fight to put a sign bordering a provincial highway to advertise her roadside restaurant but she doesn't know how long the sign will stay there.

Miss Dixon Thursday was awarded $350 by Judge Thomas J. Darby of Lincoln county when he ruled that an inspector of the Department of Highways trespassed on her property to saw down the sign—a quaint affair with a Mexican character with a serape draped over his arm displaying the words "El Rancho, Casablanca. Chicken. . . steak and sea food dinners.

The case was heard Sept. 19 and the ruling was handed down Thursday.

The action stemmed from an incident last Nov. 17 when William E. Wrightman, an inspector with the miscellaneous permits branch of the Department of Highways, sawed down the sign when Miss Dixon didn't produce a permit. Unable to bring charges against the department, as part of the Crown, she charged Wrightman personally.

Evidence showed that Miss Dixon visited the department in Toronto August, 1949, and that a stenographer told her permits along the Queen Elizabeth Way were not being issued.

Miss Dixon said that she was told where to place the sign by other department officials and that a form of approval was forthcoming. She said no form of approval was received. Wrightman came to see her shortly afterwards she added.

While the ruling was being decided provincial highway workers started planting poplars in front of the sign.

Verbal Stilletos Flung Across Commons Chamber

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Sharp verbal stilletos hsot back and forth across the usually staid Commons Chamber Thursday as a couple of members engaged in a vitriolic discussion of personalities.

With Deputy Speaker Alfred Dion vainly calling for order, Jean Francois Pouliot (L, Temiscouata) and Julian Ferguson (PC, Simcoe East) left no doubt during the cross-floor exchange of what they thought of each other.

The name-calling episode reached a conclusion when George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, stepped in.

Mr. Pouliot had just said that "as far as influence is concerned," Mr. Ferguson "is a nonentity."

Mr. Drew said Mr. Pouliot had no right to describe any member of the House "as a nonentity."

Mr. Pouliot said he didn't call Mr. Ferguson a "nonentity."

"I said that with regard to his influence he was a nonentity. That is entirely different."

Mr. Pouliot was speaking in the External-Affairs debate when the exchange occurred.

He was saying how happy he was to see "that, with a few exceptions, the House of Commons is more Canadian than it has ever been during the 25 years I have been a member of Parliament." There were some "dark spots" but they were the exception.

A moment later, Mr. Ferguson rose, apparently to ask a question.

Asked To Sit Down

Said Mr. Pouliot: "I would ask my honorable friend to sit down. I will not tolerate any interruptions from a black spot from Simcoe."

Mr. Ferguson: "We have to tolerate your criticism of previous members of this House."

Mr. Pouliot: "My honorable friend should be 150 years old because he is 100 years backwards."

Mr. Ferguson: "I protest the honorable member's statement's about a black spot from Simcoe."

Mr. Ferguson went on: "We have listened to this long enough. Black spot from Simcoe! He (Mr. Pouliot) is one of the blackest spots in the Dominion of Canada. I hope the honorable member will be gentleman enough to withdraw the statement he made."

Mr. Pouliot: "I will say red spot."

Mr. Ferguson: "Very British, I am glad to say."

Mr. Pouliot: "That is all right. Now, Mr. Speaker, the red spot being erased, I shall proceed further."

Mr. Ferguson: "You will never erase it."

Roseneath WA Elects New Officers

The expenses of the month amounted to $61.31, leaving a balance on hand of $399.53.

Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite, sunshine convener, presented the good cheer report.

Mrs. Charles Sandercock reported having purchased for the society three dozen cups and saucers, one dozen plates, one dozen each of knives, forks and spoons at a total cost of $21.70.

Plans were made for the December meeting to be held in the township hall,, with Mesdames Eliza and Charles Sandercock as joint hostesses. There will be an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Bart Thackeray, convener of the sawing committee, displayed artistic table covers and scarfs made by Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite for the society.

The following numbers on the program were announced by Mrs. B. Thackeray: Piano solo by Miss Joan McMillan; reading by Mrs. Walter Gallagher; a piano solo by Miss Irene Brown; a guessing contest by Mrs. Harold George was won by Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite.

Parishioners Throw Rector Farewell Party

CAVAN, Nov. 18 — (ENS) — Rev. C. McLean and Mrs. McLean were entertained by the St. John's Fellowship Group on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McNeil, prior to their departure for Niagara where Mr. McLean has accepted a call to the Anglican church.

There were 60 guests and the first part of the evening was spent playing progressive euchre. First prize winners were Mrs. Lloyd Sutton and Mr. T. Harkness and the consolation prizes went to Mrs. Wm. Howden and Wm. Howden Jr.

Declares CBC Doesn't Need To Own Stations

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—(CP).—The Toronto Broadcasting Company (Station CKEY), in a brief to the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences, today suggested "there is no need for the CBC to own or operate broadcasting stations."

The CBC should, in the best interests of the nation, concentrate all its resources on the production of programming," saaid the prepared submission, signed by Jack Kent Cooke, T. B. C. president and general manager.

CBC-produced programs could be fed stations all at government expense, eliminating all license fees. The publicly-owned CBC would operate solely by government grants, the brief suggested.

Mr. Cooke suggested television should be operated in the same manner. He estimated if a license fee were charged for television, it would be $10 per set.

Private Operators

Fourth day of public hearings by the commission here was devoted almost entirely to submissions by operators of privately-owned radio stations. The majority endorsed the brief submitted at earlier sittings in Ottawa by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters which demanded that radio be regulated by an independent board.

Support of a projected increase from $2.50 to $5 in the radio license fee was made in the brief of the Association of Canadian Radio artists as "the only method by which the air can remain free and progressive."

A.C.R.A. also recommended that television be publicly-owned and controlled in a manner similar to radio. It recommended more widespread use of Canadian talent, and that legislation be introduced to protect Canadian radio and television from unfair foreign competition.

A BIG TUB

The Baths of Diocletian, the largest of the ancient Roman public baths, could hold 3,000 persons at the same time.

Hold Induction Service

Twenty-four boys will be formally admitted into the four Hi-Y Clubs Sunday night when the clubs hold their annual candlelight induction service in the YMCA gym. Nine boys will be entering the intermediate club, 12 the junior club, two the Epsilon club and one the Omega club. The service starts at 8.15 p.m.

Ask Ottawa For Egg Price Support

Federation Will Seek Help For Farmers If Contract Reduced

By HAROLD MORRISON.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture Friday said it will seek government price-support for eggs and other commodities if Anglo-Canadian food contracts are reduced in 1950.

A federation spokesman said farmers and poultry producers are particularly concerned over the possibility that Britain will not renew the $21,000,000 egg contract and that the bacon contract will be cut to 25 per cent of the 1949 value.

It was learned Canadian egg dealers have appealed directly to the government to institute measures to keep up the price of eggs in view of a statement by Sir Stafford Cripps yesterday.

The British Chancellor of the Exchequer told a London press conference that Britain is considering switching over to European sources of supply for some of the foodstuffs she formerly purchased from Canada. He specifically mentioned eggs.

Safe Till 1950

A government spokesman said there should be no worry about a possible fall in egg prices until at least the early part of next year. The government still was buying eggs and will continue to do so until into December—to fill the 1949 United Kingdom contract.

Until the contract is filled, the government will purchase all the eggs it can get at about 47 cents a dozen for shell. Wholesale prices generally, are well above that figure.

The Agricultural Federation, which represents bacon as well as egg producers, said bacon producers were particularly distressed at the possible fall in bacon prices.

The producers were paying high prices for feed and therefore would feel the blow if Canada could not continue to obtain a suitable price for Canadian bacon.

It was indicated in government quarters that the contract next

Report 2 Men Suffer Burns At Brantford

60 Guests Evacuate Neighboring Hotel, Damage $100,000

BRANTFORD, Nov. 19 (CP)—Fire swept the upper floors of a three-storey downtown building early today, sending 30 or more apartment dwellers into the street. Two aged men received burns and were taken to hospital for treatment.

At the adjacent Kerby Hotel some 60 guests were aroused around 4 a.m. and cleared out of the building as a safety meaure. However, the only damage to the hotel was from smoke which seeped through the fire wall.

Cause of the blaze is not yet known. First unofficial estimates places the damage at $100,000.

All members of the 50-man fire department and all available equipment were called out to fight the blaze. The blaze started about 3.30 a.m. EST and was under control two hours later. Most damage was confined to the two upper floors.

First floor of the building, on George Street, is occupied by stores. The second and third floors contained offices and apartments. Nineteen persons occupied quarters on the second floor and another 11 or more lived on the third.

Has Back Burned

Serkis (Mike) Hagopian, 88, was taken to hospital with burns on his back, suffered as he waited at a third-storey window to be rescued by firemen. He had been seen out on the street and apparently returned to get his money. He was brought down a ladder. Fred Fuller, 70, also taken to hospital suffering burns to hands and face when the fire started.

Taxi drivers roused the apartment dwellers after the fire, which spread rapidly from the second floor to the roof, was spotted. Police and staff roused hotel guests.

BROOKLIN FARMER DIES—W. H. Dryden, one of the founders of the Royal Winter Fair, died at his home Friday, after a long illness.

Will Dryden Royal Founder Dies At Brooklin

TORONTO, Nov. 19—While his beloved Royal Winter Fair was setting up new records, W. H. (Will) Dryden, first president and one of the founders of the big agricultural show, died Friday at his Maple Shade Farm, near Brooklin, where he had been confined to his bed since September.

The illness that kept Mr. Dryden in bed also forced him to miss attending the Royal for the first time. Last year, although the strain of his illness showed on his face, he showed up for the fair, although he had already been forced by poor health to hand the supervision temporarily to W. P. Watson, Ontario livestock commissioner, who was lent to the fair by the Ontario Government.

When summer came, Mr. Dryden, who was approaching 69, found his health was still not up to the strain of running the world's largest indoor fair. Reluctantly, he gave up the post he had since 1926, and the fair appointed C. S. McKee to take over. Mr. Dryden remained a director and was still active in plans for the 1949 show until his overworked heart forced him to take to his bed last September.

Mr. Dryden was the fair's first president back in 1921. He held the post again in 1922, then in 1926 became general manager. But Mr. Dryden had interests other than the Winter Fair, although it had been his pet through the years. On his farm near Brooklin he raised shorthorn cattle, and with them he had claimed not a few awards at the Royal and other shows.

He is survived by his wife, a son John, who now runs the Dryden farm, and two daughters, Mrs. Harry Willis of Brampton, Mrs. James Leamen, of Toronto; and two sisters, Mrs. J. C. Sycamore of St. Petersburg, Fla. and Mrs. W. E. Matthews, of Detroit. He was the only son of John Dryden, one-time Ontario minister of agriculture.

Fair President John W. McKee, recalled that when the Royal was being founded it was Mr. Dryden's casting vote, which broke a tie and established the fair in Toronto rather than Hamilton.

Truck Driven By Quartet Filled With Clothing Police Suspect Burglaries

Remand Four In Lindsay Till Friday After Murder Charges Laid; Lindsay People May Start Fund For Widow

Provincial police are still puzzled over the reason for the panel truck of the four murder suspects in Lindsay jail being packed with a wide assortment of clothing. While it is not thought to have any bearing on their guilt or innocence in the murdering of Jack Loucks of Lindsay early Friday morning, it might provide the answer to a number of recent breakins. At the moment three husky brothers—James Zahodnik, 33, Paul, 28, and John, age 30, and William Yuzwa, 33, are all charged with murder and they may face additional charges of wounding, assault and attempted robbery. John Zahodnik is from Toronto, the others from Hamilton.

When the four appeared in Lindsay police court Friday morning after being brought from Peterborough where they were captured earlier, they were remanded until next Friday.

The men ostensibly set out on a hunting trip from Hamilton on Thursday night. Their destination, they said, was Bryson, Quebec where Mike, another Zahodnik brother lives.

When police searched the truck at the site of the capture they found three rifles, a revolver and a large quantity of goods unlikely to be taken by men on a hunting trip.

All New Cothing

Found were 15 ski caps, 13 children's sweaters, ladies and children's stockings, boys' trousers and sewing needles. All of it was new.

"We can't figure why these fellows had all this new stuff with them if they were going on a hunting trip," Inspector C. W. Farrow of the Peterborough detachment of the Provincial Police told the Examiner today.

Police are investigating the possibility that they broke into a country store and the contents of the truck was the loot.

No direct connection is seen between the actions of the quartet and the safe robbery at Mariposa Station, near Lindsay, where $20,-

Students Swap Beauty Queen Held As Hostage

KENTFIELD, Calif., Nov. 19—(AP). — "Miss California" was swapped for a student body president here last night at a football game in which Santa Rosa Junior College defeated College of Marin 47-19.

The victory gave Santa Rosa an undefeated season, championship of the Northern California Junior College Conference, and the right to meet the Everett, Wash., Junior College in a shrine game Thanksgiving Day at the Puget Sound city.

The hostage - swapping ceremonies took place on the playing field just before the start of the game. "Miss California," Jone Ann Pedrson, Santa Rosa student who was runner-up for "Miss America," was exchanged for Marin student body president Jack Osborne.

College of Marin students had invaded the Santa Rosa campus Wednesday and captured the 18-year-old beauty queen. They packed her off the Marin campus as a hostage—after calling her parents to explain that she was safe.

Thursday, Santa Rosa students staged a futile rescue invasion, and failing to deliver their queen managed to capture Osborne, who was held for the exchange at game-time.

B-29's Grounded As 120 Men Dies In 12 Weeks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP) A part of the United States B-29 bomber fleet was grounded today while the U. S. air force launched an investigation into a series of crashes which have killed at least 120 men in the last 12 weeks.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force Chief-of-Staff, issued the grounding order Friday night.

A few hours before, the latest crash had killed five of a nine-man crew aboard a Superfortress which was taking off to help search for the 20 men aboard another B-29 missing off Bermuda since mid-week.

Six accidents have occurred in the last 16 days, with a known death toll of 35 and with the 20 men aboard the lost B-29 still missing.

Available unofficial records show that since Aug. 26, when 16 crew members died after an engine caught fire in a take-off from Hickam Field, Hawaii, 27 Superfortresses have gone down with a death toll of 120.

Vandenberg's order will have this effect:

Any Superfortress used by the U. S. strategic air command or the 19th Bomb Group in the Far East —unless all of its four engines have been "modernized" — is grounded until a detailed inspection can be made by technical experts.

Opposition Tips Gov't Hand Film Board Being Screened

OTTAWA, Nov. 19—(CP)—Newspaper publication of a government secret and a persistent stream of questions by opposition members combined in the Commons Friday night to draw confirmation from a reluctant government that employees of the National Film Board are being investigated by the RCMP. In an intense, often confused, discussion arising during consideration of defence estimates, it was brought out that RCMP investigation of government agencies is being expanded to clear the government-owned Film Board for handling secret defence work.

But until screening is completed and the government is assured that Film Board employees can be entrusted with the secret work, it will continue to be handled by private companies.

In the hectic cross-fire initiated by Ross Harkness (PC--Calgary East), Defence Minister Claxton confirmed a report in the Financial Post that the Film Board workers were being screened before being permitted to make pictures of secret documents and objects.

Wanted It Secret

Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed regret that the report had ever been published and declared that the board was not under suspicion and should not be put "under a cloud."

But he held up the newspaper revelation of this incident as an example of what he called "leakages" of secret government information and said these leakages sometimes involved proceedings at Cabinet meetings.

Pictures too secret to be entrusted to the Film Board until that body has been "certified" were being made by long-established commercial companies, Mr. Claxton said.

The Defence Minister said the private companies had been "screened" but the Prime Minister later said he did not know if they had been or not.

Referring to the story in the Financial Post, Mr. St. Laurent said:

Vote On GM Plan Delayed 24 Hrs.

OSHAWA, Nov. 19 (CP) — Workers at the General Motors plant vote today and tomorrow on proposals for settlement of the strike they began Oct. 25 after dismissal of four employees.

An estimated 5,500 members of the United Auto Workers (CIO) are eligible to cast ballots on the plan, outlined to them at a mass meeting this morning. Voting is by secret ballot from 2 to 5 p.m. EDT today and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m Sunday.

The dismissal of the four men, all union officials, was the spark that touched off the strike. Union charges of a production line speed-up also entered into the dispute. The union demanded immediate reinstatement of all four men and the company wanted the matter submitted to arbitration.

Under the proposed terms of settlement, made public this morning, the union agrees that the men will return to work immediately upon notice from the management under the conditions set out in the current agreement which would remain in force until next June 11.

It provides for suspension penalties in place of discharge for the four employees who were dismissed. William Talbot and Basil C. Mothersill are to be suspended for 30 days, Richard H. McEvers for 90 days and Thomas L. Peel for 180 days. All suspensions are for calendar, not working, days and are to run from the date on which the company receives notice from the union of termination of the strike.

Reports Canada Backing Tito

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP) — Canada may increase her three-man delegations in Tito's capital, Belgrade.

In four hours of questioning the Commons Committee on Foreign Affairs, External Affairs Minister Pearson Friday indicated that Canada was in strong support of Yugoslavia.

Canada voted for Yugoslavia's admittance to the United Nations Security Council to block injury to Tito's "courageous" resistance which might have resulted if Russia-backed Czechoslovakia got the post.

Yugoslavia's defiance of Communist Russia has had an effect on the iron curtain peoples, Mr Pearson said. This may have been the reason for such "defensive" measures as appointment of a Russian as Poland's defence minister.

Ranging over the world's troubled political frontiers Mr. Pearson said the picture was "brighter" than a year ago, but Russia, one of the dominating factors, was showing no sign of yielding on major issues.

However, "the fact she now knows we are united in resistance to unjust claims is a big factor in holding them back."

Six British Warships Ordered To Hong Kong

SINGAPORE, Nov. 19 (Reuters)—Six British warships will leave Singapore for Hong Kong within the next three weeks making the naval force there the strongest since the Second World War ended, a Royal Navy spokesman announced today.

He termed the sailings "purely routine" but Singapore shipping circles believed the movements were connected with Foreign Secretary Bevin's recent statement that British mrechantmen outside Chinese territorial waters should be protected from Nationalist shelling and bombing.

The 70,000-ton aircraf carrier and repair ship H.M.S Unicorn will leave Singapore tomorrow for Hong Kong, accompanied by the destroyer Cossack, it was learned here.

Strikes Clerk With Hatchet

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP) — Percy Puley, 57-year-old clerk in the public trustees office here, was taken to hospital Friday night with head injuries suffered when a man walked into the office and hit him with a hatchet.

Police arrested a man they identified as Vincent McMullen, 54, of Toronto. He was charged with wounding.

Puley was working with two other clerks when the intruder entered and hit him with the hatchet, wrapped in paper. Other clerks held the man until arrival of police.

No reason for the attack was given. Puley's condition is given as serious.

Weather Delays Princess' Flight

LONDON, Nov. 19 (AP) — Princess Elizabeth's flight to Malta to spend her wedding anniversary with her husband was postponed today for 24 hours because of unfavorable weather.

The official announcement was made a little more than an hour before her scheduled 4 a.m. EST takeoff from London Airport. A thick London fog Friday night already had delayed the arrival of most of the 300 guests invited to Buckingham Palace for a farewell party for the Princess.

Princess Elizabeth had planned to reach Valetta, Malta, on the eve of the second anniversary Sunday of her wedding to the Duke of Edinburgh, a navy lieutenant now on duty with the British Mediterranean fleet.

Screen 360 Refugees

CORK, Republic of Ireland, Nov. 19—(Reuters) — Canadian immigration officials left here Friday after ending their "screening" of 360 Baltic refugees who arrived early last month aboard the converted landing craft Victory, in which they planned to cross the Atlantic to Canada. It is expected that many of the refugees will be admitted to Canada, but no announcement was made Friday of the results of the screening.

Must Teach Reds Pact Not Scrap Of Paper

MONTREAL, Nov. 19—(CP)—A third world war can be avoided if Russia realizes the North Atlantic pact is not a mere scrap of paper, but a symbol of defensive power, Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, commanding officer at the National Defence and Staff Colleges, Kingston, said Friday night.

Addressing the annual regimental dinner of the 17th Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars here, he said:

"Stalin and the Politburo are realistic enough not be in the least mesmerized by signatures on a piece of paper" such as the North Atlantic Pact.

Man Set Afire

DETROIT, Nov. 19—(AP) — Leo Mack, 49, told police Friday that two men dumped gasoline on him and set him afire. He was in hospital with burns over his entire body. Quick action of a neighbor, who ripped off his flaming clothes, possibly saved him from death. One of the attackers was booked on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Buses Can Install Radio Receivers

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP)—It's perfectly all right to install radio receivers in a bus, providing a radio-receiving licence is purchased first, transport department officials said Friday.

The officials were commenting on a trial run in Kitchener by a public utilities commission bus with a radio installed, receiving programs broadcast by station CFCA-FM.

As long as the sets are just normal radios, receiving normal broadcasts, one licence for each bus in which radios are installed is the only statutory requirement, officials said.

Two MPP's At Odds OverKC Appointments

VICTORIA, Nov. 19 (CP)—Two members of British Columbia's Coalition Government—a Liberal and a Progressive Conservative—are at odds over appointment of 20 King's Counsel, first to be named in four years.

Premier Johnson, who has been in Ottawa most of the week, has had no part in the argument between his two chief lieutenants, Attorney General Wismer and Finance Minister Anscomb.

Mr. Wismer, a Liberal, said he planned to make the appointments on merit and devised a new system proposing a committee consisting of the two chief justices in B. C. and a representative of B. C. benchers advise the government in naming the KC's.

Mr. Anscomb, head of B. C. Progressive Conservatives and co-leader of coalition, doesn't agree. He said such appointments have always been the prerogative of the government. He isn't prepared to hand over that authority to Federal government appointees—the chief justices—or to any outside body.

Policeman And Two Others Arrested For Robbing Bank

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (CP)—Three men—one a Montreal city police constable—will be arraigned in St. Hyacinthe, Que., today on armed robbery charges because, provincial police investigators say, one didn't want to pay 50 cents toll across the harbor bridge here.

The arrest of the trio came late Friday night, only a few hours after three gunmen robbed a Banque Canadienne Nationale sub-branch at the village of St. Hugues, 15 miles northeast of St. Hyacinthe.

The gunmen escaped by automobile but provincial police sent out a general alarm by radio.

Two hours later, an automobile pulled up to the toll gate on Harbor Bridge and the lone occupant flashed a city police badge to go through without paying toll.

Provincial police guarding the bridge took another look at the automobile. Its description tallied with radio reports from St. Hugues and the driver was arrested. Two hours later, two other men were arrested as they arrived in a taxicab at the Montreal home of the first man.

Deputy-Director Hilaire Beauregard of the provincial police said Real Vincelette, 33, had been identified as a constable at No. 23 Montreal police station. He was on a one-week sick leave from duty.

The others arrested were identified as Gerard Lapierre, 23, and Gerard Labrie, 28, both of Montreal.

It was not until Vincelette was questioned at police headquarters here that it was found he was a city policeman.

Reds Demand Recall Of Tito's Top Envoy

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—(AP). — The Soviet government for the second time in three weeks has demanded the formal recall of Yugoslavia's top diplomat in the Russian capital.

A Soviet note said the presence in Moscow of Charge D'Affaires Lazo Latinovic, the acting head of his country's embassy staff, was "impossible."

Last monthe the Russians told Premier Tito's government the same thing about Yugoslav ambassador Karl Mrazovic, whom they accused of subversive activities.

(In London, Tass, official Russian news agency, said Latinovic had been expelled from Russia for spying and subversive activities. Tass also disclosed that three Russian representatives had been ordered out of Yugoslavia.)

Women Outride, Outjump Expert Military Horsemen

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP)—Two women riders outrode and outjumped expert military horsemen of three nations Friday night at the Royal Winter Fair horse show.

Dorinda Hall-Holland of London, Ont., and Peggy Mills of Philadelphia won the two events open to both civilian and military riders. Army teams of Canada, Chile, Mexico and the Carbaneros, Chilean mounted police were soundly beaten. The Irish team didn't enter.

Miss Hall-Holland won the course 15-jumper stake on Roger II, owned by G. A. F. Brickenden of Simcoe. Only officer to come close was Lieut. W. R. Ballard of the Canadian team, fourth on Skip Across Miss Mills won the knock-down-and-out stake on Black Watch, owned by Mrs. Donald Ferraro of New York. Seventeen-year-old Douglas Cudney of Winona, was second and Lieut. Joachim d'Harcourt of Mexico, third.

Meanwhile, in horses shown by exhibitors, the entries of Robert Thomas of Saskatchewan won top honors. His animals won the Belgian Horse Society medal for the best stallion and mare. J. W. Brown of New Liskeard, won the grand championship and the reserve award for the best standard-bred stallion. E. E. Foster and Sons of Galt won the grand championship for standard-bred mares.

Jack Fraser of Concord, Ont., won the Premier Guernsey Breeder Award and Fred Howell of Welland, was champion Guernsey showman. J. E. McCague of Alliston, was premier Holstein exhibitor.

Arms Embargo Against Balkans Passed By UN

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(CP)—The United Nations General Assembly beat down Russian opposition once again Friday and approved an arms embargo against Greece's cominform neighbors.

The Assembly also voted down the Russian group in their motion to discontinue the special U.N. committee watching Greece's borders and the Civil War that has raged across them.

The arms embargo was directed at Albania and Bulgaria. The assembly has only a kind of moral force with which to enforce the ban, but none of the countries in the western ranks are known to be sending arms to Albania and Bulgaria at present.

By a vote of 50 to 6, with two abstentions, the Assembly approved an America-supported proposal to impose the arms embargo until such countries as Albania and Bulgaria stop aiding Greek guerillas fighting the Athens government.

Yugoslavia, once on the committee's list, has been dropped from this accusation since Premier Tito split with the cominform more than a year ago. The U.N. committee has reported that Yugoslavia has ceased helping the Greek rebels.

Joins Soviet Bloc

But Yugoslavia yesterday joined the Soviet block in opposing the resolution. To most observers, this seemed to dash hopes that Tito's government might patch up its differences with Greece. Yugoslav delegate Dr. Alex Bebler accused the Athens government of engaging in terrorism, atrocities and brutality, especially in Macedonia.

The Soviet proposal rejected by the Assembly, paragraph by paragraph, called for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Greece, dissolution of the U.N. committee and creation of ab ig-power border commission to supervise the frontier between Greece and her northern neighbors. The resolution as adopted extended the life of the U.N. commission for another year.

Poses As Brother To Wed Girl He Loved "Madly"

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP)—Dan cupid has stepped in to fashion a finishing touch to a marital mix-up involving a teen-age girl and two young brothers.

The principals in the marriage and love affairs are Joan Schettler, 19; her former husband, Thomas Henry, 17, and his brother and Joan's future husband, Neil Henry, 21.

Thomas, posing as his brother Neil, married Joan last July. Neil was away in the United States Merchant Marine and Thomas used his birth certificate and name as he was under age to marry without parental consent.

In court Thursday Joan told Judge Rudolph Desort that Thomas was a fine husband, treated her lovingly and she had no quarrel with him except for the deception.

Neil quoted his brother as saying he was "madly in love" with Joan and could find no other way to marry her.

Thomas's counsel asked for leniency for the youth and judge Desort agreed. In annulling the marriage, he said: "This punishes the boy far beyond the power of the court. By his act of deception he lost the thing he wanted and cherished most—his wife."

A few hours later, Joan's lawyer returned to court and asked Judge Desort to marry Joan and Neil. The wedding was tentatively set for Nov. 25.

Swamp Death Cause Unknown

AUBURN, Ont., Nov. 19 (CP)—The cause of the swamp death of 32-year-old Earl G. Baux is unknown a Coroner's Jury has decided.

The jury Friday night returned an open verdict in the death of the Chippewa Hill, Ont., resident who disappeared last Aug. 24. But the jury reprimanded witnesses who admitted they withheld from police the fact that Baux was involved in an automobile accident the day he vanished.

His badly - decomposed body was found three weeks later in Saratoga swamp near Goderich, 10 miles west of here.

Friday night Provincial Police Inspector R. L. Taylor of Toronto testified that Baux might have suffered such severe injuries in the accident that he wandered off into the bush and died from lack of medical attention.

"Severely censured" by the jury "for failure to do their legal and moral duty," were Mrs. Ethel Stewart of Auburn and Frank Mills of Tar. They told the jury they withheld the fact that Baux was driving Mill's car when it crashed on Saratoga Hill.

No Indication of Price

There still was no indication of the price. This year Canada obtained $36 a hundredweight for No. 1 Wiltshire sides. It was understood Britain asked a reduction in price.

The government appears to be hopeful that the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization will achieve some success with an international food subsidy plan proposed by Dr. H. H. Hannan, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. It now is being worked out in detail by FAO member nations.

Briefly, the plan is to move surplus foodstuffs from producing to consuming countries which normally could not meet the full purchase price. The foodstuffs would be sold to the consumer nation at slightly lower than normal prices with the loss absorbed through subsidy payments charged to each member of the United Nations.

The air force announcement said the purpose of their shipboard visit is "to further the understanding between the services."

Believe Russia Supports Mao

MOSCOW, Nov. 19 (AP)—Foreign diplomats here believe that Russia will strongly support the Chinese (Communist) People's Republic in its claim for full representation in the United Nations.

Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En Lai's telegram to United Nations U.N. officials protesting against the presence at the U.N. General Assembly of the Kuomintang's representatives was given wide publicity in the Soviet Union today.

The local papers made no comment on the telegram opposing the Nationalists, but it is believed here to have the complete support of the Soviets.

Diplomats questioned how far the Russians would go in backing Chou's claim that his government represents the better part of the Chinese population. The foreign observers here think the Russians will go far indeed.

Co-Op Broilers

ingredients turned into an unexpected benefit in quick fattening

The chickens are ready for processing at twelve weeks. They are killed, drawn, washed and dried by equipment installed in the Co-Op plant on the east side of George St. at the rear of National Grocers.

A major problem was to find a container. That chapter alone is an interesting account of research. Co-Op quest eventually located a transparent, plastic material of the trade name, Cry-O-Vac. It was specially made in package or bag shape. The dried chicken is put into this bag at a required temperature. A machine exhausts the air from the bag which is immediately sealed and dipped into hot water.

By that step, the bag is automatically shrunken to the size of the bird. It tightens to the skin, sealing in the flavor. It is so tight a container that it is described as a second skin.

The broilers are then packaged and placed in the Co-Op freezer, ranging from 27 to 40 degrees below zero, the carton, containing six broilers, presented another problem in the detail of its lining. That was followed by actual tests of the product in the ordinary circumstances of delivery.

Commercial cartons were sent to Montreal, for example, with directions to be returned to Co-Op office here. Examination demonstrated the efficiency of all the details which had been worked out.

Marketing connections in Peterborough and elsewhere were established, and the business has been in operation for months. It is a Peterborough contribution to the poultry industry.

A secondary problem of supply has provided a flow of White Rocks to the local plant. About 500 birds a week are obtained from this district, but R. M. Peirson said recently the volume could be 5,000. Many of these broilers, produced according to Land of the Maples specifications, are brought from as far as York county.

Canada Struggles To Find Own Voice In Literature

"The struggle of the U.S.A. to find its own voice in literature one hundred and fifty years ago is startlingly like the same struggle which is going on in Canada today," said Dr. Gordon Roper, addressing the Trinity College Club at the YWCA on Friday night. The "cultural lag" which has kept Canada's literary development far behind that of the United States causes Canadians to re-enact many of the intellectual struggles of that country. As the U.S.A. broke from purely English traditions in writing, so may Canada hope to break away from patterns set by both Britain and the U.S.A.

Speaking on "American Literature" Dr. Roper (who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Roper of this city) traced the development of the American novel from the post-Revolutionary "novels of sensibility" and "Gothic tales" to the awakening of a fitful but truly national spirit in the work of Fenimore Cooper. In the work of Hawthorne, Edgar Allen Poe and Herman Melville (considered by Dr. Roper to be the greatest single figure in American fiction) this spirit revealed itself more strongly and reached maturity in the works of Mark Twain, William Dean Howells and Henry James.

Dr. Roper laid special emphasis on the works of Howells and Willa Cather, whose "minor masterpieces," he said, had been slighted in the modern enthusiasm for more sensational but artistically less valuable works. "Huckleberry Finn" he described as a magnificent book marred in its concluding pages by the introduction of the stock "smart boy" figure of Tom Sawyer.

Dr. Roper's lecture was enlivened by flashes of wit which delighted his audience and held their attention during an address which the speaker described as an attempt to compress thirty-five hours of lectures into a single hour.

The meeting was presided over by Arthur Kember, Esq., Dr. Roper was introduced by the Rev. E. C. Moore, and thanked by Dr. G. S. Cameron.

Oposition Tips

"It was not intended to publish this, and I do not think it is in the public interest that it should be published and discussed here.

"It is something that we would have preferred not to see published, but it has leaked out. How, we do not know. We are inclined to believe the paper did not get it from the officials of the RCMP."

Cabinet Secrets Learned

In the long, tortuous debate involving three cabinet ministers and a host of opposition members, these facts were brought to light:

1. Investigation of film-board employees is proceeding quickly so that the board will be in a position as soon as possible to take over the secret work from the private companies.

2. The current investigations are part of a general program of screening in government departments, purpose of which is to ensure against leaks of secret matters and information.

3. Establishment of the security-program had been prompted by apparent leakages of information from secret cabinet meetings and, among other things, premature newspaper publication of official matters and decisions.

4. Need for secrecy on international exchanges of secret documents which often pass through the hands of employees in certain government departments was also a consideration.

End 80-Mile Circle

The arrest of the four men at the road block on the ouskirts of Peterborough ended an 80-mile circle of violence that began in Lakefield three hours earlier.

In that time they raced north from Lakefield pursued by Chief Garnet Samis, escaped a road block laid down at Burleigh Falls by the Provincial Police just in time, raced over Highway 36 and south through Bobcaygeon to Lindsay.

At one time no less than 11 provincial police prowl cars, police detachments from Lindsay and Peterborough, as well as Chief Samis of Lakefield were hunting for them.

Altogether five people were injured by the four men and Loucks was fatally stabbed.

The five attacked were: James and Hazel Hogan, proprietors of the Melody Inn, north of Lakefield, 10 miles north of Peterborough; Floyd Smith, 25, of Hagersville, slashed on the head; Sidney Risley, 52, of Lindsay, cut on the right arm and Thornton Olver, Lindsay, slashed across the face.

Loucks, father of three, was fatally stabbed in a fight which came after he was attacked. Witnesses said the four men on the truck "looked mad." They could give no explanation of the attack, which came after Loucks walked over to speak to a man on the truck.

It was during the knifing of Loucks that three bystanders were slashed. The assault on the Hogans came after the four didn't get a cup of coffee as quickly as they wanted it.

After the Lindsay killing the four men piled into the yellow panel truck and left in the direction of Peterborough. Police roadblocks halted the truck.

A hail of bullets from Constable Claire McGillen of the city police and Chief Samis, both of whom converged on the fleeing truck at the roadblock, brought the night of terror to an end.

Start Fund

The dead man is W. J. (Jack) Loucks, 36-year-old father of three children: Richard, 12; Malcolm, 10; and Roxy, age eight. His widow is the former Catherine Batt, daughter of a one-time Lindsay shoemaker, H. Batt.

At one time he worked for Rehill's in Peterborough but left here about two years ago to be with his family in Lindsay. He obtained a job as truck driver for Superior Fuels Ltd. Mr. Loucks was a veteran of the Second World War, serving in the artillery.

He has two brothers in Peterborough, Douglas and Ronald, the latter employed at Rehill's. His sister, Mrs. Margaret Roberts is a Canada Packers employee. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Loucks live on Murray St.

A fund has been started unofficially in Lindsay to look after Mrs. Loucks and her three children. Two large donations have already been made by prominent Lindsay businessmen.

Shotgun Blast Injures Gambler At Reno Home

RENO, Nev., Nov. 19 (AP) — A midnight shotgun blast critically injured a leading Nevada and Michigan gambling figure here last night.

Lincoln Fitzgerald, 57, co-owner of a big downtown gambling casino. The Nevada Club, was shot down as he started to leave his home for work about 11:43 p.m.

Both shots were fired into his back at close range.

Fitzgerald, a former night club operator in Macomb County, Mich., was found by his wife shortly after the blast of the shotgun awoke many residents in this exclusive southwest Reno neighborhood.

His wife, Meta, about 38, said she ran out of the house to the garage and found Fitzgerald slumped on the floor.

He apparently had just opened the garage's overhead doors. The light in the building was on, outlining his body to the dark alley.

"He was a beautiful target," said Mrs. Fitzgerald.

In hospital, doctors said the blasts apparently damaged Fitzgerald's spinal cord, paralyzing his legs.

Police Chief L. R. Greeson said neither Mrs. Fitzgerald nor Danny Sullivan, Fitzgerald's business partner, gave any clue as to the motive for the shooting.

Leaders Of Confederation Watch Over Parliament

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, Nov. 19—(CP)—Bronze, watchful eyes of those who walked Confederation's path stand vigilant over parliament. Silently they surround the political arena where wen are debating measures designed to reshape the constitutional history of this country. Yet those who watch say nothing. They are mere stone and bronze—$120,000 worth of statues—of such men as Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and others.

Rooted on stone pedestals, the statues are scattered over parliament hill's grass lawns.

A $25,000 statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the prime minister who ushered in 15 years of Liberalism at the turn of the century, is located at the extreme east side of the hill.

Behind him is $12,000 worth of metal and stone that is Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first Prime Minister.

Baldwin-Lafontaine

Still to the east of the hill, but several hundred yards behind Sir Wilfrid is the famed team of Robert Baldwin and Sir L. H. LaFontaine.

Baldwin and LaFontaine were pre-confederation species, and the joint ministry marked first cooperation between French and English in Parliament after a period of French mistrust of English rule. Baldwin was burned in effigy in Toronto.

Thomas D'Arcy McGee, a vigorous expondent of confederation stands to the rear of Parliament. He was murdered by a Fenian named Whalen in 1868 on a downtown Ottawa street as he was returning home from a late session of the House.

The reformer, George Brown, who established the Toronto Globe more than a century ago flanks McGee. He advocated Protestantism, prohibition and confederation. He was shot to death in his Globe building.

When the Canadian Pacific "scandal" wrecked Sir Jonn A Macdonald's ministry, the man who succeeded him was Alexander MacKenzie, Canada's first Liberal Prime Minister. His statue is situated to the left of the hill.

In a regal splendor, stands Queen Victoria. She choose Ottawa as the national capital after squabbles between Montreal and Toronto.

Jas. McKechnie Called Man With 100 Voices

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Nov. 19 —(CP)—A man with 100 voices is 38-year-old radio actor James McKechnie, who has been heard in 2,000 plays, sketches and short stories since 1936. Hardly a week passes but he can be heard in at least one BBC play.

McKechnie claims—and no one has disputed the claim—that he has played more literary and historical figures than any other radio actor.

When asked to play parts such as Sir Max Beebohm, Bernard Shaw or Field Marshal Jan Smuts, he goes to infinite pains to get the exact intonation of the voice. Hour after hour he plays records of the voices he has to imitate, and is not satisfied until his wife, a former elocution teacher, says "you've got it."

The role of Abraham Lincoln which he has played almost a dozen times, gave him a particular problem.

A Real Problem

"No one could tell me just what sort of accent Lincoln had. But fortunately I have an uncle who lived in America's middle west and a friend who comes from Lincoln's hometown. By combining the two accents I think I got a fair approximation of how Lincoln spoke."

In 13 years of radio work Mckechnie has built up a repertoire of voices that includes eight Scots dialects as well as Welsh, Irish, Yorkshire and west country accents.

Fluent in French and Spanish he can also do a variety of broken continental accents.

He left the BBC for a while to appear in movies, playing character roles in "Anthony and Cleopatra," "The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp" and "Scott of the Antarctic.'

Sign Agreement

HAMILTON, Nov. 19—(CP)—A collective bargaining agreement was signed Friday between the International Harvester Company, Hamilton works, and Local 2868, United Steel Workers of America. It provides for a reduction in hours from 45 to 40 hours a week and an increase in rates of 10 cents an hour, five cents being retroactive from May 25, 1949. Larry Sefton, International representative of the steelworkers, said the agreement establishes the 40-hour week in the first large Hamilton plant under contract with the steelworkers.

TORONTO, Nov. 19 —(CP)— Applications for certification of employees at Leland Electric Guelph, and General Electric Co., Cobourg, Thursday were filed with the Ontario Labor Relations Board by the new International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (C.I.O.) the present bargaining agent is the United Electrical Workers, recently expelled from the C.I.O because of its left-wing leadership.

No Price Fixing By Milk Business

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — (CP) — A preliminary combines investigation has turned up no evidence of a price-fixing agreement among Ontario milk distributors, F. A. McGregor, combines commissioner, said in his annual report tabled in the Commons Friday.

Mr. McGregor resigned recently in a dispute with the government over its refusal to act on his 1949 report finding a combine exists in the flour-milling industry. His report covers the year ended last March 31.

The commissioner said the milk industry was not carried beyond the preliminary stage. It was undertaken when the retail price of milk in an unidentified Ontario city was increased by the same amount by a number of distributors after negotiation of a new contract between producers and distributors under provincial milk-control legislation.

"No evidence was found of agreement among distributors to fix prices or to prevent individual distributors from selling at whatever price they might choose," the report said.

Medical Conference

Hollywood Cafes Waging Steak Battle

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 19 (AP)— The filmtown's top restaurants are waging a peculiar "battle of the beefsteak."

The war has placed the highbrow eateries in the strange position of advising their well-heeled and mink-draped patrons on matters of economy and nutrition.

The first salvo was fired when the massage was placed on tables at the Sunset Strip Spot, Larue's:

"In order just to swap dollars in the buying, cooking and serving of steaks, we are forced to charge $5.50 (a la carte) for such services. It's entirely too much for this food and we earnestly request that you scan our menu for many other excellent dishes more reasonable in cost and in many instances superior in food values. . .

Stop Eating Steaks

"Stop eating steaks for a while and bring these prices down."

The movement spread. . .

Mike Romanoff heard of it and ordered the same cards for his Beverly Hills restaurant. And similar announcement sprouted on the tables at the Brown Derby.

Meanwhile, another experiment in the restaurant business was being tried by movie maker Preston Sturges. His fashionable Players Cafe was offering meals "Hollywood party style."

"I recalled that the best parties I remembered were those with buffets," he said.

Buffet-Style

"So I changed dinner at the Players to buffet-style, all you can eat for $2.25. It's like a continuous party. Before, I charged $12 for a dinner and lost money; now it's $2.25 and I'm making money. The reason is that I don't have high-priced help sitting around doing nothing."

Sturges cited benefits of the new system: the menu is no longer in French; the buyers sees the food before ordering it; the walk to the buffet aids digestion; diners eat less because they knew they can go back for more.

Musical Play Finds Place On Broadway

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (CP) — A glance at current dramatic hits on Broadway and at memorable shows of recent seasons shows that the musical play has come into its own as a medium of entertainment.

The musical comedy has been a standby for centuries but for North American audiences the musical built around a serious theme has emerged into prominence during the last decade.

"Lost in The Stars," a tragedy based on Alan Paton's novel in a South African setting, falls into this category. And it is one of the top current attractions. So does "Regina," a musical adapted from Lillian Hellman's straight drama, "The Little Foxes." "Lost in The Stars" has music by Kurt Weill; the score for "Regina" is by Marc Blitzstein.

Other outstanding shows which come to mind as skilful blends of music and drama are "Street Scene," a musical adaptation of Elmer Rice's play of the same name; "Carousel," based roughly on Ferenc Molnar's play, "Liliom;" and "The Medium" by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

Musical plays in lighter vein which are on producers lists for later this season include a musical version of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "Guys and Dolls" in which some of the Broadway characters created by the late Damon Runyan will appear on the stage.

"The Madwoman of Chaillot," an adaptation in English of a play in French by the late Jean Giraudoux, has just passed its 300th performance without showing undue signs of wear and tear. Martita Hunt remains in the title role, that of an elderly woman who is droll rather than insane. . . "Harvey" is to embark on another cross-country tour, starting in Cleveland Dec. 26 with James Dunn as Harvey's friend, Elwood P. Dowd . . . "A Streetcar Named Desire" reaches the end of the line Dec. 17. Tennessee Williams' psychological drama then will have run for approximately two years. . .

New Plane Tops

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Canada's twin-jet long-range fighter, the XC100, if successful, will be well in advance of other similar aircraft, Defence Minister Claxton said Friday. Still in the experimental stage, the jet fighter is being developed at the A. V. Roe plant in Toronto along with the Canadian-designed Orenda engine.

Claxton Rejects Plea For Defence Council

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton, for the second time this year, rejected an opposition request for a standing committee on national defence.

The request came from George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, who said that members should be given full information on the defence forces and on the way the government is spending some $370,000,000 on defence matters.

Mr. Claxton said that the Progressive Conservatives have been urging a defence committee since 1945 and the government has consistently turned down the requests.

There was never any defence committee in the United Kingdom Parliament and even with the Congressional Committee in the United States he doubted if members there were given the type of information Mr. Drew wanted on Canadian defence matters.

Police Radio System Is Proved Valuable

When wild men rampage through towns and counties, southern Ontario society has the assurance of the Provincial Police's special radio network, that the malefactors will be speedily waylaid. The savage outrages in the dark hours of yesterday morning in Lakefield and Lindsay when four men in paroxysms of lawlessness ransacked, bullied and butchered, were contained, and the four quickly arrested, because the entire area over which the violent men drove was covered by the Provincial's broadcasting station in Peterborough and by their cars equipped with radios. The system almost ensures that such men cannot escape, nor move far before they are apprehended.

The police heard of the first fracas at Lakefield at midnight. Within two and a half hours eleven police cars were prowling the countryside and cornering their quarry, a road block had been set up at Buckhorn and another at Peterborough, and the wanted men, ranging widely along fifty miles of roads, were trapped; any routes along which they could have back-tracked were blocked; their escape route ahead was cut off. Such speedy co-ordination of police effort was made possible by radio. Although it unfortunately did not save the life of one victim, it prevented further outbreaks.

The Tenth Greatest Canadian

The distinguished Canadian novelist and analyst of the national spirit Hugh MacLennan, was asked by Liberty magazine to name the ten greatest Canadians. This he has done in the current issue of the magazine, in brilliant sketches of his selected personages. In principle there is little to be said for such rankings, and the mystic number ten can be, as Dr. MacLennan notes, hurtfully exclusive. Nevertheless in Canada there is a peculiar value in attempting to name our ten greatest men.

"Canadians read biographies of the great of other lands and see scores of motion pictures based on the lives of famous Americans and great Englishmen. That is quite as it should be; human greatness belongs not to a single nation but to the whole world. The only trouble with us is that we have no men to range beside these Englishmen and Americans. We have been too inarticulate to assess ourselves. When a genius appears among us we generally wait for foreigners to approve of him before we admit his quality. It is not more native ability we need so much as more native self-confidence."

Hugh MacLennan's "ten greatest Canadians" are: Champlain, "because he was first to regard the New World as an end in itself"; Frontenac, who by saving New France from the British, saved Canada from the English colonies and hence from the U.S.A.; Joseph Howe, "the most purely courageous of Canadian statesmen after the heroic age" who "could become The People personified"; Donald McKay; Sir John A. Macdonald, who "never let his conscience drain his vitality"; Sir William Osler, the great physician, the centenary of whose birth this year is; Sir Wilfrid Laurier; Tom Thomson the painter; Sir Frederick Banting, and W. L. Mackenzie King ("The issues he handled were far more dangerous than any of those which confronted any one of his predecessors").

Of the ten, the most likely to be most disputed is Donald McKay. Who ever heard of him? What did he do for Canada? In his chronological order the writer puts him fourth; we have referred to him in our heading as the tenth. As Mr. MacLennan presents McKay, he was a genius whom Canadians should know better.

Donald McKay was a Nova Scotian, born in the early 1800's. "McKay left Nova Scotia at the age of sixteen because he was determined to find an outlet for abilities which were given no scope at home. In the United States he found that outlet. No man on earth has ever built sailing ships swifter or more beautiful than is greatest vessels".

His Flying Cloud, launched from Boston in 1851, twice ran from New York to San Francisco in 89 days, a record never equalled. Once she logged 992 miles in three successive days. His Lightning, built for the Australian run between Liverpool and Melbourne, sailed 430 miles within 24 hours. The Sovereign of the Seas, with 12,000 square yards of canvas and a first cargo of 2,950 tons exclusive of ships stores for a year, sailed from New York to San Francisco around The Horn in 103 days.

Mr. MacLennan comments: "In a country like Canada, which would almost seem to encourage its most talented men to emigrate to the United States, it is of some interest to speculate on what might have happened if Donald McKay had been able to work at home". Canada is still losing by export her greatest assets, her human talents, because she fails to recognize and recompense them. But Canada does manage to keep some of her great, her Macdonalds, her D'Arcy McGees and even a few writers. The Canadian public, which rarely gets excited about anything other than religion, marriage and divorce, and the cost of living, should get excited about her great men, if only to acquire a vision of greatness.

The English Ballet Comes To Canada

The Sadler's Wells Ballet will visit Canada during the next fortnight and all tickets for its Toronto performances have already been sold, at prices higher than were paid in New York. This points to an enthusiasm for ballet which is a little surprising in a country which tends to be indifferent toward the arts; ballet, however, has special charms, and we may guess why it appeals so strongly to Canadians.

Ballet is pure entertainment; it teaches no lesson, and no eager do-gooder has yet been able to think of any respect in which ballet can be labelled "educational". The arts in Canada have suffered hideously from the demand that they be educational; literature is expected to "interpret Canada to Canadians"; painting is expected to "develop appreciation of the beauty of our Canadian landscape"; Canadian musicians are asked to "speak with a Canadian voice". The arts are bidden to do more than delight the heart of man; they are asked to serve as national propaganda, and to be in some unspecified way "uplifting". But the ballet has never been forced into these inartistic Sunday school postures, and Canadians can go to the ballet with the happy assurance that they can enjoy themselves in the presence of beauty, without any disturbing consciousness that they are being done good.

The Sadler's Wells Ballet is one of the two or three best ballet groups in the world. It was founded, in humble perfection by the most rigorous sort of hard work and attention to duty. Its present American tour is a richly deserved triumph for its members, and for those who have worked and slaved to make it what it is.

The Common Informer

The Labour Government of Britain is in hot water at present because they have said, officially, that they will be willing to pay money to people who give information about other people who may be breaking the currency regulations. For some time they have employed people to go to restaurants and order meals, to see whether the management are adhering to all the regulations which are set up for them. This had led the Opposition and several newspapers to declare that the Government is bringing back that detestable figure, the Common Informer. The London Observer says, bitterly: "The possible economic advantages from such tactics will be much less than the moral damage. Is sneaking now deemed an industry fit to be nationalised?"

Informers, snoops and pryers are very common in all Police States. We can understand the repugnance which many British people feel at the thought that their Government is using their money to pay such creatures. The detestable thing about informers is that they usually deal in trivialities. If a man discovers a large fraud going on under his nose, it is his duty as a citizen to report it to the police. But if a man makes a profession of catching restaurant proprietors in the act of selling an illegal helping of butter, or travellers who are sneaking a couple of five-pound notes out of the country in the linings of their hats, it is impossible not to look upon him as a sneak of a very dirty sort. The law is on his side, but common decency is against him.

The Labour Government is not the first Government to make use of informers, and it will not be the last. But we hope that it will not try to give them any special status which public opinion, quite rightly, denies to them.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Sir:

It has been brought to our attention that you have several times and in divers places alleged that our client, Richard Dandiprat, Esq., introduced a skunk into your motor vehicle and there induced, coerced or suborned the animal to misconduct itself in a characteristic manner. Should you persist in this allegation we shall take action against you for defamation.

Yours,
CRAVEN and RAVEN,
Attorneys.

To Mouseman, Mouseman and Forcemeat
Dear Mouseman:

Now look what you have done! I am sending you a letter from Craven and Raven, a firm of cheap shysters who are Dandiprat's lawyers, in which they threaten me with a libel action if I tell the truth about Dandiprat. Why don't you get on the job and put Dandiprat in court for what he has done to me? I don't want to be bothered with law: I just want Dandiprat thrown in the jug, where he belongs. Why don't you do something?

Yours passionately,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear S. M.:

I should have written to you, I know, but I have been browsing in Canadian history, turning up the oddest things. For instance, have you read Weld's "Travels in Canada"? In his thirty-fifth letter there is this interesting passage: "It is notorious that towards one another the Indians are liberal in the extreme, and for ever ready to supply the deficiencies of their neighbours with any superfluities of their own. They have no idea of amassing wealth for themselves individually; and they wonder that persons can be found in any society so destitute of every generous sentiment, as to enrich themselves at the expense of others, and to live in ease and affluence regardless of the misery and wretchedness of members of the same community to which they themselves belong".

Obviously the Indians originated the welfare state, which we are now re-discovering for ourselves. And yet in spite of their enlightened economics the Indians seem to have felt the necessity, from time to time, of pounding, bashing, slicing and frying other Indians. A strange condition, upon which I delight to ponder.

Adieu,
A. PILGARLIC.

To Raymond Cataplasm, M.D., F.R.C.P.
Dear Dr. Cataplasm:

I see that somebody in the States has declared that rocking chairs are good for the heart and for tension of all kinds. I hasten to bring this to your attention, so that you can buy up a lot of old rocking-chairs and sell them in your dispensary at a high price. I am sure that this theory is a correct one, for all my Canadian ancestors were exceptionally long-lived and they were all great rockers. Indeed, it was reckoned that my Great-Aunt Sophonisba, during her 98 years, rocked to the moon and back again, counting each rock of her chair as 24 inches of distance covered. On a carpet with a deep pile she could go right around a good-sized room in an hour.

Do not let anyone persuade you that platform-rockers are healthy. Upon rising from a platform rocker you are likely to be kicked and severely hurt by the chair, which leaps from the ground in anger. I have seen frail and elderly people thrown down and trampled on by a platform rocker with strong springs.

I hope that you will be wildly successful with this wonderful new cardiac therapy.

Your perennial patient,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Mrs. Morrigan
My Dear Mrs. Morrigan:

Looking through the paper this morning I found an advertisement for a book which undertook to tell its readers how to be "mature". "Maybe you are well-adjusted, but are you mature?" it asked.

What do you suppose they mean by maturity? I think it is one of the most abused words of our time. So many people say "he is mature", when they should say "He is resigned to failure", or "His feelings are so blunted that nothing hurts him any more", or "He has been dead for years, but he doesn't know it".

I have never known anyone who was mature in every respect. In men and women whom I like, even the wisest of them, there is some strain of petulance, of caprice, of sensitive vanity—of the things which are thought to be signs of immaturity. And I would not sacrifice these endearing foibles for a chilly perfection.

Your humble servant,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Mr. Marchbanks:

Ignoring your rudeness in your last letter, I write to inform you that Outraged Womanhood is once more upon the march. You have heard (as who has not? that a quarter-pint of rum has been added to the first birthday cake of H.R.H. Prince Charles of Edinburgh. Now I ask you, what will happen when that infant has eaten his piece of cake? Staggering, bleary-eyed, he will drive his kiddy-car recklessly around his nursery, his co-ordination reduced perhaps 30 per cent., until he maims his nurse. And what sort of example is that, I ask you, for the infants of the Empire? Rum in cake will lead to demands for rum-and-butter toffee, and then his little bootees will be firmly set upon the Road to Ruin.

I enclose a protest for you to sign. If you do not sign it, never hope again to hear from

Yours,
(MRS.) KEDIJAH SCISSORBILL.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.
Dear Pil:

I don't suppose you have seen the movie of "Madame Bovary"? I beguiled an idle hour with it last night and was moved to reflect that there is something deeply phoney about American actors pretending to be Frenchmen. And when a French classic is translated into American all illusion of French atmosphere is lost. In this piece, for instance, Mme. Bovary goes to her aristocratic lover and says:

Mme. Bovary: I must have 150,000 francs.
Aristocratic Lover: Uh don't have ut.
Mme. Bovary: Yuh don't have ut?
Artistocratic Lover: Naw, uh don't have ut.
Mme. Bovary (collapsing): Aw, yuh don't have ut!

Frankly this seems as un-French to me as if they had spoken with Scottish or Lancashire accents. There was a time when actors had a good clear speech of their own, which was not related to any special place and so was suitable for everything, but this excellent tradition was never incorporated in the movies. Ah, well—

Yours,
SAM.

Let Your Appetite Tell You

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

SPEAKING before the Lions Club here, Dr. George Wood Clapp, a dental specialist from New York, said many interesting things, perhaps the most interesting being that people should forget all about the chemical contents of food. To the laymen, such information is often incomplete and confusing. A free interpretation of his advice would seem to be that a person should eat what he likes and as much as he likes. There is an old saying that a man at 40 is either a fool or his own doctor, meaning that by that time he should have found out what is good for him and what isn't.

Dr. Clapp's attitude to diet is largely in agreement with the policy of the Department of National Health and Welfare. While departmental experts give a lot of study to vitamins and calories, the literature that goes out to the housewife mentions none of these. The housewife is told to feed her family three square meals a day and not to worry. It is only when some member of the family gets sick that the doctor should be consulted as to diet. As long as everyone is thriving she can be assured the diet she is serving is all right. The literature tells her what most housewives already know, that a growing child needs a certain amount of milk and green vegetables. It is emphasized that the meals should be served in clean, congenial surroundings where the persons eating can relax.

The New York dentist said the human body is engineered to live from 125 to 150 years. The pension actuaries would be in an awful jam if people started to live to be 150 in any numbers, or even 125. However the average age of people is increasing more or less steadily. One of the great social problems in Canada, the United States and Great Britain is the increasing number of persons past working age who have to be supported by the people who work. A considerable portion of the population go to school until they are 20, and if they stop work when they are 65 it means they work only 45 years — in which time they will have to provide indirectly for all the persons who stop work at 65 and those who haven't started work. If people start living until they are 150 something will have to be done about the time after they quit work. If they think they can loaf for 85 years and get away with it, they have another think coming. So far, fortunately, the problem hasn't arisen.

We Find This Very Provoking

From Teheran comes the news that it is now permissible to say "Persia" instead of "Iran." We wish these countries would make up their minds. It has taken us years to get used to "Iran." Now back we go to "Persia." There is too much of this kind of thing. Thailand used to be Siam; and the familiar Cochin China is, so far as we can tell, now known as Viet-Nam, a horrid mouthful. The list can be extended indefinitely. There used to be a city known as Constantinople. Where is it today? On its site rises the minarets of Istanbul. St. Petersburg used to be familiar to everyone. It may be so again sometimes in the future. Now we call it Leningrad.

The only place we know that sticks to its name is Toronto. There are perhaps good reasons for this, for Muddy York and Hogtown have obvious disadvantages. But now the Thais and Iranians are kicking over the traces, Torontonians may want to do the same thing. We find it unsettling.—Montreal Star.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the house of Israel: Is it not for you to know judgement? Who hate the good, and love the evil....Thus saith the Lord concerning the prophets that make my people err, that bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace; and he that putteth not into their mouths, they even prepare war against him.

Therefore night shall be unto you, that ye shall not have a vision; and it shall be dark unto you, that ye shall not divine; and the sun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them. Then shall the seers be ashamed, and the diviners confounded: yea, they shall all cover their lips; for there is no answer of God....

Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel, that abhor judgement, and pervert all equity. They shall build up Zion with blood, and Jerusalem with iniquity. The heads thereof judge for reward, and the priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money: yet will they lean upon the Lord, and say, Is not the Lord among us? none evil can come upon us.

Therefore shall Zion for your sake be plowed as a field, and Jerusalem shall become heaps, and the mountain of the house as the high places of the forest. (Mic. 3: 1, 2, 5-7, 9-12).

Letter To The Editor

BORED BY UNRELIEVED TRAGEDY

Sir: After Peter Piper's comments on the CBC Wednesday night music, I am tempted to add some comments on the morbid drama lately offered on that program.

I refer to Chekov's "Cherry Orchard", "The Seven Who were Hanged", and one concerning a woman's prolonged illness and the effect of this upon her family and in-laws.

Each of these plays soon developed the tragic theme, and spent the rest of the evening dragging it on, and on. If there was the relief of humour present at any time, I must confess I missed it. The message in each was commonplace, and handled in such an extreme fashion it lost its value. Except in the Cherry Orchard, the dialogue was trite. All three were so continuously morbid that I am sure that most listeners turned to something else before each was over.

Give me a Shakespeare tragedy to cheer the winter evening, and I will be fully satisfied.

Yours,
D. MULHOLLAND.

Mistaken For Partridge

A dispatch from New England tells of a hunting accident in which a youth shot his mother, who was walking through the woods. He explained that he thought she was a partridge. No more tragic an error could be made by a hunter, and unquestionably the agony of self-reproach which he suffered has imposed a more severe penalty on him than anything that the law could devise.

The occurrence sharply illustrates the fact that some hunters, despite the oft-repeated warning about making sure of what they are shooting at, pull the trigger at the sight of a vague movement in the shrubbery or at the sound of a twig snapping.

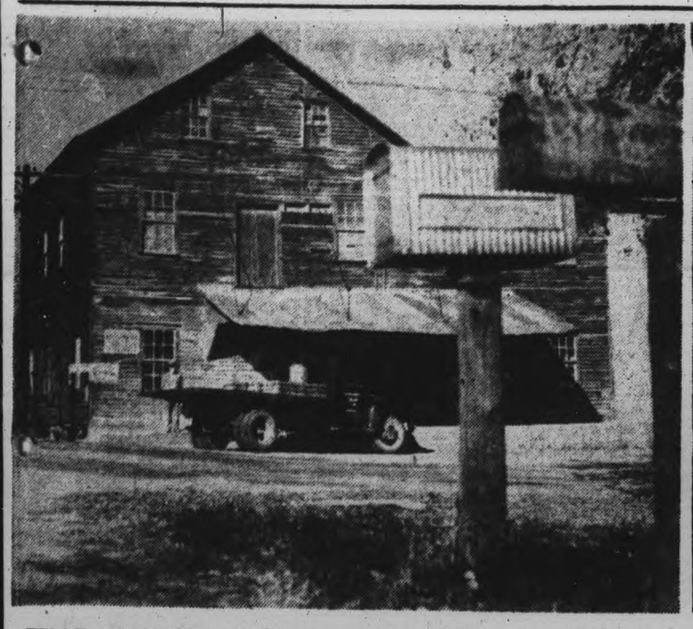
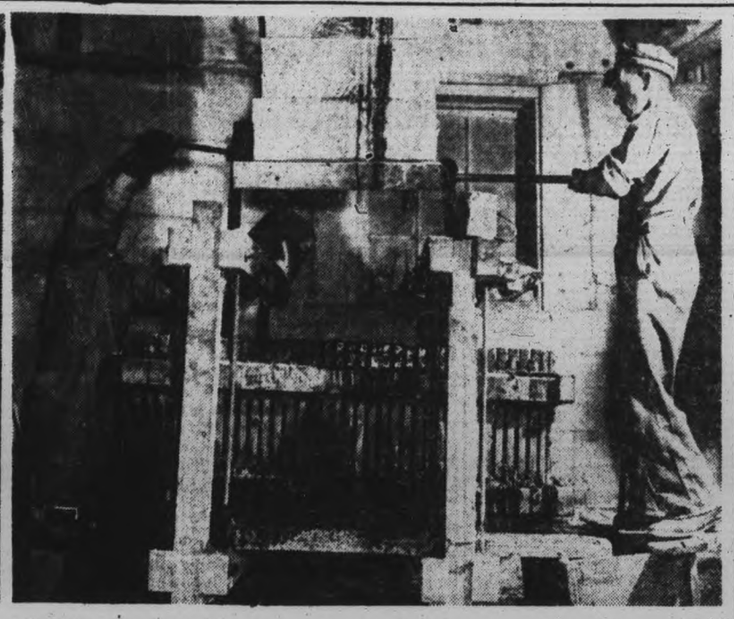
A BRITISH OPINION

World Copyright. By arrangement with Evening Standard.



THE FRUIT arrives at the old Slater Mill, seven miles north of Brighton. It is one of the few existing custom cider-mills in Ontario.



THE PRESS of pioneer vintage in the basement of the mill is wooden, hand-operated by Gordon Raycraft, right, mill-owner, and his assistant, Albert Melvin.

Real Cider and Its Presses Are Vanishing Yet Some Traces Remain In Ontario

By NICK NICKELS

Cider making used to be part of the pattern of pioneer living in rural Ontario. It provided tables with vinegar for a year in advance and a good stout drink for those who had a taste for it And it eliminated the waste of windfall apples.

If a person hunts diligently enough he may still locate a few custom cider mills in small hamlets situated chiefly just above the fruit belt on Lake Ontario's "Front." In most cases it is a sideline at some rambling grist mill where an ancient press is located in a dusty basement.

Leisurely millers only start up their presses on repeated and constant demands from their customers. Indeed, a grist miller in Orland, seven miles north of Brighton, admitted the other day that he started pressing they year with some doubt. The apple crop was excellent and the ledger in his dusty mill shows he has processed 1,200 gallons since September 1st., and is still busy at it.

The modern age on the farm has robbed the ritual of much of its glamour. It begins with the farmer delivering apples in a new truck in crates, not in barrels as his father did before him. He still takes the same old oak kegs along with him to carry the backhaul load.

The fruit mixture, MacIntoshes, Snows, Wealthies and Golden Russetts, have proven their cider-making ability and can still be seen on the grist mill platform. They are pushed across the grinding floor on a small rolling platform. The miller brings the grinding machinery to life with the flick of a switch, hydro or diesel power, and the apples are chewed to pungent pulp and fall to the floor below into the open press.

The press is an open- slatted box sitting on a trough table. Two jackscrews, worked by long hand bars, force a loose-fitting lid down on the ground pulp with great pressure. The first few turns of the screws send a flood of sweet juice down the inclined table into a wooden trough. It is thick, brown fruity stuff.

The cider is carried upstairs in pails and poured into the customer's kegs. A clean bran sack serves well enough for the strainer.

Should the pressing take place in mid-afternoon, the rural mailman on his rounds will invariably stop for a chat, and some samples. Together with the farmer, the miller and his assistant, tales of old time cider making and consumption follow for an hour as they dip freely from the pail. Cider making has and will always be strictly a social event.

One hears how cider is made hard with the addition of molasses yeast, barley and raisins from one expert. Another has a different tried and true recipe. Then, too, one learns which men have teetotal wives and what sly tricks have been invented to hide a working brew from the wives. However they may be tolerant women. For the sake of having a keg of cider vinegar to use they may turn a blind eye to the hard stuff in barn or basement.

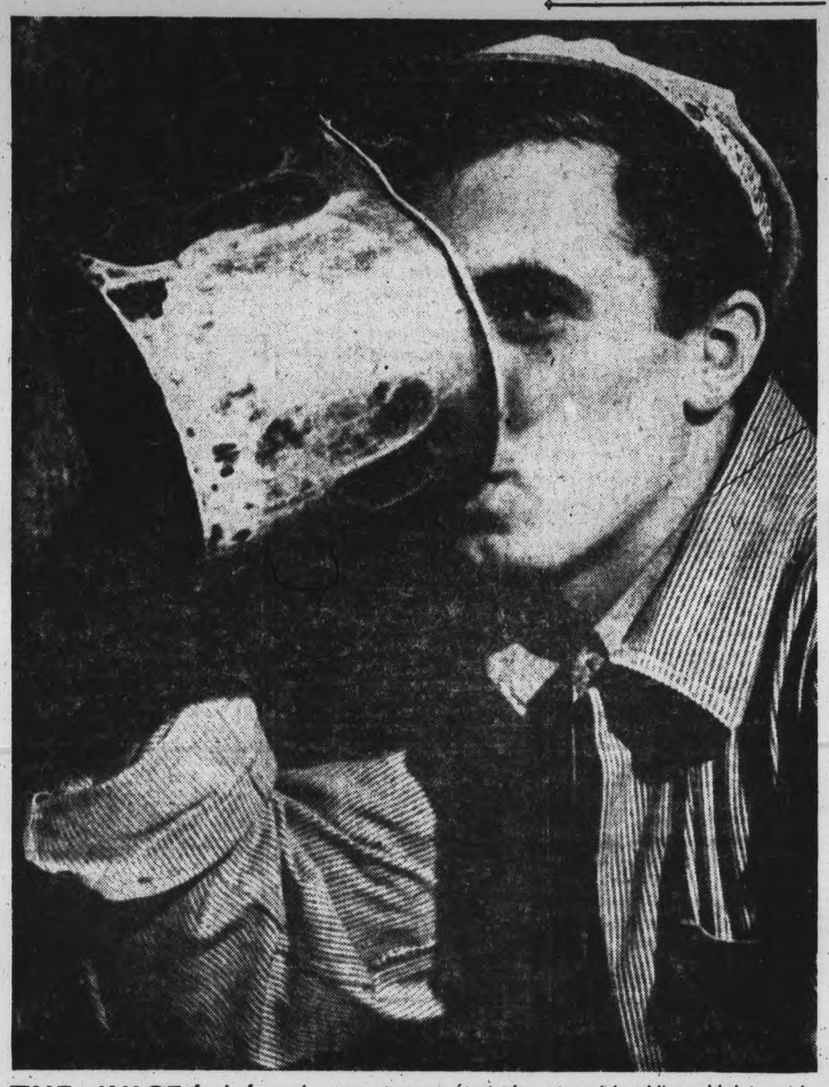
Still a third man will tell of country square dances he used to attend as a youth where the fiddler, well supplied with good cider, would play through the night. And young bucks who had danced off the "edge" would slip out to their buggies every half hour for a good swig. This led to further stories of buggy races, homeward bound, down the concession lines at dawn. Cider was certainly the spirit behind all barn raisings and a jug wrapped in rhubarb leaves in the shady fence corner relieved the aches of harvest hands.

The story-tellers finally go home their sober ways. They know from experience that there is no use in drinking a great deal of sweet cider. "It's hard on the kidneys," said the mailman as he drove off.

All the way to his home place, the farmer senses there is something missing in modern cider making and in the driking of it, too. He cannot put his finger on the reason. As he muses, he automatically checks his watch with a mail plane that drones overhead, on time as usual.

Sitting in his comfortable living room next winter with a glass of nippy stuff at his elbow he knew his thoughts would dwell on the past. His favourite radio program would appear to have lost its punch and the cider its kick.

And yet, he would marvel again at the shakiness of his knees as he went upstairs to bed. Were the sounds coming from the snow-covered orchard the winter wind in the branches of the bare apple trees or the merry scraping of a fiddle at some hoedown across the white fields?



THE JUICE fresh from the press is appreciatively swigged by Albert Melvin without waiting for it to be strained. It's the real stuff, even if it's not hard.

KEATS

Buck Fever Week, the first six days of deer season, is over and tales on the moccasin telegraph that flash back from the camps are of wide variety. First are the tragedies, and there have been two, so far. Dawson Reid, 54, of Coe Hill, was found lying dead in Paudash Creek, ten miles west of his home and half a mile from camp. He was believed to have lost his way, slipped into a creek and drowned. Clifford Allan Benn of Napanee was wounded in the stomach by a bullet; his condition was reported to be "good" by Kingston hospital authorities. David Smith, 18, lost his thumb in a shooting accident while hunting rabbits in the Campbellford area. Herb Wright and Jim McGarvey were nearly drowned when their boat capsized on Beaver Creek near Marmora; their gear was retrieved later. When the Jopling party arrived to make camp at Camp Creek they found it had been burned.

It seems fantastic but four men from Hamilton and Toronto on their way to Bryson, P.Q., on Thursday night to go deer hunting, started drinking on the way. Somehow they reached Peterborough and Lakefield where they beat up a snack bar operator and his wife at the latter place, raced through north country roads via Buckhorn and Burleigh and Bobcaygeon to Lindsay. They began a street fight there and an innocent townsman died as the result of an alleged stabbing. This is the dark side of the picture.

• • • •

On the bright side was the story of the tired hunters who came home from a jaunt north of Apsley. One of them, a Peterborough man, brought his friends home for a meal; his wife supplied them with hot venison, a gift from a friend. Jack Reymes, north of Grafton, should never have gone hunting at all. While he was away at camp, thieves made off with 20 of his best Christmas turkeys but left 100 to ease the situation a bit. It is fatal to report any particular names that head hunting parties. One lady took umbrage at this error and said HER husband was one of the big wheels and that HE was the only one in the party to bag a deer. She could prove it, too, for she phoned just before she left with it for the frozen food locker.

• • • •

Some hunters turned their guns on other game than deer. Lawrence Leonhardt of Rochester bagged a 75-pound wolf on his runway near Oak Lake. Frank Little, who was stalking deer north of Havelock, shot a 500-pound bear.

Good Camps And Not So Good

I visited the Haultain section camps last Monday evening. It was a dismal night with a drizzle of rain falling. Guns were cracking on western ridges to warn the wise to keep to the highway. The visit was made more dismal when talking with the occasional strolling hunter who told of "winging one" and who apparently let it go at that, with a shrug. Some of the camps I visited would have made an undemonstrative Indian raise his eyebrows. There is always the ideal camp, however, where hunters enjoy themselves in nice surroundings. And these are the places where one finds the most game hanging in the trees, already cut up, and fresh liver in the frying pan. There are also well cared-for dogs in dry kennels that would be allowed sufficient rest before going back on the runs. This is the way hunting should be, in my estimation, but it can change very rapidly when hunters from along the line reel into Happy Camp. They curse the country and the scarcity of game and drinks. "T' hell with it all," they threaten, "we're goin' home." The Happy Boys are glad to help them to their cars before they change their minds.

The Lakefield Board of Trade, Tourist Section, made an appeal to the Hon. H. R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, recently to have Lake Katchewanooka closed for muskie spawn-milking operations. Local resort operators are putting on the pressure because they say netting of fish is spoiling fishing for summer visitors. Some of the operators making complaints attended a mass operator's meeting early in October to air their beefs. It was pointed out to them there by Provincial Biologist Dr. Harkness that taking spawn from the area and distributing fingerlings was part of a program to perpetuate muskie fishing in the Kawarthas, for which it is known far and wide. How many of these Muskie Merchants know that stripping spawn hurts fishing and drives adult fish away? Lake Katchewanooka could well be full of them but with an average of 20 to 30 kicker-powered boats to the square mile boiling up and down the lake, what chance has anyone, even the most experienced fisherman got? Pickerel and bass fishing were poor in '48 but spawn is not tampered with in these species. It looks like a short-sighted grabbing for quick dollars to me, a case of killing the muskie that lays their golden eggs.

Les Minifie of Coldsprings shot a three-year-old buck in the Little Cedar Lake vicinity this week; it had four white stockings, an oddity in the deer world in these parts, according to old veterans of the hunting trails; Stewart Shearer, Hayden Callaghan and Charlie Burrison, all of Harwood, in the same party, bagged three more besides the freak.

The long-awaited sale of the Cleveland Indians was reported Friday to be ready for announcement on Monday.

The Cleveland News said Tribe president Bill Veeck will complete the sale Monday morning to a group headed by Ellis W. Ryan, Cleveland insurance executive.

In Chicago, when told of the story, Veeck declared:

"The sale is not definitely established and there isn't much I can say. In other words, I'm being very evasive."

Ryan was not available for comment.

The Ryan group has been dickering with Veeck for several weeks. The sale price reported to have been agreed upon is $2,200,000.

In addition to Ryan and Hornbeck the new group is believed to include county Democrat chairman Ray T. Miller; Guy Walter, sport shop owner; Jack John, an associate of Ryan in his insurance business; George Medinger, director of the Fostoria Pressed Steel Company; Nate Dolin, box office head of the Cleveland Arena, and Harry Small, vice-president of the Bank of Ohio.

Heavyweight Earl Walls of Toronto Friday night knocked out Albert Coulbaly, Senegalese boxer, in the first round of their scheduled 10-rounder at Manchester, England. The Canadian weighed 190¾, Coulbaly 186¼.

Coulbaly took a terrific pounding during the two minutes the fight lasted. He was down for almost the full count four times before a vicious right uppercut put him away for good.

At New York Jack Kramer, professional tennis champion, defeated Dick (Pancho) Gonzales, 9-11, 8-6, 7-5 at the Jamaica Arena Friday night to take a 14-3 lead in their cross-country tour.

The victory was Kramer's 10th straight and it was the longest number of games played in any match since the tour started. There were 22 service aces during the match that was witnessed by 3,200 fans.

Pancho Segura defeated Frank Parker, 6-1, 6-3, in a preliminary. Segura now has won 13 out of 17 matches from Parker.

Johnny Bratton, shifty, Chicago youngster blossoming into a full fledged welterweight, Friday night scored a two-round technical knockout over Gaby Ferland of Montreal in the Chicago Stadium.

The bout, scheduled for 10 rounds, ended at 2:18 of the second with Ferland wobbly and staggering after two quick knockdowns.

At Blackpool, England, Willie Whyte, Scottish welterweight champion, Friday night knocked out Frank Cortese of Toronto in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round boxing bout.

It was announuced that Cortese was taken to hospital with a serious jaw injury.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

For the purpose of clarification and, despite requests to the contrary, we feel duty bound to reprint a little jingle we once thought up while guzzling a bowl of alphabet soup. On account of it's most appropriate today with PCVS juniors at Port Colborne and PCVS seniors meeting St. Kitts here in COSSA finals this aft. Here 'tis anyway:

There is no southern OSSA
Like EOSSA or the WOSSA,
And that is why the COSSA
Ne'er plays off with SOSSA.
Nossuh.

Like waves washing o'er the rocky shores o[illegible] of Quinte comes a yuk-yuk-yuk sound from Belleville's George Carver. The stout scribe from that centre came up the other night and enjoyed muchly the Diesels' 4-3 nod over the Petes in exhibition hockey. Gloats more so 'cause he claims they were short some players and also drew more penalties, getting 10 from "the white-sweatered gentry who tooted more whistles than seven locomotives in the CNR freight yards." Well, the big boys of Bella Villa did turn in a tidy display, but we'll pass no judgment until we see them in group action against Petes and Legion.

* * * * * *

Rough On The Referees

"There were times, too," George remarks in print, "when we could not believe our eyes or ears. We are accustomed to hear Belleville hockey crowds verbally go after referees. But not in comparison to the Bronx cheers, pretty names and boos that greeted the official twosome in Peterborough. Some of the 18 penalties were of the cheap variety. It can't be said that the gentlemen in question were of the hometown type, far from it. The Petes' players were incensed, too, and they made no bones about it. We are safe in saying that the arbiters were not, by any stretch of the imagination, handed the freedom of the city, or gold watches, by the Peterborough hockey populace the next morning." Ah, well, a ref's lot is not a happy one. But the pay's good.

* * * * * *

Some of the Petes' and Legionnaires' players aren't too happy about the long trips in the senior "B" grouping, especially the late hauls home from Kingston and Gananoque. They figure vaguely that the latter place is just a bit this side of Montreal. Vaguely, of course. But they agree that it will make for stiff competition and show new faces here, which should prove interesting to the puck fans. And draw big crowds at Civic Arena. The Toronto teams—like Meteors, Markham and Stouffville—were often late arriving, which wasn't good for fan interest. So, comes Nov. 28, we'll kiss the wife and lad goodbye, promising to spend more time at home along about spring.

IOOF-ers Earn A Win

The IOOF-ers looked better last p.m. in trimming Toronto Morris A.C. 10-3 here, though the visitors weren't nearly as strong as Lions or St. Mike's. The Oddfellows were clicking better, and we still like that Mason-Mason-Desjardin line. Dave Casey and Bob Wyatt gave it the old Ashburnham try in a fine showing last p.m. to lead the snipers. Dave played last season for Westclox in the Industrial Loop. Rest of the squad went well, too, but we won't single out any more. Some of the boys spoiled work on the ice by parking their pants for lengthy spells in the sin bin. That isn't doing the team a bit of good—it makes the others work so much harder when short-handed. Ever look at it that way?

* * * * * *

We were about to leave a para open for the girl cagers—who played last eve—but time runs out on news columns, and we still haven't the lasses' reports. So we'll mention another item about puck penalties. Ned Vitarelli, who played and coached for Legion in their drive last winter to a senior "B" provincial title, always said you should never draw a penalty by yourself. He would get mad as heck when he was waved off by himself. Told us once: "Penalties are part of the game but a smart player makes sure if he's getting a penalty that one of his opponents goes, too, whether they call it fighting or roughing, or anything else." And he rarely went off alone, thereby penalizing his team. He hated to see his team shorthanded. It's a thought, eh?

Jewellers Lose Over Rules In Men's League

Failure to comply with City Five-Pin League rules cost Charlotte Credit Jewellers a 4-point win over Shockeys as the Jewellers used B. Nicholls without having his name added to their players' list before bowling. Nicholls' scores therefore were thrown out and replaced by the 150 dummy score in each game. As a result Shockeys gained a 4-point win.

Cavanaghs took high pinnage 3711 and high single game 1352.

Oddfellows Defeat Toronto In Lively Junior Puck Go

The local Oddfellows polished off a 10-3 exhibition OHA junior "B" win over Toronto Morris A.C. before a small crowd in Civic Arena last night. Showing an edge throughout, they had a 3-1 lead the first frame, and were on top 6-2 going into the fourth, where they continued to dominate. It was a speedy tilt, rough in spots, but well-handled. The referees gave out 22 penalties, pretty well evenly divided between the teams. Dave Casey and Bob Wyatt stood out for the winners on the attack being in on four goals each. Ben Mason was close behind with three points and Ron Mason was in on two, as was Richlark, Floyd and Birch. Single points were racked up by Millar, Desjardin, Doris and Baker. Goalie Wasson made some neat stops and the whole team clicked well. Birch and Richlark nullified some fine work by serving too much time in the sin bin.

Hall led the losers at bat with two goals, while Colban got the other. They all battled hard, Fleming looking especially good. The visitors weren't as big or fast as St. Mike's or the Lions. They worked hard and were inclined to rough it in spots, but met their mates in the Oddfellows this joust. Only at times did it get rugged, the teams sticking to straight hockey most of the way.

Several majors were handed out in the 22 penalties for fighting, but they were minor scraps, caught by the diligent referees in time to prevent free-for-alls. Colban went off near the close with a cut in the face after a high-sticking episode which drew a major. Earlier, Desjardin was cut on the forehead. Play was fast and fairly good over the distance, with the Kingdon crew having a fair margin throughout.

Toronto— Goal, R. Jones; defence, Tremblett and McMurray; centre, Fleming; wings, Regan and Hall; alternates, Desloria, Hamilton, Rimmer, Colban, J. Jones, Barron, McGee, Walton, Faulkner, Petulka and Eggavelto.

IOOF — Goal, R. Wasson; defence, Richlark and D. Wasson; centre, Desjardin; wings, B. Mason and R. Mason; alternates, Millar, Fennell, Casey, Birch, Floyd, Wyatt, Doris, Baker, Pammett and Hehn.

Referees—P. Nigh and K. MacArthur

Named CBC Governor

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — (CP) — J. A. Neills-Nurses Get Wins In Girls' Loop

Neill's trimmed Nurses juniors 26-4, while the Nurses seniors knocked over the CGE squad 24-6 last evening in scheduled Girls' Basketball League fixtures in the YWCA. Both tilts saw some rugged play, particularly the first one, but some basketball was dished up, too.

In the opening half of the first [illegible] up a 14-4 margin as both sides roughed it up some. They settled down and played basketball the second stanza, passing the ball around neatly. Pauline Stewart stood out for the winners with her passing, and Joan Dunk and Wilma Floyd shone, along with Dot Callan, Pat Martyn, and Betty Sutton looked good for the losers. Teams:

Neill's—D. Saunders, W. Floyd 10, J. Vass 4, F. Floyd 2, J. Millard 2, D. Callan 6, M. Freeman, B. Larmer, G. Post, J. Dunk, P. Stewart 2.

Nurses Jrs. — B. Gamble, B. Sutton 2, R. Greene, P. Martyn 2, V. Latondresse, S. Brooks, S. Langdon, P. Boadway, K. McElray, J. Brown, M. Dugan, B. Wiley.

Senior Scrap

The nightcap was a lively one, also with plenty of speed and good passing seen. Nurses seniors rolled up a 15-2 margin the first half, but play was much tighter the rest of the route. Agnes Bowler was good with long shooting and Joan Plunkett also was most effective. G. Welchorek being another smart player for Nurses. Marg Kennedy and Marg Batley stood out for the Electrics, who missed the Stewart sisters. The teams:

Oldtyme Dancing is being rediscovered in every city on the continent.

In bringing an Oldtyme Dance to Peterboro's Brock Street Summer Gardens, we hope that we will be providing something that has been missing in Peterboro's field of entertainment for a long time.

There are many, we know, who would like to attend an AUTHENTIC OLDTYME DANCE . . . the kind of dance, the kind of good clean fun our forefathers enjoyed. It is to you that we extend a hearty invitation to attend this coming Wednesday.

The Oldtyme Dance this coming Wednesday at the Brock Street Summer Gardens, is an honest endeavour to bring back something of the SPIRIT of the real Oldtyme Dances that our Fathers and Grandfathers enjoyed, and which many of us still remember.

Come, and bring the young folks in your family. We'll try to give you a Real, Old-Fashioned Good Time.

Sincerely,

Graydon Sheldon

Nov. 18.—A new and novel idea has hit Peterborough in the form of The Baled Hay Opry Co., which is the "brain child" of Bobby Kinsman, versatile orchestra leader at the Club Aragon. People thronged in from many of Peterborough's rural sections and the local residents were just as enthusiastic as the rest. The various dances were ardently tried when led through the paces by the convincing music of these bewigged and becostumed members of the orchestra. Featuring: Smilin' Jim, the Callin' Professor; Bucksaw Bill, the Fiddlin' Fool; Rita Marie; Spittin' Spike, and The Gang.

Home Discipline Essential In Proper Religious Training

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Joshua said: As for me and my house we will serve the Lord. (Joshua 24:15.)

A famous general is closing his farewell address to his people whom he had served from his youth. He says that his family ideal would be: "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord." It is a principle uttered nearly four thousand years ago and found a spiritual blessing. If you are in the fifties you will remember how your parents sent you to church and Sunday school. You did not enjoy it. Today it is suggested that parents should not insist in religious teaching. "Let them chose their own religion when they are grown up." You paid for your son's music lessons and you know how it was for you to insist in his practice. In the providence of God you insist on your son going to church. It may come to pass he may be "a prophet of the Lord" largely through your home discipline.

Joshua has put God first in his life and he knows that Jehovah has brought his people through terrible days of destroying bitter enemies. He gives them the choice of Gods—the gods of their enemies or Jehovah. The choice is still before us. There are the gods of pleasure and money, who make a great appeal. There is the one living God. God was gracious to the Jewish people because they were blessed with a spiritual gift, the instinct for religion. This is the gift of the Jewish people to the world. We should not forget it. Their prophets were men who had come into personal touch with God. Each prophet saw a special side of God's character.

Isaiah taught that God was morally holy in a character. His people must be holy also. Amos taught that God was righteous; in all His dealings with His people; and the people must be just and upright in all their dealings with their fellow-men. No easy thing to do. As the centuries passed by slowly the truth dawned upon Israel that Jehovah is the One living God; that there are no other gods but He.

Then in the fulness of time there was born another Joshua, even Jesus in Bethlehem. He was more than a prophet. He was born of Mary by the operation of the Holy Spirit. God entered into this world that He might live the life of a man and experience his trials, temptations and sufferings. In this way God comes into touch with man, whom He made in His own image. Jesus lived in perfect obedience and faith in His Father. He died upon the cross that he might realize pain in its severest form; He died a real death. The third day He rose from the dead by the inbreathing power of the Holy Spirit and ever liveth as the Saviour of all men. In this way He became the head of a new race, the Israel of God.

It is your privilege while here to deepen and strengthen your Christian character, to become like the Christ, your Head. You do this by prayer, reading of God's Word, worship privately and in the midst of the congregation. Thereby you may attract others to Christ. God wishes you to fulfill His ancient promise: "A man shall be as the shadow of a rock in a weary land". May you offer this petition: "For their sakes I sanctify myself."

THESE ARE WRITTEN THAT YE MIGHT BELIEVE THAT JESUS IS THE CHRIST, THE SON OF GOD, AND THAT BELIEVING YE MIGHT HAVE LIFE IN HIS NAME.

'Bishop With 150 Wives' Ends Work With Natives

DARWIN, Australia, Nov. 19—(CP)—The "Bishop with 150 Wives" has left his 500,000-square-mile parish to return to civilization.

He is Most Rev. Dr. Francis Xavier Gsell, Bishop of Darwin. He has been serving the Roman Catholic church in the Northern Territory of Australia for 43 years. Now he will retire to the college at Sydney, whence he came, with a beard to his waist a nickname of which he is most proud.

How he got that nickname is a story of patience and faith.

When he went to Darwin, capital of the Northern Territory, in 1906, he found he could do little for the wild, suspicious natives of the north. Their tribal customs were so deep rooted and their distrust so great that he could convert few of them. He almost felt like giving up.

The years passed and one day a 10-year-old native girl who had had some contact with the mission came to the bishop for help. She told him she was being forced to marry an old man of the tribe, and could not bear the thought of it. She would not go back.

Her fellow tribesmen tracked her and formed an angry, shouting mob outside the mission buildings. Dr. Gsell spent the night in prayer wondering what his next course would be.

Next morning he approached the natives and silently laid out beads, mirrors and other trade goods before them. They were delighted.

As the years went by Dr. Gsell "bought" more and more native girls from their tribes to save them from hated marriages. Most of these girls later married mission-trained boys.

But to the aboriginal tribes Dr Gsell became the "Bishop with 150 wives" and soon he was known throughout Australia as that.

Now, at 77, he is coming back to Sydney—without his "wives."

Can Men Speak For God?

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Jeremiah, and other Hebrew prophets, prefaced their prophetic utterances with, "Thus saith the Lord."

How could these prophets know that they were speaking for God? Was it presumption on their part so to speak? What does it mean to speak for God? And can men speak for God today?

These and similar questions stand out strongly as we consider the ancient prophecies, and the difference between true prophets of God and false prophets appears very clear, as we shall see in considering Jeremiah's denunciation of false prophets.

The sense of drama is marked in the Old Testament scriptures. One sees it in the great drama of the Book of Job, where God speaks as one of the characters. It is strongly emphasized in the Psalms, as in the concluding verses of Psalm 46, "Be still and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth."

But it is one thing to profess to speak for God, to make Him a voice in a dramatic writing, and quite another thing actually and truly to expres the words and will of God. What assurance had the Hebrew prophets that they were really speaking for God? How can men be sure that they are so speaking? And how can we who listen be sure that it may be the voice of God that we are hearing in the words of men?

The answer is fairly easy. "By their fruits ye shall know them." And back of the fruits are the ground, the roots, and the tree—the life and character from which the fruits appear.

The prophets knew the voice of God because they lived near to Him. They were men whose lives were completely devoted to truth and righteousness, and they had the courage of their convictions. They staked everything on the truth of the words they spoke. They accepted supreme sacrifices. They were ready to endure suffering and persecution in testimony of their faith and integrity.

It is only as men live near to God that they can presume to speak for Him. But men can, and do, speak for God, when their words are in accordance with God's character and His revealed will.

It requires no assumption that men are speaking for God when they denounce sinfulness, and assert the way of right and truth. Especially, with all that Jesus revealed of God's loving Fatherhood, men can be sure that they speak for God when in their words and deeds they express the Gospel of God's love and grace.

In the great matters of religion men can undoubtedly speak for God. It is only when we presume to exalt our own small beliefs and opinions on a level with the sublime truths of scripture concerning God's love and righteousness, and would make God speak for ourselves, instead of speaking for Him, that we are in danger of becoming misrepresentatives, rather than representatives, of God.

But Paul said that Christians could be "ambassadors of God."

COLONEL AND MRS. R. SPOONER, Principals of the Salvation Army Training College in Toronto, who, accompanied by their staff and the entire school of students, are visiting Peterborough this week-end. They will be in charge of the Youth Rally tonight and all meetings on Sunday, at the Salvation Army Temple, Simcoe St. There are some musicians amongst the group, as well as speakers. An interesting program will be given on Sunday afternoon. A feature of this event will be an accordion band. Captain Muriel Chamberlain, LTCL, is responsible for all musical arrangements.

Entry Barred

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (CP)—Justice Department officials said Friday they still are investigating the case of Omar Walmsley 24-year-old University of Toronto theological student, who has been temporarily barred from entering the United States.

Officers of the department's immigration service said that Walmsley, a student at Emmanuel College, was barred when he sought entry Sept. 14 this year to attend Boston Theological College. The prohibition was based on the ground that his entry might be "prejudicial" to the public interest of the United States.

A spokesman said there was no further record here of any additional prohibition against Walmsley. The September prohibition was temporary and the case is being investigated.

Hunter Wounded On Watch In Haliburton

WILBERFORCE, Nov. 19 — (ENS)—Haliburton had its second casualty of the deer hunting season on Friday when Albert McColl, 17, of Wilberforce, was wounded in the groin by a bullet from his own gun.

He escaped serious injury as there was shallow penetration the bullet entering his groin and coming out at the hip.

His hunting companions carried him from the deer run where the accident occurred to the nearest road, a distance of about two and a half miles, through rough country.

Mr. McColl was then driven 30 miles to the Red Cross outpost where his wound was attended to by Dr. Lewis Carroll. Due to the shallowness of the wound there was slight bleeding and his injury is not considered serious.

Man Tripped

With several companions he was on a deer hunting expedition. While on the runway he decided to move to another location but he tripped when he started to run. The .38 calibre rifle slipped from his grasp and the gun accidentally discharged wounding him in the groin.

Constable Edward Milligan, of Minden, investigated.

A week ago tonight Dawson Reid, 54, of Coe Hill, was found dead in Paudash Creek in Cardiff Township 10 miles west of Coe Hill. It is believed he died from the effects of a fall over the creek bank.

CNR Reviving Proposal To Abandon Line

Canadian National Railways are reviving their proposal to discontinue their passenger service between Peterborough and Port Hope.

That is the substance of an announcement by A. J. Lomas, Toronto, vice-president of the central region, late Friday.

In a statement to the Examiner Mr. Lomas is quoted as announcing "that application for authority to abandon operation of a part of the Lakefield subsdivision between Port Hope and Millbrook, has been made to the Board of Transport Commissioners."

The report from the Toronto office of C.N.R. says: "Mr. Lomas pointed out that authority for a similar abandonment was granted by the Board on Oct. 30, 1941, but that due to wartime emergency requirements the C.N.R. voluntarily postponed such action."

Renew Application

"It is with reluctance that we have been forced to renew this application, and to advise municipalities and other interested parties of our decision," Mr. Lomas said. "But, we had no other recourse in view of our continuing financial losses resulting from the operation of this portion of the line. I may say, however, that the railway has under active study a proposed highway trucking service for the accommodation of less-than-carload freight and express traffic between Millbrook and Peterborough."

Information of the re-opening of this transportation question by the C.N.R. has been received by the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. J. J. Dorris told the Examiner, but the announcement by Mr. Lomas has not yet been discussed. Similar news has been reported from Cobourg, Port Hope and Millbrook. It is so recent that local interests have not yet had opportunity to consider what steps they should take.

The appeal of municipalities to the Board of Transport eight years ago stressed their opinion that the C.N.R. did not try to stimulate business between Peterborough and Port Hope, and that freight traffic to the lake shore was almost entirely routed by way of Belleville.

During the war years the old road by way of Millbrook demonstrated its usefulness in what was apparently a large volume of passenger traffic via Port Hope.

Intention of the C.N.R. to close the line from Millbrook to Port Hope, if approved again by the Board of Transport Commissioner, means chiefly that the Toronto passenger train arriving here at noon presumably would remain in Peterborough until 5.30 p.m., instead of making the trip to Port Hope and back in the meantime.

A major argument submitted to the Board at the previous hearing was to the effect that the C.N.R. was proposing to curtail further its service into Peterborough, one of its largest business customers east of Toronto.

At that time, it was understood that the company would not cancel a freight and mail connection with Millbrook, but the statement by Mr. Lomas suggests that the C.N.R. is considering a substitute truck service.

LIVES ON BOLIVAR ST.

William Mayfield, who was knocked from his bicycle Friday morning on Park Place while on his way to work, lives at 464 Bolivar St.

WHEN WARREN SHERK OF NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., tried to avoid hitting a deer and a young fawn with his car on Highway 28, ten miles north of Burleigh Falls Friday afternoon, his car swerved diagonally across the road and hit a soft shoulder, turning the car upside down in the ditch. The car knocked the fawn down, seriously injuring it and nearby hunters shot the dying animal. Damage to the car was estimated at $800.00.

Car Hits Deer, Car Ditched, Deer Dies. Who Gets Deer?

Warren Sherk of Niagara Falls, N.Y., finds Canadian venison a costly delicacy, even when he doesn't aim to kill. Mr. Sherk was driving north on Highway 28 at 2.30 p.m. Friday when, rounding a curve about ten miles north of Burleigh Falls, he came upon a large buck and fawn loping across the road. Sherk swerved to avoid hitting the animals but struck the fawn a glancing blow. The car careened into the soft shoulder on the opposite side of the road and turned upside down in the four-foot ditch. The fawn lay stunned across the road.

Sherk crawled uninjured from the crumbled car to survey the damage to it and the stricken deer. He was alone in the car, and on his way north to visit his brother in Purdy, near Maynooth.

He had not come prepared for a deer hunt and kill. But the woods were full of hunters, and some of them from a near-by camp quickly appeared on the scene, to help Mr. Sherk right his car and to give the quietus to the wounded fawn. The deer was shot and, after some labour, the car was righted.

Then came the question: whose deer was it? It was suggested to the American motorist that since he had downed it—by accident, of course— the bag was his. He had no licence to hunt, of course, but he could get one.

Meanwhile the deer had disappeared. It had been taken to the hunters' camp where, he was told it had been hung and dressed.

When he went to claim the animal he was met with loud protests. After all, the hunter who had actually dispatched the deer had rights, did he not? And he had a licence. And, moreover, the hunters had now the right of possession: it was dressed and hanging in their camp.

For Mr. Sherk the deer episode was merely accidental, good or bad luck. He did not argue his side of the case, but left the 60-pound carcass to the hunters and climbed into his righted car and drove off north to Purdy. The engine and wheels turned all right, but the car's body was a sight to make the eyes sore. It is estimated that the repair costs will be $800, a heafty sum to pay for the privilege of accidentally killing a deer on a highway, and then not even having it as trophy of the hunt and meat for the table.

AWARDED JEWEL

Captain Kenneth M. Sine, 232 Wolseley St., was given the Chevaliers Grand Award jewel at a Cobourg meeting of the IOOF Chevaliers from Belleville, Trenton, Cobourg Oshawa and Peterborough Cantons Friday night. The award was made for "conspicuous work in the order." Brigadier General L. Wilson, of Cobourg, was also given the same award. The decoration of Chivalry was conferred on two Cobourg ladies.

TRUCK ROLLS OVER

A truck driven by Joseph Paquette rolled over in the ditch off the Chemong Rd., on Friday The accident was four and a half miles north of Peterborough. Neither Paquette nor a passenger Gerald Sweet were injured.

INJURY TO FINGER

Letting a vice fall on his left ring finger while working in the Review printing shop, H. Hadley, Lindsay, was taken to Civic Hospital for treatment Friday afternoon. The finger was stitched and he was released.

PROOF OF THE PUDDING

A short circuit in a light fixture at Jobbitt's Hardware on Friday gave the proprietor, Frank Jobbitt a chance to show the quality of his wares. He has an agency for fire extinguishers and when the fixture began to burn he seized one and a couple of blasts were enough to kill any chance of a fire. Firemen made a routine check but found the job had been done before they got there.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

Failure to see an approaching car was given by Albert Diamond, 561 Rose Ave., as the reason for an accident at Aylmer and Hunter Sts. Friday at 6 p.m. James Lillico, 228 McDonnell St., was driving his car north on Aylmer St. when it met in collision with Diamond's car at Hunter St. The right front fender and the right side of the grill of the Lillico car were damaged. The Diamond car suffered a crumpled left front fender and broken front bumper.

Electric Power Consumption Up 12 Per Cent

October peak of electric power consumption was 26,400 horse power as compared with 23,000 in 1948. This increase of 3,400 h.p. or 12%, in spite of restrictions, is spread over the three branches, domestic, commercial and lighting, R. L. Dobbin, manager, reported Friday to the Utilities Commission.

A new primary circuit was constructed on Park St. from Romaine, to the De Laval Co.; also new primary and secondary circuits to serve housing development on McKellar St., west of Monaghan Road.

There were 25 new type street lighting fixtures installed on Charlotte St. from Aylmer to George St.

Other work included: 136 three-wire services and 11 two-wire; and connection of 82 flat rate water heaters.

Waterworks Department

October pumpage was 135,650,000 gallons as compared with 126,131,000 gals. The increase was 307,000 gals. a day over October last year.

During the month 1,435 feet of 6" main were laid on Third Avenue, Weller, Wolsley and Fairbairn Streets, and 738 feet of 8" on Weller Street. 450 feet of 12" main was constructed from George and Perry Street to connect with the 12" main crossing the river at Point St. Charles. We also laid the same length of 12" main for the City's sewer connection.

Erection of the elevated tank behind the new Civic Hospital was started in October, and by the end of the month the tower legs and the lower part of the tank itself had been completed.

The building for the booster pumping station was completed with the exception of the brick work, which will be done when bricklayers are available. The pumping machinery was partly installed at the end of the month.

Fifty-one new water services were laid and 10 relaid. Four were repaired on account of leaks.

Gas Department

Gas made at the Plant was 5,139,000 cubic feet. There were 5,139,000 cubic feet 31,105 gallons of propane were unloaded during the month. One new gas service was laid and several leaks were repaired.

Car Proves 2nd Best With Dump Truck

A car driven by Orville Taylor of Hazlitt St. came off second best on Friday when it collided on the Centre Line of Smith Township with a dump truck loaded with gravel.

Damage to the car was estimated at $400 while the truck, driven by H. C. McKay of Bridgenorth was damaged to the extent of about $10. The gravel-laden truck was travelling east on the Centre Line and the car west.

Neither driver was injured.

Provincial Constables George Stevens and Albert Poulter investigated.

37 Peterborough Citizens In Canadian Sanitariums

Two Peterborough people died of tuberculosis this year.

Today there are 37 Peterborough citizens in sanitariums in Canada. Twenty-one of these entered for treatment for the first time this year.

A large proportion of these victims of TB have a good chance of recovering. The reason they stand a good chance of resuming normal life, probably in a few months, is that sanitariums are well-equipped and staffed with doctors and nurses who know more about the disease than ever before.

But a bigger reason is that a large percentage of those who entered a sanitarium have the disease in its early controllable stages. These people were warned of their danger by X-rays which they did not pay for.

The money for their X-ray and about 19,000 others in Peterborough came through the sale of Christmas seals in 1948.

Monday, the 1949 Christmas seal campaign opens to raise money to continue the winning fight against tuberculosis in 1950. Local firemen and some 12 voluntary workers are busy addressing envelopes to send seals to Peterborough homes.

The local TB committee, headed by D. J. Fitzgerald, hopes that Peterborough people will be at least as generous this year as they were last year when they bought $7,072 worth of Christmas seals. This was a big jump from the 1947 figure of $4,292.

Prevention Rather Then Cure

Almost all of this money will be spent by the local committeee for more X-rays of Peterborough citizens in 1950. This is because the emphasis is being put on prevention rather than cure.

This is the logical decision arrived at when records show that the earlier the disease can be discovered and the victim put in a sanitarium, the shorter is the time he had to spend under treatment.

This is no small consideration when treatment costs $5 a day for every one of the 15,000 TB patients in Canada.

Christmas seal money is also used to send boxes of food containing extras not usually a part of the regular meals provided. The local committee also helps Peterborough people in many other ways.

Records at the local department of health point to an increasing number of new patients entering sanitariums from the city. The year 1948 showed the highest number yet with 23. The year before the figure was 17 and from there it dropped to a low of seven in 1946. In 1945 and 1944, eleven and 13 were sent to sanitariums for the first time and in 1943 the number was nine.

Probably the city and county wide survey held this summer did more than anything to dramatize to people the TB prevention plan built around the X-ray machine.

However, when there is no survey being held, just how does a person go about having an X-ray taken if he thinks he may have tuberculosis? His first move is to see the family doctor.

The doctor may decide, from the symptoms the patient decribes or as a result of an examination, that an X-ray should be taken. The doctor then contacts Dr. R. A. Kelly, Peterborough's Medical Officer of Health who arranges for the X-ray at one of the hospitals.

Through this scheme Canada is waging a winning battle against tuberculosis. The death rate is on the decrease but during 1949 there have been 4,771 deaths, 2,145 of these being women and 2,626 men.

Ontario has the best record with a death rate of 19.2 per 100,000 which compares favourably with 37.1 rate for all Canada. Ontario's next-door neighbour, Quebec, is highest with 58.4.

This fairly optimistic picture, however, is no reason for anyone to think everything is under control and there is no need for him to help this Christmas season.

Peterborough's committee president Fitzgerald said only by an adequate supply of money to keep the fight going, will it be possible to continue cutting back the number of victims of the disease so that it may be reduced to an absolute minimum.

Children Share Adult Fears Need Home, Less Public Life

"Young children are sharing the fears and strains of our times in ways which we seldom suspect", the Rev. Ivan Morgan told the Ontario eastern regional conference of the Association of Children's Aid Societies Friday at the Empress Hotel. "A child whose father has returned from war is probably secretly fearful that he will be separated from him again. A child whose mother must work to meet the cost of living and who shares few of the daytime hours with her, develops, in spite of himself, a sense of insecurity. Scare headlines, pictures of marching armies, anxious conversation between adults concerning future military horrors are not for little children's eyes and ears" he told his audience of social workers and C.A.S. administrators.

Mr. Morgan's theme, entitled Many Cry Forward, Few Ask Whither, was to ask whether the work of the community in bringing up the present generation was producing the finest possible results.

Homes To Be Lived In

The primary answer to children's needs was in the home, Mr. Morgan declared. "More and more people must somehow be brought to realize that homes are places in which to live. For too many people they are merely stopping-in places for food and sleep," he said.

Society was doing its utmost to foster this error. Father belonged to organizations where mother was not able to go. Mother went to the bingo or the women's club while father stayed home bored. Junior went to Boys' Town and sister to the Feather Brain Club of Girls.

"The family seldom stays home at one time," Mr. Morgan said, 'nor does it often go out together. Cannot wise parents see the value of sharing their lives with their children, making things together, doing things together, going places together, laughing together, planning together.

Family Entertainment

"It wouldn't be a bad idea for concert artiste or orchestra to include some numbers in the program for children and young people so that the whole family would want to attend. It wouldn't be too devastating to the box offices for the movies to show the odd picture that need not be labelled 'Adult Entertainment.'

"Let's decide to have one night every week when the family stays at home. Let the daily paper print some stories to be read round the open fire or suggest some subjects for discussion.

The home could supply the basic

Marlies Hang 4-2 Defeat On Faltering Biltmores

By The Canadian Press

Two former stars of the Toronto Maple Leafs seem to have the power of importing to their Ontario Hockey Association charges the know-how that made them famous in their playing days.

Toronto Marlboro juniors, pupils of former starry centreman Syl Apps, continued to plow through the opposition in Junior A ranks last night by hanging a 4-2 defeat on the sixth place Guelph Biltmores. The senior Marlies, with Joe Primeau tutoring from the sidelines, coasted to a 2-0 shutout over the tail-end Hamilton Tigers. Both senior and junior Marlboros have played 14 games, the younger set winning 11 and the seniors 10.

In other games Friday night Toronto St. Michael's College Majors vaulted into third place in the junior ratings via a 4-2 overtime win over the Barrie Flyers. Stratford Kroehlers, doormats of the league, found their scoring punch and slammed Windsor Spitfires down 6-3.

At Guelph, Marlboros lived up to their press notices and punched in four goals in the first period without a reply from Guelph, Jack McKenzie, Murray Grenke, Tommy Fyles and George Armstrong doing the honors. Biltmores fought back and finally clicked after three minutes of the middle frame. Frank Bathgate took Eddie Kulik's pass and banged it past Don Lockhart in Marlie's net: It took seven minutes for another Guelph score, Ches Koneczny doing the trick, helped by Ron Plumb.

Couldn't Click

Hamilton's revamped lineup failed to help them in their game with the senior Dukes. Bruce Dale did a creditable job in holding Marlies off the score sheet in the first period but the second saw two Marlboro counters.

Alfie Childs took things into his own hands in this period and potted the winning marker and insurance tally but one minute and 20 seconds apart at the 18 and 19.20 minute marks. Red Johnson, who leaves for service with the Pittsburgh Pirates of the American League tonight, assisted on Child's first goal. Frank Sullivan and Al Buchan helped on Alfie's second.

Up in Barrie, St. Michael's College literally climbed up on the Flyers' backs and pushed them down into fourth place. Before last night's encounter, Barrie led the Collegians by one point. The victory pushed St. Michael's ahead by the same margin. Rod Roy was the hero of the overtime affair, bagging the winning marker after seven minutes and 15 seconds had elapsed in the extra 10 minute frame. Hap Emms pulled Jim Beasley from the Flyer cage and Leo Labine plunked in an insurance tally to put the game on ice. Labine had scored earlier, opening the scoring in the initial period, to give him a two-goal performance. Willy Marshall, classy centre star of the Irish, got credit for the other St. Michael's goal. Stan Long was the only Flyer to fool Howes in the Toronto net, getting both Barrie counters.

Surprise Win

Stratford reached away down its bag of tricks and came up with some latent scoring punch nobody knew they had and proceeded to thump Windsor Spitfires 6-3. Both teams had one period to themselves. Stratford sandwiched four goals in the middle frame with one each in the first and final while Spitfires tallied three times in the third. Bibber O'Hearn put the Stratford kids one up with his first of two goals at the tail end of the first period.

Kroehlers went wild in the middle frame, counting four times without a Windsor reply. Jim Pernfuss, Don Heinbuch, Dinny Flanagan and Doug Williams were the marksmen. Not to be outdone, Spits came back in the third on goals by Jack Bailey, Erwin Grosse and Eddie Santkiewicz. The only two goal man of the game, Bibber O'Hearn, clinched the verdict at the halfway mark.

Detroit Trio Paces Teams In Scoring Race

By JIM BASTABLE, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The top Detroit threesome of Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and Gordie Howe are living up to their power-line tag.

The Red Wings are leading the National Hockey League pack and the terrific trio is similarly out front of all other scoring units. They've racked up a collective total of 47 scoring points and scored 20 of the Wings' 45 goals.

The point total is one ahead of the 46 compiled by Chicago's high scoring trio of Doug Bentley, Bill Mosienko and Roy Conacher, whose efforts are nullified somewhat by the lax state of the Black Hawks' defence. The wings have had only 28 goals scored against them, the fourth place Hawks 44.

Tonight, the Detroit power line gets a big test at Toronto against the Toronto Maple Leafs and goalie Walter (Turk) Broda. The Leafs are three points off the pace in second place. But they play back at Detroit Sunday night and a double victory could put Toronto out front.

There's only one game tonight. Sunday the other four teams of the six-team loop also move into action. The third place Montreal Canadiens clash with the tail-end Boston Bruins in Boston and the fifth place New York Rangers meet the fourth place Chicago Black Hawks in Chicago.

Coach Tommy Ivan's Detroit charges have chalked up an impressive showing so far this month. They haven't lost any of their six starts, gaining five victories and battling to one tie.

Schmidt Returns To Forward Line

BOSTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Boston Bruins Friday night announced that captain Milt Schmidt, former National Hockey League all-star centre, will go back to his old job as a forward when the slumping Bruins meet Montreal Canadiens here Sunday night. Schmidt has been playing defence while the Bruins have won only three of their 15 games.

Club spokesmen said Schmidt would pivot for the 19-year-old rookie wingers, Zellio Toppazinni and Dave Creighton, against the Habitants, now that defenceman Murray Henderson again is in playing condition after missing five games.

The Bruins also announced the recall of defenceman Ed Kryzanowski from Hershey Bears of the American League, to which Boston has sent two young forwards, Sylvio Bettio and George (Red) Sullivan.

Sullivan turned professional for the Bruins this week after starring for the St. Catharines club in the Ontario Junior League.

New Glasgow Youth Wins Race At TCS

PORT HOPE, Nov. 19.—Jim McGregor of New Glasgow, N.S., won the 53rd annual cross-country race for the Oxford Cup at Trinity College School Friday. His time was 24 minutes and 20 seconds for the four-mile route. Ken Martin of Montreal came second, followed by Symons of Toronto, Baer, Ottawa, and Wright, Montreal, tied for fourth place, followed by Church, Orangeville; Emery, London; Farley, Trenton; Rodgers, Vancouver; Aitken, Montreal. Bethune House won the cup for house competition by a score of 34 points to 20.

Resume Service

MONTREAL, Nov. 19—(CP)—Canadian National Railways announced Friday night that all its passenger trains in United States services cancelled or curtailed last month because of the coal strike, will resume normal operations at midnight next Sunday. The service between Fort Frances, Ont., and Duluth, Minn., cut to tri-weekly, goes back to a six-days-a-week basis.

Lay Icebreaker's Keel

SOREL, Que., Nov. 19—(CP)—The keel of the largest naval vessel ever built in Canada—a 5,400-ton icebreaker—was laid at Marine Industries, Limited here Friday. The 269-foot-long ship, slated for completion in the summer of 1952, is the first of nine Royal Canadian Navy vessels slated for construction in a shipbuilding program announced earlier this year by Defence Minister Claxton.

10 Imports On All-Star Team Stresess U.S. Players' Domination

By JACK MITCHELL

TORONTO, Nov. 19—(CP) — To keep pace with the changing times, the Canadian Rugby Union should consider a motion at its next annual meeting to change the game's name to American football played the Canadian way.

The Big Four all-star team, announced Friday night, looks more like another all-American dream-team. There are 10 United States imports on the 1949 lineup, emphasizing that the Americans are dominating Canada's gridiron scene as never before—in quality as well as quantity.

Football writers and coaches in the league's four cities, who selected the mythical team for The Canadian Press, collectively chose only three Canadians—Royal Copeland of Toronto Argonauts, Ralph Toohy of Montreal Alouettes and Don Loney of Ottawa Rough Riders.

A total of 13 came about through a tie. The voting is weighted to provide each of the league's four cities equal voting strength but it couldn't separate Frank Filchock of Alouettes and Andy Gordon of Riders. Each polled exactly 56 of 112 possible points and share the quarterback position.

Ottawa Places Most

Ottawa, which led the league in the regular schedule, placed most players with six. Alouettes, who upset them in the playoffs, took four berths. Hamilton Wildcats, winless throughout, caught two places and Copeland was the only Argo chosen.

Of the 1948 team, there were seven imports and five Canadians. That season, 20 players from the U.S. took part in the league because Argos were still following their all-Canadian policy. This season the teams used the full 28 under the league's quota of seven a squad, although Argos cut some of theirs loose during the schedule.

With the two losing clubs avowedly determined to purchase better imports for next season, it seems logical the 1950 All-Stars could be a Canadian all-American. Besides that, a few of the long-term Americans will start losing their import stigma soon unless the CRU changes its rule that makes them Canadians after they've established four years continual residence here.

Copeland, who played one of his greatest seasons in a losing cause, is the only Canadian on an all-American backfield. Running mates of the 23-year-old blonde native of North Bay, are: flying wing Bob Paffrath, the Riders' great blocker from Redwood Falls, Minn., and halves Howie (Touchdown) Turner, Ottawa's all-around threat from Rocky Mount, N.C., and Virgil Wagner, Alouettes great plunger from Belleville, Ill., who has made the team every one of his four seasons.

One of the two quarterbacks, Filchock comes from Grindstone, Pa., and Gordon from Philadelphia.

Selected 4th Time

Loney, rated among Canada's all-time great centres, was selected for the fourth successive season. Toohy, his Canadian linemate, chosen for the second time in a cow is one of the scrappiest and hardest-hitting players in the game.

Besides Trawick, the other American linesmen are: Middle Eddie Michaels of Riders, who comes from Wilmington, Del.; his team-mate John Wagoner of Gibsonvill, NC, at inside; inside Vince Scott of Wildcats, a former Notre Dame player from Leroy, NY, who played his first Canadian season, and another Hamilton newcomer, Bob (Robin) Hood the big end from Glasden, Ala., who has played in both the Rose and Sugar Bowls for University of Alabama.

Elbowed off the 1949 team for the first time in years were Argo Joe Krol and Ottawa's Tony Golab and Bert Haigh.

The All-Stars

Flying wing — Bob Paffrath, Ottawa.
Half—Howie Turner, Ottawa.
Half—Royal Copeland, Toronto
Half (secondary defence) — Virgil Wagner, Montreal.

Stock Market Recover Early Losses

By The Canadian Press.

Stock markets recovered early losses to break through into new high ground this week and resume their interrupted four-month advance.

Activity increased considerably on the upturn. Prices dipped for the first two sessions of the week but demand increased the following two days and almost all previous losses were wiped out.

The more than four-month advance in prices is encountering increasing resistance. The market has had to absorb considerable realizing sales as investors began to take profits.

Year end tax selling will sson be a factor on New York movements. Observers say that tax-selling will be lighter than in previous years.

Streeters believe prices will revert to a narrow trading rut for the remainder of the year although the readiness with which realizing sales were absorbed may be an indication of continuation of the advance.

Prices Dropped

Prices dropped Monday and Tuesday in New York, chopping off some $1,000,000,000 in market value of stocks listed. Steady demand appeared Wednesday and a sharp rise Thursday just about wiped out previous losses. Prices climbed strongly yesterday in one of the busiest sessions of the year.

The Associated Press 60-stock average gained .7 yesterday, closing the five day week at 68.5—a gain of .6 from Thursday, Nov. 10.

Canadian markets also climbed over the five days. In Toronto strong demand lifted industrials to the highest point on the exchange's index since August 1946.

The industrial list reflected price movements in New York, sliding the first two sessions, and then resuming the advance. Divided news sparked many individual stocks as the index climbed 2.47 on the week.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting featured a firmer base metal list. Rumors of a stock split and year-end extra dividend have been circulating on the street. Price cuts in lead and zinc held the list in check for a gain of .77 on the index.

Golds continued to meet selling following President Truman's statement the previous week that the price of gold would not be increased while he remains President. Buying late in week lifted the gold index .31 from the last session, Thursday of the previous week.

Perry's Galt Foursome Enters Trophy Finals

GALT, Nov. 19 (CP)— Fred Perry's Galt foursome Friday night entered the finals of the little trophy in the early bird curling bonspiel by defeating J. Howard of Fergus 9-7.

The Howard family rink, with James, the father, nursing a broken wrist and directing the play of his sons, put up a strong fight. Perry now meets Normie Himes of Galt who defeated J. Heffernan of Guelph 10-5.

In the Gore Trophy, W. A. Tomlinson's Toronto Granite rink wound up as finalists against D M. Fraser of Forest.

Best game of the day and of the five-day spiel was provided by the Toronto Granites who defeated R. Chisholm of Sault Ste. Marie 7-6 in a nip and tuck affair.

In the Galt Trophy, Galt and Wingham rinks skipped by J. Patrick and J. F. Murray respectively wound up in the final.

Andy Heron, president and Ernie McMurtry, secretary of the Ontario Curling Association, were guest speakers at a banquet preceding the games

Boy Fractures Skull In Football Game

WINCHESTER, Nov. 19 (CP)—Allen Carkner, 14, of nearby Ormond, Ont., suffered a fractured skull in a freak accident at the Winchester High School Friday.

The youth was injured when he collided head-on with another player during an impromptu football game. The other boy involved in the accident was Fred Holmes of Winchester.

Hospital officials at Ottawa, where the youth was rushed for medical attention, said Friday night that young Carkner's condition was "serious," but that he had a good chance to recover.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

UE Demands Archer Quit

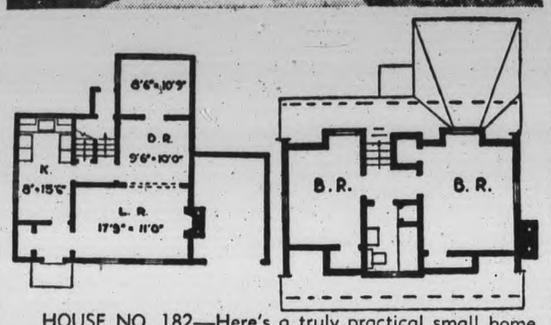
TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP)—The United Electric Workers Union Friday sent a letter to Ontario Labor Minister Daley demanding the resignation of David Archer as a member of the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

The U.E.W. in a letter signed by Ross Russell, Organizational Director, charged that Mr. Archer's "recent attempts at openly participating in raids on certified shops with contractual agreements of the U.E.W. has considerably reduced the prestige of the Ontario Labor Relations Board."

Mr. Archer, a member of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), was said to have been one of several C.C.L. officials engaged in distributing leaflets at Toronto plants of the Canadian General Electric Company a few days ago, urging electric workers to abandon the U.E.W. which has been suspended from the C.I.O.

Radar Limited

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton Friday night told the Commons present radar stations protected only a "very limited" portion of Canada. He said he hoped means would be available to increase the protectioin but it was not part of the government's policy to attempt a complete radar screen.



HOUSE NO. 182—Here's a truly practical small home design with an appeal that will weather the years for decades to come. While you won't find any particularly striking innovations in its exterior, there's evidence of the most careful handling of general proportion and detail, combining with effective evergreen foundation planting to produce one of the finest little homes you'll hope to see. Behind its 27' 6" frontage this home contains four rooms on the ground floor, including a separate dining room, and two bedrooms on the second storey. There's that important vestibule with coat closet off the entrance too. The modern kitchen is in the popular "U"-shaped style. Both bedrooms have cross ventilation and plenty of closet space. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

What Makes Some Houses Appear More Interesting

A lot...a down payment...and a loan are only the economic necessities for the construction of your new home. Believe it or not, IDEAS are just about as important, if when all put together, you want your house to stand out as a little above the average in the matter of small home appearance and convenience.

Dollars without ideas may be satisfactory for the construction of chicken coops, barns, and implement sheds, but the difference between a property you can sell quickly if the need ever arises and one just as good which must be sold at a cut price, usually goes right back to the amount of thought put into it when it was built.

WATCH THESE THINGS ON THE OUTSIDE...how do the windows line up?...are the second storey windows over the first floor windows?...does the front door treatment fit the house?...(be sure it isn't over-elaborate for the size of the house and don't put a colonial front door on an English house)...see that the color of the roof harmonizes with the rest of the house...be sure your house does not rear up out of the ground—a house that snugs the earth looks better.

ON THE INSIDE...there are dozens of little details which if carefully considered can distinguish a house with very little extra cost. Don't just take it for granted that you are going to have all plain plaster walls like every other house...think of the places where inexpensive panelling would improve the rooms (a window-sill-height dado which can be painted or stained natural will enhance any room)...don't just dismiss the floors...there are many patterns in wood, linoleum and composition floors...give consideration to the pattern of your doors (there are many stock variations)...pay attention to the types of trim you can get...look into the matter of a cover at the ceiling of principal rooms (it will help finish and balance a colonial room)...an ordinary plaster wall, especially in the dining room, can be improved by breaking it into panels through the application of wood moulding directly on the plaster.

These are minor items, but they can make a house into a HOME ...and a good investment.

CORNER CUPBOARDS...for the dining room are like cream for the peaches or cheese for the apple pie...they transform an otherwise ordinary room into something visitors admire and ask about. The cost is not nearly so great as the effect they create for this important room.

BOOK SHELVES...built-in can be made to hold things other than books...and they break up blank wall spaces which make a home look like and institution. Don't plan your new home without book shelves somewhere ...nothing can add more livability to the general atmosphere ...and you'll get more books.

A BUILT-IN BED OR SHIP'S BUNK...is not only a highly decorative item, but also an efficient one...Most three-bedroom houses have one small upstairs room which needs the extra working space a built-in bed makes possible. If you think this item isn't popular with the kids just try it.

ATTLEE JOINS GALLERY—A picture of Clement Attlee is placed in the gallery of United Kingdom prime ministers along the sixth floor corridor of Canada's Parliament Buildings. Hanging the portrait, made by the noted Ottawa photographer, Karsh, is Dan MacDonald, a member of the House of Commons maintenance staff. The CCF member for Selkirk, William Bryce, some weeks ago drew the attention of the House to the absence of a photo of the present U.K. prime minister.

Rescue Plane Crashes In Sea

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 18—(AP)—A B-29 starting out to hunt for the B-29 missing near Bermuda, crashed Friday bare seconds after the take-off from here.

Five of the nine known crew aboard were killed. The other four were thrown clear of the plane and were only slightly hurt.

The plane was from Macdill air base and was one of nearly 100 Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard planes which had been searching for the bomber which ran out of fuel and crash-landed in the sea Wednesday.

Seconds after it took off from the field which borders Tampa Bay, its No. 4 engine began smoking. As it turned to land, the engine broke into flame and the big plane crashed.

The tide was out at the time and the ship plunged into mud and slime.

The muck prevented a crash boat from reaching the wreckage and greatly hampered firemen from reaching the scene with hose.

'Twas Big Day For Gord Graydon

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 —(CP)—It was a big time for Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) at a meeting of the Commons Committee of External Affairs Friday.

He was unanimously elected vice-chairman and promptly said with a grin "that's the only overwhelming support my party has had in some time." The members chuckled.

Then he heard External Affairs Minister Pearson give "my most hearty approval" to his suggestion that his title be changed from Secretary of State for External Affairs to Minister of External Affairs.

Mr. Pearson said he hoped the change could be made formally when the External Affairs act is reviewed by Parliament "before long."

As for another term, the Minister told G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) the department calls its diplomats "Mr." in sending them letters. But he didn't see that much could be done about calling foreign diplomats "your excellency" if the foreign countries did it themselves.

Bishop Manning Dies In Hospital

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (CP)—The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, 83, former Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York and a longtime foe of easy divorce, died on Friday in St. Luke's Hospital.

He entered the hospital Nov 4 after returning from a vacation in Maine. The cause of death was announced as "a bladder and kidney involvement."

The British-born Bishop Manning played a major role in the building of the huge Cathedral of St. John the Divine here. He preached his farewell sermon there three years ago upon his retirement after 25 years as Bishop of New York. The sermon was a defence of "the sacramental religion of the scriptures and the Holy Catholic Church."

He was a firm upholder of marriage as a sacrament. He also expressed belief repeatedly in the eventual unification of all Christian churches, and denounced lotteries, paganism and the joint income tax return for married couples.

Bishop Manning made easy divorce the subject of his major public utterance since his retirement.

In a 1947 statement sent to two church publications, he censured two bishops of his church—Rt. Rev. William P. Moody, of Lexington, Ky., and Rt. Rev. Frank Whittington Creighton, of Michigan—for sanctioning the marriages of two ministers to divorcees.

He said the Bishops' interpretations of a new, liberalized marriage Canon in the church would make a "ghastly mockery" of the marriage ceremony.

Raps Roosevelt

In 1945 Bishop Manning stopped Elliott Roosevelt, then twice-divorced, from serving as a vestrymen at the St. James Church at Hyde Park, N. Y.

He said the son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was not in "good standing" in the church.

A church publication sharply criticized the Bishop's action. The magazine said Roosevelt was a member, regular attendant and supporter of the church where his father had been a senior warden.

However, the church's vestry board voted to "sustain the wishes" of the Bishop.

When King Edward VIII left his throne in 1936, Bishop Manning asked from his pulpit:

"Has any man, King or commoner, the right to seek happiness by running around with another man's wife?"

Elect Grant Allen Badminton President

WARKWORTH, Nov. 19 (ENS) —W. Grant Allen was elected president of the Badminton Club at its meeting in the Town Hall this week. Dr. Jolliffe was chairman for the meeting. The following officers for 1949-1950 were appointed: President, W. Grant Allen; vice-president, Mrs. K Thain; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Mowat; Games Committee, Eldon Ewing and Mrs. J. McCleary; Membership Committee, G. Bound and Mrs. Grant Allen; Refreshment Committee, Mrs. R. Jolliffe.

It was decided that a fee of $5 be charged or $2.50 and 10c each time of play, this to include birds and the use of club racquets. Fees must be paid by November 15. Any member may invite a friend to play by paying 35 cents an evening. The club welcomes new members any Monday or Wednesday evening, providing the Town Hall is available.

Tax Eliminated

OTTAWA, Nov. 19—(CP)—The 15-per-cent withholding tax on income derived by foreigners from copyrighted and uncopyrighted works produced in Canada is eliminated under Finance Minister Abbott's proposed income-tax act amendments now before the Commons. A spokesman said the elimination was done to streamline the act. The Revenue Department found it was making few collections under this item and therefore thought it best to eliminate it.

Pearson Investigates U.S. Immigration Bars

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday he has taken up personally with State Secretary Acheson the question of United States immigration bars to certain Canadians and a joint committee of officials is laboring "to see if we can work it out."

He told the Commons committee on external affairs "I have no doubt that action will be taken."

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, raised the question by citing immigration bars raised against two Canadian professors, Glen Shortcliffe and Barker Fairley. Such attitudes "cause a great deal of misgiving among Canadians," he said.

Mr. Pearson said formal channels allow Canada to ask the State Department in Washington to investigate any injustices in cases such as those. This had been done. In addition he had discussed it with Mr. Acheson because he is "a little worried about the reaction" in Canada to such bars on "alleged security grounds."

Endorse Resolution

TORONTO, Nov. 19—(CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor (CCL) Friday endorsed the resolution introduced recently by Senator Arthur Roebuck for a Canadian Bill of Rights and fundamental freedoms to be written into the constitution. The Federation said they offered their "whole-hearted support" of the resolution.

Yuletide Fare Abundant Grocery Shelves Packed

Canadians are going to be pampered with plenty again this Christmas — if Peterborough stores are any indication. Grocery store shelves are packed, counters piled high. "We have everything this year," groceteria managers are boasting, waving a finger at a panorama of food variety.

"Innovations are few—it seems we will delve into delicious bounty again this year, as last.

There's good news for lovers of English biscuits, and the devaluation of the pound has a lot to do with it. English biscuits are now priced only slightly higher than their Canadian counterparts and according to one manager "are of superior quality."

The "Welcome" sign also hangs above English chocolates. Non-alcoholic liqueurs and standard favorites are all back. The same goes for Dutch chocolates, both novelty packages and plain confections.

Local gourmets should have a merry Christmas, too, for making their debut here are a host of tantalizing rareties, imported, most of them. There is pate de foie gras, neatly presented in a pert, creamy crock, sealed tightly; there are smoked oyster slices, Italian peppers in vinegar, and genuine pumpernickel.

Russian Caviar

Old favorites still lure the epicure, among them Russia caviar (not red, either), canned "tunny fish" from Portugal, filet of anchovies in olive oil, whole sweet pimentoes, pickled walnuts and stem ginger in syrup.

For special Christmas teas, discriminating tea-drinkers may obtain special blends, some of them newly arrived from England. Excellent tea partners will be wedges of Christmas cakes and shortbreads made by local bakeries.

If you are cheesy you'll have a field day buying old stand-bys and newcomers, some of them from Switzerland and Holland. There will be Canadian Oka and Camembert, Swiss Gruyere varieties and a new up-and-coming Canadian "Alpine."

If you stopped short last year, teeth half-way into an unprosperous-looking walnut, product of the previous year, the bags and bags of fresh, nuts-in-the-shell will be balm to your soul.

Wherever you look it is evident that Christmas this year will be brimming over for the fortunate denizens of America. Christmas will be what is used to be: cherished memories will be taken down, dusted, and re-dated, "December 25, 1949".

No Lack Exists In Cornwall Of Foster Homes

Social workers and directors of Peterborough Children's Aid Society heard Mrs. R. B. Splane, assistant superintendent of the Cornwall, Ont. Society announce Tuesday that in that city there was no shortage of temporary foster homes for children taken into the care of the Society. It was, in fact, becoming a mark of distinction for a family to be accepted by the Society as suitable for a child taken temporarily from its parents.

Mrs. Splane was addressing the eastern Ontario regional convention at the Empress Hotel of the Association of Children's Aid Societies.

To Peterborough Children's Aid workers, this announcement seemed almost incredible, for one of the greatest difficulties facing the society is to find homes where children can be placed temporarily, until their parents can take them back into their own care.

Personal Approach

Mrs. Splane attributed the situation in Cornwall to the personal approach made by a person with a mission and never flagging zeal.

Supervision of the foster home was an big task which had to be continued over a long period. After the child had been placed in the home, the most crucial stage in the supervisory began.

Intestinal Irresponsibility

"Jimmy is now in the home and he has brought with him a lot of unpleasant realities." Mrs. Splane illustrated. "If he is an infant he is likely to be dietetically hypercritical, habitually nocturnal and intestinally irresponsible. If he is older he may be smarting from a home separation which the best efforts of his social worker have not yet made intelligible to him. He is a long way from being the affectionate child 'just longing for a good home' that the foster parents had pictured.

"He has received too many hurts and betrayals to risk others, so he built mences. He steals, is destructive, or may favor the defensive attitude and withdraw morosely within himself."

Mrs. Splane advised her listeners to keep constantly in mind the contribution the foster home is making. An established home may easily become neglected by the social worker.

Biggest problem was to prevent temporary foster parents developing a possessive attitude which makes the task of planning for the child's return to his own parents exceedingly difficult.

"Where there remains a possibility of the reconstruction of the child's own home, the fact should not for a moment be obscured." Mrs. Splane declared. Foster parents had to be told of the plan for rehabilitating the child with its family. The foster parents had to appreciate the right of the child to its own parents.

N. Zimmerman, president of the Association, spoke during the morning session about financial policy of Children's Aid Societies. He emphasized the need for remembering that they were organizations administered by voluntary group and not adjuncts of municipal or provincial bodies.

WI Recommends Better Made Ready-to-Wear

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Flour-bags and ready-to-wear dresses were the topic of conversation — and of resolutions — at Thursday's session of the Eastern Ontario Women's Institute annual meeting.

The 300 delegates attending the two-day convention voiced their objections to the quality of ready-to-wear garments in a resolution to be directed to the Canadian Manufacturers Association. The recommendation, which urged that such dresses be more carefully made, suggested there should be larger seam allowances, better thread used, firmer buttonholes and better workmanship.

Another resolution which met with the approval of delegates urged milling companies to make the lettering on flour-bags removable. It noted that housewives who frequently put such bags to some household use, often have difficulty in removing lettering from the material.

In a third resolution, the convention took a stand on alcohol, moving that "scenes portraying the drinking of alcohol be prohibited, and that all motion pictures shown in Canada be censored accordingly."

HER HOBBY, PAINTING—Mrs. James Thorn, wife of New Zealand's high commissioner to Canada, started art lessons soon after her arrival in Ottawa two years ago. She is shown here with one of her recent works.

Most Overworked Excuse For Faults Is Heredity

What is your favorite alibi?

All of us have our pet excuses by which we seek to camouflage our faults and weaknesses to the world and to justify our shortcomings to ou own souls.

Perhaps the most overworked alibi in the world is heredity. You rarely meet any one who will acknowledge his faults are his own. Oh, dear, no. They are always poor grandfather's or grandmother's. Apparently the chief advantage in having ancestors is to have one to whom you can pass the buck.

Dorothy Dix

Anyway, did you ever know of a drunkard who confessed that the reason that he drank was because he liked the taste of liquor or because of the kick he got out of it? Never. He tells you between maudlin sobs that he is the victim of heredity and that drink is in his blood.

Did you ever know of a virago of a woman who was ashamed of giving way to her temper? Far from it. On the contrary, she is rather proud of taking after grandmamma, who was so high strung that she kept everybody about her paralyzed with fear Did you ever know of a slovenly housekeeper who blamed herself for her laziness and inefficiency? Not on your life. She merely remarks that it doesn't run in her family to be good cooks and goes along wallowing in filth and poisoning her husband and children.

Temperament

Another alibi that is called upon to do yeoman service is temperament. You never hear a man confess that he is shiftless and trifling and no acount and that he would rather bum his way through life than work his passage. No, indeed. The reason he never sticks to a job is because he is so temperamental that he just simply can't bring himself to do ordinary, commonplace things, such as keeping books or selling goods or making bricks.

Did you ever know an irritable nagging, petty tyrant of a woman who ever admitted her faults and tried to reform. Mercy, no! Her alibi is nerves.

It is her poor nerves that make her fly into tantrums every time she is crossed in any way and say things that stab like a knife. It is her poor nerves that make her have hysterics, until she gets a new car or a new dress or a new fur coat. It is her poor nerves that make her rule her family with a rod of iron so that they dare not do anything that displeases her for fear of bringing on one of her spells. Heaven only knows what mean, selfish, bossy women would do without nerves. They might have to behave themselves.

The ever-present alibi that the man who is a failure in life offers for his lack of success is that he never had a chance. He wasn't born a millionaire. He couldn't go to college. He never had any pull. He had lived all of his life where ther was no opportunity. He has had to help others. And so he has sat all of his life on the do-nothing stool, with folded hands, without ever making an effort to achieve anything.

It is a grand excuse for lack of energy and initiative and general shiftlessness, but it isn't every convincing in a country where nine successful men out of ten were born poor and are self-educated and have made their own chances and have hammered at the door of opportunity until they broke through it.

Men's favorite alibi is business, which is a blanket excuse that covers everything they want to do and desire to leave undone Does a man want to stay downtown of an evening and play poker with the boys? "Miss Smith, telephone my wife I am detained on important business." Does he want to take a trip? Business calls him away from home.

Always Too Busy

Does he give up reading everything except the sporting news in the papers? Too busy to read good books. Does he prefer only the shows at the theatre that exploit feminine pulchritude? Alas, he must rest his brain, the poor tired business man.

Does he neglect his wife? Does he let his children grow up perfect strangers to him? It is because he is absorbed in his business. Is he grumpy and grouchy around the house and as pleasant to live with as a sore-headed bear would be? Business again. As long as a man can plead business he feels it is a perfect justification for breaking his wife's heart, being disagreeable at home and not having even a speaking acquaintance with his children.

The woman's perfect alibi is her children. With that she gets away with everything from not powdering her nose to murder. Coming and going it is the best double-action excuse that has ever been invented.

The young wife gets sloppy and fat and doesn't comb her hair or doll herself up, because she has to take care of the baby. The untidy woman's house is like a pigpen, because you can't keep things neat if you have children.

Wife leaves husband to toil in the city in the summer while she goes to a cool place for the health of the children. The family have to move into a more fashionable neighborhood because the children have to have social advantages, and mother has to run around to parties, not because she wants to o herself, but because she has to make friends for the children.

And so on, ad lib. A gr t thing is the alibi. What's yours?

Findings in Mexico Told By Woman Artist

Mrs. De Bruno Austin, Toronto artist, whose work bears the name Dorothy Stevens, gave a resume of her findings in Mexico at the studio meeting of the Peterborough Women's Art Association Friday afternoon.

'Mexico is thrilling to artistic people" she said. 'The capital city, with a population increased from one to three million since the war, is ravishingly beautiful." Mrs. Austin, accustomed to Toronto's narrow Yonge Street was impressed with the modern downtown section of Mexico city. The wide streets and fine buildings have all appeared in the last 30 years which is also the period in which their art has become famous old buildings in the picturesque small towns of the country are carefully guarded against demolition and new ones can only be erected on the outskirts.

On her tour Mrs. Austin painted about eight canvases. Being on a holiday she made the first several landscapes because she is mostly engaged in figure work. In the others she acceded to the quaint charm of the Mexican people on the streets and the market places, portraying their baroque culture which has come down from the cultured Indians who originally inhabited the country. All of the paintings are presently on tour.

Three Mexican artists whose work is better known are Rivera, Orozco and Siquieiros. All have studied some in Europe but none have taken to impressionism she said. The political unrest and turmoil that is Mexico has produced the kind of painting they are doing and like."

Though he has only one hand, Orozco is the one who does the stupendous mural work, and as he has no easel painting, only reproductions of his are seen outside the country. He characterizes them with a flash of orange-red on monotone blues and grey. Rivera she describes as a "dynamic character" and of Siquieiros she says "he is the most interesting mentaly." His latest experiment is murals with duco paints.

Before introducing Mrs. Austin to the members, Mrs. N. D. Seaton gave them a short report of the annual meeting of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association which she attended last week in Toronto. Peterborough Branch, organized 46 years, is second only to Hamilton in age, is the only one which boasts five flourishing study clubs. Branches are not numerous and are not in all large cities. The farthest west in in Regina.

The president annuonced the Christmas musicale to be held on Monday afternoon, December 5, to which each member is privileged to bring a guest.

Still Fighting To Get Women Equal Pay Rate

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Equal pay for women is like the weather—everybody talks about it, but nobody ever does anything

That's what makes it so difficult. All political parties give lip service to the idea, but it's still not being applied.

Thirty years ago, a war cabinet committee decided in favor of one rate for the job. It urged the government of the day to enforce it "with the least possible delay." Today women are still waiting.

"No wonder we're angy—it's like advancing over feather beds," says sprightly, chestnut-haired Mrs. Thelma Cazalet Keir, chairman of a committe campaigning for equal pay.

To demonstrate the gap between words and deeds, the committee has published a pamphlet called "A Black Record." This is a summary of 25 separate, high-level statements, all favoring equal pay.

Twice the House of Commons has agreed that men and women should get the same rate. The ruling labor party is pledged to the principle. But successive socialist finance chiefs opposed its introduction—too costly, they say.

Get Same Results

What would the Conservatives do? In a manifesto for the next general election, it advocates the one-rate principle, "provided that the services rendered and the results achieved by men and women are the same.'

W. J. Brown, Independent member of Parliament, wrote that women wouldn't be satisfied, no matter what happened.

"For it is in the nature of women to demand all the benefits of equality and all the advantages of chivalry," he said. "Bless them."

Mrs. Cazalet Keir just snorts at statements like that, and goes on with her campaign Her most notable success was in 1944, when she engineered the government's defeat by one vote on the equal-pay issue.

Newspapers called her "a quiet a lioness as ever terrified" the Commons. It was the first defeat suffered by Winston Churchill's coalition government since its formation in May, 1940

Once lady-in-waiting to Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone; 49-year-old Mrs. Cazalet Keir formerly was Conservative M P. for the working-class constituency of East Islington, London Next to Viscountess Astor, she was regarded as the wealthiest woman member of Parliament, but one of the most progressive.

Bosom Bolsters "Wonderful" Miami Girls Say

MIAMI, Fla., (UP) — Falsies are firmly entrenched with the American female and are here to stay, a survey in Miami would indicate.

Most of the girls questioned by The Miami Herald admitted they bolster their bosoms with sponge rubber or something similar. And despite the "tut-tuts" from Hollywood's recently-formed Anti-Falsie League, they intend to keep on doing so.

"A woman has as much right to pad her front as a man has to pad his shoulders," Roberta Korg of a modeling agency said. "Many a woman has been disappointed when her man takes his coat off."

Marion Johnson of another modeling agency called the bosom-bolsters "wonderful things. . they've saved many situations"

The men, however, aren't too sure just what falsies will lead to One questioned by The Herald said "They'll be wearing false faces next."

The last word came from Alma Anderson who said "If a woman wears a girdle to pull herself in, why can't she wear something to push herself out?"

Easy Spindry is the one practical answer to the modern woman's demand for a complete home laundry. It does all the work, the way you want it done, faster, safer and with less fuss than with any other type of washer. Launders everything, blankets to lingeries, washes and dries at the same time. Washes clothes really clean. 50% to 75% easier on clothes, uses less soap and hot water. Cuts laundry time in half.

Home Destroyed At South Lake

HAVELOCK, Nov. 19 (ENS) — The home of Levi Wrightly at South Lake was destroyed by fire at noon on Thursday. The fire was first noticed in the shingles on the roof by one of the hunters staying at the Wrightly home but had made such headway that all the furnishings in the upstairs were destroyed. The greater part of the furniture downstairs was saved. The cause of the fire is unknown as there was no fire in the front part of the house only the kitchen stove being in use at the time. The house was a log structure and there was no insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Wrightly are staying with a neighbor until he can have a garage erected recently, insulated and put in condition as living quarters.

Children Share

needs to the problem of how to meet the needs of children, but the community as a whole, through its churches and schools and social agencies, must share in the problem.

Public Agencies

The schools were doing a splendid job. There was a day when there were many cynics and negative people among teachers, but that day had largely passed and teachers were among the finest builders—seeking to drive a highway of sense and goodness through the maze called life.

Social agencies were invaluable. People no longer considered the Children's Aid adjunct of the Police Department. People were approaching social workers, recognizing the value of their experience and training.

It was the duty of the adult generation to set an example to the children. If incorrect English was spoken in the home, it would be the English on the lips of the children.

The same pattern followed with untidiness in the home, the honesty of parents and also the moral habits of the parents.

Head Table

Mr. Morgan was after dinner speaker when head table guests were:

Rev. J. J. Killen, Board of Directors, Peterborough; Magistrate W. R. Philp, judge of the Family Court, Peterborough; Miss M. Milligan, acting executive secretary, Association of Children's Aid Societies; Judge S. L. Smoke, judge of County Court, Peterborough; Mrs. M. Johnston; Ald. Hurrell Dodds, representing Max J. Swanston, Mayor of Peterborough; Mrs. N. Zimmerman; B. W. Heise, Provincial Officer and Deputy Minister of Public Welfare; Rev. Ivan Morgan, Board of Directors, Peterborough; N. Zimmerman, president, Association of Children's Aid Societies; Bruce Sargent, Board of Directors, Peterborough; Mrs. Hurrell Dodds; Melville Johnston, Reeve of North Monaghan, Board of Directors, Peterborough; Mrs. S. L. Smoke; Leslie Dunning, Board of Directors, Prescott and Russell, and past president of Association of Children's Aid Societies; Bert Beaumont, Director of Child Welfare, Province of Ontario; Miss Elizabeth Govan, Division of Child Welfare, Canadian Welfare Council.

T. T. Rodger, president of the Peterborough Society was chairman. Mr. Morgan was introduced by Bruce Sargent and thanked by L. L. Dunning.

B. W. Heise, Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, explained during the afternoon session, clerical details of applying for provincial grants.

First City Nursery School Opened At Dixon House

Twenty one youngsters between the ages of three and five started school this week at the Recreation Commision's first nursery school which opened Tuesday. The nursery was first devised by northend residents who petitioned for a publicly sponsored school for their children. If the scheme is successful, others are likely to be set up in other parts of the city.

Main purpose of the school, situated in Dixon House, is to teach youngsters to play and work happily together.

This week 16 children have been attending the morning session from 9 o'clock to 11.30 and five in the afternoon. In less than a week they have fallen into a daily schedule which includes musical games, free play, work with paper and sissors, guidance on washing and dressing themselves and a number of incidental everyday matters which are often quite a problem to the very young.

In charge of the school is Miss Joyce Wyatt, who has been running a private nursery school in her own home for the past two years.

Made to Size

In a spacious room, equipped with rocking horse, spinning tops, and a varied collection of toys, small chairs and tables, this first class has already settled into a happy rountine and youngsters who have never before mixed with others, have learnt, in less than a week, how to enjoy the company of others their own age. And for some, this is no easy task. After the seclusion of home, it is a formidable undertaking for an only child.

Miss Wyatt is assisted by Miss Jean Stewart and together they were helping the children draw and color animals and flowers for cutting out, when they were visited by the newspaper camera man. The flash of the bulb was a fascination for most of the youngsters, eagerly watching to make sure they were in the picture. But one little girl, naturally shy of the camera, covered her eyes with her hand to make sure it could not see her.

Other Day Nurseries

A number of nursery schools have been operating in private homes in the city for some time, and during the war there were several sponsored by the Dominion Government to enable mothers to do war work.

The Recreation Commission's scheme is, however, entirely new to the city. The school is financed jointly by the children's parents, who pay $5.50 a month for each child, the city, which pays 50 percent of any additional expense after the school fees have been exhausted and there is also a grant from the province.

Take 250 Tons Over 800 Miles

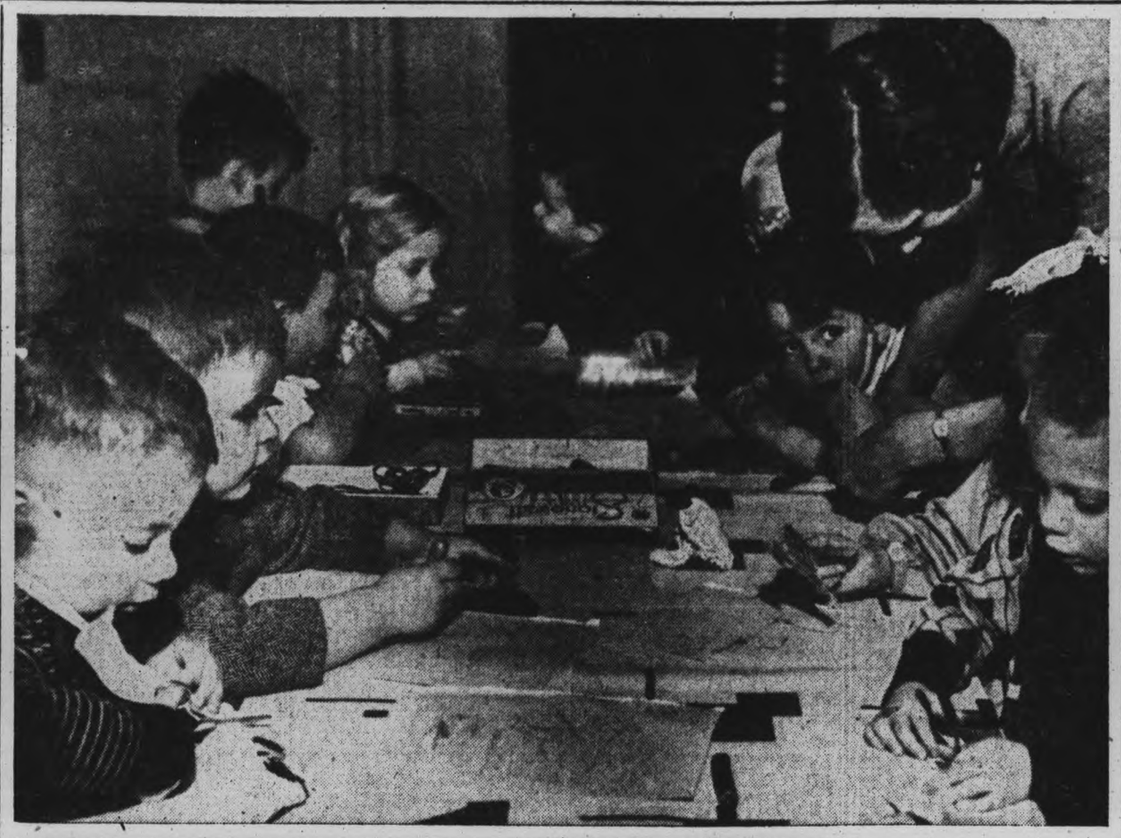
OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP)—Less than 30 men freighted more than 250 tons of equipment in two 800-mile trips across the rugged wasteland of the Northwest Territories last winter to build the army's newest and most-isolated signal station.

The station is at Ennadai Lake, 400 miles northwest of Churchill, Man., and is one of the links in a chain of signals stations spanning the northwest.

It was the biggest tractor-train operation in the north since Exercise Muskox in 1947, designed to test far-northern equipment.

The existence of the Ennadai Lake station was disclosed for the first time in the White Paper on Defence, tabled in the Commons last week. The station was shown on a map of communications network.

Canadian troops, accompanied by a few Americans from the joint winter-training establishment at Churchill, took in the supplies, at the same time freighting in some 2,200 pounds of food for an Eskimo community on the route.



FIRST CITY NURSERY SCHOOL in Peterborough was opened early this week at Dixon House by the Recreation Commission. Twenty-one kiddies between the ages of three and five years are kept fully occupied at both morning and afternoon classes. A drawing class in the Upper photo shows a complete range of expressions from industry and inquisitiveness to complete unconcern as assistant supervisor Jean Stewart attends to one youngster's problem, at the Right. In the Lower photo David Mackay, Left, watches the camera instead of his project, while Jimmy King manipulates a pair of dull scissors, with assistance; a young lady peers shyly from between them.—Examiner Staff Photos.

Former Woman Patient Has Changed Into A Man

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Nov. 19 (AP)—A physician told Friday how a former woman patient of his has changed into a man.

Dr. Charles E. Church said the former Edna Genecki of nearby South River now is Edward as the result of a recent operation.

Genecki will spent the rest of his life as a man, after living "her first 33 years as a girl and woman."

Dr. Church said there was some doubt as to Genecki's sex at birth, but that it was finally decided that the child was a girl.

"Edna" went through Rutgers University as a woman, and later, still as a woman, became a junior executive of a large industry here.

Although considered a good-looking co-ed by Rutgers classmates, Edna nevertheless found she had to shave every day, and finally came to Dr. Church. Medical authorities agreed Edna was becoming Edward.

The recent operation completed the process.

Edward, unlike similar cases in the past, will continue to live among his former acquaintances and resume his old job.

Scientists explain that every individual's body has both male and female tendencies, but that ordinarily one sex or the other becomes dominant before birth. In exception cases, however, the two tendencies may continue a struggle for domination of the body into later life.

Guilty of Murder

NELSON, B.C., Nov. 19—(CP)—William F. Swanson, young Creston, B.C., Indian, Friday was found guilty of murdering his wife and sentenced to be hanged Jan. 27. Mrs. Swanson died Oct. 23, 1948, at the Kootenay Indian Reserve near Creston following a beating.

Youth Admits Slaying Child

JEROME, Idaho, Nov, 19 (AP)—Sheriff Saul H. Clark announced Friday night that Neil Butterfield, 16, has confessed orally the slaying of a seven-year-old Burley girl.

Clark, in a statement issued Friday night, said the youth admitted the killing of Glenda Joyce Brisbois.

Clark said the confession was taken while the youth was held at Jerome jail.

The badly-beaten body of the seven-year-old girl, who had been raped, was found Thursday in a canal near her home in Burley.

Clark said Butterfield "hit the little girl on the head with a bumper car jack three times.

"She toppled over into the water. He then took the jack and pushed her into the water farther and got into his car and left."

Clark said the youth will be arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder.

Grace Church Marks First Anniversary

First anniversary of the Grace United Church is to be celebrated this Sunday, November 20. The Rev. M. J. Aiken of St. Andrews Church, who conceived the idea which brought it into being, will be speaker at the morning service.

The Rev. E. W. Rowland who is presently ministering in this church, has arranged for his son, the Rev. Morgan Rowland to be in the pulpit in the evening. Special music will be provided by the Harrison Brothers quartet who were in attendance at the opening a year ago.

To the fast-growing community south of Lansdowne St., the Grace Church is fulfilling a great need. It has a well-organized Sunday school where teachers are coping with an ever-increasing attendance. Its finances are in good condition, successfully managed by the Board of Stewards, and the elders are active. The Women's Association has played an important part in the first year's success, holding monthly meetings and teas which have helped to build up membership.

Chairman of the Church Board is Ken Mills; secretary, Jos. Waldie; treasurer, Fraser McDonald; members, R. Stewart, W. Turner, C. Gilbank, H. Mitchell E. McKinstry, T. Gardner, R Williamson, W. Hargreaves, I. Bennett, H. McMahon and W. Drury. Elders are W. Harrison and Geo. Sage. Mrs. A. R. Cameron is president of the Women's Association.

Will Visit School

TORONTO, Nov. 19—(CP) — At his own request, Viscount Alexander, Governor - General, will visit the Hester How public school here Monday to see Canadian citizenship in the process of formation. The school on Elizabeth Street, near Chinatown, is one of the smallest in the city but has won fame because it is attended by pupils of 27 different nationalities.

Peculiar Weather

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19—(CP) — Mexico's 10-day freezing weather has caused 12 deaths, police reported Friday. The deaths are attributed to cold but police doctors say exposure is merely the finishing blow for persons badly nourished and usually with some weakening disease.

Edinburgh Bid For Canada

TORONTO, Nov. 19 — Canada will be represented at the Edinburgh Festival within the next two years, the lord provost of Edinburgh, Sir Andrew Murray, said yesterday. And the likely choice seems to be Sir Ernest MacMillan with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

Sir Andrew who is chairman of the festival committee, said Canada would certainly be invited before his term of office as lord provost ended—and he has a year and a half to go.

He agreed that the TSO was of festival calibre, but that was as far as he would go.

Canada has not yet been invited to the festival. Thought Robertson Davies' play, Eros at Breakfast, was performed in Edinburgh at the time of the last festival, it was on the invitation of the Scottish Community Drama League, and was not part of the official festival program.

Should the invitation come in 1951, it will coincide with the British festival to be held that year.

Yesterday, the tall grey-haired Scot, now in his second term as lord provost at the age of 45, dropped in to hear one of Sir Ernest MacMillan's concerts for children in Massey Hall.

Sir Ernest pointed him out in the balcony and 2,000 children clapped like mad. Sir Andrew thanked them in his Edinburgh burr. Then he dropped into his seat and put his hand over his face.

"Oh," he murmured. "I should have put in a few 'hoots' and 'ayes.'"

Half an hour later urgent committee men told him his next appointment was due. "Must we go?" he asked. Then with an air of finality he sat back. "Let us be late. I simply won't go till this is" over.

Wants Information On Licence Numbers

QUEBEC, Nov. 19 (CP)—Liberal leader George Marler said Friday he will submit a motion at the next Quebec Legislature session for production of a list of holders of low automobile-licence numbers.

Mr. Marler said at a press conference he had been surprised to see newspaper reports telling that Quebec City police authorities were unable to obtain information about the drivers of cars with licence numbers 1 to 2,000.

The Liberal leader said he had raised the question of information about low number holders at the 1949 Legislature session and had been informed by Provincial Treasurer Onesime Gagnon that such information was supplied when requests were made in writing.

He added that the existence of a "privileged class" to whom the laws were not applied seemed "ridiculous."

Will Visit Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Cameron F. Cobbold, governor of the Bank of England, will make his first official visit to Canada next week since his appointment last March. Accompanied by Sir George Abell, one of the advisers of the Bank of England, he will arrive here Monday, spending three days in Ottawa and one day day each in Montreal and Toronto.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Agricultural Commodity Groups Express Concern About Future of Markets . . . Co-Op Broilers Take First Prize at Royal Winter Fair.

"It is an injustice to encourage men to hang on to their cows if they are not to know what to expect next summer," said Gilbert McMillan of Huntingdon, Que., at the annual meeting of Almonte Concentrated Milk Producers.

That expression is further indication of the concern among Ontario farmers about outlets for their products. During the war years they had a definite market for all the foodstuffs they could produce.

"We in agriculture are going along like a ship without a rudder," said W. I. Walker of Dunnville, president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, at a meeting a week ago of the Kent growers.

Those are ideas from opposite ends of the province within the last few days, and they are typical of the thinking of farmers as they seek to estimate their prospects, and plan their work for next year.

At Almonte, Mr. McMillan said that if by Dec. 1 it is not known what export demand may be expected for 1950, "producers would be justified in taking steps to reduce production." Neither Mr. McMillan nor any other progressive farmer in this province is disposed to curtail his work and investment unless his efforts are likely to result in embarrassing surpluses. He is better equipped with machines and knowledge than ever before to do the job of agriculture.

Said Mr. Walker at Chatham: "One of our problems stems from the fact that we of the canning industry as well as others, including farmers, are geared up to war production, although the demand created by the export market of war years has tapered off."

Mr. Walker said that both the grower and the canner were in difficulty.

The story was told recently of the Western Ontario bean growers with one million and a quarter bushels for which they have to find consumers. "What would have happened," Mr. Walker asked, "if the Government had not bought up surplus butter, and also had not passed on to Great Britain much of the surplus apple crop in Nova Scotia?"

Those were remaining measures of control preventing confusion among primary producers with resulting exploitation of markets and labor.

With Cream Producers

Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore presided as chairman of the Ontario Cream Producers' Marketing Board in Toronto this week.

The board is fixing more attention on the sale of its product. And a program of publicity is designed to keep the merits of good Ontario butter before consumers.

"We do not want to prevent those of our consumers from having a spread for their bread which otherwise might not be available," said Mr. Gifford. "But we have felt strongly that margarine should not have been allowed on our market without as much as being subject to regulations similar to those applying to our butter. To offset this injustice we have carried on as energetic a campaign as possible."

Mr. Gifford said the cream producers have set new goals of both quantity and quality. The board has been given representation on the special committee being announced by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, to deal with such matters as markets, quality and other features of the industry.

Farm leaders have been asserting for a long time that cheap food is the bane of their industry and its progressive operators. This statement was repeated by R. W. Morrison, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, in the Federation's brief to the federal government this week.

Mr. Morrison said consumers were putting a noose around their necks in their demand for cheap food.

Farmers accept and apply advanced scientific methods of production. They hearken to official warnings that it is their duty to maintain the fertility of their soil but they know that to prevent depletion and exhaustion of the land they must put back into it the mineral elements their harvests and the grazing of their livestock withdraw.

They have listened to expert advice that impoverished soil finally reacts in a physically impoverished people. An dto all such counsel the farmer's question of vexation: who is holding the bag? Without adequate income how is he to pay for the fertilizer his acres require?

That is the shadow returning to farmers' discussion meetings such as those of the week at Chatham, Almonte, Toronto. Mr. Walker remarked at Chatham: "I am a free enterprise man myself, but I don't want to see it so free as some people would like."

Mr. Bromfield's Horse

Pertinent to the figure of the noose around the head of the unthinking and ignorant consumer is a paragraph in an article received a few days ago from Robson Black, Toronto newspaper man of years ago, and son of a manse at Harwood. It is entitled "Diet by Instinct" . . . "Wildlife shows the nutritionists the way."

Mr. Black relates "a dramatic experiemnt" by Louis Bromfield, the novelist turned enquiring farmer at Malabar Farm, Ohio.

It has to do with mineral contents of land and its crops.

"Mr. Bromfield fertilized one half of a pasture field. The other half he left in its leached-out condition. The entire field was then sown to grass. When the new crop was ankle-deep over the whole acre, he turned into the pasture an old horse—stone blind.

The animal soon detected that two different qualities of feed grew in the same field. Unable to see, it would wander into the section of poor soil, munch a few minutes, and move over into the more nutritive grasses of the fertilized land. Hundreds of farmers came to see the spectacle. And Bromfield's nag rarely failed to give his demonstration of a blind animal's instinct toward right and wrong foods. The experiment showed beyond question that if "dumb creatures" are given a choice, they will readily select vegetation that contains the right vitamins, minerals, and other body building elements."

To farmers, the nub, and the rub, of that story is not Mr. Bromfield's field, but his credit rating at the bank from his enviable series of best sellers.

The equivalent of that message was one of the first chapters of the soil gospel Frank C. Paterson brought to Peterborough county in the talk on grasses by Prof. McConkey, of OAC, who returned to the College a year or so ago from China where he had been "on loan" to the Nationalist government. It was repeated in various forms, one of them in a color film. The farmers who saw it will remember the cow with its head through a rail fence straining to reach the wayside grass whose fertility had not been depleted by years of cropping.

The cow of the picture, with its tail to the field provided for its grazing, was the counterpart of Louis Bromfield's blind horse. There is nothing new in this to the convinced fertilizing farmer. His concern, and the several meetings mentioned indicates that it is cropping up again, is about sufficiency of income to buy fertilizer, as an example of his needs, and to put back into the soil the vitamins and minerals mentioned by Mr. Black to sustain a healthy people.

Co-Op Broilers Win at Royal

Years of study and experiment produced the Peterborough Co-Op frozen broilers that were awarded first prize in the poultry section of the Royal Winter Fair.

It is a long story of progress step by step even down to the special packaging that was finally evolved to ensure successful marketing. The Royal award is proof of the quality of the birds as they are ready for selling over the retail counter.

"We did not select the cartons of broilers that make up our exhibit at the Royal," said R. M. Peirson, Manager of Co-Op. "They were simply taken as they came from our freezer, and are typical of our Land of the Maples product. We are particularly proud of that fact."

At an early stage of their enterprise if finding a special market for poultry, Co-Op finally selected White Rocks, partly for their advantage of attractive appearance. Feeding was another detail that received a great deal of attention, and even a mistake in the proportion of one of the

SUSPEND NORONIC CAPTAIN FOR YEAR

CSL Complacency Scored in Inquiry

OTTAWA, Nov. 21—(CP)—Highlights of Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock's Royal Commission report on the Noronic fire, tabled in the Commons today:

Destruction of the Noronic and the high loss of life are blamed on failure of the owners and captain to assure proper fire-fighting precautions aboard the ship.

The Captain—William Taylor, 66, of Sarnia—was also at fault for failing to take general charge of the situation after fire broke out.

The Captain should have directed in an organized way the arousing of passengers instead of acting himself as "an ordinary sailor in such parts of the ship as he could reach."

Capt. Taylor's certificate is suspended for one year. No other certificates were interfered with.

Costs of the investigation are to be charged against the owners—Canada Steamship Lines Limited—on the Exchequer Court scale of costs.

No ruling on the extent to which drinking may have contributed to loss of life.

The fire patrol system aboard the Noronic was inadequate for early fire detection.

The fire found officers and crew without any organization designed to deal with the situation.

High loss of life was the result of lack of fire-fighting organization and absence of a proper alarm system.

Complete complacency in regard to the possible outbreak of fire had descended on both the ship officers and the management.

The Noronic had no pre-arranged plan for rousing and getting passengers off the ship in event of fire.

There was no evidence of the fire having been deliberately set.

The fire cause was not established although it is known to have started in a small linen closet just forward of the women's washroom opening onto the port corridor on "C" deck.

Such efforts as were made to fight the fire were scattered and ineffective.

Ordinary members of the crew took such action when fire was discovered as they would be expected to take in view of the lack of general direction resulting from failure of any officer to take charge of the situation.

The fire fighting appliances on board appear to have been satisfactory and in good working order.

Experience of the fire indicates need for making fire-resisting bulkheads a requirement aboard all passenger-carrying lake ships.

Regulations requiring complete coverage of such ships by continuous fire patrol systems as well as automatic fire alarm systems should be applied.

All such ships should have a comprehensive fire-fighting organization with each member of the crew assigned specific duties.

Sprinkler systems and public address systems for directing passengers in emergency should be installed on all such vessels.

Ships at dock should provide adequate and more than a single means of getting ashore.

Passenger ships docking with the intention of staying for any extended time should be required to be connected with the local telephone system so that the local fire department can be called without delay in event of a fire.

Car Crashes Culvert 4 Hurt Near Lindsay

LINDSAY, Nov. 21 (CP) — Four people were taken to Ross Memorial Hospital here after the car in which they were riding left No. 7 Highway, near Oakwood on Sunday night and was totally wrecked when it crashed a culvert.

Reginald Tomlinson, 17 year old driver from Baldwin, Ont., suffered a severe head cut while Margaret Beatty 11, of Toronto, a front seat passenger was badly cut on the lip and suffered a fractured nasal bone. Mrs. Grace Frye, 30, of Nobleton and Archie Bird 35, of Trenton, were badly cut about the face when the rear seat of the auto crashed forward. Tomlinson who had been charged with careless driving was released later from hospital along with Bird.

2 Small Children Die In Blaze

WINDSOR, Nov. 21 — (CP)—Two small children were burned to death today in a flash fire which swept their parents' home on the city's outskirts. The one-storey frame dwelling was gutted in a matter of minutes.

Dead are Albert Labute, Jr., 5, and his 16-months-old brother David.

Both are children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Labute. Mrs. Labute ran from the home with her three-year-old daughter Barbara. Before she could return for the other sleeping children, the house was a mass of flames. Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Minden Man Dies 50 Ft. From Safety

Plane Upsets, Sinks 250 Yards Out, Doctor Saves Pilot

LONGFORD MILLS, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP)—A youth of 20 was drowned 50 feet from safety and an airplane pilot was saved from possible death from exposure on Saturday when a plane crashed while trying to take off from Trout Lake in Haliburton district.

The youth, Ernest Windover, a clerk from Minden, was drowned while trying to swim to shore after the plane capsized and sank about 250 yards out.

Pilot Sam Rowe of Orillia, was saved by Orillia's flying doctor. Dr. W. H. Woodrow, who heard the engine of the Rowe plane cut suddenly.

Dr. Woodrow was hunting near a nearby lake and suspected trouble. He ran to his own plane, took off and circled over Trout Lake until he spotted drifting wreckage. Then he saw Rowe, who had swum ashore but collapsed, unconscious.

Dr. Woodrow landed, gave the freezing pilot emergency first aid, put him in his plane, and flew him to a nearby hunting lodge.

Trout Lake is about 120 miles

Pilot's Story

Harry L. Stirk, partner in the charter air service Rowe organized less than two months ago, relayed this story from the pilot's bed in Orillia Soldiers' Memorial Hospital tonight:

"I had been flying hunters out from Trout Lake to their homes at Minden, and already had made several trips. I had two more to do after Mr. Windover," Rowe told Stirk.

"I was just off the water when I found the ship was heavy from icing and decided it would be safer to land again; anyway the weight of the ice was forcing us back. As we hit the water the left wing float broke off. The plane turned over on one wing and started to sink.

"Windover opened the window on the right side and scrambled out. I saw him take hold of the loose float and start to paddle and swim toward shore, using the float as a support.

"I stripped off some of my clothes and climbed through the same window and started after him.

Let Go of Float

"When Windover was about 50 feet from shore he let go of the float and started to swim, I guess he thought he could make better time. A few second later he went under.

"I managed to get to shore a little while after and collapsed. I don't know how long I was there before someone—I guess it was Dr. Woodrow—came along," said Rowe.

Provincial police were notified from the main lodge of Longford Reserve limits, where Rowe had been taken by the doctor, and an ambulance took him to the Orillia hospital. He is suffering from a cut over one eye, shock and exposure, but his condition today was reported satisfactory.

Britain Ready To Co-operate On Problems In Europe

LONDON Nov. 21 (CP) — Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chencellor of the Exchequer, said in a broadcast to Europe Sunday night that Britain is "ready and able" to co-operate with other western European countries in tackling economic problems "to build up an expanding economy of western Europe."

"There is certainly nothing in Britain's position in the sterling area to prevent us playing a full part in the economic integration of western Europe," he said.

"This is the fundamental objective of all of us: a wide market, increasing production and full employment for our peoples."

Reviewing the work of the organization for European economic co-operation, Sir Stafford listed three "important progressive steps."

First, the fact that its 18 members were developing a European approach to economic problems was a "very great achievement."

Second, the inter-European payments plan, put forward by Britain "would be adapted and developed in circumstances in the coming year."

Third, what had been termed "the liberalization of European trade," which was also a British proposal with the object of freeing Europe's trade by cancelling quantitative restrictions on many imports.

By Dec. 15, Sir Stafford said, "at least 50 per cent of all private account trade between OEEC countries should be freed from import licensing restrictions, except where balance of payments difficulties make this impossible."

"We have already done our part and we look forward to the wider markets we shall enjoy when others do the same.

Davies Wins Award

Governing Council of the Canadian Drama Award meeting in Victoria announced Saturday that a Canadian Drama Award has been conferred on Robertson Davies, editor of the Examiner, "for outstanding work in Canadian theatre". Sir Robert Holland of Victoria, Chairman, and the members of the Council have extended Mr. Davies their sincere congratulations. The Award has tangible form in a scroll and emblem.

In tribute to Mr. Davies, the committee said: "His influence has extended beyond the boundaries of Canada—he has demonstrated that wherever he is personally active, drama flourishes.

It is also announced by Sir Robert Holland that Maj. M. V. McGuire of Vernon, B.C., has won the Canadian Drama Award for 1949. Maj. McGuire has been a leader in the development of amateur drama for 25 years. Other award winners are Ralph Hicklin, Fredericton, N.B., and Mrs. Eliza Houde, Norwood, Man.

GM Workers End Strike, Get Compromise

OSHAWA, Nov. 21—(CP) — The General Motors strike that began Oct. 26 ended Sunday night as the first shift entered the plant to prepare the way for a return to normal operations by Tuesday.

United Auto Workers (CIO) members voted by an overwhelming majority to accept compromise settlement terms. The union announced 79 per cent of those voting had cast their ballot in favor of the proposals.

It was not disclosed how many of the 5,500 members involved in the strike voted. But a spokesman said it was the heaviest vote in the history of Local 222, of the CCL-affiliated union.

The strike, started when four employees were dismissed for alleged wildcat stoppages, ended when the company agreed to reduce the dismissal orders to suspensions ranging from one to six months.

In return the union conceded the right of the company to set assembly line speeds—an issue that led to the walk-out—and also repudiated wildcat stoppages.

C.P.R. Orders Diesel Engines

SUDBURY, Nov. 21—(CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway has placed a $12,000,000 order for 58 Diesel locomotives to be used in freight service on the rugged 517-mile Schreiber division between Fort William and Cartier, Ont., N. R. Crump, vice-president of the company, announced today.

Fulfilling the largest order for this type of equipment ever placed by a Canadian railway, Montreal locomotive works will build 44 of the units, while the new plant of General Motors Diesel, Ltd., at London, Ont., will manufacture the other 14.

The 58 Diesel units will replace 68 steam locomotives, destined for service elsewhere on the 17,031-mile CPR system.

The units being acquired, Mr. Crump said, will be among the first of their type manufactured in Canada. Those being built by the Montreal locomotive works are on the model of Diesel locomotives produced by the American Locomotive Company at Schenectady, N.Y., and the General Motors locomotives will be counterparts of those built by General Motors at Lagrange, Ill.

Mr. Crump said substantial economies are expected from the Dieselization of this division.

The Montreal locomotive works contract calls for 20 streamlined 1,500-horsepower road freight "A" units, 20 streamlined 1,500-horsepower road freight "B" units, and four 1,580-horsepower road switching locomotives. Delivery will start early in the New Year.

Haida Saves 18 U.S. Fliers After Crash

Men On Life Rafts For 79 Hours, Battle 60-Ft. Waves

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 21 (CP)—Beefsteak, families, insurance and "move over and give me a little room"—That's what survivors of the ditch B-29 said they thought about during 79 "miserable" hours on two six-man rafts in heavy Atlantic swells north of Bermuda. The 18 survivors—four of them on stretchers—arrived here Sunday aboard the Canadian destroyer Haida. The ship picked them up Saturday after a United States Air Force B-17 sighted them about 400 miles northeast of Bermuda.

Two of the 20-man crew drowned before they could get through the heavy swells to the two life rafts. One of the 18 survivors was suffering considerably from shock.

But 14 of the bruised and salt-caked airmen walked unaided from the crashboats that brought them to shore from the destroyer. They grinned at the wildly cheering hundreds who watched them transfer to ambulances that took them to the Kindley Air Base hospital here.

Most of the men were considered in good condition. Some had salt water sores. But the majority seemed fairly fit.

The captain of the rescuing destroyer, Lt.-Cmdr. Edward T. G. Madgwick of Ottawa, said waves 50 to 60 feet high were tossing the lifeboats as he brought the Haida alongside. The waves were so high, said the 33-year-old Canadian skipper, the men stepped or were handed across the destroyer's forward deck without using a ladder.

Transfer Survivors

Cmdr. Madgwick berthed his 1,900-ton ship at the U.S. navy operations base at St. George's, five miles from Hamilton, after transferring the survivors to a crashboat in Hamilton harbor.

A whaler from the Haida picked up the men from a rescue boat which was dropped earlier from a circling search plane. The men had transferred to the rescue boat from two overcrowded life rafts on which they had huddled since the crash.

The aircraft carrier Magnificent launched Firefly fighter planes to search the seas, despite the fact the waves were breaking over the flight deck. As a result, some of the planes were damaged in landing.

Because of the heavy swells, the fighters had not spotted the rescue boat, but the survivors later said they had seen the car-

Driver Leaves Body At Hospital

BRAMPTON, Nov. 21—(CP)—Police are seeking a motorist who halted Sunday night at Peel Memorial Hospital, left a dead girl and disappeared.

The girl was identified as Margaret Robertson, of Acton, 21-year-old former student at the University of Western Ontario. An autopsy performed Sunday night showed death was due to an illegal operation, Coroner W. S. Caldwell said.

Hospital officials said the man drove up to the hospital's main entrance Sunday afternoon and told attendants he had a sick girl in his car. He said he had seen her on the street and offered to bring her to hospital.

The man was told to drive to the emergency entrance. Attendants put the girl on a stretcher but while they were taking her inside, saw that she was dead. When they turned toward the door, they found the motorist had driven off.

Police Chief Frank Keates said a good description of the man was obtained.

Miss Robertson was said to have gone to Toronto after leaving the University about three weeks ago. She rented a hotel room, police said, and told friends she was looking for a job. A few days ago she telephoned her parents in Acton and told them she expected to be home soon.

Judge Blames Ship Owners For Inadequate Protection

OTTAWA, Nov. 21—(CP)—The owners and master of the cruise ship Noronic were blamed by a Supreme Court of Canada judge today for the Sept. 17 flash fire that took 118 lives as the luxury vessel lay at a Toronto dock. Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, reporting as Commissioner in a Transport Department inquiry, ordered the Master's certificate of Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, Ont., suspended for a year and recommended a series of tightened safety regulations for such vessels as the Noronic. In a 30,000-word report tabled in the Commons shortly after he had delivered a brief court judgment suspending the Captain, Mr. Justice Kellock found the loss of the ship and the loss of life had resulted from "failure" of Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., and Capt. Taylor to take adequate precautions against fire.

In particular, the judge censured owners and master for failure to provide proper means of detecting and fighting fires while in dock and for getting passengers off the ship should it take fire in port.

Acting Transport Minister Howe, tabling the report, told parliament the government would "carefully consider" the Judge's recommendations and he expressed hope the investigation would be the "means of preventing disasters of this kind in the future."

Besides suspending the captain's certificate, Mr. Justice Kellock also assessed against the owner-company the expenses incurred by the Transport Department in the 17-day investigation held at Toronto.

Crew Not Blamed

While critical of the actions of the master after the fire broke out, Mr. Justice Kellock said the actions of the ordinary crew members were no doubt what they would be expected to do in such circumstances.

This was in the light of the fact that no officer had taken charge of the situation or had attempted to give any general directions, "if such was possible at the advanced stage which the fire had reached when the alarm was given."

After the alarm was given, the judge said, "the only thing it might have been possible to do, which was not done, was for the master to have taken general charge of the situation and directed in an organized way the arousing of passengers, instead of acting himself as an ordinary seaman in such parts of the ship as he could reach."

(Evidence at the inquiry was that Capt. Taylor attempted to fight the fire personally when caught below decks by the outbreak).

The judge said "complete complacency had descended" on both

Kellock Report Makes No Ruling On Extent Drinking May Have Caused Ship's Deaths

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (CP) — The Kellock report on the Noronic disaster made no ruling today about the extent to which drinking may have contributed to the loss of 118 lives September 17.

Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock made several references to the evidence about drinking but came up with no clear-cut decision about it.

He said a number of passengers were questioned at the inquiry "with regard to the extent, if any, to which there might have been drinking on board which might have accounted, in part at least, for the failure of so many passengers to become aroused or aroused in time to get off the ship."

"The ship's bar had been closed about 6 pm. when the ship docked and any intoxicants which were consumed after that time would have had to have been obtained from the city or must have already been in the possession of the passengers.

"The special officer, Brown, said that on a comparable cruise in the preceding year there were on board what he described as 'a bunch of drunks,' but that on the cruise in question the situation was quite orderly."

28 Sick Refugee Children Feared Lost On Plane

OSLO, Nov. 21—(AP)—A plane carrying 28 undernourished Jewish refugee children from North Africa was missing today, believed crashed somewhere in tangled forest country near Oslo. The plane with 35 aboard—28 children, three nurses and four crew members—sent its last radio message about 6 p.m. Sunday night as it neared Oslo's Bornebu airport. Soon afterwards a sharp flash of light, followed by an explosion was seen near Gjersjoen Lake a mile southast of Oslo.

Hundreds of searchers struggled through the trees and swamps in the lake region during the night and this morning searching for a trace of the missing craft.

The 28 children were in a group of 55 North African jews from Tunis being flown to Norway for six months of rest and rehabilitation before travelling on to Israel. Most were between 6 and 12 years of age.

Second Plane Safe

Another plane with 27 children arrived safely earlier in the afternoon from Tunis. The missing plane, a twin-engined DC-3 transport, was operated by a Netherlands company, Aero Holland.

Visibility was obscured by clouds as the incoming plane reported it was over Oslo Fjord only a mile or two from the capital.

Aero Holland, owners of the plane, announced at the Hague, Netherlands, that the plane was considered lost.

The rehabilitation program is financed by the American Joint Distribution Committee. A spokesman said the children, from Tunisian Jewish families, were undernourished and were threatened by tuberculosis.

Brother Kills Hunter Thought Him Deer

SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 21 (CP)—The first local hunting fatality of the 1949 season occurred Sunday when James Running, 31-year-old veteran of the Second World War, was fatally injured by his brother George in the Goulais river district, 20 miles northeast of here.

The two brothers accompanied by Frank Hallam, had become separated during the hunt. Noticing a move in a clump of woods George fired. The green jacketed James fell to the ground and died almost instantly.

Dr. C. R. Eaid, coroner and Provincial Constable John Gouley investigated. An inquest will be

Calgary Sends Horses, Band

CALGARY, Nov. 21—(CP)—A dozen palominos and pintos, a five-piece old-time band, five majorettes, a chuckwagon and horses, a 100-foot miniature train—all will be aboard the special train leaving here tonight for Totrain leaving here tonight for Tofinal, Nov. 26.

"Swing yer pardner" will echo from the train on its 2,000-mile journey. Square-dancers have a rumpus room set aside in which to get in their last practice licks in preparation for their wild-west parade through Toronto streets.

Harry Forester, chairman of the special train committee, said Sunday night that 318 persons will be going on the stampeder special this year—120 more than last year. All told, he said, there will be about 1,200 Calgarians rooting for Calgary Stampeders in the Grey Cup final against Montreal Alouettes. Many football fans were going on other trains and by special plane.

Also aboard the special train will be a hand-tooled saddle, a gift from the city of Calgary to Mayor Hiram (Buck) McCallum of Toronto, and a genuine Blackfoot Indian teepee. The teepee will be set up by two Blackfoot chiefs at the front of Toronto's city hall.

Company Stands By Captain Despite Judge's Report

MONTREAL, Nov. 21 (CP)—Capt: Norman J. Reoch, general manager of Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., said today that the company is "standing by" Capt. William Taylor, master of the burned cruise ship Noronic.

Today Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, reporting as commissioner in a Transport Department inquiry, ordered Capt. Taylor's certificate suspended for a year.

"In so far as his position with the company is concerned, the status of Capt. Talyor remains unchanged." Capt. Reoch said in a statement.

"We stand behind our officers and men and Capt. Taylor will have the full benefit of pension fund provisions."

(A company official said Captain Taylor is due to retire on pension "in about two years." The CSL's pension retirement age for masters is 68)

"If any general statement is issued by the CSL on Mr. Justice Kellock's report, it will come from Col. K. R. Marshall, the company's president, in Toronto," Capt. Reoch said.

At Toronto Col. Marshall said he would not comment on the report for "one or two days."

"I've only received the report and won't be able to digest its full contents for a day or so," he told The Canadian Press. "And even then I don't know that a statement will be issued by myself."

Napanee Youth Ordered Hanged

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Alfred Childs, 16, may become the youngest Canadian to ever go to the gallows to be hanged for murder.

He was sentenced at Napanee, Saturday night, to be hanged Feb. 10 for the June 29 slaying of Elijah McQuaig, 57, of Napanee.

It was recalled here that last spring Justice Department and legal officials said they could not remember of anyone 16 years of age or younger being sent to the gallows. At that time, they were commenting on the sentencing of Alan Newton, of Rumsey, Alta., for the slaying of a Rumsey farmer's wife. Newton also was 16 at the time. No one of a comparable age has been sentenced to death in Canada since that time.

Have Subsidy Plan To Help Egg Market

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP)—Officials of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said today a subsidy plan for Canada's egg market is planned by the federal government.

The plan would cushion the effect of the recently-announced decision of the British government to purchase her eggs from Denmark in future.

Kingsley Brown, editor of the United Co-operator, the O.F.A.'s official publication, said: "Without such a subsidy plan the egg market is pretty well shot.

"There are indications that a floor price on eggs will be established, taking the load off farmers and sharing it over the whole population. This is under discussion now."

250 People Injure Police In Riot

3 Squads of Police Finally Smash Free-Swinging Melee

SARNIA, Nov. 21—(CP)—More than 250 persons were reported to have joined in a free-swinging melee early Sunday in which three policemen were injured.

It took two squads of city police and a squad of Ontario provincials to break up the battle which followed a fight on a down-town street. Four men were arrested.

City Police Inspector S. C. Pratt suffered a knife wound in the leg in the small-scale riot as well as severe head and leg bruises. Constable Ernest Duffield received a cut lip and Constable Douglas Janes a bite on the arm which required hospital treatment.

Held are: Robert Smithers, 21, charged with assaulting a policeman; Archie MacDonald, 24, participating in an affray; his brother, Harold, 17, obstructing police, and Robert Nelson, 19, obstructing police. All are Sarnia men.

Interfere In Fight

Police said the melee began after police interfered in a fight between Archie MacDonald and an unidentified man. As the police arrested MacDonald, his brother interfered and was rapped with a police club.

This made a gathering crowd angry. As more police reinforced the constables, more persons poured out of nearby beverage rooms and soon became involved in a kicking, punching melee. Police finally broke it up.

Nearly 300 yelling, screaming men and women surrounded them. The crowd milled back and forth across the street as the policemen were kicked and punched. Traffic snarled for blocks.

At the police station Sgt. Harry Simpkins appealed desperately to the provincial police for help. But the riot was almost over by the time they got there.

The MacDonald brothers and Nelson were arrested and taken to the police station. Smithers came to the station to see what he could do for the trio. But the constables arrested him as the man who kicked Inspector Pratt, and he joined his mates in the cells.

Five stitches were required to close Inspector Pratt's wound. Doctors gave him an anti-tetanus injection. Police say they don't know who stabbed the inspector or who bit Constable Jones.

ASSOCIATED CANADIAN TRAVELLERS, Peterborough Branch, marshalled their best salesmen to promote buyers' attendance at a mammoth rumage sale on Saturday. Funds collected, which were considerable, will go toward a Christmas party for crippled children. You would never know them, but behind the disguises above are Left to Right, Front, Eddie O'Brien and Floyd Abrams; in the Rear, Austin Jonah, Mel Johnston and Don Meredith.

Much Loud Talk In Lakefield By Accused Men

Before beating up Mr. and Mrs. James Hogan, proprietors of the Melody Inn, north of Lakefield, the four second-generation Ukrainian men now being held on a charge of murder in Lindsay jail were causing trouble in Lakefield itself.

That is the information received by Chief Garnet Samis of the village.

The four men who are on remand until Friday are three brothers — James Zahodnik, 33, Paul 28, and John, aged 30; and William Yuzwa, 33. Three of the accused are from Hamilton but John Zahodnik lives in Toronto.

First trace of the men in Lakefield was about 11 p.m. Thursday night when one of them asked Mrs. Kenneth Reid, wife of a garage operator, why the nearby Snell Garage was closed.

He said he was trying to purchase a hunting licence, usually sold there.

Mrs. Reid told Chief Samis that when she said she did not, the man became abusive. He was directed to go and see her husband working in his garage nearby.

When the man entered Mr. Reid's nine-year-old son was testing an outboard motor.

"Shut that — — — thing off," he ordered brusquely.

He retold his tale to Mr. Reid and became so abusive that the latter told him to "clear out." His statement was re-inforced by the fact he had an axle shaft in his hand and there were several other young fellows, friends of Mr. Reid's, standing about in the garage.

It is believed the man rejoined his three companions and drove away in the truck from the Strickland St. address and started up Queen St.

Purchased Coffee

When the four spotted the Coronation Inn they parked their panel truck and ordered coffee, as they were to do later prior to the beating of the Hogans.

The proprietors, Fred Northey and his wife, claimed the men behaved in a belligerent manner. They spilled the coffee on the counter and emptied two sugar containers of their contents, all the time talking loudly.

One of them smashed a cardboard container placed there by the Lakefield Canadian Legion to raise funds for the annual Legion Christmas Tree for children. After they had left the proprietors found only two cents amid the ruins of the container. And Mr. Northey was sure there was a considerable quantity of change in the box.

Chief Samis did not learn of this incident until much later as the Northeys have no telephone and laid no complaint.

The Chief saw them emerge from the Inn and noted they were boisterous but not sufficiently so for him to detain them. He jotted down their licence number and decided to finish checking his beat before investigating them.

From the Coronation Inn the quartet drove to the Melody Inn, just outside the village, and there they repeated the coffee order. When they were unable to obtain their coffee immediately the young couple were set upon by the husky brothers and their companion and beaten up.

Then they headed north toward Burleigh and the first episode in the three-hour span of intimidation, fighting, stabbing and murder had come to an end.

The four were captured on the outskirts of Peterborough after fleeing from the scene of the street slaying of Jack Loucks in Lindsay.

Eight Canadians Brave Seas To Aid Fliers

OTTAWA Nov. 21 (CP)—Eight Canadian sailors—the youngest 19 and the oldest 47—braved the turbulent Atlantic in tiny craft Saturday as the Destroyer Haida rescued 18 survivors of a crashed B-29.

The sea was so rough that waves shipped over the flight deck of the aircraft carrier Magnificent sailing nearby. That deck is 60 feet from water level.

The first of the hazardous small vessel operations in the spectacular rescue was undertaken by six men in a 27-foot whaleboat. The second operation was the transfer in another small craft of a doctor and medical assistant from the Magnificent to the Haida to care for the 18 survivors.

Send Whaleboat

Directed to the spot where the survivors drifted in a large collapsible lifeboat, the Haida sent out the whaleboat to tow the raft to the destroyer's side. From there the survivors were helped up to the Haida's deck on scrambling nets tossed over the side of the ship.

Coxswain of the whaleboat was 22-year-old Petty Officer James E. Callighen of Toronto, who has been in the RCN since February, 1945.

The other five members of the whaleboat crew were Leading Seamen Michael J. Longeuay, 23, Windsor; Gordon E. Munro, 21, Toronto; Able Seamen Thomas W. Scratch, 19, Halifax and Gordon Hayes, 20, Ottawa, and Ordinary Seaman Robert Pugh 26 of Verdun, Que.

At 19, Scratch was the youngest to take part in the main rescue operations. The oldest was Surgeon Commander Eric H. Lee, 47, of Saskatoon and Ottawa. He has been principal medical officer in the Magnificent since January of this year.

Li In Hospital Break Predicted

HONG KONG, Nov. 21 (AP)—The feud between Nationalist China's top leaders—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and acting president Li Tsung-jen — may have reached a showdown today.

Li was in a hospital in this British colony. He complained of a serious stomach ailment. He flew in Sunday without returning to Chungking where Chiang has awaited him for days.

The Generalissimo had gone to the National refuge capital, now seriously threatened by the Chinese Communists, at Li's request. He found Li gone on inspection tour of the Nationalists' dwindling southwestern China domain.

They have had many differences since Li took over the presidency last January when Chiang "retired." Out of these has developed a deepening cleavage over basic conduct of the civil war against the Reds.

Chiang, still the dominant power in the ailing Nationalist machinery, has prevailed with a policy of withdrawing before the advancing Reds, of trading space for time. He has been represented often as believing a third world war wold come in time for the United States to restore his regime to dominance.

Li, on the other hand, has favored risking all on a decisive military stand against the Reds.

The graveside service was conducted by Rev. Dr. F. M. Grant assisted by Father Hoolihan and Father K. Corkery. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Cecil, Norman, Vincent and Jack Shaughnessy, and John Boyle and Claire Wolff.

Friends and relatives from Washington, Brooklyn, St. Paul Minn. and Toronto attended the service.

rier planes.

The pilot and commander of the B-29, Lt.-Col. John Grable of March Field Air Base, Calif., said church was to be a first stop ashore for most of the rescued airmen.

"Then maybe we will celebrate a bit," Grable added.

The pilot said after the plane's radio navigation equipment failed Wednesday morning, "we hunted for the island (Bermuda) under every cloud we saw, but had no luck. It was pretty overcast."

With their fuel almost out, "we jettisoned everything we could and prepared for ditching."

Tail Breaks Off

When the big bomber hit the water, the tail broke off, taking one of the three life rafts aboard down with it. The fuselage turned nose down in less than a minute.

The men on the rafts lived on emergency rations, mostly hard candy. When they were picked up, they had one day's supply left. Thirst was no problem because they drank rain water from frequent showers. They also had equipment to purify the salty sea water.

One of the crowded rafts capsized twice but everyone got back aboard.

On their arrival here, Sgt. Roy Coulter, 46, Beverley Hills, Calif., was ruled not in shape to talk to reporters. Lying quiet and unsmiling on his stretcher, he was reported suffering considerable shock.

The two men lost were Cpl. Raymond Breit, 32, Arlington, Calif., who received a severe head injury from the wrecked plane's girders, and Pte. Robert Dobson, 19, Decatur, Ill., who was unable to swim through the swells. Grable said the heavy seas prevented the other survivors from reaching them.

Crossbar Rider Hit

Ronnie Cavanagh was knocked from the crossbar of a bicycle on which he was being ridden by a friend, about 6:20 pm. Saturday, when the bicycle and a car driven by Kenneth Langton, 323 Simcoe Street, collided.

Langton reported to Constable Jack F. Morrow he had been driving north on Rubidge Street. He turned right at Simcoe Street and met in collision with the bicycle travelling south on Rubidge Street.

58 Countries At Food Parley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Representatives of 58 countries today open the annual conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations.

Their big job: How to increase food production in some countries and how to handle unmarketable surplus in others.

As a preliminary to the meeting, the FAO issued a report saying harvests in the northern hemisphere have turned the tide against world starvation but that production still is behind world needs.

The FAO said food production improved last year in every region except Australia and New Zealand. However, there was no evidence that production is expanding at the rate it should to keep ahead of the growth in world population.

N. E. Dodd, former United States Under-Secretary of Agriculture, is director general of the FAO. He will report on a plan for a world food bank aimed at getting food surpluses to needy areas at low prices.

Judge Blames

the ships' officers and management.

"In my opinion," he declared, "no one in a responsible position in connection with the ship, either on the ship or ashore, had applied his mind in any serious way to the handling of a situation such as arose . . . although such an eventuality cannot be considered otherwise than one which might occur at any time.

The investigator found that the fire broke out in a small linen closet just forward of a women's washroom opening onto the port corridor on "C' deck, third deck down from the top of the vessel.

While Mr. Justice Kellock gave no finding on the actual cause of the fire, he declared there was no evidence of incendiarism.

His ruling on the responsibility for loss of the ship and the lives was that company and captain were at fault in:

1. Failing to have a continuous patrol of the ship to detect fire. He added "such patrol as was in existence" was limited to about 15 minutes out of each hour.

2. Failing to have an organization in operation, while the ship was docked with passengers, to transmit word of a fire outbreak to some point where trained firefighters could be dispatched immediately.

3. Failing to "contemplate in any real sense" the possibility of fire at a dock and maintaining only 15 men on duty out of a crew complement of 171.

Had No Plan

4. Failing to have any plan for arousing and getting the passengers off the ship in the event of fire while the ship was at dock."

5. Failing to train the crew in the proper steps on discovery of fire or in fire-fighting methods, beyond giving them a knowledge of how to operate fire extinguishers and hoses.

The commissioner said the loss was due to "wrongful default" of the owners and the 66-year-old master in these five particulars.

"While it is true that the owners knew and approved of the organization or lack of it designed to deal with the outbreak of fire on the ship while it lay in dock with sleeping passengers on board, the master was not in any way precluded by any instructions from the owners from taking the proper steps himself," Mr. Justice Kellock added.

In taxing costs against the owner, he added:

"I cannot think that any reasonable person, charged with the safety of sleeping passengers, could have failed to realize that something in the nature of what actually happened would be likely to happen on the ship here in question on the night of Sept. 16, 1949, had he really applied his mind to such a situation."

Show No Resource

The judge said he was not interfering with the certificates of either First Officer F. Gerald Wood of St. Thomas, or Second Officer Wilbur J. Bowles of Dorchester.

He declared "they should have had a direction from higher up, which they did not receive, although the second officer, who was the officer of the watch, showed no more resource nor initiative than did the master."

Mr. Justice Kellock found that the fire-fighting equipment on the vessel apparently was satisfactory and in good working order.

However, he recommended that provisions for fire-resistant bulkheads should be made applicable to such ships as the Noronic, as provided in the international convention for the safety of life at sea.

The Noronic had been exempted from 1939 regulations requiring new ships to have fire-resisting bulkheads, since she was built before the regulations came into effect.

Other recommendations for ships carrying more than a minimum of passengers in major inland waters:

1. That an efficient and continuous fire patrol be maintained, as well as an automatic fire alarm or fire detecting system. These systems should not be restricted to those parts of the ship not accessible to the patrols.

2. That safety-convention provisions be complied with in connection with the mustering of passengers, extinguishing of fires, warning of passengers and controlling the movement of passengers after an outbreak. This would require crew training in fire-fighting and the maintenance of an effective organization for sending trained men to the spot of a fire.

3. That these vessels be fitted with a sprinkler system protecting all enclosed sections.

4. That muster charts—which show emergency stations for passengers and crew—should be prominently displayed so crew members may become familiar with their duties.

5. That the ships be fitted with public address systems for directing passengers in emergency, and that officers be trained in their use.

6. That ships at dock should have "adequate" and more than one means of getting ashore.

7. That passenger ships remaining docked for any extended time be required to be connected with local telephone system so that fire department aid may be obtained without delay.

2 Cold War Front Officials To Report To Parliament

OTTAWA, Nov. 21—(CP)—Canada's spokesmen on two of the toughest fronts in the cold war will quite possibly be reporting to parliament in the near future. They are Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, permanent delegate to the United Nations and Canadian spokesman in the search for world control of atomic energy, and T. C. Davis, Ambassador to China who came back from his Red-ringed Embassy in Nanking some weeks ago to help the government chart its policy towards Communist China.

Mr. Davis is expected to be called before the Commons committee on external affairs this week. Gen. McNaughton will be called next week if the committee still is sitting. He can't make it this week.

The general would be able to bring the committee up to date on the unhappy chore of trying to strike a bargain with Russia over atom control.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, testifying before the committee, said he doesn't know yet whether Mr. Davis will be returning to China.

Navy

The navy is going to be called upon to provide Canada's spokesman on one of the regional planning groups of the North Atlantic Pact and it is a requirement that underlines one of its basic problems—a shortage of seasoned senior officers.

It will be a senior officer who gets the job of representing Canada on the group that plans the strategy of defending the North Atlantic sea lanes in the event of war. And the navy's senior officers are already stretched far and thin, defence sources say.

It was Vice Admiral H. T. W. Grant, chief of staff himself who represented Canada at the first meeting of the group a short time ago. A permanent representative will be named later.

In the job of constructing a really professional force, one that won't be finished fully for another four or five years, the navy is working with a corps of some 1,200 officers of whom about one-tenth have more than 10 years service.

The event took place on a huge barn on the colonial farm once occupied by Washington's troops and which now is the national headquarters of Freedom Foundation. The barn was converted into a theatre for the presentation ceremonies.

The Foundation is an organization established in March, 1949, for the purpose of making awards and carrying on non-profit activities in the advertising field.

Builders' Exchange Organized In Cobourg

COBOURG, Nov. 21 (ENS) — Local building and allied trades held a meeting here on Saturday and organized the Cobourg Contractors' and Builders' Exchange with Gren Thompson as president, Earl Shoemaker as secretary and Bert Cowin, treasurer. Directors are Charles Jackson, Joe Patterson, Ken Cooper and Harry Gladdin.

Purpose of the organization is to seek a by-law from the town council which would enforce payment of business tax or else a license fee. Local builders have been complaining about outsiders coming in and competing, who pay no business tax and are not licensed. There are also local men it was claimed, doing building who are not paying business tax or other expenses which the established contractor has to meet

Cobourg UE Members Hear Tom Fitzpatrick

COBOURG, Nov. 21 (ENS) — Members of the United Electrical Union of the local CGE plastics plant held a meeting Saturday afternoon which was addressed by Tom Fitzpatrick, union executive from Philadelphia and John Morton, right-wing union leader from Peterborough.

Al Knipfel, president of the local union, IUE-CIO, told The Examiner that it was decided at the meeting to ignore the attacks of C. S. Jackson, UE head. The local IUE has applied for certification by the Ontario Dept. of Labour, and also has applied to the parent CIO executive in the States for permission to retain "No. 534" as the designation of the local union.

Overheated Motor Is Cause Of Fire

COBOURG, Nov. 21 (ENS) — A serious fire was averted yesterday afternoon at Parson's butcher shop by the opportune return of an employee Bud Thompson. Mr. Thompson went into the store to finish up some work and found the place thick with smoke. In the basement flames were coming out of a motor which had become overheated and were nearing a pile of inflammable material. Had the blaze got a good start, firemen would have had a tough battle on their hands.

LONDON, Nov. 21—(Reuters)—Indignant Dartmoor pony fanciers will take steps in parliament this week to ensure that a recently-reported scheme to turn loose 1,600 Canadian "wild west" ponies in the area does not interfere with the breeding of the Dartmoor strain. The Dartmoor Pony Society is anxious about reports that cowboy Robert Howson, who recently arrived here from Canada, is importing the Canadian horses "to revive the Dartmoor breed."

Their wedding anniversary was marked quietly as Mr. Duff had celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday on Nov. 16, when there was a large family gathering and a birthday dinner at their home.

Cobourg Ghosts Out As Dundas Gets Title

COBOURG, Nov. 21—(ENS)—Unable to score at strategic times and in general outplayed by a superior team, Cobourg Galloping Ghosts lost the provincial intermediate "A" rugby title to Dundas Bombers here on Saturday afternoon. Score of the game was 8-3 for Dundas, the winners taking the round by 23-9. The Ghosts still have an enviable record with two dominion and five provincial titles.

The Ghosts had more scoring opportunities than Dundas, having the ball within their opponents' five yard line on four occasions but lacked the necessary punch to score. From the sidelines it looked as if quarterback Cooper had tried three quarter sneaks but the first one was legitimate, the second was a fumble, and the third was a mixup.

Dundas had a nine point lead from an earlier pass, when the first quarter opened. With wind in their favor Dundas tried for some safe points, Mostyn taking a Cobourg kick at centre and returning it for a single. In the second quarter they kicked from Cobourg's nine yard line for another point. Steeves kicked the point for Dundas in this quarter. Just before half time, Bob Bevan, speedy Cobourg secondary player, tackled Melnick behind his goal for a safety touch to even the score.

Cobourg were unable to resort to their aerial attack due to the strong wind and a muddy ball, but Cooper kicked from centre in the third quarter and Reeves was rouged behind the Dundas line in the third quarter. Holland and Steeves were the mainstays in a drive up the field deep into Cobourg territory where Holland took the ball over for a touchdown which Hamilton converted. In the last quarter Cobourg were unable to alter the score.

Although the whole of the Galloping Ghosts worked hard, the performance of McConvoy, Holmand, Jarvis and Seale was outstanding. In the backfield, the speedy Bob Bevan, who has been sensational all season, again turned in a fine game.

U.S. Voters Reject Machines

An interesting and perhaps significant feature of the recent elections in the United States was the defeat of three political "machines" which were once all-powerful in a state and two great cities. The state was New Jersey and the cities were Boston and Philadelphia, in all of which political reformers were victorious.

* * *

In New Jersey, former boss Frank Hague made what was probably his last bid for a return to power. Hague once ruled dictatorially in Jersey City and in the northern part of the state; his candidates were invariably certain winners for many years. The voters finally rebelled, however, and rejected Hague himself as well as the stooges he nominated. The state turned to a Republican, Alfred E. Driscoll, for its Governor; he proved to be an able administrator and was re-elected, after New Jersey law had been changed to allow a Governor to succeed himself

* * *

Until last election day, it had seemed that Boston would put up with anything an old man named James Michael Curley would do. A fluent and boastful speaker, he had given Boston corrupt civic government during several terms as Mayor. He was sent to jail for fraud, but was permitted to return to the Mayor's chair after serving his sentence. Boston's voters, however, tossed Curley out two weeks ago tomorrow, and put in John Hynes, who had been temporary mayor while Curley was in jail. Hynes had earned the hatred of the Curley crowd by governing honestly and efficiently, and would have been booted out when the old man came back, had he not been protected by an act passed for that purpose by the Massachusetts Legislature.

* * *

Longest-suffering of all was Philadelphia. Graft-ridden Republican administrations had been in power there for the last sixty-five years, and nobody seemed very concerned about it. Philadelphians admitted that their civic government was corrupt, but did nothing about it until this year. The Republicans apparently sensed what was coming, and themselves nominated reform candidates of unquestioned integrity. They were turned out of office, however, and Democratic reformers took their places, committed to a sweeping reorganization of civic government.

* * *

There are still political machines in existence in the United States, but the days when the machine's nomination was tantamount to an election victory are apparently over. It is a healthy political development.

The Passing Of Privacy

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's memoirs are now being printed in a number of newspapers, and will soon appear in a book; Mrs. Roosevelt, who entertained the King and Queen, gives full details of that experience, including what the President's mother said to him about serving cocktails. In the latest issue of Vogue the Duchess of Windsor writes about her customs and experiences as a hostess. And recently there has been a hullabaloo because the ingredients of Prince Charles' first birthday cake were made public, and some rum was discovered among them; thus the nursery party became a matter of public concern.

We record these things with a mild but not wholly approving interest. What has got into people today, which makes them so ready to reveal what has gone on in their homes, not in simple outline, but in obscure and sometimes embarrassing detail? Do we really care tha hot-water bottles have to be put in royal beds, winter and summer? Are we better off for knowing that the Duke of Windsor's frugal wife makes him use up st which guests have not exhausted? Gossip is always interesting, but even gossip there are different levels, ar these confessions appear to us to be of the kitchen level. The twentieth century has brought the prattle of the servant's hall into the newspapers and the gloss fashion magazines. This is, at heart, a vulgar age.

A Knowledge Of First Aid

We have been impressed with the number of reports which have appeared recently in the press concerning people who have been saved from death, or very serious injury, by other people who possessed a knowledge of elementary first aid. Such knowledge appears to be much commoner than it used to be, and we hope that it will become more common still. There are few things more truly useful that a firm grasp of the elements of first aid to the injured.

Fortunately such knowledge is not hard to acquire; training courses in it are offered by several associations and agencies, and there are good, short books which make it possible to acquire a grasp of first aid by private study. Years may pass without any necessity for such skill, but when the need arises it is immediate and urgent.

As many people as possible should know what to do with a man who has been wounded, who has suffered shock, or who has fallen from a height; it is equally important to know what to do in cases of poisoning, bites by animals or snakes, fainting and loss of consciousness from smoke or gas; it is important to know what to do for someone who is apparently drowned, or someone who is suffering from a fit. And as well as knowing what to do, it is important to know what not to do, and in what circumstances stimulants should be avoided.

During the past two weeks we have read of five lives being saved by the prompt and intelligent action of someone who knew the elements of first aid. We think that the knowledge should be even more widespread than it is at present.

U.N.'s China Delegation

An anomaly has been created at U.N. by the war in China, the rise to almost complete power of the agrarian Communists and the eclipse of Chiang Kai-shek and the Kuomintang. All U.N. Chinese delegates were appointed by the Kuomintang and are now therefore representatives of a government which has ceased to exist. The actual government of China, the Mao Tze-tung regime, now recognized officially by a few nations, has not a word to say in the many U.N. matters to which China is a party. This strange situation is made all the more important by China's being one of the "Big Five", and having a special place at U.N. counsels provided by U.N.'s charter.

Last week the Communist regime served notice on the United Nations that the Nationalist Government delegation to the General Assembly "cannot represent China and has no right to speak for the Chinese people in the United Nations Organization." It is a matter which Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Brigadier-General Carlos Romulo, President of the Assembly, are now considering and which the Assembly will have to heed.

Blarney Is A State Of Mind

Great annoyance has been caused in San Francisco because a man has been exhibiting a piece of rock there which he says is a chip off the Blarney Stone; he has allowed the public to kiss the rock, for a fee. Now it is revealed that the rock is a fake.

The Blarney Stone, as we suppose everyone knows, is in Blarney Castle, in County Cork, Eire; people who kiss it are supposed to receive the gift of eloquence and flattery; if we are not mistaken, the stone is so situated that kissing it is rather an athletic feat.

We have little faith in the power of the Blarney Stone. The early settlers of Peterborough came from County Cork, and we have no doubt that many of them had kissed the Stone, but we have no reason to believe that they were of eloquent and flattering tongue, and their descendants certainly are not. Even for Canadians, Peterborough people are sparing of ornament in their daily speech. They can talk, of course; even such purely masculine haunts as the morning Coffee Club and the Peterborough Club buzz with talk. But the talk is not noticeably loaded with blarney.

The fact of the matter is, blarney is a state of mind. The desire to embroider conversation with fanciful imagery, and the desire to flatter and cajole one's hearers, arises from a wish to please, and to soften the asperities of daily life. Such an attitude is not to be achieved by kissing the Blarney Stone, or a fraudulent chip of it. It is inborn, and those who lack it are never likely to acquire it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Banting Institute announces that too many soft drinks can cause cirrhosis of the liver in just as many cases as too much alcohol. Let this be a warning to pop-guzzlers, and to those who gossip about sufferers from this dreadful illness, as though they were necessarily drunkards.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

ONE Sunday evening a few weeks ago I turned on the radio at random. I happened to notice an item in the program "Sir Thomas Turns the Tables" and expected to hear some mystery or detective play, possibly on the lines of Lord Peter Whimsey. I pictured to myself with keen anticipation the blue-blooded aristocrat with a deceptive air of langour pitting his razor-keen intellect against the most desperate band of thugs that ever haunted South Kensington. Doubtless he would face death with a smile on his lips once or twice in the course of half-an-hour's entertainment, but finally the tables would be turned and the offenders would be brought to book. It was uncertain whether the book would still be on the table after it had been turned. Instead of this I found myself, as usual, facing the music, in the shape of Sir Thomas Beecham. This renowned baronet, conductor and high-level brick-dropper (more power to his elbow) was discoursing in bland tones about Mozart, and illustrating his remarks with recordings. He has become what has been irreverently termed a disc-jockey. I was half hoping he would utter one of his usual indiscretions, but Sir Thomas was for once evidently determined not to be drawn into controversy.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE continuing popularity of Gilbert and Sullivan confounds the "experts" who predicted that their works would not live. It is true that Gilbert's verse abounds in topical allusions which have lost their meaning to all but an inner circle of devotees, but so do Shakespeare's plays. Yet there is a quality of timelessness about Gilbert's satire that makes it applicable to modern conditions. The topsy-turvy "Gilbertian" situations are still just as funny as when they were first written. Even his rhymes are comic — "strategy" and "sat a gee", and his verse is so polished that it looks easy-until you try and imitate it yourself. On the debit side his savage caricatures of aging spinsters, Little Buttercup, Ruth, Jane and Katisha, leave a slightly unpleasant taste in the mouth, As for Sullivan's music it has lost little of its freshness and point. It is possible that the trained musician and the man in the street view it from different angles. The trained musician is, as usual, the more awkward case; he has more preconceived opinions There was a time when serious music meant music written with a high moral purpose. The composer had to ape the Beethoven frown if he wished his work to receive the approval of the pundits. During the last century in England there was a rash of oratorios—very elevating, but very uninspired and boring. Sullivan himself was prone to this heresy. He hankered after writing grand opera and oratorio, for which he was not suited, and disparaged his real masterpieces. He was like the born comedian with a longing to play Hamlet. He was always urging Gilbert to cut out the funny stuff and give him something serious (earnest), and eventually persuaded him to write the book of "The Yeoman of the Guard." After many years of fruitful collaboration their temperaments became more and more irreconcilable and eventually they quarrelled over a carpet! Sullivan's music does much to humanize Gilbert's mechanical characters and situations, and he rarely misses an opportunity to underline the humour slyly in his score. His orchestration is neat and workmanlike as befits the son of a bandmaster, while his melody is as prolific as that of Schubert. If there are still any musical snobs existing to whom Sullivan as a successful and popular composer is anathema, let them get down from their pedestals and humbly re-examine his works. They will learn much.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANOTHER composer whose best work is anything but grim and solemn is Rossini, whose sparkling Overture to "Semiramide" was played by the Berlin Philharmonic last CBC Wednesday evening in a program of recordings made at the Edinburgh Festival. We frost-bitten Northerners find it a little hard at times to appreciate the gay and sunny genius of Italy, mother of arts. (When I use the word Northerner in relation to Italy I refer to the climate, of course. I do not wish to be inundated with correspondence from geographers telling me that Peterborough is in the same latitude as Florence and the French Riviera—a piece of information that makes me think that somebody must have made a mistake in his calculation.) Rossini's music has the sparkle of champagne, the mellowness of a ripe peach eaten when still warm from the sun. He does not set out to storm the heavens, but what he does he does supremely well. In his operas he focussed attention on vocal gymnastics to the detriment of dramatic action, and this led to a reaction. Nevertheless his best works still hold the stage.

✧ ✧ ✧

BENJAMIN Britten will be 36 tomorrow, Tuesday. If he were a hockey player he would be a has-been—in the musical world he is still a promising young man. We wish you many happy returns of the day and many more years of creative activity, Benjie.

Borrowed Radar

The Swedish Minister of Defence, Mr. Allan Vougt, states that the Swedish Air Force has been able to borrow a radar station from the Norwegian Air Force. It is being used at Gothenburg. It is operated by Norwegian instructors and is being used to train Swedish airmen during combat exercises. Stations of the same type will be obtained by the Swedish Air Force next year, but thanks to Norway's assistance it has been possible to save at least a year in training the personnel which is needed for Sweden's future radar organization, says the Defence Minister.

Taxis Using Two-Way Radio

Born on war-time strides in mobile communications, the two-way radio for cabs has spread so rapidly in the United States that today, four years after its first use on an experimental basis, it is being used in one-third of the nation's taxis.

Record of the Federal Communications Commission show that the taxi industry has invested nearly $33,000,000 in 2,700 dispatching systems to bring 55,000 cabs quickly to home, office, restaurant or other point of call.—New York Herald Tribune.

AHOY!

Letter To The Editor

RADIO REPLIES TO PURIST

Sir: May I have a little space in your valuable paper to answer Sam Johnson, who corresponded with you on November 17th.

The phrase 'moderately educated', I feel, was of unhappy selection, as it almost suggests that someone else might be excessively educated under the Canadian System. Surely that would be unusual to say the least.

However, let us examine the offending words. First, livability. Longevity was not the word sought after, for it means, as everyone knows, great length of life, and housewives do not buy table fowl that are noted for their longevity.

Livability may possibly be found in a good English dictionary; possibly not. Still, considering the complete sense and meaning of this word which has been coined by the feed companies, it appears to have the colour and quality of a good, sound, English word. Are there not such fine words as 'livable', 'liv(e)', and the other pronunciation: 'live', livelong, lively, and livable?

Now the problem is: how to describe the overall quality of any given poultry feed that will increase the ability of a hen to mother chicks that are strong and healthy, chicks that will pass safely through the first few weeks that are the most difficult?

Maturity is not the word we seek, as the egg-producing stage in pullets comes before maturity, which is a latter stage of development. No, what is required is a word to describe a feed that will contribute to the strength and health of the chicks, helping them to overcome the factors that contribute to the high morality rate usually encountered in a flock of newly hatched chicks.

The ability to live? Livability.

There may be a better designation. If one is found, that will not be an "offence' surely, but will only prove again the wonderful flexibility of the English language.

Briefly, about hatchability: again the same argument applies. The transitive verb 'to hatch' would not describe the complete purpose of the feed. The noun 'hatch', alone, would not serve. Fecundity, alone will not do.

In other words, a 'commercial', faced with a fairly ridged time restriction could hardly read: "Our feed increases the fecundity of hens, increases their ability to hatch, assists the chicks in their struggle to live during the first two weeks, increase their ability to enter the production stage in good laying condition—" and so on.

Why, is it not much simpler to say 'hatchability and Livability'?

I'm sure most poultry men agree, and they are the Canadians who have a need for a good serviceable word to describe the general condition of their flocks, that the two new words have been put to good use by themselves and feed men.

It is true that we in radio sink and rise colloquially, flow along on the changing tides of the vernacular. We are talking to thousands of people each day, people we cannot see, people who cannot see us, or what we are reading. We never know who is listening at any given moment; a lawyer, a mother of twelve children, and editor with four dictionaries, a carpenter, a farmer, a minister, a teacher, men and women of all religions, all walks of life, all manners of circumstances.

It is not for the handful of people in radio to set a standard, but merely to practice a reasonably liberal approach to the canons of good English, with a sly wink now and then at the 'go slow' signs across Canada, and at the work of others that are not as fastidious as they might be.

Personally I approve the words 'hatchability and 'livability', and would you believe it, Sir, I'm 'abhorrable' to eggs!

Sincerely,
DON NAIRN

PROSTITUTION OF FILM ENTERTAINMENT

Sir: Allow me, momentarily, to represent the mass of "movie goers"—one of the millions who employ the cinema as a simple and harmless expedient of escape.

Hucksters have invaded our temple of entertainment. In this advertisement and promotion-crazy world the movie theatre (illegitimate though it may be) has provided a sanctuary of relaxation, entirely free from the possibility of well known product being thrust down our throat. We frankly admit the method adopted, i.e. cartoons etc., is extremely subtle—yet how obvious. By means of said cartoon our interest is captivated for the sole purpose of commercialization. Radio and newspaper depend upon the revenue resultant from advertising for their maintenance. Heretofore the lucrative movie industry has managed to lavishly exist minus this advertisement.

By the mere purchase of a movie ticket, equal entertainment is provided for king or pauper. I find it difficult to express how intensely outraged I am by this new media of commercial publicity. No doubt numerous Peterborough citizens have experienced like sensations. Radio, newspaper, yes — but please, and I reiterate, please not movies.

A MOVIE PATRON

Save The Caribou

A second open season for shooting moose and caribou has opened. and again the question is raised whether the stock of these game animals is sufficiently large to ensure that the slaughter is not exceeding natural reproduction.

Optimistic guesswork and indiscriminate slaughter once before reduced the stock of caribou to vanishing point: at that time, the shooting grounds were far wider spaces in which the animals could find concealment. There were no planes to spot their movements from the air, there were no roads by which hunters could approach within short distances of the hunting grounds.

These are factors which have been responsible for the depletion of the wild life in other Canadian provinces. They are factors which are threatening to bring about the same sorry state of affairs in Newfoundland.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Man that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not. (Job 14: 1,-2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The wise man's eyes are in his head: but the fool walketh in darkness: and I myself perceiver also that one event happeneth to them all. Then said I in my heart, As it happeneth to the fool, so it happenth even to me; and why was I then more wise? Then I said in my heart, that this also is vanity. For there is no remembrance of the wise more than of the fool for ever; seeing that which now is in the days to come shall all be forgotten. And how dieth the wise man? as the fool. Therefore I hated life; because the work that is wrought under the sun is grievous unto me: for all is vanity and vexation of spirit. (Eccl. 2: 14-17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

My days are like a shadow that declineth; and I am withered like grass. But thou, O Lord, shalt endure for ever; and thy remembrance unto all generations. (Ps. 102: 11, 12.)

Albino Pheasants

(Letters in London Times)

Mr. W. G. Horton:—While travelling on the western region between Charlbury and Combe Halt recently I was surprised to see in a field by the railway a pure white pheasant. Is it too much to hope that such an unusual bird will be spared the gun to give pleasure to others who are lucky enough to spot it?

M. H. P.:—We have an albino cock pheasant in this area (Toddington, Gloucestershire). He has been here for some years and has become sacred. When he is seen during a shoot someone shouts "Old Whitie", and not a gun is fired until my lord has winged his way out of range.

French-Polish Relations Bad

PARIS, Nov. 21 (AP)—Diplomatic relations between France and Poland were badly strained today as the result of the arrest in Warsaw of a French consulate employee.

The arrested man, Andre Simon Robineau of the Stettin Consulate was detained as he was boarding a Polish plane for Paris today. He was charged with espionage involving two other French diplomats in Poland—Aymar De Bressin De Mere and Fernand Renaux, members of the Embassy staff.

Lacking official notice of the arrest of Robineau, French authorities filed homicide charges against seven members of the Polish airliner crew and impounded the plane. The seven, including the stewardess, were held for a time at the interior ministry but later were permitted to go to a hotel, under restriction.

The Polish radio Saturday night announced that Robineau, who is the son of the Secretary-General of the French Institute in Warsaw, had pleaded guilty to the espionage charges and will appear in a Polish court later.

Lack Of Faith In Man-Made Utopia Big Hope For Religious Revival

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Collapse of the working man's faith in a "man-made Utopia" is the biggest hope for a religious revival in Britain today, says the Rev. Edward Wilson Carlile newly-appointed general secretary of the Church Army.

"When Labor came into power in 1945 a great many people expected heaven on earth," he said. "I am not talking politics when I say they have been disillusioned. It is simply that man cannot do such things without the help of almightly God."

A good-looking man of 34, once a chartered accountant, Mr. Carlile sits in a plain, uncarpeted room at Church Army headquarters near Marble Arch. On the wall behind him hangs the portrait of a wiry, white-haired old man in grey uniform holding a trombone.

"That was my grandfather," he said, referring to the Rev. Prebendary Wilson Carlile who in 1882 founded the Church Army in the slums of Westminster. "His great work is still our strength and our inspiration. . .

"Although I started life as an accountant, I always had a feeling that one day I should take over his work."

Evangelist First

Mr. Carlile described himself as an "evangelist first and foremost," dedicated to the task of helping to bring about a religious revival in Britain.

The general secretary said his first task would be to extend home missionary work by increasing the number of Church Army personnel as far as finances would permit. 'Our objective will be to have at least 50 men and women in training at our college at all times. Fifty have just been enrolled for the two-year course."

Captains and sisters of the Church Army are scattered thoughout Britain. They work in conjunction with Church of England clergy in parishes, prisons factories, workshops for disabled men and schools for juvenile delinquents.

Abroad it has daughter societies in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the United States and mission stations in India South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, central Tanganyika and China.

"I would like to see Church Army work expanded in Canada," Carlile said. "Its progress there has not been as fast as we hoped."

Manitoba Layman Finds Chalk River Wonderland

OTTAWA Nov. 21—(CP)—A Manitoba layman back from a wonderland of science told of some of his discoveries Saturday.

Howard Winkler (L-Lisgar), one of the14 members of a Commons committe which visited the Chalk River atomic project this week, found it a place of teamwork covering nearly every field of science.

He told a reporter:

"The scientists and engineers who planned it have already achieved things far beyond their expectations. The blank pages in the bible of chemistry—the molecular table—have been filled in by atomic research. Elements not found in nature have been made synthetically. That these elements are radioactive lends belief, but not yet proof, to the theory that they did once exist in nature, but disappeared from the earth with the exhaustion of their radiant energy.

"New products are appearing in the various fields, with new radiations. The substances themselves must be analyzed and measured down to their atoms, and the rays emitted must be measured. These calls for new scales and instruments of measure which must be made on the spot.

The delicacy of some of the instruments so made—in fact they made this instrument, or part of it before our eyes from quartz filaments drawn out before us finer than a spider's web—is such that the difference in weight of the graphite on a piece of confetti made by a scratch of a lead pencil could be weighed to the second decimal weight of a millionth of a gram.

"The nature of rays emitted from radiant matter is deduced, and the speed of the ray calculated, and a machine counts the radiant pulses. So as fast as new radiant substances are discovered, all their properties have to be tagged, and everything that can be found out about their characteristics is tabulated and measured."

As for the dangers involved, it was not that the plant "will blow up like a gigantic atom bomb . . . it is from radiations from the material used or made there. Until new substances with unknown rays are thoroughly checked, to know how dangerous these rays actually are, they are handled by controls so remote that one does not even see them directly, touch them or breathe the air through which the radiations have passed.'"

St. Kitts Win COSSA Crown Over PCVS Seniors, 24 To 1

By CEC PERDUE

The three-year reign of PCVS as senior COSSA champions terminated Saturday at the Oval here, and St. Catharines Tricolors ascended the throne for the firs. time to the tune of a 24-1 victory march. The big team from the peninsula district dominated play throughout and earned the title before a large crowd, including several hundred from St. Catharines.

Scholastic spirit made it a colorful combat as fair cheer leaders for both sides whipped up the vocal efforts of a lively crowd. A noisy parade threaded downtown streets first, the CGE Pipe Band did its usual ine stuff, a grayish goat got in there somewhere, and a St. Kitt's effigy hanging by the neck on a moving gallows to the skirl of the bagpipe was torn up by indignant fans from the Saints centre.

Gives Congrats

Principal Gordon Price and Coach Jim McNulty, and their triumphant team, were congratulated afterward by Coach Bev Goulding and his gallant squad. The visitors took in the PCVS dance afterward at the Collegiate. Four bus loads of fans and many cars came up to support the Tricolors, who had but one point —and that here—scored on them in their playdowns, while racking up more than a hundred points themselves.

The fray itself was a hard-hitting affair between two game outfits, with St. Kitts gradually softening up the homesters with punches through the line, and then opening up with fast and wide extensions which paid off in major counts. Actually, PCVS had more first downs, plunging just as well as the visitors and having an edge in blocking. Nor was the local hoofing much inferior to the lengthy St. Catharines' boots. But the Saints had that payoff punch and they cashed in quickly on all breaks.

Runs Like Deer

Feature plays of the struggle were long runs by Tom Quinlan After Thompson kicked a point in the first quarter, and Oneschuk —pronounced Hones' Chuch—got a single point in the second and later a try, converted by himself. on a buck, Quinlan took a PCVS punt 10 yards back of his goal shook loose and scampered like a frightened fawn 120 yards down the meadow for a major. Again in the third, Quinlan bucked through from his one-yard strip and pounded down the sward 109 yards for another unconverted major. It was great running. Galoski kicked a point for PCVS that quarter. Emil Uhrynuk skirted end in the fourth for a try after a 60-yard run by Oneschuk, the latter converting.

The extensions of Uhrynuk-Krupa-Oneschuk were a feature on the Saints' attack, and their big line gave them lots of protection. The PCVS line also played a whale of a game, with the backfield and alternates all fighting themselves into exhaustion. Desperation passes were thrown through the last half, but few clicked. Army Armstrong did some brilliant plunging all through for the losers.

The teams:

St Catharines: Flying wing Phelan; halves, Pay, Thompson Cahill; quarter, Quinlan; snap Masulka; insides, McIntee, D. Nelson; middles, Mitchell, Doolittle; outsides, McCamus, H. Nelson; alternates, Oneschuk Krupa, Oshust, Uhrynuk, Buchanan Bynoski, Clement, Korzenowski, LeClair, Neuman, Woolley

PCVS: Flying wing, Grafstein; halves, Evans, Armstrong, Brown: quarter, Sergeant; snap, Killing back; insides, Grainger, J. Burns middles, Lowes, Knox; outsides Jensen, Ward; alternates, Foster, Gandy, G. Burns, Curtis, Galoska Wood, Taylor, English, Telford Grant, Jopling.

Officials: F. Szambati, E. H. Grove and Doc Worton.

Alouettes Smash Hamilton 40-0, Meet Calgary

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, Nov. 21.—(CP).—How a 40-0 drubbing of Hamilton Tigers can properly be assessed against a coming clash with Calgary's Stampeders plagued many a supporter of Montreal Alouettes today.

The big red Montreal team left nothing to be desired Sunday in dragging a toothless Tiger ignominiously by the tail through the mire of Delormier Stadium.

It was a conclusive victory in the Eastern Canada football final for the Montrealers who will meet the defending Calgarians next Saturday at Varsity Stadium in Toronto for the Dominion championship.

Coach Les Lear of Stampeders personally scouted the game for the 1948 Grey Cup holders.

A paid-attendance crowd of 15,343 saw Alouettes, winners of the Big Four League playoffs, pile up seven touchdowns and five converts against the hapless title-holders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Coasting on a 17-0 lead at the end of the first quarter, Alouettes added insult to injury by playing a flock of second-stringers almost the rest of the way. Coach Lew Hayman was particularly chary of using Frankie Filchock, quarterback field general and ace passer, and Virgil Wagner, the league's leading scorer.

Star Plays

At that, Filchock heaved the forward pass that gave Alouettes their first touchdown, and Wagner's sensational broken-field running with sprints of 75 and 30 yards accounted for two more.

Bobby Cunningham scored the opening touchdown in the first quarter and added another in the last quarter, both majors coming on passes. McCance and Keith English dragged in passes for two more touches and Jack Harper accounted for another on a line plunge.

Hamilton's weakness was a surprise. The Tigers saw little of Montreal territory and never seriously threatened the Montreal goal line. Their offence, both on the ground and in the air, was weak and their pass defence ragged.

Their best offensive thrusts were two completed passes of 12 attempted and ground-gaining dashes by Joe Chicoki, Jim Caine and Doug Smith. The two forward passes netted 46 yards and Chicoki broke loose for the Tigers' longest ground gain with a left-end sprint for 30 yards.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

You can't win 'em all, and St. Kitts earned their senior COSSA title here o'er the thrice-champion PCVS pack. Bev Goulding's gang went down fighting, but they were outclassed in this one. Armstrong put up a terrific fight and his backfield buddies gave all they had. So did that good blocking line. Killingbeck, Grainger, Jopling, Armstrong and Sergeant were just a few spotted who were plenty banged up. Our hoofing and plunging were pretty fair, the line work good, the passing not so hot—but the peninsula winners were better throughout Saturday's scrap. They had the heft, a one-man team in Steve Oneschuk, a swell extension as they stuck to a ground attack, and a galloping ghost in Tom Quinlan, who zipped a total of 229 yards for two touchdowns! No, it's not a misprint.

* * * * * *

So that reverse wrapped up the season for the senior PCI-ers. A good season and, as mentioned before, you can't win them all. To St. Kitts, our congrats; to PCVS, better luck next year. 'Twas an interesting tussle with good grid weather and a colorful crowd whooping it up. Several hundred made the long hike by bus or car from St. Catharines— they couldn't get train coaches—and they went home happy. Big parade, band, goat, hanged effigy of St. Kitts, beauteous cheer leaders for both squads, and lots of rah-rah-rah ballyhoo all the way. With a Collegiate dance after. A big time of it to mark the end of football here for '49.

PCVS Junior Champs

Better fortune attended the grand effort by Alex Londry's junior PCI-ers in Port Colborne, and the Garnet and Gray triumphed 8-7 to take the COSSA title the second straight year. Young's pass late in the tilt to McIlraith meant a touchdown to tie the count and Young promptly booted the extra point that meant a championship. Swell going, fellows. It was staged in a mudhole—with gulls reluctantly taking wing as the gridders arrived—with a stiff wind reddening fans' faces. But as fair for one squad as the other. PCVS fought back hard toward the finish to earn the duke and prove worthy champs.

* * * * * *

It was no day to flip that slippery leather lemon and the only completed forward pass was the big payoff one for Peterborough a few minutes from the finish. The visitors' ground attack kept them right in the hunt, with Fowler especially forging ahead, and Craw and Langhorne also carrying the mail. The rival lines were good and apparently well-matched. The centre of the Peterborough line proved solid in every quarter. The boys were given a buffet supper after and 'twas a happy team that tooled its way home from Port Colborne with the old title intact. Thus endeth the PCVS juniors' season on a triumphant note—and they can again settle down to studies with the feeling of work well done.

Alec Gains The Title

Local swimmers did okay Saturday p.m. here at the "Y" in the swim meet, which included four provincial competitions. Alec Baptie won the Ontario title for boys under 12 in the 100-yard free style. Nice going, boy. Jack Boorman took the 40-yard free style for lads under 14 in inter-club competition, Harv McFadyen did likewise for 15-year-olds, and Jim Starr did a ditto for those 14 years of age. Others who showed well were Jim Heffernan, Bill Watson, Don Wood, Ralph Wood, Bill McIlmoyle and Michael Triggs. Several clubs in Toronto and Hamilton had entries as well as Gord Minty's local "Y" swimmers, and it was a good aquatic display.

No local puck action by the OHA teams till the end of the week when Petes and Legion stage an exhibition. Schedule doesn't get going till a week from tonight. Legion drill at eight tonight and nine p.m. Wednesday. The B'nai B'rith Club car will be raffled at the opening scheduled tussle here. Legion lost a 12-4 exhibition to the Nylons in Kingston on Saturday eve, with Montgomery and Coombs absentees. Ross Nicholls had his nose banged up in a scramble in front of his net, in the first period, and the speedy homesters had it easy the rest of the way. Chum Fryia, who got one goal for the visitors, stood out in the tussle, Bill Crowley, Joe Rochetta and Toodie Greenlaw notching the other Legion markers.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Prof. Nelson C. Hart, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, Sunday night at London, Ont., criticized a recent Vancouver story predicting the possible suspension of two boxers from Canada's British Empire Games team.

"He declared in a statement that material for the story apparently was gleaned from the agenda for this months' annual meeting of the AAU, which contains his presidential address.

The use of this material "was a breach of ethical standards of the press," his statement said. He declared the story, which appeared in the Vancouver Daily Province, was "somewhat misleading in several instances."

The boxers concerned were Ronny Muir, of Toronto, and Franky White, of Winnipeg. Prof. Hart's statement said these two "are not mentioned in my address, nor is any other boxer. If these boxers can sign the declaration of amateurism and if the officials of the British Empire Games Association are satisfied with their amateur status, there appears to be no reason for barring them from the competition in New Zealand next February."

At Manchester, England, 50,000 fans saw Fidonia win the Manchester November Handicap Saturday but the horse's owner stayed away.

Darcy Halford, London wines and spirits merchant, was so disgusted with Fidonia's performance in a recent race that he went to the track at Lingfield, Sussex, instead.

The five-year-old Fidonia paid off at 40 to 1 in conquering a near-record field of 41 starters. Trainer Snowy Parker said Halford paid "a couple of cases" of whisky for the gelding and once thought of giving him away.

Alex Shibicky, former National League forward with New York Rangers, said at Winnipeg Saturday he has agreed to sign as coach of Flin Flon Bombers of the Northern Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League.

Bryan Hextall, another former Ranger star, previously had taken the post but found later that it would conflict with personal business arrangements. Shibicky was coach of New Westminster Royals in the Pacific Coast League last season.

St. Francis Xavier University Saturday won the MacTier cup, emblematic of Eastern Canada English rugby supremacy, by defeating McGill University 15-3 at Antigonish, N.S.

Marlies Whip Biltmores In 4-2 Tussle

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros, top team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, have shown in 15 games this season the know-how that makes champions in any circuit.

Marlboros handed out a lesson to the Guelph Biltmores in the first game of a Junior A doubleheader at Toronto Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Bilts 4-2. The win stretched their first place lead to seven points over St. Catharines Teepees.

The second game saw the fast-improving St. Michael's College Majors draw into a second place tie by hanging a 5-3 defeat on Barrie Flyers, the second in two days.

In other week-end OHA games, Owen Sound Mercurys increased their second-place lead in the senior race over Kitchener-Waterloo to three points by defeating the Dutchmen 6-1. Windsor played host to Stratford Kroehlers on Saturday night and made their stay uncomfortable by trouncing the classic city crew 6-3 to drop Spitfires ahead of Barrie into fourth place. Galt Black Hawks bowed to Oshawa Generals 9-3 in the only other game.

Marlboros showed vast superiority over Guelph, and by checking the Bilts into the ice after taking 3-0 lead in two periods, made the game look dull and listless. Flashy George Armstrong opened the scoring midway through the first period and play lagged until the 10 minute mark of the middle session when Jack McKenzie counted to make it 2-0.

Penalty Counts

McKenzie was sent off for high sticking shortly after and while his team was thus handicapped Larry Regan ghosted through the entire Guelph team to score. Biltmores hit the black column early in the third period, Vic Dimarco slamming home the disc. They added another with less than two minutes, the goal coming off the stick of Vic Guidolin. Danny Lewicki wrapped it up by firing the puck into the empty net after coach Alfie Pike pulled goalie Cliff Hicks in favor of an extra forward.

In the opener, St. Michael's and Barrie Flyers put on a real show. Starry Irish centreman Billy Marshall gave St. Michael's the lead early in the opening session on a pass from Bonhomme. Barrie evened the count after only 45 seconds of the period had elapsed on a marker by Rich Hogg. Marshall collected his second counter and Red Ingoldsby potted another to give the Collegians a two goal lead which held up until the final frame when Rich Hogg clicked for the second time and was followed by Stan Long to even it up. Late in the period Red Labine picked up Rod Roy's pass and sank the winner. Bill Dineen added one with Barrie two men short.

Curling News

The first week of scheduled curling is over and all curlers have had at least two games. The new set-up adopted by the schedule committee, seems to be working out o.k. and the co-operation that the committee received from the players has been extremely good. True, there were one or two slips but it is expected by the end of this week the boys will be used to the system.

Gar Braund and his rink made a good showing at the Galt bonspiel, losing their third game by one point. Better luck next time

Double-headers this evening—but tomorrow night we begin the Neill Trophy bonspiel on six ices —the space ice is reserved for Tankard and District Cup practice only.

The attendance at the Saturday night bonspiel fell off considerably—maybe too much curling for the first week. The winning skips were Dr. McCartney and F. Batten.

Desperate Wildcats Win Junior Crown

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21 (CP) — A desperate Hamilton Wildcat team struck through the air on Saturday to down Vancouver Blue Bombers 14-11 and retain by a whisker the Canadian Junior Football crown.

Hero of the piece was little Frank Dilkes, just 16, whose winning touchdown—his second of the game—came with less than two minutes to play. It wiped out Bombers 11-9 lead and stunned a crowd of 6,000 fans who thought a victory for the home team seemed assured.

The game was a ground-against-air battle until the end with the lead changing hands three times.

PCVS Juniors Defeat Ports To Hold Grid Championship

By DON GRANT.

Just one pass was completed in the Port Colborne - PCVS COSSA championship game Saturday and that was enough to do the trick. The PCI'ers pulled through in the dying minutes of the game with that pass for a touchdown to edge the Port's 8-7 to take the COSSA championship for the second year in a row from Port Colborne Collegiate. Two years ago the Port squad took the honors from the Peterborough crew.

With three minutes to go Young on the Port 18 hit McIlraith on the touchline with a mud pie. McIlraith slipped across easily for the touch to make the score 7-7 Young then kicked the extra point to break the heart of the Port Colborne team and fans. So disappointed were some of the fans tears rolled down their cheeks as Young made the convert good.

Playing conditions can be described by one scene. When the Peterborough team arrived at the playing field, sea-gulls were floating on the large puddles on the field. A strong northeast wind was sweeping down the gridiron while rain lashed at the faces of the players throughout the game.

Early Lead

Peterborough jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first quarter with both teams adding a point in the second. The Port boys ended a drive of the third quarter in the fourth for a touchdown which went unconverted. Peterborough's touch came with three minutes left to play.

Passing was limited to only seven attempts, three by Peterborough (one completed) and four by Port Colborne (one intercepted). The mud covered the ball on every play, making passing dangerous and quarterbacks of both teams called passing plays only when defeat seemed to be close. Young did the flipping for the Petes while Stephens and Mahon tossed for Port Colborne. Mahon tried several passes off the kick formation but the slippery ball prevented the play from working to perfection.

The PCI'ers kept an edge with an efficient ground attack by Langhorne, Craw and Fowler. Fowler's drives through the centre caught the eye of most spectators as he averaged about six yards on each. Husky Paul Ivanich, snap for the Port team, dropped back to plunge several times and gained yards each time. Davidson also carried the ball well for the Niagara boys.

Both lines starred in the muck as they slipped and slid to take their men out on each play. Here again Ivanich played an important part throughout the game, aided on each side by Glen Shickluna and Ed Turchan, the insides. The same case applied to the PCI line with Howe, Facendi and Grafstein the centre of the line, standing out, McIlraith at the end position played hard and rough throughout.

Minor Hurts

Only minor injuries, were received by the Peterborough squad. Early in the first quarter the Port Colborne quarter, Bill Melnyk, left the game after receiving a kick on the chin from a Peterborough player. The ball was fumbled by Melnyk on the snap and rolled to the 10-yard line from the 14. While attempting to recover the Petes tried to boot the ball across the line Melnyk's jaw received the full force of the kick. Four stitches were required to close the gash but he later returned to the game. William Seres received a broken wrist while playing at half for the Ports in the first quarter also.. While trying to brace himself during a fall the wrist bone snapped.

Plunges by Craw and Fowler took the ball to the Port 25 early in the first. Here Young was forced to boot to Hilson who took the ball to the Port 6. Two plays failed to make yards and Mahon of Port kicked. It was blocked and recovered at the 10-yard line. The Port line held firm for two plays and Young had to boot one point.

Late in the first Fowler took the ball from the Port 25 to the 15. Play in the second started there with Peterborough being penalized 10 yards for roughing. Stephans was rouged on Young's kick deep behind the touchline. On the last play of the first half Mahon booted from the PCVS 25 to the deadline for a point.

Mahon again booted an extra point on the kickoff when the ball bounced behind the Pete's line for a rouge. Mahon's kicks held the Petes deep in their territory in the third until on the last play of the quarter he faked a kick on the PCVS 24 and ran to the three yard line. On the first play of the fourth, Ivanich went across for the five points. Mahon tried to run for the extra point but was smeared. That made the score 7-2 Peterborough then came through late with their touch and convert after plunges had carried the ball well in.

Detroit Goes On Spree Walloping Maple Leafs Twice

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit's rampaging Red Wings, hottest team in the National Hockey League race, walloped Toronto Maple Leafs twice during the week-end to run out their current winning streak to eight straight.

The victories, by identical scores, of 5-2, consolidated the Red Wings' seven point lead at the top of the loop. Montreal Canadiens missed a chance Sunday to overtake the second place Leafs when they lost to the cellar dwelling Boston Bruins 2-1. A victory would have put Montreal a point ahead of Toronto.

New York Rangers moved into a fourth place tie with Chicago Black Hawks by defeating the Hawks 5-2 in Chicago Sunday night before 15,206 fans. Both teams now have 13 points.

Joe Carveth, a recent Detroit acquisition, highlighted the Detroiter's assaults on the world-champion Leafs, scoring three goals and three assist in the two contests.

At Detroit Sunday night the action in the opening minutes was the fastest seen this season on Detroit ice with Toronto drawing first blood at the five minute mark when Ray Timgren slipped a short shot into the Detroit net.

Six minutes later Detroit struck back when Jimmy Thompson of Toronto was off for holding. Red Kelly drove the rubber home with Carveth assisting. Toronto was short-handed shortly afterward when the Red Wings forged ahead.

The goal, a close-range shot, was fired by Carveth. Carveth again took advantage of a Toronto penalty—an interference wave-off for Vic Lynn—and ran up another counter at the 14:48 minute mark.

In the second frame, Pete Babando and Ted Lindsay sewed it up for the Red Wings, Carveth assisting on Lindsay's goal. Max Bentley's score for Toronto in the third frame, a 15-foot shot, came as an anti-climax.

Toronto was leading 2-1 early in the middle frame Saturday on goals by Harry Watson and Howie Meeker but suddenly blew up under Detroit pressure and the Wings netted three goals in 55 seconds.

Detroit's first goal was counted by Gerry Couture and after that it was all Red Wings. Free-wheeling Gord Howe popped in the first of his two goals. Marty Pavelich outfought two Leafs to set up Carveth and Babando was credited with the third quick one in the second frame.

Gets Second Tally

Howe's second tally at 7.55 of the third happened after Turk Broda came out of the Toronto net to hook the puck off Ted Lindsay's stick on a breakaway.

A two-goal rally in the third gave Boston Bruins their victory over Canadiens at Boston Sunday. Canadiens' first tally ended 107 minutes and nine seconds of scoreless play in Boston between the two teams. They played a scoreless tie recently.

The Habitants owed their only goal to a pretty passing play by Leo Gravelle who whizzed down the left lane, rounded the net and passed to Billy Reay, Reay slipped the disc to Norm Dussault, who blasted it in.

Three minutes and eight seconds later a 30-foot angle shot, fired by blonde Dave Creighton, whistled past goalie Bill Durnan in the Montreal nets. Another two minutes later Eddie Harrison banged home the winning score, sliding it past Durnan as he sat on the ice.

Most of the scoring in the Chicago game was packed into the second period, little Tony Leswick of the Rangers rapping in three goals within a space of three minutes and five seconds. The feat was a trifle short of the record for a short space of time, Carl Liscombe of Detroit having hit for three in 1.52 in 1938.

New York rang up the initial counter at 5.24 of the second period when Edgar Laprade fired in a pass from Bud Poile. Jimmy Conacher tied it up for the Hawks five minutes later.

Then Leswick scored twice. Rookie Bert Olmstead of the Hawks connected with Chicago's second goal and Leswick fired his third counter. Poile counted the only third-period goal.

Western Takes Title Home, Crushes McGill

By JACK MITCHELL.

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP) — The Intercollegiate Football Union title went back to roost today in familiar surroundings at the University of Western Ontario and, to hear coach Johnny Metras tell it, it's there for a long stay again.

Metras declared flatly to one and all following Saturday's upset 12-0 victory over McGill that his Mustangs, from the standpoint of courage against odds, had played "the greatest game in the history of intercollegiate football." But he also found time to enthuse about next season's prospects.

The team pushed coach Vic Obeck's Redmen all around in the first quarter, then scored their opening touchdown on a break on the first play of the second. End Bill Ford pounced on Harold Fairhead's fumble of quarterback George Arnott's punt into the McGill goal area. Each team then scored a rouge to leave Western leading 6-1 at halftime.

Races 58 Yards

When Rocky Robillard raced 58 yards for the game-tying touchdown in the third quarter, McGill started carrying play with what looked like unbeatable power. But Western wasn't finished—not with Gray playing his heart out.

The 21-year-old chip off an old block (he's the son of former Sarnia great Ross Gray) struck like lightning with two successive forwards for a touchdown. The first went 36 yards on a line to Ford, then next 38 yards to Dick Hill who took it over for a major. Gray converted.

The nearest McGill could get after that was a three-point placement by Harry (Bud) Irving, the former Calgary Stampeder.

The funeral of the late George Hall of Otonabee was held Monday from his home to Little Lake Cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. M. J. Aiken of St Andrew's United Church, Peterborough of which the deceased was a member. Pall-bearers were his four sons, Harold, Fred, Stuart, James, and John Macfarlane and J. H. Hall, Toronto.

Mr. Hall had been in his usual good health and news of his sudden passing came as a shock to his many friends and neighbours. He was born in Otonabee township 86 years ago and resided there all his life. His wife who predeceased him six years ago was Elizabeth Leeson.

As a young man Mr. Hall became interested in military training and completed over twenty years service with the 3rd Prince of Wales dragoons. He retired from that unit in 1905 with the rank of Major.

He is survived by his family, four sons and two daughters, namely Stuart of Peterborough Fred of Otonabee, Mrs. John Macfarlane also of Otonabee Harold, James and Mary at home.

House Ablaze, People Unaware Sit In Kitchen

SPRINGBROOK, Nov. 21 — (ENS)—When Mrs. Laura Bateman of Springbrook village opened the door leading from her kitchen to the front of house Saturday afternoon, flames leapt into her face and she discovered the entire house was ablaze.

With Mrs. Minnie Fox, visiting from Marmora, Mrs. Bateman fled from the flames by the back entrance to the house without being able to recover her possessions.

The two women, who had been sitting talking in the kitchen, were unaware of the fire until it had reached the kitchen door. Hearing a noise, they opened the door and both received burnt faces and their hair caught fire.

The house and all its contents were destroyed. Only possession saved by Mrs. Bateman was a lamp, which she grabbed in her flight.

Approximately $75 in cash was lost.

Mrs. Bateman, a widow, lives with her son Edward. She and Mrs. Fox were driven to Stirling, where they received medical treatment for their burns.

PCVS Lineman In Hospital

Number 13, is unlucky for Hubert Knox, shifty PCVS lineman of the senior football team Saturday in the COSSA final game at the Oval with St. Catharine Knox was taken from the game to the Civic Hospital for the second time this year. Two weeks ago he made his first trip there In October he had to have treatment at Toronto East General Hospital.

Head concussion was believed to be the reason for his trip there Saturday but hospital authorities said Monday it was a case of hysteria. Two weeks ago in the game with Belleville he had a possible head concussion. A month ago he received a kick in the groin during the East York-PCVS game in Toronto putting him in the hospital for the week-end.

Knox was "resting comfortably" this morning. Doctors have not decided when he will be allowed to go home.

Week-End Of Collisions As Snow, Ice Grease Roads

Repeated flurries of snow, and slippery highways, are blamed for indirectly causing several car accidents over the week-end. None was serious. Three persons were slightly injured Sunday afternoon in a sideswipe collision at Highway 7 and the Keene Road between cars driven by Milton Lowes of 146 Montgomery St., and P. De Gaiffier, Laurier St. E., Ottawa.

Mr. Lowes was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where he was treated for a cut on the nose and another on the forehead requiring several stitches to close. An aunt, Mrs. Audrey Lowes, 83, of Aylmer St., received a body bruise and his wife, Marjory received a bruised leg.

A seven-months-old baby girl was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for observation and found to uninjured.

Provincial Constable Norman De Bou investigated.

Sask. Car Collides

A car driven by a Saskatchewan man, A. G. Lonsberry of Densmore, Sunday afternoon collided with another car driven by E. H. Unstead of Warsaw. Neither man was injured but total damage amounted to $125.

The accident was on a township road, three and a half miles north east of Dummer. Both drivers met head on at the bottom of a small grade on the road which then breaks into a sharp turn.

It is believed neither driver was unable to see the other one until it was too late.

Provincial Constable George Henderson investigated.

Cars Heavily Damaged

Two other accidents Sunday afternoon resulted in substantial damage to the cars involved but no injuries to the occupants.

Vehicles of M. G. Graham of RR 1 Fenelon Falls and W. E. Piercy, Antrim St., were involved in a collision shortly before 7 p.m., on Highway 7 a mile north of Peterborough.

Damage to Graham's vehicle was estimated at $150, and $75 to the other.

Provincial Constable D. W. Coffey investigated.

Ten minutes later there was another collision on Highway 28, five and a half miles from the city.

Harold L. Rylott of RR 7 Peterborough swung his car to make a turn into a driveway. At the same time a car driven by W. J. McCaskie of Lakefield was gaining speed in an effort to pass. The result was that McCaskie collided with the left rear fender of Rylott's car.

Total damage was set at $125.

Provincial Constable Earl Berwick investigated.

Men Escape

Two Lakefield men escaped injury Saturday night when their car skidded and turned over on its side in the ditch at the Chemong Rd. and Highway 7 intersection.

The car was driven by Orville Elliott and his passenger was Orville Thomas, both of RR 3 Lakefield. They informed Provincial Constable Earl Berwick they were travelling from Bridgenorth to Peterborough.

When they reached the intersection Elliott applied the brakes but the car skidded into the stop sign and turned over on its side in the ditch. Neither man was hurt but damage is set at $200.

FRED T. TUGGEY

Tuggey To Run For Alderman

Fred T. Tuggey, 599 Waterford Street, will be a candidate for alderman.

"Quite a number of citizens have been at me to run," Mr. Tuggey said. "I have been assured of nomination, and I have decided to accept. I was a member of the Council for seven years, and was chairman of the Property Committee.

"I am a free agent, have time to give to the work, and I would represent no one but the citizens as a whole. I am interested in seeing that the ratepayers get full value for the money that has to be spent by the Council. I have had experience in the Council, and I feel that I know what is required of a member."

Mr. Tuggey said that the citizens who have been urging him to stand for election have assured him of their active support.

"There is one thing certain, I am not the kind to shirk any job I undertake."

Dr. L. O. Bailey
has moved his office to the basement of his new house, Burnham and Water St., Lakefield.

Boy Scout Leaders Told Keep Movement Adventure

Scouting is an adventurous game and has to be to attract and hold young boys, E. Mills, Executive Commissioner for Training of the Boy Scout movement in Canada, said in an address at the annual dinner meeting for scout leaders of the Peterborough district here Saturday night. There was a tendency, he said, for the movement to lose some of its ruggedness and normal hazards necessary to give the game of scouting its action and appeal. It was up to the leaders to overcome this tendency, he pointed out.

In the programs set for the young boys to follow, "it is good to take reasonable risks," Mr. Mills said. But there must be training before the risk is taken to ensure each boy is able to deal with the situation he faces.

The scouting program must have variety. A fixed routine in which the boys know exactly what is going to happen at each meeting is deadening, he commented, and scouts soon lose interest.

Vision of the scout movement's main role of molding good citizens must always be kept in the minds of the leaders, Mr. Mills added. He said leaders must also attack their jobs with energy, giving their charges the chance to train themselves.

Patrol leaders should never lose sight of the fact that scouting was intended to be closely bound up with the study of nature. He added scouts should get out as much as possible.

Remember Religion

Another important factor which must not be forgotten is that religion should play a large part in the movement. He said no one should make the mistake of making scouting a religion or a substitute for religion. "Scouting without religion is a club and nothing else," Mr. Mills Commented.

The training chief said leaders were all volunteer workers, but when they saw some fine young man in the troop getting ahead the leade's reward was in knowing he had had a part in molding that young man's success.

George Groombridge was recommended as district commissioner to the provincial headquarters to replace E. J. Wolff, who retired from the position. Mr. Wolff was named first vice-president and Dr. J. N. Perry second vice-president.

Albert Hope, assistant district commissioner, also retired from his position. These new officers together with president B. I. Burgess, secretary W. G. Shiner and treasurer Ed MacDonald, make up the executive.

From Other Centres

The meeting was a combined annual city association meeting and a conference of the Eastern Ontario Region. Alderman Douglas Miller, acting on behalf of Mayor Max J. Swanston, welcomed the delegates from Belleville, Trenton, Wellington, Curve Lake, Port Hope and other centres.

Jim Webb showed colored slides of his trip to the Rover Moot in Norway this summer which attracted Boy Scouts from all over the world.

Brant Dawson was presented with the Gilt Cross, one of the Scout movement's highest awards, for his bravery in rescuing a woman when a boat overturned in Rice Lake a little more than a year ago.

Gordon S. Matthews To Seek Ninth Term On Utilities

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, said today that he would be a candidate for re-election if nominated next Friday night.

"The nominations are this week, and I feel that I owe it to the electors for their confidence in me to make this announcement well in advance of the occasion," Mr. Matthews said. "I am now completing my 24 year as a member of the Commission, and, if I have the honor to be elected again, I shall be qualified in length of service for the Quarter Century Club which the Commission sponsored in recognition of the faithful co-operation of its employees."

Major Projects Completed

As the Commission looked back over its year's work at its meeting last Friday, Mr. Matthews mentioned that the five major projects which he had outlined in a radio address to the public last February were completed.

On that occasion Mr. Matthews accepted the invitation of Mayor M. J. Swanston to use the time provided by CHEX in its community relations.

"We have finished the 24-inch force main from the pumping station across Hilliard Farm and down Bethune St. to Sherbrooke St.," the chairman said.

That job was undertaken during the war, but had to be suspended until materials and help were available. Its purpose was to increase water pressure, with the growth of the city.

"We have just finished the connection of the 12-inch main we laid across the river between Burnham's Point and McDonald's Point."

That improvement was particularly for the benefit of the water consumers in Ashburnham.

"We are also completing the water service required for our new Civic Hospital. The water tower on the hospital property has been erected. It should be finished this week, and we still have to complete the installation of a booster pump which is required to raise water to the tank. That pumping station is in a small building on the Queen Mary School property."

The booster pump was required for delivering water to the hospital, and also to raise the pressure in the domestic services on the higher levels of the city west of Monaghan Road.

Instal New Pumps

"As our reports have been indicating since the war, there has been a steadily increasing consumption of water. Speaking for the Commission last February, I said that we found it necessary to instal a new electric motor-driven pump, with a pumping capacity of 6,000,000 gallons a day. That has also been done. This pump was ordered in 1948, and was delivered this fall."

GORDON S. MATTHEWS

In addition to these projects, Mr. Matthews said today the laying of water mains and connections to new houses in the north end, in Ashburnham and the west end, and especially in the south end of the city, had been a big undertaking in itself.

The chairman briefly recalled the power shortage of one year ago. With the co-operation of industries, retail stores and the people in their homes, the Commission was able to avoid disruption of employment as contrasted with that experience in many of the towns and cities of the province.

Two Cars Damaged

Two cars crumpled right front fenders in a collision at Parkhill Rd. and Gilchrist St. Saturday about 7:15 p.m.

James Graham, 404 London St., driving east on Parkhill Rd., turned left into Gilchrist St. His car met in collision with a car driven by James O'Coyne, 238 Barnardo St. Constable Harold W. Andrew investigated.

E. E. Estlick, 123 Crescent St., ran into a hydro pole in Lakefield Sunday night about nine o'clock causing considerable damage to his car. Chief Constable Garnet Samis investigated.

Four Remanded On Lindsay Murder Counts

LINDSAY, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Charged with murder in the stabbing death of 37-year-old Jack Loucks, four men, three of them brothers, today were remanded until Friday. Police said Loucks was slain, apparently without motive, in a street fight.

Charged are Paul Zahodnik, 26, and James, 33, both of Hamilton; John Zahodnik, 30, of Toronto, and William Yuzwa, 33, of Hamilton. They also face charges of wounding, assault and attempted robbery.

The charges followed the death early Friday in a melee on the main street here, when Loucks, father of three, was slain and three bystanders wounded.

Citizens quickly rallied to help the widow and her fatherless family. Already a fund to aid them has realized $700.

The four men charged allegedly left a 80-mile circle of violence Thursday night, beating up a refreshment stand operator and his wife for not serving coffee quickly enough before reaching Lindsay.

After the slaying a police road block at Peterborough and police bullets halted the truck in which they originally left for a hunting trip to Quebec.

Need Not Place Light On Hospital Tower

Federal Department of Transport has informed the Utilities Commission that it is not necessary to place a lamp on the Civic Hospital water tank for the safety of airplanes.

"But, the Commission might decide later to put a light on the top of the tower," R. L. Dobbin said the other day. "It is now the highest point in the Peterborough area, and would be a new beacon."

Capacity of the elevated tank is 50,000 Imp. gallons. Height of the tower itself from the ground to the railing around the base of the tank is 100 ft.

Expect Too Much Of Child Stars Deanna Says

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21 (AP). —Don't expect too much of child movie stars, advises Deanna Durbin.

"The trouble is," said the Winnipeg-born Deanna, herself one of the screen's greats as a youngster, "that people set child stars on a pedestal. They expect them to be perfect little darlings, and remain that way even when they grow up. No one can be that good."

The comments arose as we discussed her problems and her future in the den of her stylish Beverly Hills home. Her opinions were as frank as any I had heard from her.

"Many child stars are the object of adoration since before they can remember," she said. "People criticize when these stars grow up and prove themselves to be human beings with their own faults.

Boost for Shirley

"I give Shirley Temple a lot of credit. She knew her marriage had become an unhappy one. She also knew that if she got a divorce her public would be disillusioned. But she chose divorce.

"Believe me, it takes a lot of courage for a person to undergo a divorce under any circumstances.

"People criticize when Judy Garland and Vincente Minelli have their marital roubles. Why can't she have a normal married life?' they say.

"She has a great talent one of the greatest in our business. That is why she can't conform to other people's ideas of 'being normal.'"

Parents, Deanna said, should exercise caution before pushing their children into theatrical careers.

"The desire should come from the children themselves," she added. "They should earnestly desire and enjoy the applause and the attention. Otherwise they will be bewildered and unhappy."

Deanna At Crossroads

Deanna is now at the crossroads of her career. She has spent the last year sitting out her contract with Universal. That's not bad at about $350,000 for the year's sitting.

"I must say they paid well to make me miserable," said Deanna who added that she spent the year studying voice and waiting for word from the studio. It never came.

"The public has not been clamoring to see my pictures," she admitted, "because they know I can't play 'Three Smart Girls' any longer. The public knows that, but the studio didn't."

As for the future, she is going to Europe next spring and will consider the many stage and screen offers she has. "I might just make one more picture and quit," she said.

Re-Elected President

WINDSOR, Nov. 21 (CP) — John Duncan of Toronto Sunday was re-elected president of the Ontario Federation of Printing Trade Unions (AFL) at its two-day annual meeting here. The federation's next annual meeting will be held in Toronto.

Alec Baptie Wins Ontario Aquatic Crown At 'Y'

Alec Baptie of the Peterborough YMCA won the Ontario championship for the boys under 12 100-yard free style race at the swimming meet held in the local "Y" pool Saturday night. The 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs Harry Baptie, 148 Douro Street, went the distance in the fine time of 1:14 6-10, just ahead of Tom Verth of Toronto West-end YM CA, with John Odell of West-end third.

Keen competition marked nearly all the events, four being for provincial championships, the other nine being inter-club affairs. Hamilton and Toronto clubs sent competitors to go against the pick of the local YM CA—under direction of Gordon Minty, honorary swim coach—but the London contingent cancelled its trip due to the weather. The well-attended meet lasted more than two hours.

Won Breast Stroke

Duncan Vignale of West-end Y won the 100-yard breast stroke for boys under 14, finishing in 1.36, ahead of Mal Black of West-end, and Jim Heffernan of Peterborough. Fred Smith of New Toronto Lakeshore Club, captured the provincial medal for junior men in the 100-yard breast stroke, splashing it off in 1.10, ahead of Bill Parish of Toronto Granite and Bill Watson of Peterborough. The West-end YMCA took the Ontario 160-yard relay for boys under 14 in 1.38 8-10 against Peterborough.

The senior men's 100-yard free style race was dominated by the West-end Y swimmers, Gerald Fraser coming first in .58 2-10, John Pinn next and Harold James third. Hamilton's Bill Camberon took just 20 seconds to capture the junior 40-yard free style, his clubmate George Park placing and Bill Parish of Granite showing. Fred Smith of Lakeshore won the under 16 100-yard back stroke in 1.14 6-10 in front of Bill Samek of Hamilton AC and Don Wood of Peterborough. Jack Boorman of the local Y won the under 14 40-yard free style in .23 with W. O'Hara of West-end next and then John Cusimano of West-end. The 160-yard free style relay for boys under 12 went to West-end, with Peterborough second and then Granite Club.

Local Winners

Harvey McFadyen of Peterborough was first in the 15-year-old 40-yard free style in .25 4-10, Lyle Dingman of Hamilton being next, and Paul Richards of Granite third. Jim Starr of Peterborough took honors in the 14-year-old 40-yard free style event in .24 6-10, Ralph Wood being second and then Bill McIlmoyle, a club mate. The under 10 40-yard free style went to Steve Otto of Granite in .31, in front of Bob Welsman of Granite and Michael Triggs of Peterborough. M. McLaughlin of Hamilton cleaned up the 12-year-old 40-yard free style in .25 2-10, as R. Goldworthy of Westend was second and W. Lawson of West-end third.

Soul And Body Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson sermon which was read in all churches of Christ Scientist throughout the world, including First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday.

The golden text was: "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth, for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God." (Psalms 84:2).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Acts: "God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;"

Correlative citations from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," included the following: "The identity, or idea of all reality continues forever; but Spirit, or the divine Principle of all, is not in Spirit's formations. Soul is synonymous with Spirit, God, the creative, governing, infinite Principle outside of finite form, which forms only reflect."

Royal Hi-Jinks At Elizabeth's Farewell Party

LONDON, Nov. 21—((AP) — Queen Elizabeth had the band play, "Baby, It's Cold Outside."

The King asked for "Always True To You In My Fashion."

What with these Royal hi-jinks and a good supply of champagne, 250 guests had a fine time at a Buckingham Palace farewell party for Princess Elizabeth. The party broke up at 4 a.m.

The party was arranged to enable the Princess to say goodbye before flying to Malta to spend her second wedding anniversary Sunday with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. He is on duty with the Mediterranean Fleet there. Her departure was delayed by fog.

The guests of the party included Lewis Douglas, United States ambassador, and his wife and daughter; movie actor Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and his wife, and a couple of Princess Margaret's boy friends; the Marquess of Blandford and the Hon. Julian Fane, brother of the Duke of Westmorland. Princess Margaret was there, too, attired in a stylish off-the-shoulder ivory crinoline gown.

The Queen wore pale gold satin with a diamond necklace and tiara. Princess Elizabeth was in pale pink trimmed with lace. She slipped away a little early to get ready for the trip. That was before the postponement. Her son, Prince Charles, is staying at home.

Asks Ottawa Lift Forest Products Tax

TORONTO, Nov. 21—(CP) — Governments should remove taxation from primary products of the forest and place it on manufactured products, W. A. Bentley said Saturday night.

Mr. Bentley, consultant of forest management for Bowaters' pulp and paper mills of Corner-brook, Newfoundland, was speaking on forestry in Newfoundland at the Royal Canadian Institute.

With fair taxation and secure tenure, he said, private enterprise in the United States and Newfoundland had been more successful in producing new young forest than had government administration in other provinces.

Cosmetician to Buy 15 Prize Cattle

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP) — Elizabeth Arden, Canadian-born owner of a cosmetics concern, is here to visit the Royal Winter Fair and to buy 15 head of prize-winning cattle for her United States farm.

The New York business woman, born Florence Nightingale Graham at Woodbridge, Ont., arrived Saturday by plane. She told reporters she had not made up her mind whether to buy Holsteins or Guernseys.

Asked about her racing stables —in 1946 she was the top money-winning owner in the United States—she said she has formed a syndicate with a capital of $300,000 to participate in the stud fees of Ace Admiral, the horse which, before he suffered a leg injury, once broke a record set by Man O' War.

In keeping with the tradition they have set in past years the Otonabee Chapter, IODE, entertained graciously Saturday afternoon at the annual fall tea. It was held in the Green Room of the YWCA where decorations of evergreen lent a festive air.

Menus For Special Purposes

By MARY MOORE

Low Calorie Dinner

Sliced Hot boiled Beef and (4 oz. 200 cal.) Boiled Onions with Beef Broth (see notes) (1 large onion with broth 40 cal.) Waldorf Salad (6 oz. 75 cal.) Stewed Figs with Ginger Syrup (4 oz. 110 cal.) Clear Coffee (0 cal.)

High-Calorie Low-Cost Dinner

Homemade Split Pea Soup Broiled Smoked Kippers Fresh Rye or French Bread Shredded Red or Green Cabbage with French Dressing Packaged Tapioca Dessert with Canned Montmorency Cherries (see notes) Coffee

One-Burner Dinner

Clam Chowder, Butter Buns, Raw Carrot and Celery Strips, Chocolate Waffles with Vanilla Ice Cream (see notes), Coffee.

Directions

This sliced boiled beef is a very satisfactory dish for reducers. Add salt and pepper and bay leaves to the boiling liquid, and one-half hour before beef is tender add whole medium-sized onions. Serve with hot broth over both sliced beef (best cut for this being shin beef I think) and the onions. Carrots may be added to broth if desired.

For a fast dessert the other night I made up a package of tapioca-cocoanut desesrt, and then had one unexpected friend for dinner. I stretched it by adding canned cherries and juice and it was a nice, different dessert.

Some "one-burner" households have good electrical equipment—and amongst it is sometimes a waffle iron. If you are one of these lucky light housekeepers, utilize that waffle iron to the limit by making them for dessert, and topping them with ice cream. A nice hearty dessert for a skimpy first course.

Communism Out If God's Love Reigns Supreme

MARMORA, Nov 21 (ENS) — There is no fear of Communism reigning in Canada if the love of Christ and His power are here first, Mrs. F. R. Harback, wife of the pastor of Belleville Tabernacle United Church, declared on Sunday at the Women's Missionary Society annual service in St. Andrew's United Church. She made an appeal to Christians to adventure for Christ in prayer, love and witness. The message was based on the words of Jesus to His disciples after the Last Supper, "Arise and go." This was a command and a challenge not only for them, but for all. The followers of Jesus had never been promised easy times by Him.

Mrs. H. C. Barlow, president of St. Andrew's WMS had charge of the service.

Husband Does Too Much For Pretty Canadian Wife

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (CP) — Married Canadian men are entitled to a new deal, says Palle Bojesen, a Dane from Copenhagen.

Mr. Bojesen, a representative of the Danish State Radio, in Canada to make recorded interviews with Danish Canadians, paused on Saturday at the Royal Winter Fair to make these remarks on Canada:

"I think the husbands over here do too much. In Denmark we put our women on a pedestal, too, but they'll do anything for us. It doesn't seem that way here."

And this is what he says of Canadian husbands' duties in a lot of Canadian homes—but not all of them:

"First, the husbands set the table. Then he has to carve the roast. After the meal he clears away the dishes. Then he washes them and puts them away. He is also expected to help with such jobs as dusting and sweeping. The wife just sits and looks pretty.

"That is not right. In Europe we have more of a balance. There are certain tasks that are expected of men, but others should only be done on special occasions. That way the wife will appreciate them more."

DOROTHY DIX

Domestic Criminals Held As Guilty As Murderers

DEAR MISS DIX: If my wife killed me with a gun, she would be hanged. But she has killed me with her tongue just as surely as she would if she had slain me with a bullet, for I am dying of angina pectoris, which is the direct result of her nagging at me for forty years. And my only fault has been that I did not make as much money as some other men did I have worked hard all my life, furnished my family a comfortable home, a car, a servant, given my children college educations, yet not one happy day have I had because others had more than we did. If a woman can be punished for taking a man's life, why should she not be punished for taking away from him all that makes life worth having? A VICTIM.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I agree with you that a woman or a man who murders the soul of a husband or wife is a far greater 2criminal than those who merely slay the bodies of their mates. For death from a pistol or a knife or poison is swift and the agony soon over, whereas they kill their victims by slow torture that often goes on for years and years.

For many a woman slays her husband by her nagging and fretting and whining. Many a woman works her husband to death to pay for her extravagance. Many a man is driven to suicide by a wife's tears and reproaches, because she cannot have everything a millionairess has.

Women Suffer, Too

And there are just as many wife murderers as there are husband murderers. There are plenty of men who marry a tender loving clinging woman and who starve her to death for even a crumb of affection. There are plenty of women who literally perish of fear of their husbands' tempers and grouches and abuse. There are plenty of women who literally wither away and die under the blight of an unhappy marriage.

And the worst phase of the situation is that it is so impossible for the one who is married to one of these husband or wife slayers to defend himself or herself against attack. They are always "on the spot," and ready to be stabbed in the back. Their only remedy is flight. And I think that any man who is married to a nagging woman and any woman who is married to a grouchy, abusive man is perfectly justified in getting up and leavng.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have recently moved into a small town after living in a large city. The neighbors have commenced calling on me. Now in the city I never had that and I don't want it, as I like to keep to myself What must I do? Isn't it an insult not to return the calls?

MRS. BLANK.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Certainly your neighbors will so consider it, and you will make a great mistake if you begin your life in a small town by affronting them. They will think you are high-hatting them and will never forgive you.

Consider: The women who have called upon you are making a gesture of friendliness and courtesy to you. They are extending you a welcome and doing their best to make you at home among them. They are opening their doors to you and it is certainly the height of rudeness and lack of appreciation for you to fail to respond to their kindly overtures.

Any stranger who goes into a community does it for his own advantage. He isn't shanghaied there by the people who already live there. He comes because he thinks he can profit by it and so it is the height of bad taste and bad manners and bad policy for him to despise the people among whom he has settled, or to criticize their customs, or to hold himself aloof from them.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is eleven years my senior and his health is not the best. He talks about dying and tries to make me promise never to marry again. If I should die, I would want him to find some one to love and care for him. Do you think I should promise him to remain single if he should die?

A FAITHFUL AND LOYAL WIFE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is nothing but selfishness and jealousy that makes either a man or woman try to make a wife or husband promise never to remarry, and when such a promise is made, for the sake of making a loved one happy, it is better broken than kept.

Certainly it cannot add to the happiness of a saint in heaven to know that he or she is keeping a husband or wife lonely and miserable who might have companionship and love and affection.

Dorothy Dix cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Last summer you gave me a diet for reducing. In the summer I find it not hard to plan my meals. I was eating a great deal of the things you had in the diet, but it helped me more with the diet.

I am finding it difficult now what to take as I have to keep my weight down and should lose a little yet and am a little anemic.

I have not been able to get any good head lettuce,—there is some around but it is no good and I cannot afford to buy poor lettuce, and then have to throw most of it away.

Would you please send me a few points on what I should take during the winter months to keep my weight down. I find it difficult to plan things with fresh fruits (not available).

Thanking you Miss E. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I was very glad to receive your letter and from your inference gather that you were helped by the caloric chart.

Let me repeat that this weight losing with an anemic patient should be done under the supervision of your physician.

Now as for lettuce, you can get along without it if you use plenty of dark green cabbage such as the outer leaves of Savoy cabbage shredded in your salads, and plenty of green celery. The green vegetables contain Chlorophyl, and this you must have for good nourishment. You could use spinach and parsley and watercress for this purpose too. Use a generous serving of one of these every day.

The fresh fruits you can buy at this time of year are apples, imported grapes, grapefruit, oranges, lemons, bananas. Use at least one of these per day, and if at all possible use two. Besides them use canned fruit that is undersweetened—this you can buy. It is packed for diabetics and is ideal for reducers.

Besides the fresh fruit eat the green things I have mentioned and other salad vegetables such as raw carrots, imported tomatoes. Chinese lettuce, radishes when you can get them.

Eat an egg every day, eat 4 ounces fat-free meat every day, use no white bread, use only 100 per cent whole wheat bread; eat 1 pat butter daily—that is 1-inch square and ¼-inch thick; use homogenized milk instead of cream in your tea and coffee, but no sugar. Use no sugar at all sprinkled on cereal or fruit. Eat fresh fruits for desserts instead of cake, pie, cookies or puddings. Eat baked potatoes, skin and all, using your pat of butter on them on the days that you eat them,—which should not be oftener than 4 times per week, and only a medium sized potato then.

Eat all of the cooked and raw vegetables you want excluding potatoes. Eat fish once per week, broiled—not fried—and without rich sauces. Your meats should not be covered with gravy.

If you feel that you are not going to be satisfied when you have eaten what you have ready for a meal,—and then when you are finished go away from the table, clear away all of the food from sight and leave the kitchen. If you get over-hungry and think you are going to have to yield to temptation eat an apple with the skin on, and drink a glass of water.

Write to me again if I have not answered the specific query you had in mind.

Sample Day's Menus for Reducer

Livestock Saved As Barn Burns

STIRLING, Nov. 21—(ENS)—Ten cows were saved when the large barn on Charles Martin's farm, Ivanhoe, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday at 6 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin were going out to milk the cows when they noticed a light in the barn. Thinking the light had accidentally been turned on, they went to take a look and discovered the illumination was caused by fire.

All the livestock was released but the crops stored there this summer, were lost.

Prices Move Narrowly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 21 —(CP)— Prices moved narrowly in dull forenoon trading on the Toronto stock exchange today.

A few key industrials gained fractions and base metals were higher while western oils sagged under pressure of profit-taking on a recent two-day advance.

Golds tended easier on a few scattered penny losses. Volume for the first hour was 140,000 shares, about 54,000 shares less than Saturday's first hour.

Utilities pointed higher, while papers, leaders in the recent upturns, failed to make much headway. Several steels and refining oils were brighter. McColl-Frontenac Oil, Massey-Harris, Dominion Bridge and C.P.R. were among the early gainers.

Consolidated Smelters continued a feature in base metals, adding 1½ at 109½. Osisko Lake, with property adjoining Noranda Mines in the Rouyn district, northwestern Quebec, was brisk and higher on a 10-cent advance at $1.36.

New Industry Brings Life To Old Cobalt

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

A new industry has been established and new life given to one of Canada's most famous mining fields, with the opening of a smelter near Cobalt.

It is the $1,250,000 plant of the Cobalt Chemical and Refinery Co., Ltd., now pouring its first molten metals from its electric furnaces.

Already several mines, feeling assured of a market for their products, have re-opened, and others are expected to do so.

The Cobalt field, from 1903 to 1918, produced 300,000,000 ounces of silver, valued at $200,000,000; and Cobalt people say there is more in the ground than has been taken out.

Its ore of the bonanza days was rich. But the silver was combined with cobalt, for which, at that time there was little demand; and the ore had also a high arsenic content, which was a nuisance.

These factors led to mining of only the richest ores, and discarding of virtually all other materials, once the silver was extracted.

Strategic Material

Now, Cobalt itself has become a strategic material. Later knowledge of the geological formations underlying the area have given direction to the search for further ores; and some recent finds have been as high as those of the early years. Further, the new smelter will make a virtue of the arsenic by using it to make insecticides and pest controls.

Biggest supplier of concentrates, after the ores have been milled and are ready for the smelter, will be Silanco Mining and Refining Co., Ltd., whicsh owns some 30 properties in the area, but the concentrates of smaller independent operators will also be handled.

Silanco started the smelter itself, planning it along "metallurgical" lines to produce metallics from the silver, cobalt, nickel and other metals.

The present company took it over this year and gave it more of a "chemical" approach to include a broad list of oxides, salts, sulphates and industrial and agricultural derivatives.

A party of Canadian and American metallurgists and newspapermen saw the opening of the first section of the plant Saturday with an "official" pouring, although test runs had been made over the preceding week. Other sections will be completed shortly.

Festival To Take Play If Of World Stature

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 — (CP). — Sir Andrew Murray, Lord Provost of Edinburgh, said Sunday that a serious attempt will be made to strengthen the drama section of the Edinburgh Festival next year.

In an informal address at a luncheon meeting of the Ottawa Committee of the Festival's Canadian Council, said the Festival would like something Canadian—"in fact that is our aim."

"But we shall not have such a contribution until Canada has something to offer of international standing. It will not be incorporated into the Festival because it is Canadian—but because it is of world stature. I think you are close to producing something like that now, maybe you have indeed actually reached it. If so there is a place for it at Edinburgh.

Hunters Divide Deer Roof Catches Fire

Seven hunters were busy dividing the spoils Sunday afternoon at the house of Percy McNaughton, a CGE power station operator living at Nassau, when they nearly lost the roof over their heads.

Sparks from the chimney ignited the shingles at one point near the eaves. The hunters dropped the deer they were dividing and grabbed buckets of water to help put out the blaze.

Water poured on the fire by this tried and true method, plus that from a garden hose, subdued the fire after a few minutes. When a pumper truck from the Peterborough Fire Department arrived shortly afterwards the blaze was out.

A couple of boards were damaged and the total bill would not run to much more than $5, Mr. McNaughton estimated.

Francisco (Pancho) Segura, former South African champion, downed Frankie Parker, 6-2, 6-2. It was Segura's 14th victory over Parker in 18 meetings.

Monty Arrives For U.S. Visit Plans Talks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. — (AP).—Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein arrives in the United States today for an unofficial but highly-important round of meetings with the top-ranking men of the United States.

On the record, the famous British warrior with the black beret comes to the United States as the guest speaker Nov. 29 before the English-speaking union in New York.

But during his 12-day trip he will visit with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, his boss in the Second World War; Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U.S. Point Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Joseph L. Collins, Army Chief of Staff, and other military and diplomatic leaders.

Monte already has announced he will "talk defence with anyone who will listen." There is no doubt the military men will be ready to listen. Montgomery now is chairman of the Western Union Defence Alliance. He has been working for months on plans for Europe's defence.

Form Defence Core

These plans for Britain, Belgium, France, Holland and Luxembourg will form the hard core of the basic defence plans for the North Atlantic defence for which the United States Congress has voted $1,000,000,000.

And it is on these plans the western Allies will gamble in their fight to hold Europe against any attack from Russia and her satellites.

Many military men believe the Western Union couldn't have chosen a better man for the job than the spartan, precise Montgomery. His campaigns in the last war were studies in painfully-detailed planning — first as commander of the famed British Eighth Army and later as commander of the 15th Army Group under Eisenhower. In all of them, Monty never had his defences broken by the Germans.

3 Farm Buildings Burn

LYNDEN, Ont., Nov. 21 (CP)—Three farm buildings, 17 head of prize stock and 100 tons of hay were destroyed Saturday night when a barn on the farm of George Gray caught fire. Damage was estimated at nearly $17,000. Lynden is 10 miles west of Hamilton.

Newspaper Publishers Blasted By Dalton

DARLINGTON, Eng., Nov. 21, (AP)—Hugh Dalton, Labor party leader, said Sunday a public parade of British newspaper publishers down Fleet Street would "break the power of the press forever."

In a speech lambasting the British press, Dalton said:

"If you got all the proprietors of daily newspapers and marched them down Fleet Street with labels indicating their names and the papers they controlled, to let the people have a look at them, the influence of the press would be broken forever."

He attacked the British Press as "not speaking for Britain but for its plutocratic paymasters."

Had Liquor In Car

Pleading guilty to having liquor in a car Sunday, Donald Maudsley, 21, 489 Park St. north, was fined $15 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

Report Gambler Likely To Die

RENO, Nev., Nov. 21—(AP)—Lincoln Fitzgerald, big-time gambler shot down from ambush at midnight Saturday, was given little chance to recover today.

The Reno gambling house operator was delirious part of the time and physicians attending him said his condition was gradually deteriorating.

Investigators, meanwhile, were having their troubles getting a line on the man who blasted Fitzgerald with a sawed-off shotgun.

The gunman hid behind the garage of the 57-year-old gambler's luxurious home and fired as Fitzgerald raised the overhead door.

Fitzgerald was preparing to leave for his Reno gambling place, the Nevada Club.

There was some speculation that his attacker may have come from Detroit. Fitzgerald and his partner, Danny Sullivan, were principals in a gambling investigation there in 1946.

Scheme To Reclaim 80,000 Acres Of Marshland Progresses Slowly

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT LAWRENCE, N.S., Nov. 21—(CP)—In this land of crushing tides and lonely grey marshes, the sea slowly is losing its 300-year-long battle with man.

From Belliveau village in southeastern New Brunswick to Minudie in northern Nova Scotia and down along the low-lying shore of the Annapolis Valley the first fall invasion by Bay of Fundy tides subsided last week.

The Nova Scotia government reported recently that a project it is financing with the federal government and marshland owners to reclaim 80,000 acres of inundated coast is progressing slowly but "satisfactorily."

The reclamation scheme so far has been launched over 11,600 acres with the help of 394 marsh owners. Federal and provincial engineering and survey crews work from a base at Amherst, N. S. Dams, breastworks and dikes are being repaired and built. Canals may be added to the list.

Men are building to hold back the thundering tides which, in spring and fall, swell under rains, winds and the moon's pull. A heaving Atlantic delivers the punch as it sweeps up the ever-narrowing Bay of Fundy, Chignecto Bay and numerous rivers and streams lining the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia shores.

Highest In World

Near the head of the Bay of Fundy, these eddying waters have piled up 53½ feet—the world's highest. Up the 100-mile-long resurgent Petitcodiac they hurtled in 1869, splintering a bridge and licking the back steps of city hall in Moncton, N. B. The average high at Moncton is 22 feet.

Farmers along the river—bearer of the famed tidal bore, a first-rate tourist attraction—say damages from the annual incursions normally are insignificant. A dike collapses here, a breast work there. One or two floods a year enrich the soil but more spell bad news for the next year's hay crop because the Petitcodiac is a salt water river when the tide is high.

But others note that if the marshes were reclaimed they might be good for other crops besides hay. French settlers started the job in the 17th century.

Hydrographers explain the bore this way: the outgoing tide is retarded by friction on the wide flats in the river's lower reaches. The incoming Fundy tide churns into this lower stream and overflows in a waterfall front. The resultant "bore" thunders on upstream sometimes reaching a height of five feet. When it becomes swollen—it goes over the side.

Like its sisters down the coast, the Petitcodiac expends an ocean's punch for inland in a quiet clump of bushes.

Medical Standards Drop

LONDON, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Lord Horder, physician to the King, said Friday Britain's national health plan has lowered medical standards and appears "likely to crash on the rock of economics." "Nationalization of medicine was bound to lead, and, indeed, has already led to a deterioration of the standards of doctoring," Lord Horder wrote in the Conservative London weekly, The Recorder.

MARITIME RECLAMATION — Near Amherst, N.S., cattle graze on the Tantramar marshes, some sections of which are scheduled for reclamation under a joint dominion-provincial program. The lower of these photos shows a once-fertile area near Wolfville. It now is useless for agriculture because of mud deposits and gullying which followed the collapse of dikes in 1930. This shows the mouth of the Cornwallis river, with Cape Blomidon in the distance.

LONE BOY REFUGEE SURVIVES CRASH

Hockey Star Jailed For 15 Years

Owe Immense Debt To Society Judge Tells Demers

SHERBROOKE, Que., Nov. 22.—(CP).—Tony Demers, one-time hockey star, today was sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Sept. 16 death of his girl friend.

The 32-year-old hockey player did not bat an eye as Mr. Justice Cesaire Gervais pronounced sentence.

A King's Bench Court jury which tried the star of last year's Sherbrooke hockey team, rejected a charge of murder in favor of the lesser count of manslaughter.

Demers' woman friend, Mrs. Anita Robert of Coaticook, Que., died in Magog, Que., hospital Sept. 16 after a drinking party which began with Demers the previous day.

Mr. Justice Gervais, sentencing Demers, said:

"You owe an immense debt to society and the sentence which I am about to pronounce will put an end to your brilliant career as an international athlete.

Strength Badly Used

"It is a pity that the strength which you displayed so proudly should have been used brutally and savagely against a feeble and intoxicated woman, which you had so subjected to your passions and desires that not even the tearful pleading of her mother could keep her from going out with you.

"You drank a great deal on that day, knowing that liquor would make you quarrelsome and as a result you killed her. You plunged this woman into eternity without any preparation. During your sojourn in penitentiary I hope you will think of the fate of Anita Robert and that you will repent."

Judge Gervais said that in view of the fact that defence counsel as well as the jurors had asked for clemency, he would not impose the 25-year sentence he had in mind but would reduce it to 15 years.

RESCUED AIRMAN — Gentle hands of Canadian seamen and U.S. Air Force personnel transfer S/Sgt. Manuel R. Oropeza, of Globe, Ariz., from the Canadian destroyer Haida to a crash boat in St. George's Harbor, Bermuda. Other survivors of the B-29 that crashed in the Atlantic are visible at right.

Police Find 26 Bodies In Wreckage

Norwegian Searchers Discover Aircraft In Dense Forest

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 22 (AP)—Police announced today they recovered 26 bodies from the wreckage of a Dutch plane which had carried 28 Jewish refugee children and seven adults. The police said one child is known to have survived.

There was only the slimmest chance that there were any more survivors, the rescue parties reported.

The searchers found the twin-engined DC-3 transport after searching since Sunday through the dense forests of southern Norway. It was lost en route from Tunis, North Africa, to Norway with the 28 undernourished refugee children, three nurses and a crew of four.

The plane smashed into the forest, cutting a broad swath through the trees. The front part of the chartered Aero-Holland craft was badly damaged, but the rear section was said to have been almost intact. As rescue workers came upon it, some of them reported they could hear faint, feeble cries.

Lone Survivor

It was reported that the lone survivor was a 12-year-old boy.

Several bodies were found strewn about in the dense woods.

The plane was found near Filtvet, a small town on the west side of the Oslo Fjord, about 30 miles from the Norwegian capital. The nearest house to the crash scene is almost two miles away, and apparently its occupants did not hear the explosion when the plane crashed.

Even though hopes were slim for any more survivors, squads of scene, a hilly, heavily-forested ambulance and rescue teams were sent to reinforce those at the place difficult of penetrate.

The child who survived was taken to a hospital at Drammen, 20 miles from Oslo, police said. A doctor there was quoted as saying the boy has a good chance of recovery.

The boy, one of the pitiably underfed refugee children who had been on their way to rest and rehabilitation in Norway, speaks French, officials said, but it was impossible for the time being to persuade him to tell his name.

At first there had been reports that nine persons had been found inside the plane, but these reports were not confirmed by officials.

Approve Duty Cut

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(CP).—The Senate Banking and Commerce committee today approved a government bill which will have the effect of lowering duties on certain imported liquors and wines. The bill would amend the Customs Act to give the government power to disregard, if it sees fit, the present practice of fixing the value of imports for duty purposes where the goods are being re-exported. It is aimed particularly at imports of rum, Irish whisky and certain wines imported by the United Kingdom for processing and export to Canada.

Fireman Pulls Gun On Chief, Shoots Himself

TORONTO, Nov. 22—(CP)—Believed depressed at what he considered a demotion, veteran fireman Geo. Lee Monday pointed a gun at District Chief Robert Gaston and then shot himself fatally.

Lee had a lengthy interview with the chief, which Gaston would not discuss. Lee, a fireman for 29 years, had been acting chief of the Keele Street fire station and Monday was informed that another fireman holding the rank of captain had been posted to the station.

After the interview Lee, known as a moody, serious man, left the room with Gaston and as they were standing in the hall Lee pulled out a gun and pointed it at Gaston. The latter jumped back into his office and slammed the door.

Lee brushed aside other members of the staff, walked into another room, and shot himself in the breast. He died on the way to hospital in a police ambulance.

Can't Prove Firing

Det. Sgt. John Atkinson of the Toronto police force found the weapon, a .38 long-barrelled revolver, beside Lee. Examination showed that two bullets in the firing cylinder had marks of the firing pin on them. "But we can't say when Lee tried to fire those bullets," said Atkinson. "There is nothing to prove that he tried to fire at the district chief."

Gaston said "As far as I know he didn't try to shoot me, but I was moving pretty fast. It is quite possible, I suppose, that the gun missed fire when he tried to shoot himself."

The middle-aged Lee had several times suffered injuries fighting fires in his long service. He is survived by his widow and one son.

Fire Chief Peter Herd said Lee had not actually been demoted. "He was only an acting captain because he was the senior man at the station," said Herd. "When a new captain was placed at the station he returned to his regular rank."

Stricter Fire Protection Predicted Now On Inland Passenger Ships

New Safety Measures Will Cost Owners Millions Of Dollars; Judge's Recommendations Likely Followed

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(CP).—New safety measures on inland passenger ships, involving extensive reconstruction, were in prospect today in the wake of a critical judicial report on Toronto's Noronic fire disaster. Implementation of the report would call for ships to expand fire-fighting equipment, at an over-all cost probably running into the millions. The government, in tabling the Noronic report in the Commons Monday, indicated it would bring down early legislation to tighten safety provisions.

The report, by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, recommended a series of such measures and also blamed the owners and master of the Noronic for the Sept. 17 fire that claimed 118 lives as the liner was berthed at Toronto.

He also said there had been "laxity" in government inspection of anti-fire equipment, and he added this may have contributed to laxity on the part of owners and officers.

While the judge's strongest criticism was directed at the company and captain for failure to train and direct personnel in fire protection, his recommendations went beyond this aspect and called for new equipment beyond that specified under existing obligations.

Compulsory Move

A major proposal was that it be made compulsory for passenger vessels on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River to be equipped with fire-resistant bulkheads.

This is provided now by international agreement, but the Noronic had been exempted—along with other vessels, Because she was built before the regulation came into effect in 1939.

Other recommendations of the Commissioner called for fire alarm and sprinkler systems, public address systems for warning passengers and ship-to-shore telephone connection at dockside to get quick fire department assistance.

He also called for tighter application of provisions of the international agreement dealing with crew training in fire fighting and handling passengers during an emergency.

Trade Minister Howe, who tabled the report for absent Transport Minister Chevrier, indicated there would be some measure of implementation of its recommendations. He told the Commons he would be surprised if Mr. Chevrier did not bring in early legislation as a result of the report.

18 Inches Snow Clog Roads In W. Ontario

TORONTO, Nov. 22—(CP)—Parts of western and southwestern Ontario today are digging themselves out of an early blast from King Winter which brought snowfalls varying from seven to 18 inches during the night, clogging highways in several centres.

Hardest hit were the Lake Huron-Georgian Bay and the Sarnia-Goderich areas where crews and equipment from the Ontario Department of Highways were pressed into service to keep the roads open.

An estimated 18 inches was reported from Petrolia, near Sarnia. From some areas, it was reported telephone lines were grounded.

Estimated depth of snow at Sarnia was 10 inches, Goderich eight and Grand Bend 12.

The Owen Sound area labored under a fall of about 12 inches with heavy drifts at Meaford and Markdale. Traffic was snarled in Owen Sound. There was a promise of more snow later today in the weather forecast for the Georgian Bay district.

Snowplows also were pressed into service today in the Chatham-Stratford area where an estimated 10-12 inches of snow fell during the night.

The storm did not reach Toronto, but in suburban Etobicoke 300 public school students got a holiday because of the cold when the school's heating equipment failed.

Salesman Admits Driving Girl, Hoped To Wed

BRAMPTON, Nov. 22 (CP) — John Gross, Toronto brewery salesman who almitted to police he left the dead body of university student Margaret Robertson at the hospital Sunday night, told police he is married, but is separated from his wife.

The girl, 21-year-old second-year arts student at the University of Western Ontario, was pronounced dead as the result of an illegal operation, when she was admitted to the hospital. The man who brought her disappeared and Monday night Gross told police he was the driver of the automobile which took her to the hospital.

The 34-year-old salesman could give no reason for leaving the hospital but said he was "confused and a little scared."

He told Police Chief Frank Keats he intended to marry Miss Robertson when he got his divorce. He said he had known the girl two years and they were "deeply in love."

Together All Afternoon

He admitted, police said, being with the girl all Sunday afternoon, then drove to Cooksville. They left Toronto at 2.30 and arrived at 5 p.m. He denied any knowledge of the illegal operation.

Chief Constable Keats said the autopsy performed by Dr. E. C Fleiden, provincial pathologist, indicated the operation was performed within four hours of her death. Police said the operation "was a very amateurish job."

Gross told police he was driving the girl to her parents' home at Acton when she collapsed at Cooksville.

No charge was laid against Gross, who appeared in company with his lawyer.

Commits 150 Burglaries Decides To Quit Crime

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—(AP).—A 21-year-old reform school graduate who says "society doesn't owe me anything," decided on his own volition to quit the life of crime he learned as a youngster. Police were dumbfounded Sunday night when Floyd Christy walked into a police station and confessed to some 150 burglaries committed since last June.

Christy, a boyish-looking young man, told officers he had averaged $400 a week in his career as a full-time burglar.

"I thought that was something," he said. "I spent the money in night clubs and on girls. I gave them the jewelry I stole."

An orphan, Christy said he had been on his own since he was five. "Many times I have to saeal to eat," he said. "It was a game for a gang of boys. I started out stealing milk bottles, then bicycles, then blankets from cars and then the cars themselves."

The young burglar said his only education was in the State Training School for Boys at Woodburn, Oregon

"I'm going straight after this one," he told officers who booked him for investigation.

Christy said he wanted to return to Tokyo to the Japanese wife he married secretly when he served there as an Air Force military policeman. He told officers they have a small daughter.

Says Elizabeth Not Sole Heir

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP)—The British Law Journal says today that Princess Elizabeth is not the sole heir to the throne.

According to law, the Journal states, Princess Margaret might have just as good a claim in court.

The Journal suggests that they might even have to be enthroned as co-queens upon the death of the King.

"It seems to be commonly considered that on the death of His Majesty the King without male issue the crown would unquestionably descend to the Princess Elizabeth," says the provocative article in the Journal.

"However, a survey of English constitutional history reveals that there is no precedent to cover such a situation, and that what commentary exists is of doubtful value."

Nonsense, a Buckingham Palace spokesman told reporters.

The spokesman said the issue was settled in 1937, when Elizabeth was 10 and Margaret 7. The law offices of the Crown looked into the matter, he told newspaper men, and gave a formal opinion that Elizabeth will have sole claim to be Queen.

But the law journal article points out that the title to the Crown stems from the Royal Act of Settlement passed in 1701.

Under that Act, it says, claims to the Crown are limited to the Princess Sophia "and the heirs of her body."

Deaf Mute Leads Police To Burglars

BRANTFORD, Nov. 22 (CP)—James W. Daniels, a deaf mute, provided police with information leading to the arrest and conviction of two burglars. He grappled with them Nov. 13 but couldn't shout for help.

In court Monday Magistrate R. J. Gillen commended Daniels and remanded for sentence Clarence A. Clements, 22, of Toronto, and John L. Thomson, 20 of Chatham. Both pleaded guilty.

Police said the two broke into two buildings Nov. 12. The next night Daniels found them in his backyard. After they escaped Daniels wrote a complete description for police.

Three Damage Suits Filed Against CSL

TORONTO, Nov. 23 — (CP).—Frank Wilkinson, counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, said today three damage suits totalling $340,000 have been filed against the company as a result of the Noronic disaster here September 17.

He said Alvin Metzgar of Cleveland is asking $100,000 for the loss of his wife who was drowned when she jumped from the ship into the harbor. Gordon and Arthur Albes, two brothers from Cleveland, are claiming $225,000 in a joint action for injuries.

At Chicago, a suit for $15,000 has been entered by the estate of Earl Doering Both Doering and his wife died in the fire.

100 Arrested In Polish Purge

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 22.—(AP).— More than 100 persons have been arrested as members of a spy ring which Polish authorities say was linked with the French embassy here.

An alleged confession by Andre Simon Robineau, secretary of the French consulate at Szczecin (Stettin), Poland, was said by a spokesman of the foreign ministry here to have led to "liquidation" of the spy ring.

Robineau was arrested at the Warsaw airport last Friday just as he was about to board a plane for Paris for a vacation.

Foreign correspondents heard part of the wire recordings said to be Robineau's confession and were shown photostatic copies of documents allegedly signed by him.

(In Paris the French foreign ministry denied the Polish charges. A spokesman said the French were worried about Robineau because he was not the first Frenchman to have disappeared inside Poland. The spokesman said an employee of the French consulate at Breslau and a French student had been missing for four months and Polish authorities have given only "evasive" answers about their whereabouts.)

Poland has protested both verbally and by diplomatic note the arrest in Paris of the Polish plane crew which was to have flown Robineau to the French capital last Friday. The crew was arrested when the plane arrived without Robineau—and the plane was impounded.

Molten Metal Kills Engineer

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 22 — (CP). — Orland Boileau, 52, engineer of a slag train showered by molten metal in the explosion of a slag pot in the Algoma Steel Corporation yards Monday night, died today as the result of severe burns.

His fireman William H. Flood, is still in a "grievous condition," company officials sad.

The blast spread red-hot metal inside the cab of the engine in which the pair were riding.

Jet Airliner Sets New Record

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP)—The A. V. Roe Company announced that its new jet airliner flew more than 500 miles an hour in a test run today. This is the fastest time ever recorded for a transport plane in North America, officials said.

A company spokesman said the speed was reached in level flight at 30,000 feet over Malton airport near here.

"This is by far the fastest speed ever attained by a transport aircraft on the North American continent," said the spokesman.

He said the average speed today on commercial air routes is from 200 to 300 miles an hour and the Avro has been designed to cruise at more than 450 miles an hour at 30,000 feet.

Bear Rescues Hunter Stuck In Tree Stump

ST. CLOUD, Minn, Nov. 22 — (AP). — Andrew Kunkel, 21, of nearby Pearl Lake, comes up with a deer story that's a bear.

Kunkel said he was standing on a huge hollow stump, about seven feet high, watching for deer. He heard a noise in the brush. Out stepped a big bear.

Kunkel shot. The manoeuvre caused him to slip inside the stump. His gun fell outside. His feet wedged and unable to get out, he yelled for help, but no one came.

After being in the stump about six hours he again heard noises. He looked up. Backing into the stump was a bear. Kunkel said he seized his hunting knife and jabbed at the bear's handiest area, at the same time grasping a paw. The stabbed bruin shot away from the stump, freeing Kunkel.

The youth said the bear charged off into the brush. Kunkel picked up his rifle and went back to camp.

Siamese Twins In Alberta Believed First In Dominion

TOFIELD, Alta., Nov. 22. — (CP).—Four days old and reported "doing fine," Siamese twin girls were born to Mrs. E. A. Townsend, 20, were being nourished today in an incubator while medical authorities pondered the question of separating them by surgery.

First Siamese twins born in Alberta, the children were delivered last Thursday morning in the tiny but modern Tofield Municipal Hospital, 35 miles southwest of Edmonton. They are joined at the abdomen in front.

Their father, a son of Art Townsend, former Edmonton hockey player, said that aside from the union the children are "perfectly developed."

The attending physician, young Dr. W. H. Freebury, said it is impossible to say whether the twins can be successfully separated by an operation.

He said he hopes the girls can be saved, although it is unusual for such cases to survive.

Meanwhile, the mother was reported making remarkable progress in hospital although "it was quite a blow" to learn of the condition of the babies—her first. She had expected twins.

They weighed a total of nine pounds 12 ounces at birth.

At Ottawa, officials of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, told of the birth, said they could not recall any similar birth in the Dominion.

Old German Nationalism Feared Spreading Rapidly

By THOMAS A. REEDY.

BERLIN, Nov. 22 (AP)—Is the old spirit of German nationalism on the march again?

Western allied officials in Berlin have been piling up a file of evidence that points that way.

All four occupation powers — Britain, France, Russia, and the United States—appear to be sensitive to the rebirth of the old Bismarck creed of "Germany for the Germans."

Recent examples of this are:

In London, member of parliament Brig. Frank Medlicott said "signs of the return of Nazism in Germany are increasing."

In Washington, Telford Taylor, chief U. S. war crimes counsel, asserted the Germans are trying to "soft pedal" the war crimes trials behind a rising nationalism.

In Ottawa, Field Marshal Earl Wavell forecast that Germany would eventually become a greater problem for the west than the Soviet Union. He called the Germans the "most dangerous people in Europe."

How much of the growing German spirit of independence is "nationalist" and how much is pure Nazi is a matter of debate. However, almost any major Nazi who has escaped trial for war crimes up to now can face most German courts without too much fear, unless he is personally linked with an individual war crime.

Last week two German men invaded a Jewish Synagogue near Bayreuth and ripped the American flag off the wall.

Only Monday night a group calling itself "friends of Otto Strasser" tried to hold a political rally in Dusseldorf on the Rhine. The British occupation authorities forbade the meeting. Strasser was one of the seven men with Hitler who founded the Nazi party. He has been a refugee in Canada since he broke with Hitler but has tried repeatedly to return to Germany.

Porter Doesn't Expect To Make New Inquiry

TORONTO, Nov. 22—(CP)—Attorney-general Dana Porter of Ontario said Monday night that in view of Mr. Justice Kellock's findings, it is unlikely a further inquiry under the Coroner's Act will be made into the Noronic disaster.

On the possibility of the province preferring criminal charges, he said he would have to study the complete report before making any comment.

10-Foot Waves Bury Little Schooner's Deck

LUNENBURG, N.S., Nov. 22.—(CP).—With much of her superstructure missing but with all hands safe aboard, the fishing schooner Marilyn Clair was safe in port today after battling what her captain described as the worst storm he had ever seen.

Capt. Carmen Knocc said the schooner pounded through heavy seas for two days before making port. Giant waves sweeping over the schooner's deck buried her under 10 feet of water and ripped loose 12 dories, the cable and all floating gear.

Trans-Canada Highway Plans Near Agreement

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP)—The Federal government and the provinces are nearing agreement on plans for the completion of a "first class, hard-surfaced" Trans-Canada Highway, Reconstruction Minister Winters told the Commons Monday.

He made the statement in introducing legislation authorizing the Federal Government to pay 50 per cent of the cost of completing the 5,000 mile highway. He did not estimate the likely total cost to the Dominion, but some believe it will be between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Some opposition members while welcoming the legislation suggested the government pay the full cost of the highway.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said a Dominion-Provincial conference should be called to discuss how the highway will be financed and to choose the route.

Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) said his party wanted to see the Federal Government assume full cost of the highway. Solon Low, Social Credit leader, supported the suggestion. He said if the Federal Government did not want to pay all costs it should not ask the provinces to contribute more than 30 or 33 per cent.

In the highway debate, Mr. Winters tabled correspondence exchanges with the provinces and said replies from most of them indicated "agreement in most principles."

Few Details Left

"Some technical details remain to be worked out between the federal and provincial governments, and specific routes remain to be defined by formal agreement," he said.

He tabled an agreement which said that the highway is to be constructed within a period of seven years. Federal contributions would be based on a two-lane road. Where a province thought a three-lane highway was needed, the federal contribution will be "computed by reference to the cost of a two-lane highway."

After the road is completed, it will become the responsibility of the province through which it runs, except in cases of national parks. In these areas, the federal government would be responsible.

Not Super-Highway

The federal government's concept of the highway is not that of a super-highway for high-speed traffic from coast to coast, said Mr. Winters.

"It is rather that of a first-class hard-surfaced road which should follow the shortest practical east-west route across Canada and through each of the provinces, consistent with the needs of the provinces and Canada as a whole.

"When completed, the inter-provincial, or trans-Canada route of approximately 5,000 miles should assist in the development of trade and natural resources, as well as our tourist industry."

It now is possible to travel the 4,200-odd miles between Halifax and Vancouver by road on Canadian soil, though not in comfort throughout the length of it, he said. Only about 60 per cent of the total mileage is paved, and much of this is low standard.

The trans-Canada highway will be hard-surfaced. Some of the existing highways will be fitted into the national route.

Small Countries Weary Of Cold War Fighting

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 22 —(CP)—Small countries in the United Nations today are expressing louder than ever before their distaste of the cold war.

All but Yugoslavia continue to vote almost without exception with the big Western powers when it comes to an East-West showdown in the U.N. Assembly.

The representative of Premier Tito alone gives voice to the idea of a "plague on both your houses" and supports Russian or Western resolutions on various issues.

Another showdown vote is slated to be taken early this week in the 59-member political committee. Already the majority have expressed support of the 12-point Anglo-American resolution outlining the essentials for permanent peace.

Eskimo Youth Gets 2 Legs Doctors See Big Future

EDMONTON, Nov. 22.—(CP).—David Koomayuk hitched the legs of his trousers and revealed two artificial limbs. With a shy smile the 18-year-old Eskimo said wistfully: "When I was home I liked playing tag. Now I know I will never be able to run again." Never again will the husky youth lead his former nomad life, moving from one igloo home to another and travelling miles over the frozen wastes behind his godsled in search of caribou and seal.

But David, believed to be the first Eskimo ever to be fitted with artificial legs, already is preparing himself for a new life in the Arctic to which he will return soon.

Doctors at Charles Camsell Indian Hospital in Edmonton, where David's legs were amputated 6½ inches below each knee to prevent gangrene from spreading, said he likely will be able to work around some Arctic post, possibly as a clerk.

Clever Youth

"With his intelligence quotient of 120 he has the ability to go far beyond a clerking job," said David's hospital school teacher.

"Although he has taken instruction for only a few months he can read English perfectly, and his hand-writing is equivalent to a grade nine student's. memory and surprising talent for imitation, he can write any signature as well as I can."

The stocky lad, whose feet dropped off last Christmas while he lay sick with dysentery and gangrene at Cresswell, N.W.T., arrived here in an RCAF mercy plane Feb. 15. Cresswell Bay is on Somerset Island, 400 miles inside the Arctic Circle and 1,400 air miles northeast of Edmonton.

David has been on his new legs for only three weeks but he can walk so well that he carried food trays around his hospital ward.

Moffat Youth Has Best Steer

TORONTO, Nov. 22 —(CP)— Donald Campbell, 14, Monday night led his prize Shorthorn steer into the Royal Winter Fair horse show ring to receive the King's Guineas from Governor-General Viscount Alexander.

Donald, who comes from Moffat, Ont., won the guineas for showing the best baby beef steer in competition with about 125 other junior farmers. The guineas were the gift of King Edward VII, who presented a sum of money to the Ontario Government when he was Prince of Wales to be used for the improvement of agriculture in the province.

The governor-general later presented the Governor-General's Cup, won by the Siften Stables of Richmond Hill, Ont., for the best half-bred mare or gelding suitable to become a hunter.

The slow-riding Mexican Army jumping team won the military broad-jump event, their fifth victory in five days, when Capt. Ruben Uriza turned in a perfect performance on Hatuey. The Irish team made their best showing of the fair by placing second and the Chileans, who usually give the Mexicans a run for the money, failed to place. Lieut. Tom Gayford, riding Star Cliff, brought Canada third place money.

Western Canada made a good showing in the beef cattle breeding classes. W. A. Crawford-Frost of Nanton, Alta., won the Hereford bull grand championship and Victor Watson of Airdrie, Sask., took reserve position.

Claims Unions Switching To New UE-CIO

The majority of union members originally in the UE have switched their affiliation to the new International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO), Tom Fitzpatrick of Pittsburg, Pa., a representative of the new electrical workers' union, told The Examiner.

He estimated that by the beginning of this week the UE-CIO had 180,000 of 339,000 originally members of the UE in the United States and Canada. And he described as "padding the roll" UE claims of a membership of more than 400,000 in the 430 locals.

The vast majority of those who have signed with the new union in the United States are employed by the two major electrical companies — Westinghouse and General Electric. He claimed 75 per cent. of the Westinghouse workers (70,000) for the UE-CIO and 60 per cent. of the General Electric (65,000).

Unanimous Vote

Continuing his survey of the state of the new electrical union in the United States, Mr. Fitzpatrick said that local 601 of Pittsburg with 15,000 members "voted unanimously to leave the UE, and so have two giant General Electric locals of similar size —local 201 in Lynn, Mass., and local 301, Schenectady.

About 95 per cent. of the employees in the General Motors electrical division, comprising three locals, have chosen the UE-CIO to be their bargaining agent, he stated. This would include nearly 25,000 members.

Fresh gains for the UE-CIO are being registered every day, according to Mr. Fitzpatrick.

"The CIO by its expulsion of the UE finally gave to the American and Canadian working people an opportunity to free themselves from the whims and wishes of a small sectarian group of politicians, and the opportunity to align themselves with the 6,000,000 members of the powerful CIO," stated Mr. Fitzpatrick.

"You in Peterborough have the opportunity to choose, just as we in the States have already done."

Prices Continue Easier Trend Today

TORONTO, Nov. 22 — (CP).— Prices tended to continue Monday's easier trend in the forenoon on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Small losses were scattered thinly on the industrial board and base metals showed a handful of declines. The few Western oils that traded were against the trend for penny gains and golds were about balanced.

In industrials, Steel of Canada went against the trend for a gain of a full point at 94½ and Montreal Locomotive continued recent gains.

Noranda Mines, selling ex-dividend $1, dipped the full amount to $67 in base metals. Waite Amulet, East Sullivan, Osisko, Sherritt Gordon, and Golden Manitou were down on losses ranging to 10 cents. McIntyre Mines added 1¼ at 68¼ in senior golds while a few junior producers slipped pennies. Anglo-Canadian rose 5 cents at $4.40 in a quiet Western oil list.

Eight-Man Hunting Party Takes Eight Deer

Bullet Ends Buck's Fight With Two Dogs

Eight members of Little Long Lake Hunt Club have returned after a week of deer hunting with five bucks and three does. Members of the party, which was the most successful so far reported of the season, were Don Crabe, Lang; Harold Wilson, Keene; Harry Dunford, Havelock; Graton Bullock, Young's Point; Mel and Percy Edwards, Stuart Clydesdale and Earl Harding, Warsaw.

It was not easy going, Mr. Wilson told the Examiner. A large 10-point buck attacked their two dogs, but Mr. Bullock came to the rescue with a successful shot at the deer.

One wolf was seen during the hunt, but the men were unable to shoot it.

FEMALE WHEAT KING — Mrs. Amy Grace Kelsey of Erickson, BC, is a three-time winner of the world's wheat championship. She first captured the honor at the 1946 Chicago International Hay and Grain Show. She topped all contestants the following year at Toronto's Royal Winter Fair last week repeated at the 1949 Royal Winter.

Hall-of-Fame To Honor Farm Leaders

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 — (CP).— Canada's farmers soon may have a Hall of Fame to honor the outstanding figures in the nation's leading industry.

Directors of Ottawa's Winter Fair—second in size only to the big Royal Winter Fair at Toronto—have got the idea off to a fast start by setting up a preliminary organization and nominating a candidate.

They are seeking to form in Canada a club patterned after the famed Saddle and Sirloin Club of the Union Stock Yards, Chicago. Restricted to agriculturists, the club would annually select a member making an outstanding contribution to world or North American agriculture

Nominated by directors for the honor of being acclaimed No. 1 farmer this year is Dr. E. S. Archibald, one of Canada's foremost agriculturists and director of the country-wide Dominion Experimental Farms.

Wins recognition

Now 64, Dr. Archibald has won recognition as one of the world's leading agricultural experts during the 30 years he has headed the Experimental Farms Under the guidance of the former Nova Scotia farm boy, such now-commonplace form stand-bys as Marquis wheat and rust-resistant wheat have been developed.

The suggested agricultural Hall of Fame already has won good support from agricultural bodies across the country.

Under the Ottawa proposal, an oil painting would be completed of the farmer winning the club's annual award.

But agriculture, like sportsmen, may have trouble in reaching agreement on just who should be nominated for the honor of having their painting hung in the club.

Both Agriculture Minister David Ure of Alberta and Manitoba's Agriculture Minister F. C. Bell suggested that it would be more fitting to have the honor go to a man actively engaged in farming for his livelihood than a scientific farmer like Dr. Archibald.

Minister Says Saskatchewan No Poor Relation

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22 — (ENS)—"Not many years ago the people of Ontario thought of Saskatchewan as a poor relation," said Rev. Gordon J. A. Whitehouse, minister of Seymour United Churches, to the Rotary Club on Monday. But today, Saskatchewan holds promise of great things to come," he declared.

He said that he had gone to Saskatchewan at the end of the hungry thirties. The farmers had to forsake their homesteads and trek north to start life all over again. It was their resourcefullness and persistency that carried them through," he added.

"The prairie had become windblown," he declared, "with no vegetation. The machinery was covered with banks of dust and the buildings denuded of paint. Today rains have brought back life, hope and renewed energy."

He said there was much diversity in Saskatchewan. The Cypress Hills, covered with spruce and poplar, added natural beauty to the southern part of the province. North of the hills was the broad prairie belt, level and treeless, where the world's best wheat was grown.

"The prairie gradually tapers off," he stated, "into the parklands. Here farming was more diversified and this part of the province was largely settled by non-British people from Germany, Russia and central Europe.

Forests Depleted

"North again," he continued, "is the evergreen belt where fir, cedar and tamarack once grew in abundance. This area," he stated, "has been depleted of its forests by indiciminate cutting. Here, too, beautiful lakes and streams abound in almost countless numbers."

He said the pre-Cambrian shield, crosing northern Saskatchewan, contained, perhaps, the largest deposits of uranium in the world. Gold in large quantities was also hidden within the rocks. "The very northern portion of the province, known as the 'land of little sticks,' was the summer feeding ground of the caribou," he stated.

Guests were Percy McMurty, Midland, and Rev. James Semple and Bill Robbin, both of Peterborough. Ralph Locke introduced the speaker and Alec MacColl moved the vote of thanks. Vice-President A. K. Loucks was in the chair..

The difficulty of sizing up the effects on trade of recent currency devaluations is illustrated in a study made by the commercial intelligence committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

In a presentation to the Association's executive council, the committee says:

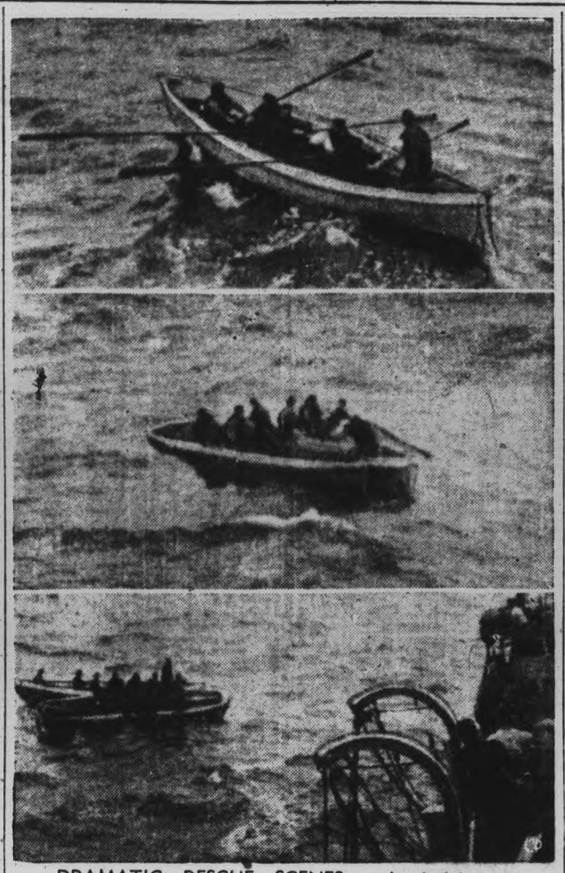
"The immediate effect on Canadian manufactured exports has been greatly dampened by the fact that most export markets, particularly in the Commonwealth and Europe, had already been closed to them by import controls. The importance of a favorable or unfavorable price relationship is reduced to nil if business cannot be obtained at any price.

"Canadian manufactured products which are still able to enter these markets are those which are regarded in the importing country as essentials which are not available from non-dollar sources, and as such it appears that they will go on being purchased despite the fact that they now cost more in terms of depreciated currencies." Also:

"Members have reported losses of sales and even cancellations of orders as a direct result of new low-priced competition from the United Kingdom and Scandinavia as well as local manufacturers in their markets in Pakistan, South Africa, British West Indies, Great Britain, New Zealand, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and Argentine.

"Other reports indicated that lower prices by their competitors had not yet been adversely effective because of differences of style, quality, service, and ability to give prompt delivery. These factors and others were tending to offset and confuse the purely theoretical relationship which planners at first predicted from the new currency exchange rates.

"Although it is difficult to pick out any clear cut comprehensive picture, it does appear on balance that Canada's position as an exporter is going to be seriously affected by an over-all price disadvantage vis-a-vis her non-dollar competitors."



DRAMATIC RESCUE SCENES — A whaleboat from HMCS Haida (top) is rowed toward a drifting canvas boat with 18 United States airmen from a B-29 Bomber which crashed northeast of Bermuda last Wednesday. In centre photo, the boats make contact and at bottom the small craft approach the Haida and safety. The Haida took the men to Hamilton, Bermuda, where they were treated in hospital at Kindley Field, US air base on the island. The Haida, the aircraft carrier Magnificent and frigate Swansea were on a Caribbean cruise when they were diverted to take part in the extensive search for the crash survivors.

2 Film Producers May Quit Britain

LONDON, Nov 22 (CP)—Two of Britain's leading film producer-directors were reported Monday to be planning to move their locations to Canada "because of the increasing difficulty of making films here."

They were Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger, better known under the pseudonym "The Archers." The two were scheduled to leave Dec. 16 for talks with the Canadian government and industrial representatives concerning financial arrangements for the new venture.

Raymond Massey, Toronto-born actor now performing on Broadway, said he is "keenly interested' in the project, as is his brother Vincent, former Canadian high commissioner in London.

The British film business has been in the doldrums during the last months and J. Arthur Rank recently loosed a bombshell by announcing that his production distribution group had lost more than $10,000,000 during the last year.

Man Arrested In Vicious Baby Slaying

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 22 (AP) —Paul Gutierrez, an itinerant cotton picker, was held under strong guard today booked on a charge of murder in the vicious rape-killing of a 17-month old baby girl.

Police said Guiterrez gave them a statement admitting that he took the baby, Josephine Yanez, from her parents' automobile on Sunday night and spanked her. But he contended that everything after that was "blank," until he woke up at his cabin later in the day.

Guierrez was arrested Monday, picking cotton in a field six miles west of Turon. It was near Turon 40 miles southwest of Fresno, that the baby was taken from her parents' car, violated and thrown fac down in a furrow in a field, her head shoved into the mud.

The parents, ranch worker Joe Janez, 29, and his wife Teya, 22, had gone to a Saturday night dance to pick up Mrs. Yanez' sister. When Josephine began to cry, Yanez left the car to go get his wife. When they returned, Josephine was gone.

Badly Beaten

Searchers found her tiny body Sunday night, a few hundred yards from the dance hall. The child had been stripped naked, except for her bonnet and one shoe. There were tooth marks on her body. She had been beaten Her liver was lacerated, indicating she had been squeezed violently, officers said.

Deputy Sheriff Huber Nevins said Gutierrez probably would be arraigned Wednesday on a formal charge of murder.

A man picked up earlier for questioning was released.

The officers said that Gutierrez told in his statement;

He had been drinking Saturday night, and smoked one marijuana cigarette before going to the Huron dance No one would dance with him, because of his condition so he left the hall.

As he was leaving, he heard the little girl crying. He opened the car door, picked her up and spanked her. Her crying continued perhaps for 10 minutes.

"He said he doesn't remember exactly what happened after that," said Nevins.

Old Country Letter

Britain Enters Season Of The Sniffles

By WILLIAM BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Sniffle time is on the land and winter's just around the bend.

In a few weeks Britons, already mist-bound morning and evening, will be groping their way to and from work through the country's fabulous and perennial fogs. Early this year peasoupers closed down all road transport in the London area for almost a week.

Already drizzles are the order of the day—accepted uncommonly well by the citizenry, too.

"Nasty day," remarked through clogged nostrils to a British acquaintance usually elicits a bright "yes, but what a wonderful summer we've had."

Winter Comfort

Gratefulness for 1949's long months of sunshine and cloudless skies has so far kept at bay the customary resentment to the elements.

Drizzles and cold nights, however, have turned thoughts to provision for winter comfort. Coal bins—padlocked sheds outside many English houses—are being replenished if the family allocation hasn't been exhausted.

Many English colds are doubtless acquired—and kept—by that early morning prodding through the bin's heaps of dust in hope of finding reasonably-sized lumps for the next night's fire. There are constant complaints about the quality of coal released for the home market.

Though top quality fuel is cheaper than in Canada, selling at $14.81 a ton, it still is strictly rationed. Households can buy only 1.7 tons a year, which works out to about 100 pounds a week during the cold season.

End Of The Chinese Republican Road

The Nationalist Government of China has disintegrated. The Acting President Li Tsung-jen is feuding with Chiang Kai-shek and has taken refuge in a British hospital in Hong Kong. Kai-shek is in Chungking sitting over what little territory is left to him after the Communist onslaught. The Nationalist army is tattered, hungry and cowed. Some soldiers have trudged the whole length of China retreating before the Communist armies, and tens of thousands of bitter, dispirited ones have crowded into Hainan, the island off the southermost tip of the Chinese coast, the end of the road for them. They can withdraw no farther.

* * *

Hainan is the one of the last territorities remaining to Chiang Kai-shek, yet more than a third of Hainan has been under Communist control for twenty years. The demoralized soldiers are congregating in Haikow, the island's capital, and there are selling their few belongings and their loot for food. Many have been in the army for a dozen years as conscripts, and have walked from the Burma Road to Manchuria and back down to the Indo-China border in the twelve years, with little understanding of why they were fighting, but with a peasant's stolidity. Now they have reached the end.

* * *

The official demise of the Nationalist Government was spelt out over the week-end when eight British Commonwealth countries prepared to recognize the new Communist government. Hong Kong, Britain's island and peninsular colony is now the only strong outpost of western democracy in China. It is heavily garrisoned, and there is little likelihood that the Chinese Communist armies will try to seize it by force. The Communist regime has enough on its hands without venturing to test its strength against soldiers and equipment superior to anything it faced in the Nationalist army.

Screening The Screeners

There is no evidence that the "screening" of the National Film Board staff being undertaken by the R.C.M.P. (apparently at the behest of the Department of National Defence) is a back-door attempt to discredit the Film Board and its works. As a matter of fact, the Liberal Government has been a pretty staunch defender of the Film Board against the sniping and gunning it has been subjected to in recent years. No matter how good its work, how imaginative, honest and distinguished its films, there are always certain people who cannot abide anything that savours of an artistic rather than a purely commercial or dully pious attitude. Since the film board people are employees of a government department, should they not wear black hats, sombre ties, striped trousers and a bored face? Because they do not, there must be something odd and unstable about them.

Even more suspicious is their enthusiasm for their work. And worst of all, some of them have ideas, even new ideas. And some of them talk as if ideas mattered. Such talk is radical, perhaps even liberal. Better investigate those fellows, keep a sharp eye on them; never can tell what they'll be up to.

The Minister of National Defence is not a person to think or talk in this way, but there are Colonel Blimps and nervous old ladies even in Ottawa; and since the R.C.M.P. is handy and is a consistent and persistent file-keeper, the Film Board people are being investigated to make sure that all bear true allegiance, before being allowed to take pictures of military equipment. Meantime the confidential work has been entrusted to private film companies. The people who work for the private companies are, be it noted, apparently above suspicion; they are not being screened. Perhaps they wear striped trousers as a badge of respectability, honesty and loyalty.

The Prime Minister has said that the Board is not under suspicion and should not be put under a cloud. He regrets that reports of the screening have been made public. He instances the affair as a "leakage" of secret government information. Lest we all get the heeby-jeebys about leakages and the Film Board, we remind our readers about the news pictures of Mr. Claxton, Minister of Defence last Saturday. He was holding in his hand a model of an aeroplane, and the picture was published in connection with a story about Canada's newest fighter plane, the XC-100, a hush-hush machine. Here, it seemed, was the Minister of National Defence giving away the secret of the XC-100. The reassurance of an Air Vice-Marshal was needed to convince some critics of Mr. Claxton that the model was just a toy. The Russians could have learned about as much from the picture as from "a Buck Rogers' cartoon".

We believe that the Film Board people will prove to be as innocent as Mr. Claxton and that the Colonel Blimps, the nervous old ladies in Parliament and the R.C.M.P. are chasing butterflies. Perhaps the explanation of the hunt is that they do not like butterflies.

President's Changing Face

Mr. Harry Truman has been President of the United States for four and a half years. When he was suddenly called to office by the death of Roosevelt, he was vice-president, and in the great Roosevelt's shadow, a figure of little consequence. His greatest days seemed to be over, the days when he made his name public as Senator from Missouri heading the Truman Commission investigating public expenditures. He was a small man unknown to world councils, and ignorant of many of them. Then he stepped from the obscurity of the Vice-Presidential chair into the governing seat of the most powerful nation on earth still engaged in the greatest war of history. One remembers his radio voice and the figure thrown on the movie screens; the humble manner, the meagre face, the owlish littleness of the eyes; the feeling that great position had been thrust upon a man unprepared for it, fearful of it, and no match for it.

The Truman face on the screen and the radio voice are now different. They belong to a great man. Whether he had the qualities in him four and a half years ago, or whether great position of itself gives them, either making or breaking the person so burdened, he now speaks with authority and confidence, his gestures are forceful and convincing, his fuller face cannot be mistaken for the face of a common little man. One knows that here is a man who has increased in wisdom and stature. He has met the challenge of great position and drawn from the resources of his own people, or from some primal genius of the land itself, the power, dignity and strength which are the attributes of greatness. The transformation has been remarkable and rapid. The face on today's screen is impressive; the voice is the voice of a man who has authority in his own right.

Oshawa Strike Settlement

The 21-day strike at the General Motors plant at Oshawa has come to a sensible end. The union members (United Auto Workers, C.I.O.-C.C.L.) accepted a compromise formula upon the recommendation of their officers. The strike began as a "wildcat" affair following the dismissal of four employees and a dispute about a speed-up in the plant operations. The union has conceded the company's right to set assembly-line speeds, and has accepted the limited suspension of four employees.

The strike hit not only the employees severely, who suffered loss of pay, but also the whole of Oshawa, which is more than most southern Ontario places, a one-industry town. In these matters of labour relations, there is a point where union and company affairs should take second place to the community's welfare. In labour disputes the community in the third party, whose interests are not usually sufficiently considered and whose voice is the least articulate. Yet civic duty and welfare should transcend the private interests of a union or a company.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Mayor of Toronto complains that some Toronto taxi drivers look like thugs. This is not surprising in men whose native element is Toronto traffic.

Correct this sentence: "Laughing heartily at his own predicament, he leapt out of the bathtub to answer the phone."

Something calling itself a Fashion Foundation suggests that men carry vanity cases to keep themselves well-groomed. We have been thinking of what it would take to keep a man well-groomed, and we estimate that the case would be about the size of a large valise.

Dr. Adenauer's Foreign Policy

(By Special Correspondent in Bonn)

NOW that the decisions of the Paris conference on Germany have become known through the mouth of Dr. Konrad Adenauer, the West German Federal Chancellor, the progress achieved must be judged considerable. There is little doubt that the man in the street feels that Dr. Adenauer has scored a fine initial success.

Allied readiness to re-examine the dismantling list may look less impressive when it is realized how large a part of the August Thyssen steel works at Duisberg-Haborn has already been destroyed, and that such important plants as the former Hermann Goering ore smelting works at Watenstedt-Salzgitter are not included in the re-examination. Yet the main feeling will be relief that this sorry chapter in Allied policy is at last nearing its end.

* * *

EVEN more important in this respect is the Allied permission for Germany to build "a limited number of special ocean-going ships of a size and speed competitive with foreign shipping," which will be particularly welcomed by friends of Britain here because the shipping restrictions have poisoned Anglo-German relations more than any other single issue.

In the political field the Allies, without either formally ending the state of war or formally revising the Occupation Statute, have agreed gradually to increase the West German Government's freedom of action and to promote its international contacts, particularly by permitting without further delay the appointment of consular and trading missions and by sponsoring German membership in as many international organizations as possible. But the chief political progress is that contacts between the High Commissioners and the German Government will now be conducted at least in part by free negotiation and that the atmosphere of dictation followed by protest, of rigid command answered by plaintive petulance, will at last be dispersed.

* * *

THIS result is undoubtedy due to the understanding shown by Dr. Adenauer of the primary need to satisfy French security requirements. His offer to sign the Ruhr Statute—possibly after some interpretation of one critical clause—and to pledge co-operation with the Allied Security Board has been accepted by the conference, and there is hope that the formal signatures may still be forthcoming in time for this week's crucial meeting of the French National Assembly.

But not all Dr. Adenauer's ideas have been equally successful. His suggestion for French participation in the German steel combines, backed by American capital, has been received with considerable suspicion by the French Government, which is not prepared to entrust French security to the hands of the Comite Des Forges (French Steel Federation).

* * *

INSTEAD of taking up this point in Dr. Adenauer's memorandum, the Foregin Ministers have on the contrary asked, as an additional guarantee of security, for evidence that the German Government will go ahead with decartelization. This means that France, originally not a party to the Anglo-American Law 75 on the breaking up of Ruhr trusts, has now belatedly rallied to the British side in its defence, and that the rise in German steel trust shares on the Duesseldorf Stock Exchange in the last few days will probably prove to have been premature.

Another set-back to Dr. Adenauer, alleged in the Bundestag (Federal Parliament) debate by Dr. Kurt Schumacher, the leader of the Socialist opposition, is unofficially confirmed by Allied sources.

According to Schumacher, the Foreign Ministers expressed anxiety about the personnel policy of Dr. Adenauer's Government —that is, his inclination to promote officials with an extremely doubtful record to responsible posts. On the basis of a number of known cases, the Foreign Ministers are said to have insisted that the Allied High Commissioners should in all coming negotiations retain the right of approval for any appointments to Germany's foreign service and to the leading positions in the Federal police.

* * *

THERE thus appears to be a remarkable contrast between the confidence inspired by Dr. Adenauer's foreign policy and the suspicion created by some of his internal attachments—his ties with the heavy industrial combines and his penchant for officials with a bad record under the Nazi regime.

This contrast may be the clue to the strange internal regrouping in German politics which was evident in last week's Bundestag debate. On the one hand, the whole of the traditionally nationalist Right, including extremist groups outside the Government, supported Dr. Adenauer's policy of conciliation with France at almost any price, including signature of an unrevised Ruhr Statute. On the other, the opposition to this policy was led by the traditionally internationalist Social Democrats, the leading party of the policy of fulfilment (of the Versailles Treaty) during the Weimar Republic.

The danger is that a promising policy of international conciliation may receive less backing in Germany than it could otherwise command owing to its being associated with the defence of vested interests and owing to the authoritarian methods used by the Chancellor in putting it forward.

End, Then, To Taxes

The Ottawa Journal points out that in 1948 there were 139 persons taxable on income of $100,000 and better and they paid a total of $13,492,000 out of a grand total of income taxes collected of $1,297,999,404. If the Government had taken every cent of the big incomes, it would only have added $8,500,000 more. The figures show that propaganda to make the big fellows pay more does not stand up when the figures are analyzed, because there are not enough of them. And more than that, when their wealth is confiscated once, it is gone for good.

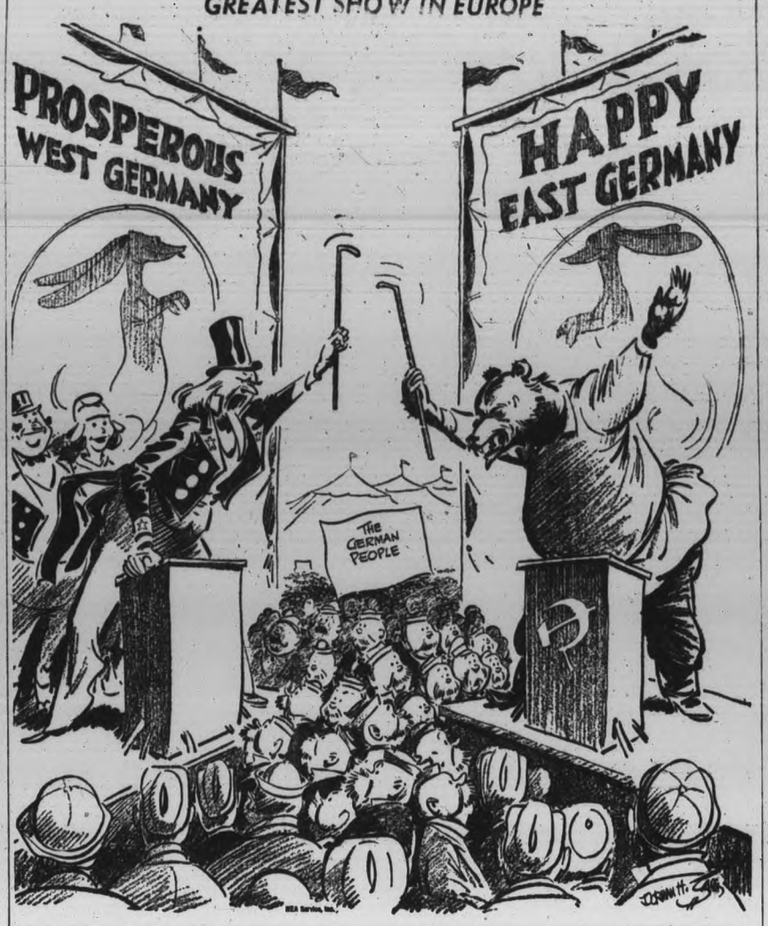
GREATEST SHOW IN EUROPE



Mr. Acheson's Moustache

(PHILIP HAMBURGER IN THE NEW YORKER)

THE Secretary of State leaves his ivy-covered, white-doored red brick house, on a quiet street in Georgetown, at approximately ten minutes to nine in the morning. In one hand, he carries his brown dispatch case. On his head there is a black or a gray Homburg. These cool mornings, he wears a trim, gray topcoat. His sartorial equipment stops just short of undue elegance. He is partial to gray or blue suits with white stripes, ties with commanding, colourful diagonals, highly polished shoes, and blue-and-white candy-striped shirts with stiff white collars. In the morning light, his big reddish-gray moustache is an object of remarkable distinction. It has a personality of its own, and people who have happened by and seen Acheson emerge in the morning have often experienced the disquieting illusion that two entities are on their way to work, the Secretary and the Secretary's moustache. "Honestly," a neighbour who goes to work at about the same time said recently, "some mornings the moustache appears to be a step or two ahead of the Secretary; other mornings it appears to be a step or two behind." There is a solid basis for this illusion. Acheson is enormously fond of his moustache. It is for him not only a major link with his past but a guide to his present and his future.

As a public figure, Acheson without his moustache would be like Roosevelt without his smile or Churchill without his cigar, but the moustache is more than a convenient cartoonist's symbol. Acheson's father, the late Edward Campion Acheson, Episcopal Bishop of Connecicut, wore a moustache, too — a Guardsman's moustache, thick and imperious, with a disdainful droop. While still in college, young Dean cultivated a similar growth, partly in defiance of and partly out of respect for his father. Throughout his early years at the bar and his first years in government service, his moustache was large, unruly, and reasonably aggressive. It was a pushy moustache, but its very pushiness betrayed its owner's uncertainty.

Not until Acheson had become Under-Secretary of State, in 1945, was the moustache somewhat reduced in size and tilt. Though it once seemed about to climb his cheeks, like a vine seeking the sunlight, it now is comparatively self-controlled and at peace with itself, quietly aware of its responsibilities. While still bushy it is no longer impenetrable, and while still giving off gay hints of the unpredictable, it is the adornment of a man who has conquered not only himself but his moustache. Acheson uses no wax or artificial flattener on it. He engages a great deal in the art of thinking, and with some violence, and while doing so he unconsciously pulls on the moustache and this gives it a bristly, well-tailored appearance.

Most mornings, when Acheson leaves his house, taking a sharp look up and down the street from his front door, moving briskly along his short brick walk, and almost leaping down a flight of stone steps to the street, he and his moustache are in perfect harmony. On mornings when the Secretary is disturbed by a problem, the moustache asserts its independence, once again giving the impression of being a separate entity.

Martyr To Micawber

It has been suggested that the Soviet Union may be directing the bad treatment of United States Government officials by the Chinese Communists in the hope of preventing any premature rapprochement between the West and the Soviet's puppets in the Far East. A logical corollary, if this thesis were accepted, would be that we should continue to tolerate the outrageous effrontery to which we have been subject so as to thwart this devious device of the Kremlin.

This whole argument has elements of over-complication of the situation. The plain fact is that able, honest, faithful and diligent public servants have been stranded in Communist China by our Micawber Far Eastern policy. Why they have been thus exposed to abuse and to the gravest danger has not been satisfactorily explained. The thesis that they could serve a useful purpose by maintaining our "friendly contact" with the "Chinese people" is obviously suppositious, since the Chinese Communists have been at great pains to make the "contact" possible.

We cannot afford, if we want to retain a shred of prestige anywhere in Asia, to let men such as Angus Ward, who is now rounding out a full year of entrapment in Mukden, suffer any further contumely as martyrs to our inability to decide what can and should be done. If the Chinese Communists are illiterate in the language of international diplomacy and decency we will have to draw them a picture that they can understand. The important thing now is not to make a clever move on the chessboard of chicane but to resolve upon rescue.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

But in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it. (Mic. 4: 1.)

* * *

The words of Nehemiah the son of Hachaliah. And it came to pass in the month of Chisleu, in the twentieth year, as I was in Shushan the palace, that Hanani, one of my brethren, came, he and certain men of Judah; and I asked them concerning the Jews that had escaped, which were left of the captivity, and concerning Jesusalem. And they said unto me, The remnant that are left of the captivity there in the province are in great affliction and reproach: the wall of Jerusalem also is broken down, and the gates thereof are burned with fire. (Neh. 1: 1-3.)

* * *

So I came to Jerusalem, and was there three days. And I arose in the night, I and some few men with me; neither told I any man what my God had put in my heart to do at Jerusalem: neither was there any beast with me, save the beast that I rode upon.... And the rulers knew not whither I went, or what I did; neither had I as yet told it to the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the rulers, nor to the rest that did the work.

Then said I unto them, Ye see the distress that we are in, how Jerusalem lieth waste, and the gates thereof are burned with fire: come, and let us build up the wall of Jerusalem, that we be no more a reproach. Then I told them of the hand of my God which was good upon me; as also the king's words that he had spoken unto me. And they said, Let us rise up and build. So they strengthened their hands for this good work.

But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, and Geshem the Arabian, heard it, they laughed us to scorn, and despised us, and said, What is this thing that ye do? will ye rebel against the king? Then answered I them, and said unto them, The God of heaven, he will prosper us; therefore we his servants will arise and build: but ye have no portion, nor right, nor memorials, in Jerusalem. (Neh. 2: 11, 12, 16-20.)

Full o' Beans

The lowly bean—an agricultural pellet loaded with proteins and vitamins, and cheap, is to be popularized. The Ontario Bean Marketing Board, having conferred with farm and trade officials at Ottawa, has decided upon a coast-to-coast program to make Canadians bean-conscious. The board has a matter of some 1,200,000 bushels on hand. Eurocean countries will take some of these; we are to bake the rest.

It should not be hard to popularize beans, save possibly in the homes of veterans, and even there their low cost value might eventually bear fruit. After all, Canada has been more or less built on beans. Our lumber and railroad camps have demonstrated the energy value of these choice morsels for half a century. "Full of beans" has become a popular idiom. If the proposed campaign is successful the incomes of Western Ontario growers will benefit, so shall we. What better meal than home-baked beans on a frosty night?

Radio And Its Future In Canada Hotspot Of Royal Commission

By PIERRE DUBOIS

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP). — Radio and its future in Canada has emerged as the hotspot of the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences.

William Guild of Lethbridge, Alta., chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, expresses the view that the report of the commission headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey will fix the pattern of Canadian radio and television for the next 20 years.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC Board of Governors, agrees the importance of the commission to Canada's radio future can not be over-emphasized.

The commission's investigation, of course, covers many important problems other than radio; the need for scholarships and grants for research; Canada's relations with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization; how to improve national museums and archives; and the general development of Canadian culture.

But radio has been the major subject.

Of the 205 submissions since the commission began hearings at Ottawa Aug. 3, practically all have dealt with radio at least in part.

Increasing Interest

There has been increasing public interest as the five commissioners heard submissions in seven Western cities and last week in Toronto. Fifty-two briefs will be received in Montreal at four-day hearings starting Wednesday. There will be a recess then until sessions resume at Quebec City Jan. 10 and continue in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland.

Clean-up submissions will be received at Ottawa, probably in April, after which the commissioners will labor perhaps six months preparing a report with recommendations to the Government.

Briefly, the radio fight has been public ownership against private enterprise. Each has received a measure of support in presentations by various non-radio groups.

The publicly-owned CBC urges that in the interests of Canadian listeners the nation's radio should be controlled by a national system, controlled and owned by the public. Coupled with this recommendation is the CBC's plea that it needs more money to maintain service.

Unfair Competition

The CAB, representing most of the privately-owned stations, concedes the need for radio regulations, but contends that, since the private stations compete for audience and revenue with the CBC, it is unfair that they should be controlled by their competitor — that it is unfair for the CBC to be both player and umpire in the same case. The private broadcasters want a separate regulatory authority, completely impartial.

Mr. Guild says the CAB has no objection to operation of a publicly-owned broadcasting system. "In fact, it believes there should be one. The private broadcasters should also have the right to establish their own networks, either regionally or nationally, and thus have equal opportunity with the publicly-owned system to contribute to the national development of Canada.

"The result would be a publicly-owned network and a privately-owned-and-operated network, both regulated by an independent body."

The whole problem is complicated because the number of available air channels is limited. Operating licences are granted to private interests by the Department of Transport, but only with the approval of the CBC board of governors.

Once granted, a licence is continued at discretion of the CBC which could recommend that the licence be revoked if it felt the station operator were not broadcasting in the public interest.

Opera Star Furious, Not Tito's Friend

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP) — Zinka Milanov had this to say Monday about the Russian writer who said she was Premier Tito's girl friend.

"He's a skunk!"

Mme. Milanov, Yugoslav opera star who arrived in the United States for a concert tour, was still upset by the report in the Moscow Literary Gazette two weeks ago. The Gazette linked her romantically with the Yugoslav premier. Alleged he had showered her with gifts and said she was an American spy in Belgrade.

"In my country," she said in an interview just after her arrival, "it is a terrible thing for an honest woman to be called anybody's mistress. This has hit me very hard."

THAR SHE BLOWS.—Whale-hunters from Churchill, Man., are shown, top, edging in for a kill in Hudson Bay. One man, harpoon poised, stands in the bow of the motor-driven canoe. A rifleman amidships prepares to finish off the big beluga—white—whale after the harpooning. In the second of these Canadian National Railways photographs, whalers examine their catch before towing it to a processing plant at Churchill. Hudson Bay white whales sometimes grow to a length of 18 feet and average 1,200 pounds. Each provides about 350 pounds of oil and 600 pounds of meat. The meat is used as feed on fur farms.

Canoeists Hunt White Whales For New Hudson Bay Industry

CHURCHILL, Man., Nov. 22 (CP).——Catching whales from a small motor-driven canoe may sound like a spine-tingling proposition, but it's just routine for crews of one of Canada's newest industries.

During the whaling season Eskimo and half-breed hunters employed by Adanac Whale and Fish Products Ltd., may venture daily into the chilly wind-swept waters of Hudson Bay to hunt the beluga, or white whale.

From the company's headquarters and processing plant 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg, they head out into the frigid waters in 20-foot canoes, usually manned by three men.

One man operates the engine, another stands in the bow and the third rides amidships arm t with a high-powered rifle.

When the whale is sighted the hunters work the canoe up close until the bowman can throw a harpoon. The wounded beluga leaps into the air, dives, or streaks through the water trying to free itself. The canoe is towed merrily along —— often at a 25-mile-an-hour clip.

Since the beluga is a mammal —— —it is related to the porpoise and the dolphin — it come up to breathe frequently during its headlong flight. When it does, the rifleman fires at it from the bucking canoe.

Sometimes it takes as many as five shots to kill a wounded whale. The prey averages 1,200 pounds and may reach a length of 18 feet.

The carcass is towed to the company's $150,000 plant at the mouth of the Churchill River. There it is stripped of "blubber," — a thick layer of oil-bearing fat under the hide.

"Cook" Blubber

The blubber is "cooked" to render the oil and the rest of the carcass — —bones, meat and entrails — is group up as finely as hamburger, put into 50-pound cartons and stored in a quick-freezing plant.

An average whale yields about 350 pounds of edible oil and 600 pounds of ground meat. The oil is used in the production of oleomargarine and the meat used as feed on fur farms.

W. J. Ward, 66-year-old member of parliament for Dauphin, who is president of Adanac, says the future looks bright for the new industry.

"There appears to be an unlimited number of belugas in Hudson Bay," he said recently. "There were some days last season when we could have netted more belugas in one square mile of Churchill harbor right in front our our plant than we could process in a whole season. The plant will process 40 belugas a day."

And netting the beluga is what the company plans next year, when it goes into full production. Special nets of Italian hemp, have been ordered from Scotland. They have a 24-inch mesh and will be weighted with concrete blocks.

Whaling boats have been built at Winnipegosis, Man., to be used in the netting operations. They are 40 feet long with a beam of 10 2/3 feet and are powered by heavy marine engines.

With the new equipment, Mr. Ward hopes the plant will be kept operating at full capacity next year, handling 2,000 whales during the three-month season.

Ratify Agreement For Bonus Payment

CORNWALL, Nov. 22 (CP) — Leo Tessier, director of the Greater Cornwall Textile Joint Board, Monday announced ratification of a new work agreement between Canadian Cottons Limited and members of the Textile Workers Union of America (CCL-CIO).

The agreement provides for payment of bonuses ranging from $5 to $60 to each worker with the amount dependent on time of service. Other gains granted workers include two paid statutory holidays and improved company-paid insurance rights.

China Recognition Surprises Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent says a report that eight Commonwealth countries have signed to recognize China's Communist Government is news to him.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, asked in the Commons Monday if the Prime Minister, in absence at Lake Success of External Affairs Minister Pearson, would like to make a statement about the report of such agreement carried in newspapers and over radio.

Mr. St. Laurent said the first he heard of the matter was over the radio Sunday. He was quite as surprised as Mr. Drew.

He assured the Commons that as soon as there are any developments in regard to the Chinese recognition, he would see that Mr. Pearson communicated the facts to the House.

Official sources in London disclosed yesterday that representatives of Britain, Canada, and six other Commonwealth countries met in London last Tuesday. They said all accepted the principle of recognizing the Peiping regime of Mao Tze-tung.

Hayman Thinks 6-5 Odds For Montreal Sound Basis

MONTREAL, Nov. 22—(CP)—Montreal Alouettes may not be over-optimistic about who is going to capture the Grey Cup Saturday at Toronto, but at least Coach Lew Hayman is willing to concede that maybe the gambling fraternity is "about right" at fixing the odds at 6-5 in Alouettes' favor over Calgary Stampeders.

Of course, those are Montreal odds. The situation may be different in Calgary.

But the 40-0 shellacking the Montrealers handed Hamilton Tigers here Sunday in capturing the Eastern Canada football championship has enhanced the chances of Alouettes in the eyes of the local followers.

Even the usual gloomy Mr. Hayman went about the sour task of deciding what to do about 6,000 applications for tickets with a grin that appeared to be a good attempt at a smile.

Need Mathematician

The ticket problem presents something more than a mere coaching problem. It calls for the advice of a good mathematician. The Montreal football club has only 3,000 tickets to spread among 6,000 season ticket holders.

The club has decided to dish out two tickets each to season ticket subscribers who have applied by letter for tickets.

The team will go through work-outs today, tomorrow and Thursday and will leave for Toronto Friday afternoon.

Barring any illness that might befall a player, Alouettes are expected to field a full-strength squad Saturday.

The team is expected to take along to Toronto with it an estimated 3,000 fans who will travel by air, train and automobile.

Denies Breach In Giving Report

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22 (CP) — Sid Greenwood, secretary of the British Columbia branch of the Amateur Athletic Union, denied Monday there was "a breach of ethical standards" in the release here of a report of Prof. Nelson C Hart of London, Ont.

Prof. Hart, president of the AAUC, criticized a story published by the Vancouver Daily Province, based on his report and predicting suspension of two boxers from the British Empire Games team. The suspensions, it was indicated, would follow charges of professionalism in the Ontario and Manitoba Boxing Associations.

He said use of the material "was a breach of ethical standards of the press."

Greenwood, who released the report to the press last week, said "Prof. Hart made no mention of the report being secret and there was no specified release date.

Greenwood said he released the report because "we certainly do not want boxing in BC to descend to the level of those other provinces."

"The Hart report clearly stated that breaches of amateur regulations have been committed in Ontario and Manitoba, and by inference, said that boxers from those provinces may not be allowed to compete in any international tournaments," he added.

CHANGE SYSTEM.

Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League, announced Monday that the league will change its referee system. Podoloff said that starting with Wednesday's games only one referee and one linesman will be used instead of the present system of two referees.

Lindsay Heads NHL Scorers For Second Week

MONTREAL, Nov. 22—(CP)—Ted Lindsay, of Detroit Red Wings, continues to set the pace for the National Hockey League scorers as he holds down the first place spot for the second consecutive week.

According to official statistics released today, Lindsay commands the scoring parade with 21 points made up of eight goals and 13 assists. The next two positions on the ladder are also held by Detroiters. In second place, two points back of Lindsay, is veteran Sid Abel with six goals and 13 assists while Gordie Howe follows with nine goals and nine assists for an 18 point total.

Chicago's Doug Bentley is fourth with 17 and Paul Ronty, of Boston Bruins is for fifth place with Chicago's Roy Conacher. Both have 15 points.

Despite a poor week in the goal sniping department, Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard still leads that exclusive division with 12 goals. Lindsay and Abel with 13 assists are tied for the top spot in that department.

Bill Gadsby, of Chicago, leads the penalty parade with 32 points in 16 games spent in the "cooler."

Leads Goalies

Montreal's Bill Durnan continues to lead the league's goalers with a 1.56 goals-against average in 16 games. The lanky Montrealer is also tied with Toronto's Turk Broda with three shutouts. Harry Lumley, of Detroit, has the next best average in the goals-against department with 2.13 in 15 outings.

Detroit Red Wings hold a seven point lead in the pennant race over the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs. Wings have won 11 games, lost two and tied two for a total of 24 points in 15 games. Toronto has 17 points and Canadiens, in third place, have 16. Rangers and Chicago are tied for fourth with 13 and Boston hold down the cellar spot with 11.

What to do about students who play hockey with Quebec Amateur Hockey Association teams and flunk in studies posed a problem today for heads of Montreal's high schools.

The school officials saw a distinct cause and effect situation Representatives of protestant and Roman Catholic schools have already had one meeting with the QAHA and another is planned.

At the first conference last Saturday, school officials said they favored fostering as wide participation as possible in amateur sports but that 15 high school students who joined amateur hockey teams last year had very low marks in their courses.

The school heads suggested a regulation forbidding a student to play on QAHA teams unless he has the consent of his principal. At present only parental consent is necessary.

The Eastern Canada Intermediate playoff between Dundas Blue Bombers and Montreal Donnacona will be played at Montreal on Saturday, secretary Norman Gillespie of the Quebec Rugby Football Union announced Monday night. For the first time since 1933, when St. Thomas defeated Montreal Westward, the playoff will be officially recognized by the Canadian Rugby Union.

It was rumored at Galt Monday that two players in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League have signed professional contracts with St. Louis Cardinals of the National Baseball League. The two players, Vern Kaiser of Galt Terriers and Don Cooper of London Majors were reportedly scouted by Pappy Smith, coach of Stratford Nationals in the intercounty loop. Smith is an official scout for the St. Louis organization.

It's undefeated California against once-beaten and twice-tied Ohio State in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. The co-champion Buckeyes of the big ten and the clear-cut champion Bears of the Pacific Coast Conference Monday were unanimous choices of their respective leagues to meet in the Pasadena classic.

Soviet Russia's athletes are embarked on a campaign to break all world records in every branch of sport within the next few years and they are going to achieve it, Rude Pravo, organ of the Czech Communist Party, declared Monday. Reappoint Stukus

EDMONTON, Nov. 22 (CP)—Annis Stukus Monday night was reappointed coach of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union. The former Toronto newspaperman and one-time Toronto Argonaut star coached Eskimos to four victories and third place in the Western Union when Edmonton re-entered the conference this year after a 10-year lapse.

INTERESTED LISTENERS — Calgary Stampeders don't appear greatly impressed by the 40-0 trouncing Montreal Alouettes handed Hamilton Tigers in Montreal Sunday to take the eastern championship and the right to meet Calgary for the Grey Cup. Here listening to the game at their Oakville training headquarters, are Dave Berry, outside wing, left, and next to him equipment boy, Harold Geddes. Woodrow Wilson Strode is seen with his arm around Yunk Sherriff, equipment manager. Fullback Paul Rowe is wearing the sombrero while at the right of the radio are Sugarfoot Anderson and Manager Archie McGillis.

Grapple fans may expect a dandy dish at the Brock St. Winter Gardens this Thursday night. Main mat bout has Seelie Samara—he of the rocky Negro noggin—in against rough Jim (Goon) Henry, a hege hunk of villainy. But Seelie, also, can play it rough, having a dead pan like Joe Louis, showing no expression. His speed and wrestling wizardy should offset the rough tactics of the strong Goon. Wladek Kowalski, the large and good-looking Polish-Canadian who made a hit here in his one previous appearance, is back in the semi-windup spot against Joe Christie. This ought to be a sizzler of a scrap between smart grapplers. Two popular guys, Bill Stack and Pat Flanagan, mix in the prelim. A good card, no doubt.

Girls' softball banquet is this Thursday night at 6.45 in the Legion Hall. To mark the end of a fairly successful season. The loop didn't make a lot of money, but Prexy Bill Bennett brought them out of the red safely, and he looks for a much better circuit next year. Why? Well, arrangements are being made to enter a local all-star squad in a senior circuit. Possibly with two Toronto teams and Oshawa, with maybe a combined Cobourg-Port Hope entry as well. It's in the air yet, but PWSU officials feel that such a senior league would be a big boost to the girls' game in Central Ontario. It would add much interest to all divisions of the local loop.

An item in the Tweed News says the Hastings-Addington Hockey League has been organized, with Madoc, Stirling, Tweed and Tamworth already in. The first three have decided against entering the TVL, owing to travelling expenses to the more distant points. The News thinks the Trent Valley League will likely line up with Batawa, Marmora, Warkworth, Hastings, Norwood and possibly Lakefield and Havelock. But what about Campbellford? Some talk of Campbellford and Lakefield entering OHA teams. The Tweed scribe thinks the old TVL was too unwieldly, with Lakefield too long a jaunt for teams down that way, and Norwood a fairly hefty haul for teams in the eastern section. Well, it should all iron out soon.

Doug Vaughan, Windsor columnist, comments thusly: "It seems almost inconceivable that Bruins recognized in Red Sullivan a player ready for big time hockey, because he is not. George is a first rate junior 'A' pivoter, but he is not better than any one of half a dozen others elsewhere in the circuit who will not be graded NHL material until two or more years have elapsed." Doug could be wrong and the redhead from Ashburnham might prove another Billy Taylor in coming up fast and sticking. Though, we do agree that Bruins are taking this junior star up pretty fast. We figured he was one to two years away from the NHL as he started play this autumn, figuring next year he'd be with Hershey on his way toward a berth with Boston.

Word from George Panter of the OHA is that Markham, Meteors and Stouffville—who protested being left out of this senior "B" setup—must be included in our grouping. Frank Buckland, who plans an early meeting, figures the eight-team group can be operated with a schedule weighted at each end (an interlocking affair) with Gananoque, Kingston and Belleville playing more games together at one end, while Markham, Meteors, Stouffville, Legion and Petes play more together up this way, and the two sections maybe having home and home games against each club. Or something similar, even if four-point games are arranged to save too many long trips. In any case, it looks like there'll be eight senior "B" squads in the loop with every game affecting the standing. That's the score at the moment.

Douglas Keeps Scoring Lead

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(CP)—Veteran Les Douglas, of Cleveland Barons, continues to lead the American Hockey League in scoring.

With six goals and four assists, Douglas ran his point total to 32. Runner-up Johnny Chad, of Providence, was third with 25. Tied for fourth were Jack McGill, of Providence, and Ab DeMarco, of Buffalo Bisons, with 24 points.

Douglas also had the most goals with 14. Top playmaker in the league was McGill, with 19 assists.

Joe Lepine, of Cincinnati Mohawks, had spent 68 minutes in the cooler for his hot temper on the ice, to lead the league in that department.

Rookie goaltender Gil Mayer, of Pittsburgh Hornets, became the leading netminder with an average of 2.65 on 45 goals allowed in 17 games. Connie Dion, of the Bisons, had his second shutout and tied Indianapolis Terry Sawchuk for the lead.

Kid Gavilan Scores Decision

MONTREAL, Nov. 22 (CP) — Dusky Kid Gavilan, the Cuban light puncher, scored a unanimous 10 round decision over France's Laurent Dauthuille here Monday night in a dull fight that grossed $54,610 from 11,533 paying customers.

Dauthuille, an adopted Montreal fighting idol, seemed unable to catch up with the bobbing and weaving Cuban who gave his heavier opponent little chance to work on him.

The Frenchman at 154 1-2 pounds carried a 3 1-2 pound edge over the Cuban.

The Canadian Press score card gave Gavilan six rounds, Dauthuille three, and one even.

Throughout Gavilan was the aggressor as he carried the fight to Dauthuille.

Although the fight produced no knockdowns or caused either fighter with any visible injury, it gave the near capacity crowd a good display of counter-punching and first class infighting.

The announcement of the decision in favor of Gavilan brought a round of protest from the crowd. Dauthuille has been the favorite in all his North American fights.

Western Nabs Six Places On All-Stars

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP). — Six of the 12 posts on the Intercollegiate Union's 1949 All-Star football team have gone to the champion University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

The powerful Mustangs fell one short of the number of men they placed on the 1948 dream team.

The squad is selected for The Canadian Press by football coaches and writers in the four Union cities. Balloting is weighted to give equal voting strength to the four centres.

McGill University Redmen, who lost 12-9 to the Mustangs in the sudden-death playoff game Saturday, gained two positions along with Toronto Varsity Blues. The Golden Gaels of Queen's University got one. The other berth produced a four-way tie.

The team:
Flying Wing—George Valois, McGill.
Half—Jack Parry, Western.
Half—Bruce Cummings, Varsity.
Half (Secondary)—Bob McFarlane, Western.
Quarter—George Arnott, Western.
Snap—George Wearring, Western.
Inside—Elmer Quaintyn, Western.
Inside—Don Longmore, Varsity; Pete Salari, Queen's; Moe Malone, McGill; Wally Kowel, McGill (tied).
Middle—Fraser Mustard, Varsity.
Middle—Reg Ort, Western.
Outside—Tip Logan, Queen's.
Outside—Jim Mitchener, McGill.

None of the players chosen to the mythical squad was given the maximum of 16 points; Logan was the closest with 15.

Montreal Spies With Stamps Getting Nothing But Sniffles

OAKVILLE, Nov. 22 (CP) — Montreal spies hanging around Appleby College probably haven't anything to show for their efforts but a good case of the sniffles.

Cold winds were blowing off Lake Ontario, adjacent to the playing field, as coach Les Lear put his Dominion champion Calgary Stempeders through a two-hour touch rugby and pass defence workout in the morning Monday and 2 1-2 hour afternoon drill. Lear made sure no Calgary "secret weapons" were displayed.

Coach Lear, usually the non-committal type, said of his own team—"well they are better than last year." Of the Montreal Alouettes, the opposition next Saturday in the Grey Cup final, he was almost noncommittal. His description of what he saw in their eastern final victory over Hamilton was "good." He probably didn't see much at that as Lew Hayman kept most of his stars under wraps in the 40-0 triumph over Hamilton Tigers.

To Solve Question

One question to be solved in the big game—who is the best passer, Frankie Filchock of the Als, the former New York Giant flinger, or Keith Spaith, former pro with Honolulu Warriors?

If talking up a future game or tearing around like a bunch of gazelles can be taken as evidence then the Stamps are still hungry. Manager Archie McGillis phrased it this way: "we haven't lost our appetite one little bit since we defeated Ottawa in last year's final."

McGillis probably caught his enthusiasm from Sugarfoot Anderson, an outside with size 14 cleats and hands like tennis racquets.

Two practices are scheduled for today and two more daily until the club makes the 20-mile jaunt to Toronto on Friday.

Senators Study Trade Drop With W. Indies

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—The drop in maritime trade with the British West Indies is simply another instance of dollar-sterling trade problems, Senator Wishart Robertson told the Senate Monday night.

The government leader of the Upper Chamber was speaking in debate on an inquiry by Senator J. J. Kinley (L, Nova Scotia) asking if any steps had been taken by the government to improve the "restricted state" of trade in the Maritime areas.

Senator Robertson said Senators must face the situation of trade between dollar and sterling areas "as it exists."

It was true that the Maritimes had suffered in recent months. Sale of fish and lumber had declined considerably. Despite reductions, Canada's over-all 1948 exports had increased to four times the 1938 dollar value. But they were down in 1949 and might continue.

An examination of total exports showed that main reductions this year are in manufactured goods, rather than in primary products.

Meet Competition

Wheat flour exports, which previously had made up 20 to 30 per cent of pre-war shipments to the British West Indies, now were meeting competition, especially from Australia.

Main reasons for Canada's reduction in exports to the British West Indies were threefold—the shortage of dollars in the sterling area, the increase in price competition due to drastic devaluation of the pound and the increased availability of goods to other countries.

But the main fact was the first. The United Kingdom was clipping purchases from dollar countries to about $600,000,000 in Canada this year, roughly splitting her dollar buying between Canada and the United States.

Loss of British West Indies trade was "perhaps not as great" as the loss to other parts of the country. Canada could not do much about it except to assist Britain by buying more goods from sterling areas.

Exporters might help the situation by attempting to sell more fish in Central Canada.

He agreed it was a "very, very serious position," and hoped that at the next session of parliament a committee could be established to study the matter more thoroughly.

PARACHUTE "STOPPER" FOR AIR FORCE'S NEWEST JET—This is the first picture released by the U.S. Air Force to show the unique braking technique used on the new Martin XB-51 three-jet ground support bomber. The powerful swept-back wing bomber, seen landing at Baltimore, Md., made its first flight on Oct. 28. The parachute, stowed aft for use at the pilot's discretion, enables the plane to land on smaller fields. For taking off in short space, it is equipped with the jet-assisted take-off device.

Cavan Township Contest Winner

Betty Stevens of SS No. 9 Cavan township in Durham county was the winner of the Belleville district public school speaking contest finals held at Brighton on Friday evening.

Miss Stevens took first prize in a field of ten contestants from five different counties in the Belleville district. She will represent the Belleville district in the provincial finals which will be held at Convocation Hall in Toronto next Easter.

Second place winner at the Brighton contest was Patricia Smith of Port Hope public school, also of Durham county, while third prize winner was Tommy Wey, SS 8 Brighton in Northumberland county.

Other contestants were Norah Angle, Sydenham and Louise Lower of Collins Bay, both of Frontenac county; Shiela Currie, SS 4, Tyendinaga township, and John Shannon, SS 22 Tyendinaga both of Hastings county; Lois Hicks, SS 13 Percy, Northumberland; Shiela Greenley, SS 3 Otonabee, and Noreen Corkery of Lakefield, both of Peterborough county.

There was a good attendance to hear the various contestants with R. J. Ross, Brighton, acting as chairman. Winners were chosen by 15 judges, three from each county, who judged independently.

Entertainment during the evening included a duet by Louise Martin and Lenna Locklin of Brighton, while a quartet from Brighton high school gave a vocal number. There were also two choruses by Brighton public school pupils.

Niagara Falls Hunter Lost 24 Hrs. Near Apsley

APSLEY, Nov. 22 — (ENS) — When a Niagara Falls huntsman Saturday night was reported lost in the bush near Eagle Lake, two miles southwest of Apsley, it touched off a 24-hour manhunt.

Provincial Police district headquarters in Peterborough Sunday night received a radio message from Toronto announcing that the man, 41-year-old Claire Irwin, had been found. No details of what happened to the man are available.

Irwin is believed to have wandered off into the woods alone and when he did not return to the hunting camp his companions became worried, particularly because of the cold weather setting in. L. G. Sandford, of Bayview Ave., Toronto, notified police and a search of the district began.

At one time Sunday afternoon a commercial aircraft from Toronto was hovering over the area trying to locate the missing man.

Provincial Constable Bert Howden, of Apsley, is investigating.

Teresa Wright Fed Up On Screen Roles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22 (AP).—Fed up with playing a Polly-Anna on the screen, Teresa Wright is seeking a return to the stage.

"I don't particularly want to play bad women," she remarked on "The Men" set. "But I would like to play a girl who has a few problems and doesn't always know how to solve them.

"I would like to work with a stock company for a few seasons, then try a play in New York. I don't feel up to facing Broadway now; it has been eight years since I was on the stage."

Teresa said her role in "The Capture" has more "spunk" than she is usually allowed. No wonder—it was written and produced by her husband, Niven Busch, who agrees with her views.

Cuff Notes

Sterling Hayden is delighted with his hoodlum role in "Asphalt Jungle." "Those panty-waist roles I had before weren't acting," he admits. If he proves himself in the part he will land an MGM contract.

Sterling is a different man since his wartime and postwar days when he sneered at Hollywood. "Everybody has to grow up some day," he admitted.

Another milestone on the road to realism: the call sheet on "A Place In The Sun" asked for "20 factory girls — not too pretty."

Winnipeg's Deanna Durbin tells me she dined recently with her first husband, Vaughn Paul. He dropped from sight after he and the songbird divorced and has been ailing.

A juvenile actor in his first screen role watched Robert Walker [illegible] few lines in "The Skipper Surprised His Wife." Before the kid was hustled off to the classroom, he said to Bob, "Maybe you'd better come back to school with us."

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—The Commons voted 94 to 42 today to uphold Speaker Ross Macdonald's decision that the government was in order with a motion aimed at ending a filibuster on two pipeline bills. Oppostion members argued that the motion required 48 hours notice.

District Hatcherymen To Meet On Thursday

G. A. Brethen, Norwood, has arranged for a meeting of hatcherymen in Lindsay, Port Hope, Peterborough district, Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative. President and secretary of the Ontario poultry industry will discuss the outlook of their business as it may be affected by the announcement of Sir Stafford Cripps, that after Jan. 31 next Britain will no longer buy Canadian eggs.

Mr. Brethen was asked at the Royal Winter Fair Saturday "to sit in with members of the poultry industry committee of Ontario on this question." As a result of that conference, it was decided to hold a meeting in Peterborough, at which the latest governmental information will be available.

Labor Leader Jas. B. Carey To Address UE

James B. Carey, the man who has vowed to lead the electrical workers of both the United States and Canada back into the CIO, will speak in Peterborough tonight.

As chairman of the administration committee of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO)—a new union formed after the UE was expelled from the CIO at the recent convention in Cleveland—Mr. Carey is one of the most controversial present-day labor leaders.

He is openly recognized by both his supporters and adversaries as in the spearhead of the attack against left wing elements in the electrical industry.

Since 1941 when he was defeated as president of the UE by Albert J. Fitzgerald of the Lynn, Mass., plant, he has denounced the so-called Communist influence in the UE, and this year headed the break-away group after the UE was expelled from the CIO.

He has been secretary-treasurer of the CIO since 1941 and in addition to this office he is now chairman of the new committee. A convention of the UE-CIO has been called for November 28.

Formed New Union

His stormy labor career began when he was only 19, at that time becoming a general organizer for the AF of L, then the only labor body in the United States. Two years later he took his electrical workers out of the AF of L and formed a new union of 15,000 members, joining a second group headed by Julius Emspak.

The name of the new union was the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, organized in March 1937.

In 1937 a group of machinists under James J. Matles affiliated with the other two groups and the name of the union was changed to the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

Mr. Carey was elected president of the UE at that first convention of the UE; Mr. Empsak became the general secretary-treasurer, and Mr. Matles the director of organization. The other two have held office since.

It was with these two men and the later president, Albert Fitzgerald, who succeeded him n 1941, that Mr. Carey was to wage a bitter battle.

He is credited with being a prime mover in his establishing of the CIO and the World Federation of Trade Unions. When the CIO voted to secede from that organization claiming it was Soviet dominated, he strongly supported that view.

He is speaking tonight at the mass meeting beginning at 7.30 p.m. in the Brock St. Summer Gardens.

MR. AND MRS. W. F. STAPLES, Cobourg, observed their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday at their farm where they have lived for the past 45 years. Mr. Staples is in his 87th year aid his wife is in her 82nd. He was born near Burnley in Haldimand township, and his wife was born in Manvers township. A robust man, Mr. Staples still works his farm with the assistance of two of his sons, Tom and Frank. There are six sons in the family, Tom and Frank, Front Road West; Clifford in Port Hope, Douglas of Baltimore, Kenneth and Robert, also Front Road West, and two daughters, Jessie at home and Mrs. A. Men Form Group To Satisfy That Common Urge To Sing

Fear that a form of North American music is likely to be completely submerged in the spate of "canned music" replacing live voices today, has led to a new society being formed. It goes under the formidable title of The Society For The Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., or as it is known to the initiated — the SPEBSQSA.

Contrary to popular belief it is no mere caper or a spur of the moment creation by publicity-hungry promoters. Instead it is an organization of serious music lovers intent on spreading with missionary zeal the gospel of barbershop harmonizing.

And the cult which began 11 years ago seems to have reached Peterborough.

On November 15 a group of local men decided to call a meeting at the YMCA to determine just how many Peterborough songsters would care to join this all-male organization. And a committee of five was appointed to make arrangements for the meeting on Wednesday when there will be an election of officers.

About 25 men turned out for the organizational meeting and this response was so satisfactory that a chapter of the Society was formed by unanimous agreement.

On the committee are Vic Farrant, Jim Ridyard, Ed Murphy, Adam Sands, and Ashton Fife. Directors will attend the initial meeting from the Toronto chapter of the Society, which co-sponsors it together with the Canton, Ohio chapter.

Toronto quartets expected are the Cowling Brothers, Tune Twisters, Del-Tones and Torontones. Another may come from Oshawa.

The Liftlock City Four will also sing a few numbers.

A group of summer residents in the Peterborough district whose homes are in Canton, Ohio, will be at the inaugural meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the YMCA auditorium. A quartet or two is expected to make the 500-mile journey from the Ohio city.

Captain W. H. Peryer and other members of the Peterborough Citizens' Band have received special invitations.

Fulfill Urge To Sing

That urge to sing at some time strikes all males between ages of 18 and 80 and that is just the need Barbershoppers hope to fill. An applicant doesn't have to have the technical excellence required of a formal choral singing society, just the ability "to sing acceptably."

The Society makes no pretence of replacing the conventional men's chorus or glee club, but gives the amateur of reasonable talent the chance to express himself naturally.

Forestry Student Top Of Class Wins $500 Award

A former RCAF navigator and resident of Peterborough has been awarded a $500 scholarship for heading his class in forestry at the University of New Brunswick.

R. J. McCORMACK

He is Reginald J. McCormack, 28, whose father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCormack, live at 298 King St. Now married, the forestry student is living in Fredericton, where he is completing the last of his three-year course.

The award was one of ten C. H. L. Jones Scholarships, each worth $500, announced by university authorities on Monday for forestry students with the highest marks.

Taught Rural Schools

Before enlisting in aircrew as a navigator, Mr. McCormack taught public school near Lakefield and at Musclow for two years. Overseas for two years, he partially completed a tour on Bomber Command.

As soon as he was discharged he applied to various universities for a course on forestry and was put on the University of New Brunswick waiting list. In the meantime he returned to his original profession of school teaching for a year at Lake St. Peter, 16 miles north of Maynooth.

Mr. McCormack went to public school and continuation school at Bancroft and he graduated with his senior matriculation at PCVS. From there he went to Peterborough Normal School to qualify as a teacher.

Last year he narrowly missed winning a similar award.

Time Required As Member Of City Council Greatly Magnified Retiring Alderman Claims

Ald. Grant Miller said today he had so far failed to flush an aldermanic candidate out of the many peopled area of the down town section.

"I don't think the Examiner is helping either in magnifying the municipal demand on the time of a member of the council. The intentions of the Examiner were no doubt good, but it does seem to me that the paper enlarges too much the time factor, and thereby frightens from the field many a man who might be willing to offer himself."

Ald. Miller said the municipal work does invade a man's time, "but not to the point that you hear it mentioned when this matter is discussed."

"I cannot say that I found the element of demand a burden. In my case I felt that the requirements of my own affairs prevented me from giving to the city's business the time it deserved."

Ald. Miller said he felt sure new members of the council would like the civic service and the associations in which it was carried on. From his own experience in the council he was more than ever convinced that the first requisite of an alderman was to realize that he was engaging in the management of a business.

"Peterborough's affairs have become big business. That is one thing. The other is that he has got to be able to say no and make it stick."

Advocates Fines Of $100 For Poaching

The virtues of the maskinonge, as the most fabulous game fish in the world and as a means of advertising the Kawartha Lakes was the subject of an address by Pete McGillen, at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday night. Mr. McGillen advocated fines of $100 for poaching instead of the usual $10.

Women have fainted when they saw they have caught a muskie. The fighting qualities of the fish have become so well known that tourists have come to the district armed with police billies, softball bats and even, in one case, a Luger pistol, Mr. McGillen related.

Eat Other Fish

He said 98 per cent of the food of the muskie was other fish. For a change of diet, it will eat anything, including a swimming rabbit, a king fisher, fish ducks or as found in the stomach of one muskie, an empty beer bottle.

He said in little more than two weeks after hatching, 12 days of which the fry gets its nourishment from a food sack, the young muskie was attacking and eating other fry as big and bigger than itself.

He said the muskie is not afraid of anything. He pointed out when the American tourist catches a muskie, he does not eat it, but sends it home so that he can show it off and boast about his catch to his neighbors.

It is by this means the Kawartha Lakes are becoming better known every year. But, he pointed out, there was a need to ensure there would continue to be an adequate supply of the game fish. He declared that the Deer Lake hatchery was doing much to keep the muskie population up. But poaching was still taking its toll during the spawning season.

If fines for poachers were $100 instead of $10, it would be cheaper to be an honest fisherman than an unlawful one. Only in this way would it be possible to put an end to spearing muskies while they were spawning in shallow water, he declared, President Doug Vaisey said the Jaycees were going to conduct another "Get Out and Vote" campaign.

Carmen DeCarlo was made a new member in the first formal installation ceremony held in the club.

La Tosca Booked As Monthly Musical

Of "La Tosca" which Harry Yudin has booked for his monthly musical feature at the Centre Theatre, the New York Times said the other day: "That grand opera can be intelligently adapted to the medium of motion pictures has already been proved by at least two offerings from abroad, The Story of Tosca and Carmen."

That is quoted from the introduction of a review of the new filming of Rigoletto, with Tito Gobi in the title role, also the Scarpia of La Tosca.

Actually the name of this picture is, "Before Him All Rome Trembled," incorporating forty minutes of La Tosca. The operatic roles are assigned to Tito Gobi, Elisabetta Barbato, Gino Sinimberghi and Giulio Neri.

The star of the dramatic frame of La Tosca is Anna Magnani, winner of the National Board of Review citation for her performance in Rossellini's Open City.

Mr. Yudin has added two featurettes: from Lucia di Lammermoor and Marriage of Figaro.

This program will be presented to music-lovers Wednesday, Nov. 30, afternoon and evening.

ARTHUR PITCHFORD

G. WILSON CRAW

THREE of the retiring members of the Board of Education who are expected to be candidates for re-election. Mr. Craw is the veteran member of the Board, having served 10 years; Mr. Pitchford has served four years and Mr. Borland was appointed in 1948 to fill out the unexpired term of the late D. V. Canning.

Three Members Seeking Return To Board

Three present members of the Board of Education whose terms are expiring will remain in the nominations field for re-election.

They are: Albert Borland, G. Wilson Craw and Arthur Pitchford.

The two other members, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris and Dr. Harry G. Carleton, are retiring from trusteeship of the city's school properties.

Mr. Craw is the senior member of the board, a former chairman, who has been head of all the committees during his service, including the planning committees in charge of the necessary and completed extensions to Queen Mary School in the west end, and Confederation School in the south end.

Mr. Pitchford is vice-chairman of the Board this year. He is now completing his second term and four year on the Board. Previously he had been a member of the trustee board of SS No. 2 North Monaghan, comprising May's and Confederation Schools, for six years. His combined experience in time in the city and township schools administration is ten years.

Mr. Pitchford and Mr. Walter Bannon both came into membership on the Board of Education from the Monaghan school board, and they are still in the service.

Mr. Borland was appointed to the Board to complete the term of the late D. V. Canning from Sept. 1948. In the preceding elections he had been a candidate finishing first of those who did not make the grade that year.

The experience of the Board of Education since 1945 has been similar to that of the city council and Utilities Commission, a surge of new demands created by the bulging of the city's seams. It has been all one chapter of expansion, housing, streets, lighting, sewers, schools and so on.

The enlargements of Confederation and Queen Mary Schools had to be set in motion in justice to the children. It was a time of increased costs, but the members of the Board felt well satisfied that they had received full value in both these projects.

The public is aware that the Board is contemplating the building of another school in Ashburnham and one in the west end. Locations have been secured.

Lakes, Pastures Touched White By King Frost

Report this morning that Chemong Lake was frozen over was an apprehensive exaggeration.

Sam Bell of Bridgenorth said there was a fringe of ice along the shore, a sample of December's prospective wares. The water requires more chilling before it is ready for sealing until the warmth of spring, early in April, releases it once more.

The approach to zero during the night left a film in the reeds along the west bank of the river apposite the Cardwell place at Wallace Point. These were only tentative warnings of winter which might possibly be repeated through open weather for weeks into December.

Frost was heavy on the grasses of farm lands, probably signifying the end of the long season of grazing. The milking herds have been housed in barns these many nights, and the young cattle are now joining them.

Snow is decorating the evergreens north of Apsley, and the roofs of summer cottages were glistening in the sun this morning like scenes from Christmas cards. Several men who returned today from a week-end at Chandos Lake said there was nearly a foot of snow on the ground. They boarded up the windows, consigning to memories the long season of swimming and fishing.

90 Attend Trinity CGIT Mother, Daughter Banquet

With 90 present to enjoy the fine program, Trinity CGIT Mother and Daughter banquet Monday evening at the church, was a splendid success. Miss Myrtle Sargent was guest speaker and followed the theme, "Growing with the Years" taken from the mission study for this year, in celebration of the 25th anniversary of the United Church

Miss Sargent outlined a CGIT girl's growth under the headings; physical, mental and spiritual. She stressed the fact that many youngsters aren't physically beautiful but their characters can give the impression of beauty as they grow to attain it. Cautioning the girls not to be mentally lazy, she urged them to absorb knowledge readily and thus get the most out of life. Spiritual growth, she said, should be toward God, through prayer and a full life.

The chairman was Joan Krogh, department president. Also seated at head table was her mother Mrs. John Krogh, Miss Sargent, the Rev. Dr. D. B. Gordon, Mrs H. T. Crosbie, secretary for younger groups, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, chairman of the girls' work committee in the church, Mrs. A. P Legon, president of the W M S, Miss Catherine Hodgens, leader of senior group CGIT, Mrs. M. A. Morrison, Miss Anna Edmondson, superintendent of CGIT, and intermediates leader. Mrs. W. T. Edmondson, Mr. R. M. Elliot, superintendent of the Sunday School. Mrs. Elliot, Miss Gladys Langton, presbyterial secretary for CGIT, Miss Marjorie Bryden, leader of junior group, and Mrs. H. M. Niven.

Attractive place cards and programs, made by the girls, and blue and white candles on the tables carried out the CGIT colors. Head table was centred with an open Bible, a lighted white taper and a globe. The Juniors' table had model churches as a centre, intermediates had chosen a small tree to depict the theme, and seniors showed the growth of a Sunday school using the papers from beginner's department through to senior students.

Vocal duets by Anne Gordon and Barbara Woodcock were Italian folk songs, "Santa Lucia" and "Venice," done pleasantly with accompaniment by Mrs. D. B. Gordon, A skit entitled "Disobedience" was done in pantomime by girls in old-fashioned costumes. Marie Woodgate was the narrator and parts were taken by Barbara Smith, Anne Gordon, Janet Hughson, Marion Eagleton, Carol Hughson, Barbara Woodcock, Dale Nicholls and Judy Hardill.

A toast to the mothers was proposed by Beth Davidson and Mrs. M. G. Hughson responded. Mrs. C Crowe gave a toast to the daughters and it was replied to by Anne Grant.

FIRST AID FOR BABY'S FIRST SNIFFLE

A step in time often saves nine. So be wise, and take this simple precaution at baby's first sneeze or sniffle. Give Baby's Own Tablets to clear little bowels of irritating waste materials that make baby fretful, feverish and discourage the rest so needed to keep up strength. Designed especially for baby's delicate system, Baby's Own Tablets have a laxative action that is gentle, yet speedy and the relief they bring goes a long way toward giving baby comfort while nature works to cure the cold. 12 British Officers Given Ajax Club Scholarships

By JOHN TRACY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ST. JOVITE, Que., Nov. 22 (CP)—For "Mrs. Ajax" a controversial figure in the early days of Canada's war auxiliary program, a "social experiment" is paying post-war dividends.

The social experiment was Halifax's famed Ajax Club for naval men, started in 1940 by Janet Evelyn McEuen as controller of the Interallied Hospitaity and Food Fund to provide "a glass of beer for the sailor in surroundings worthy of him.

The club had its ups and downs as the vigorous Mrs. McEuen took on in turn temperance forces, bootleggers and finally provincial and federal authorities. It started in a stately Queen Anne mansion on a hill and ended its career in a renovated fruit shop on one of Halifax's main streets.

But when the war was over, the club had assets of more than $60,000 which were used to bring 12 British officers to McGill University unuder the "Ajax" Hospitality Scholarships.

Mrs. McEuen, who still likes to think of herself as "Mrs. Ajax"—the name given her by thousands of wartime sailors—says the 12 are "doing brilliantly" and will make "extremely good Canadian citizens."

"My idea," she says, "was to bring out as many men as I could to have a university career at McGill in the understanding they would settle in Canada."

Mrs. McEuen, as enthusiastic as when she travelled through central Canada nine years ago seeking funds and gifts for the club, now lives in a rambling country house overlooking Lac Ouimet near this Laurentian village.

Bootleggers Threatened

She laughingly recalls the time when naval ratings escorted her home at night after one of them heard a threat that bootleggers were out to get her. The club kept sailors out of waterfront dives. Another time a temperance delegation called at the club to complain about its bar—"They never went upstairs to see the kitchen where we cooked thousands of meals," Mrs. McEuen says.

One of the signatures in the club's guest book is that of Princess Alice, who once expressed surprise at the lavish furnishings in the seamen's club. Mrs. McEuen told her it was "a social experiment—if we create an atmosphere for the men to respect and live up to they will do so."

In February, 1942, the Nova Scotia government cancelled the club's licence to serve beer following complaints by a church just across the street. The action dried up an oasis for thousands of sailors and loosed a spate of editorial and letters to the editor across Canada but Mrs. McEuen's fight for restoration of the licence failed.

The club closed when the department of national war services ended the hospitality fund's registration as a war charity in April, 1942, and froze its assets. Its function was handed over to the Norwegian government after Mrs. McEuen tried unsuccessfully to make a gift of it to the Canadian navy.

When the assets were returned a few months later, under the stipulation that Ajax restrict its activities to the Royal Navy, the club reopened under a new name in a 20 by 12 foot room. It entertained 16,000 RN sailors in the next 18 months. Ajax branches throughout Nova Scotia at one time were providing every week, as many as 200 convalescents and survivors with rest leave in the country.

Recalling that a commission investigating Canada's post-war navy found a lack of recreational facilities ashore, Mrs. McEuen says "I doubt if this would be true if the old Ajax were still operating."

"MRS. AJAX" — Mrs. Evelyn McEuen, centre of a controversy during the early days of Canada's war auxiliary program, is seeing post-war dividends from the "social experiment" she conducted in Halifax's famed Ajax Club of war days. Mrs. McEuen, better known to servicemen as "Mrs. Ajax," was controller of the International Hospitality and Food Fund when she launched the club to provide "a glass of beer for the sailor in surroundings worthy of him." Profits from the operation are now financing the education of 12 British officers at McGill University.

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION SCHOOL

A strong plea for Roman Catholics throughout the city to attend the nomination meeting of the Separate School Board at St. Mary's School on Friday, November 25 at 7.30 p.m. was made by Mr. M. F. Doris, chairman of the Separate School Board Finance Committee, when he addressed Immaculate Conception Home and School Association Monday night at the school.

Mr. Doris pointed out the nomination time had been changed to an evening hour when the maximum number could attend. "We look to the Catholic Home and School Associations in the city for potential material for the Board," he said.

His address included a comprehensive explanation of financing of the separate schools in the city, where the money comes from and how it is spent. The speaker was introduced by the president and Treasurer Don Hull offered a hearty vote of thanks.

President Mrs. J. Duignan was chairman of the meeting at which it was decided to award a prize to the room at the school having the largest number of parents present at Home and School meetings. It was felt that children would take a keener interest in urging their parents to attend. Mr. Joseph McCarthy was appointed membership convener.

Mrs. Duignan introduced a visitor Mr. R. S. Hull, chairman of the Education Committee of the Separate School Board.

Entertainment for the evening was given by the Christian twins, Olive and Margaret, who gave a duet, accompanied by Barbara Craig at the piano. Mr. J. R. Sharp, weil known for his recitations, related the story of "Little Albert" and "The Return of Little Albert".

Following the entertainment, refreshments were served by ladies of the association.

DOROTHY DIX

Lifelong Hatred Has Existed Should Aged Pair Separate?

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother and father married young and soon found out that they cared nothing for each other, but in their day to get a divorce for whatever cause was a disgrace, and so they have gone on living together quarreling and hating each other worse every year. Now they bitterly regret they did not part when they were young, but as they are 70 years old they think it too late. What do you think?

Dorothy Dix

A DAUGHTER

ANSWER: I think that they had better part, no matter how old they are, if they hate each other so much that their lives are embittered by it. Surely they should have the few brief years that are left to them in peace in which to purge their souls of all the accumulated rancor and evil thoughts of so many years.

But can any human tragedy be more terrible than that of a man and woman who live together in the close intimacy of married life with nothing in their hearts for each other but enmity? The atmosphere always tense with the sense of battle in the air, of tempers and emotions kept on so slender a leash that they may snap it at any moment.

Lives Poisoned

And think of lives poisoned by hate for years and years, from youth to age. Of a man and woman potential murderers in their secret souls, always hoping that death will break for them the fetters they have not the courage to break themselves. It is situations like this that make divorce seem the higher morality.

However, husbands and wives who hate each other and who still stick together get a morbid kick out of the misery they endure and their hatred becomes a sort of dark wine that stimulates them. Therefore, if your parents part now, the chances are that they will be even more unhappy than they are at present. They will miss having some one to quarrel with, some one to say cruel and cutting things to.

And, perhaps they will find that what they thought was hate was, after all, a strange and perverted love, for hate and love are very close together.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife and I are having trouble over our children. Especially over our daughter, a girl of 18, who is insolent to her parents and defies them. Not long ago she ran off with a boy and spent several weeks with him, but she is unrepentant for her conduct. Her mother protects her from me when I go to chastise her and so she goes from bad to worse. All of this is running me crazy and I am thinking of leaving home for a while. Perhaps if the breadwinner was gone it would bring my wife and children to their senses. What do you think?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are about fifteen years too late in doing your spanking. If you had controlled your daughter when she was three years old and forced her to behave herself and respect law and order, she wouldn't need a thrashing at 18. It is too late now for you to do anything with her. You can only hope that time will teach her a little wisdom and that she will see the folly of her conduct and reform herself.

Evidently your wife is much to blame for the girl's waywardness because she tacitly encourages her in following her own wild will when she refuses to co-operate with you in maintaining family discipline. Many women do this. They try to protect their children against their father and so set his authority at naught. It takes teamwork between husband and wife properly to bring up a family.

I think the jar you would give your family by leaving them for a while might do them a lot of good, and it would certainly give you a chance to cool off and see things more dispassionately.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What would you do if your husband absolutely refused to learn how to play bridge? We have to refuse all invitations to bridge parties and it is very unpleasant and embarrassing. In every other way he pleases me very much and we love each other dearly.

A YOUNG WIFE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Let him alone. Quit nagging him about playing bridge. Surely there are enough card parties you can go to in the afternoons to satisfy your taste. If all the fault you have to find with your husband is that he isn't a bridge hound you are a lucky woman.

Thrasher Driven By Horses In Pioneer Days

HAVELOCK, Nov. 22.—(ENS).—Historical research in this district was the theme of the meeting of Belmont Women's Institute on Thursday at the township hall, Preneveau.

A paper written by Mrs. Joseph Seabrooks, a pioneer resident of Belmont township, was read by the president, Mrs. Charles Ellis. It reviewed improvements in the agricultural field in this district, over a period of 75 years.

Tractors replaced horses to a great extent and it was not so many years ago that a farmer was considered lucky to have a good team of horses. Many had only oxen. Reapers had replaced the scythe, cradle and sickle, etc. The grain in the early days was threshed with a machine run with what was called horse power—five teams of horses hitched to a thrashing outfit, travelling in a circle with a man standing in the centre looking after them.

Travels From Virginia

Mrs. Seabrooks recalled a family moving from Virginia to Canada in two waggons and leading three cows. The milk the cows gave at night was allowed to set overnight, and skimmed in the morning. The cream was put in a covered pail and hung on the axle of the wagon, the motion of the wagon churning the cream into butter. The morning's milk was used for food and this, with a coarse bread, was their principal food during the journey.

Mrs. Seabrooks said that if there are as many improvements in the next 100 years as there have been in the past, the people will not have much to do except keep the machinery running.

Roll call was answered by naming a place of historical importance in the community.

First prize in a historical research quiz in Belmont township was won by Mrs. William Anderson and second prize went to Mrs. Marcenna Rylott.

Plan Social Evening

It was decided to hold a social evening in the near future, the date to be set later. Letters of thanks were read from several members for gifts of flowers, fruit and cards.

Tea hour hostesses were Mesdames W. Harris, W. Corneil and W. Ketchen.

Forty at Supper For Recent Bride

HAVELOCK, Nov. 22 (ENS)—Mrs. James McMillan of Norwood, formerly Marjorie Brennan of Havelock, was guest of honor Friday at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Clarence Wellman, which was attended by more than 40 guests.

Some of the gifts were arranged on a lace covered table in the living room, which was centred with a basket of white, yellow and bronze 'mums. The remainder were brought in on a decorated wagon drawn by Master Clare Miles and Billy Dafoe.
